Gravel Holds Party Job; Rights Plank Is Pushed

Army's Moon Starts Plunge From Space

Rocket Reaches Heighth Of Only 65,000 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The moon probe Pioneer III Saturday night started plunging back toward earth and fiery destruction in the atmosphere after soaring 65,000 miles into space.

The end of the Army's space shoot at the sun and the moon was expected about 5:15 p.m. EST Sunday over northwest Africa in the general vicinity of Timbuktu.

The rocket never got up quite enough speed to escape earth's gravitational field, approach and report on the moon and soar into far space.

It did not even equal the 71,300-mile distance achieve by the Air Force Pioneer launched Oct. 11. Space officials nevertheless termed it far from a failure, saying its information about the mysterious and deadly zone of radiation surrounding the earth would be highly valuable.

At 9 p.m. EST, some 20 hours after a thrilling blastoff of Pioneer III from Cape Canaveral at 12:45 a.m. Saturday morning, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration plotted the gold-washed package of instruments as turning back earthwards from about 65,000 miles out in space.

The final blaze of the man-made meteor as it falls back into the earth's atmosphere and is consumed in the air, should be visible for 100 miles, scientists said.

Scientists estimated the time of the turnback and final plunge into th atmosphere from data received at 5:17 p.m., when the rotation of the earth cut off signals from Pioneer III coming into trackers at Goldstone, Calif.

They said the probe was at 22 degrees south latitude and 176 degrees east longitude, or above the south Pacific, north of New Guinea at that time.

The approximate location of the plunge into the atmosphere Sunday was given at 19.5 degrees north latitude and nine degrees west longitude, or over the bulge of northwest Africa.

Army and NASA scientists were pleased with the results of Saturday's test. Dr. Wernher von Braun, chief civilian spaceman for the Army, said he thought the firing was "90 per cent successful." His colleagues agreed that even if Pioneer III had failed to zip past the moon and fall into orbit around the sun, it provided much usefull information.

"From a scientific point of view it was very close to success," said Dr. William H. Pickering. "From an engineering point of view, it was not."

Pickering is director of the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory. He attended a news conference here with Von Braun.

ECONOMIC SHOT IN ARM

4 Area Parishes Attract Industry

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — Four North Louisiana parishes, suffering from steady population losses since 1940, are getting a shot in the arm toward new economic development.

The state department of commerce and industry reports bond issues have been proposed to provide new industrial plans in Arcadia Bienville parish, Coushatta Red River, Delhi Richland and Ruston Lincoln.

Of the four parishes, only one shows a slight increase in population since 1940. The other three declined a total of 15 per cent.

Department director Curt Siegelin says the population loss stems from people migrating from farms to cities in search of a paycheck from industry.

This decline may be arrested by the appearance of the new in-

Carey J. Ellis Jr. Wins DA Post In Tri-Parish Area

Carey J. Ellis Jr., a Rayville attorney and the son of a former judge of the Fifth Judicial District, copped the district attorney post for the tri-parish area of Richland, Franklin and West Carroll in a close race yesterday.

Ellis polled 1,459 votes in Richland, 1,896 in Franklin and 879 in West Carroll for a total of 4,234, to win over W. R. Coenen by a 162-vote margin.

Coenen, first assistant DA in Richland Parish under Harry N. Anders, collected 1,542 in Richland, 1,392 in Franklin and 1,138 in West Carroll for a total of 4,072.

The Democratic run-off yesterday was to fill Anders' unexpired term.

W. Sartis Bassett, who was defeated in the first primary, supported Coenen in the run-off. Bassett is assistant DA in West Carroll. Assistant DA's are appointed.

Rev. Tripp

Announcement is made in New Orleans that the Rev. Frank Tripp, executive secretary of the Southern Baptist Hospital Board and superintendent of the Southern Baptist Hospital, will retire next June and move to Montgomery Ala., where he served as pastor of a large church.

Reverened Tripp played an important role in his residence in Monroe about 1930. He was pastor of the Monroe First Baptist Church and also was deeply interested in Monroe and her future. Through his efforts the Louisiana Baptist Children's home was moved from Lake Charles to this city and about the same time Riverside Sanitarium was erected and Reverend Tripp served as its superintendent.

He took a deep interest in all that concerns Monroe and considerable subsequent progress has been resultant to his efforts.

Help

Once more the Salvation Army has its stands along downtown Monroe streets and tinkling bells indicate that there is need for much assistance for those in our midst who are lacking the comforts and real pleasure of Christmas. The public always is ready to aid the Salvation Army for the fine work it does all through the year. It

Machinists' Union Ends TWA Strike

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Machinists' union Saturday night ended its 16-day strike against Trans World Arlines, with a majority of the union members voting to accept a new contract.

Cliff Miller, District 142 chairman, International Assn. of Machinists, announced incomplete returns from the voting by 6,700 members of 20 locals showed the agreement had been approved. He did not disclose any vote figures.

The district headquarters Saturday night ordered all strike chairmen to remove pickets. TWA earlier had announced plans to resume flights Monday. All its 199 planes had been grounded and nearly all its 19,000 employes furloughed during the strike.

A TWA spokesman said the employes would be called back to work as soon as possible.

Miller said the contract, which will run until Oct. 1, 1960, calls for wage increases of 28 cents an hour for kitchen helpers, 44 cents for mechanics, and 53 cents for a higher classification of mechanics — those who service flight simulators.

That will bring the wage rates to $1.73, $2.95 and $3.56 for the various classifications.

Part of the increase is retroactive to the expiration date of the old contract, Oct. 1, 1957. Other step-ups in pay were retroactive to April 1, 1958, and Oct. 1, 1958. The last adjustment will be Oct. 1, 1959.

Miller said the new wage scale is equal to the top for mechanics in the industry.

The district chairman said the agreement contains improvements in the methods of handling grievances, company-paid insurance for hazardous duty, lay-off pay ranging from two weeks after two years service to eight weeks after eight years service, a new safety and health provision and a guarantee against reprisals by the company against the strikers.

Officers Clear Route For Rush With Ailing Baby

State Police cleared the highway from Monroe to Vicksburg, Miss. last night for a Rayville minister to rush his 18-month-old daughter the the polio center, but were surprised to learn later the mercy trip had reversed and headed for San Antonio, Tex.

The reason for the switch was apparently because the minister had several years before had another daughter successfully treated for polio at a San Antonio hospital.

It all began yesterday when the Rev. W. F. Harrell's, daughter Janet was stricken at her Rayville home. She was taken to the Delhi clinic, and rushed to Monroe where doctors suspected polio.

As near as could be determined, the child was partially paralyzed, having some use of one arm and her neck. Reports were that the rest of her body was stricken.

State Trooper Virgil Johns, is related to the Harrells by marriage, said the minister, his stricken daughter, and Harrell brother-in-law Henry Jones, left Monroe

Arsonists Set Big Forest Fire

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Arsonists set fire to 600 acres of forests in the Tickfaw River area of Livingston Parish Friday night and Saturday, State Forester James B. Mixon reported.

Half the acreage lost was a pine plantation belonging to the Crown Zellerbach Corp., owner of a new paper mill at St. Francisville.

Mixon said the blazes lasted until night fall Saturday. A total of 24 forest fires was set within a 20-mile area in southeast Livingston Parish, Mixon said.

He reported the fire situation in other parts of the state remains relatively calm. The fire total across the state Saturday was 49 fires, Mixon said. Fire-fighters reduced the fire total to eight small blazes by 8 p.m. Saturday. However winds of nearly 20 miles an hour were reported in most sections.

Vote 91-15 To Override La. Ouster

WASHINGTON (Special) ——The Democratic National Committee squashed southern efforts to soften its civil rights stand Saturday after overwhelmingly endorsing Louisiana Committeeman Camille F. Gravel Jr.

The Southerners shelved plans to make a test case on the Gravel issue after northern and western committeemen repeatedly outvoted them on a resolution reaffirming Chairman Paul M. Butler's endorsement of the Supreme Court school decision.

On the key vote rejecting the Louisiana State Central committee's effort to replace Gravel with Bernice businessman Jett Talbot, the south mustered only 15 votes against 91 for Gravel.

The southern votes were cast by 14 persons representing Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Virginia, Arkansas, South Carolina and North Carolina, and by Talbot, who held the proxy of Louisiana Committee-woman, Mrs. Earl K. Long.

GRAVEL GRATIFIED

Gravel said he was "very gratified" by the vote and pleased for party unity. William M. Shaw, Talbot's attorney and spokesman, said the tally was "about what we expected."

Shaw told a reporter, "It should be clear that not only are the Reuthercrats bent on denying (the South) their voice in the party, but are bent on enforcing the most objectionable force bill upon the people of the South."

Gravel served notice again that he will not resign as national committeeman from Louisiana despite the ouster vote of the Louisiana State Central committee Oct. 8, but will remain in office until the end of his term after the 1960 convention.

He also refused to quit as a member of the party's executive committee, where he represents the south, or of the advisory council, which attempts to shape Democratic party policy.

A cacus of 12 southern states voted 14-5 late Friday to ask Gravel to resign from the executive committee in favor of Hugh N. Clayton, of Mississippi. Plans to bring this action before the National Committee were dropped

Gov. Faubus' Candidates Lead Rivals

The other two members of the slate were running behind members of an opposition group which had been criticized by Faubus as integrationist.

Ed I. McKinley, an unopposed candidate, Traffic Judge R. W. Laster, C. C. Railey and Ben Rowland, all of whom campaigned with the vow of supporting Faubus were ahead in the race. Laster had 1,971 votes to Mrs. Charles Stephens' 1,567, Railey 1,973 to Russell Matson's 1,454, and Rowland 2,027 to W. F. Rector's 1,546.

Mrs. Pauline Woodson of the pro-Faubus slate had 1,339 compared to 1,528 for Ted Lamb of the group lashed by the governor. A third candidate for this place, George Branscum, had 774.

TRAILS RIVAL

The other Faubus adherent, Mrs. Margaret Morrison, had 1,486 compared to 1,545 for Everett Tucker, who had castigated the governor for "interfering" in the election.

Although Faubus didn't endorse the six candidates who came out for his policies, he attacked the five-member opposition slate because, he said, the people on it had worked against him in his successful bid for a third term last summer. He said they opposed his actions in the Central High School integration crisis.

The five hit by Faubus had said during the school board campaign they would not voluntarily integrate public schools.

Thirteen candidates were in the race for six positions on the integration-troubled board. McKinley was the only one without opposition.

All 13 had indicated a preference for segregation and Laster had expressed a willingness to go

GOOD FELLOWS REPORT

Group Sets Pace In Aiding Needy

The average, everyday working man once again has set the pace in the Good Fellows' race against suffering, disappointment and disillusionment faced by scores of men, women and children here this Christmas.

Following the dictates of their conscience again, employees of Frostkraft division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation dug into their checks and yesterday sent in a check for $300 to Good Fellows. These people have been following this notable practice for some years now and their contributions have seen scores of the less fortunate people of the community provided with good cheer and happiness at Christmas time.

Contributions continue to come in, and the total now has reached $959.00.

But, the number of letters pleading for aid through the Yule season continues to far surpass those containing donations, and Good Fellows are casting anxious eyes on the treasury as arrangements go forward to do all within their power to somehow or other relieve the plight of innocent little children, stricken fathers and mothers, invalid aged men and women without family, and others who are in desperate financial difficulty through no cause of their own.

ONLY WAY

The only way Good Fellows can help these neighbors of ours in their troubles in the season of "Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Man" is to appeal to the more fortunate for money with which to give light to these lives being lived in the dimness of destitution.

Norway Reports Two Big Doses Of Red Fallout

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —Norway reported to the United Nations Saturday that it got two big doses of radioactive fallout following Soviet nuclear weapons tests explosions last Spring and Fall.

Norwegian Ambassador Sivert A. Nielsen did not mention the Soviet Union by name but said that tests had been carried out "only about 500 miles from our borders."

The Soviet Union conducted nuclear weapons tests just before Norway registered abnormal fallout. During the summer, when fallout levels dropped in Norway, the Russians did not conduct any known test explosions.

Nielsen gave his report to the General Assembly's main political committee which is considering the effects of atomic radiation on human beings.

Every speaker so far, including the United States and the Soviet Union, has agreed the General Assembly should extend the life of a 15-nation scientific committee which has been studying the effects of radiation under U. N. auspices for the past three years.

Allies, Soviets Approve Section Of Nuclear Pact

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union Saturday approved the first article of a treaty to prohibit nuclear tests. They agreed to leave the treaty—when and if completed —open for signature by any country.

Agreement on the treaty's article was the first concrete achievement since the three-nation conference on controlled suspension of nuclear tests opened Oct. 31.

The article lays down the agreement of all signatory countries to prohibit nuclear weapons tests. The article has no legal validity until the whole treaty is drawn and ratified by the three governments.

Ahead of the negotiators is a much higher jump: Agreement on an international control system to prevent violations of the ban.

The text of the agreed article was not made public under an accord between the three powers to publish only the complete treaty draft.

Western sources said the wording of the article had established

Handsome Vicar Gets Injunction To Ban Admirer

TORAQUAY, England (UPI)— The handsome vicar of St. John's Church lost an admiring lady parishioner Saturday by court order.

The Rev. Anthony Rouse, 42, went to stop a maiden parishioner, Miss Isabel Tanner, 64, from sitting in the front pew and smiling at him. He said she also sent him letters, telephoned him at all hours of the day and hung around the fashionable church of this restor town.

The bachelor clergyman said it was "most disconcerting" to try to give a good sermon with someone sitting in the front pew "staring and smiling at you the whole time."

Judge H.M. Pratt granted an injunction forbidding Miss Tanner from attending the church. He also told her to stop communicating with the minister in any way and ordered her to pay him $14 damages.

Miss Tanner took the verdict calmly. "The vicar is a nice gentleman," she said. "But I have never forced attentions on him. After this I don't think I will be able to go to his church again."

Girl, 5, To Greet Santa On Crutches

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Little girls are made of sugar and spice and everything nice—and sometimes a lot of determination, too.

That determination is the big reason why 5-year-old Debbie Land is going to have a nice Christmas. She insisted that she would leave a hospital to be home to greet Santa Claus.

So successful was Debbie that she's going to quit her hospital bed Sunday. She'll be on crutches but she doesn't think Santa will mind.

Last Oct. 8, Debbie was walking home from her first day in kindergarten. A truck carrying a seven-ton asphalt roller came by. A chain snapped and the roller fell from the truck, hitting Debbie. Her left leg suffered multiple fractures, and doctors feared only an amputation would save her life.

"Mommy's near and Santa Claus will be coming soon" were about the first words Debbie understood at the hospital. She rallied slightly. Then, with increased determination, she became better each day. Doctors postponed the amputation, then called it off altogether.

Two little neighborhood pals in suburban Bethel Park helped out. Terry Combs, and Doug Black, both 9, went from house to house —without their parents' consent —to ask for nickels and dimes so

PLENTY OF HAIR PULLING

Pacifists, Police Stage Battle Royal

SWAFFHAM, England (AP)—A band of pacifists swarmed into a secret missile base Saturday but were driven out by British police in a battle around a concrete mixer.

Women were seized by the hair and shoved into a ditch. The men were pushed from the site by squads of civil and Royal Air Force police.

The incident started as a so-called nonviolent demonstration against the base at nearby North Pickenham. The RAF is setting up a base there to install American-supplied Thor missiles.

The demonstration was organized by a body known as the Direct Action Committee Against Nuclear War. It came a few hours after the Communist Daily Worker carried a story pinpointing a number of missile bases being built along the east coast of England.

An advance guard of about 50 men and women tossed planks over a barbed wire barricade and tramped across.

They made for a cement mixer 300 yards inside the wire with the intention of staging a pacific demonstration to hold up construction work.

Trouble began when they squat-

Gov. Faubus' Candidates Lead Rivals

The other two members of the slate were running behind members of an opposition group which had been criticized by Faubus as integrationist.

Ed I. McKinley, an unopposed candidate, Traffic Judge R. W. Laster, C. C. Railey and Ben Rowland, all of whom campaigned with the vow of supporting Faubus were ahead in the race. Laster had 1,971 votes to Mrs. Charles Stephens' 1,567, Railey 1,973 to Russell Matson's 1,454, and Rowland 2,027 to W. F. Rector's 1,546.

Mrs. Pauline Woodson of the pro-Faubus slate had 1,339 compared to 1,528 for Ted Lamb of the group lashed by the governor. A third candidate for this place, George Branscum, had 774.

TRAILS RIVAL

The other Faubus adherent, Mrs. Margaret Morrison, had 1,486 compared to 1,545 for Everett Tucker, who had castigated the governor for "interfering" in the election.

Although Faubus didn't endorse the six candidates who came out for his policies, he attacked the five-member opposition slate because, he said, the people on it had worked against him in his successful bid for a third term last summer. He said they opposed his actions in the Central High School integration crisis.

The five hit by Faubus had said during the school board campaign they would not voluntarily integrate public schools.

Thirteen candidates were in the race for six positions on the integration-troubled board. McKinley was the only one without opposition.

All 13 had indicated a preference for segregation and Laster had expressed a willingness to go

Overcast Skies Seen For Area

Gray skies and lower temperatures are forecast for the Monroe area today and tomorrow.

Readings yesterday were 48 and 35, compared with Friday's 58 and 43 recorded high and low.

The two-day outlook for Arkansas calls for clear skies and colder temperatures.

GOOD FELLOWS REPORT

Group Sets Pace In Aiding Needy

The average, everyday working man once again has set the pace in the Good Fellows' race against suffering, disappointment and disillusionment faced by scores of men, women and children here this Christmas.

Following the dictates of their conscience again, employees of Frostkraft division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation dug into their checks and yesterday sent in a check for $300 to Good Fellows. These people have been following this notable practice for some years now and their contributions have seen scores of the less fortunate people of the community provided with good cheer and happiness at Christmas time.

Contributions continue to come in, and the total now has reached $959.00.

But, the number of letters pleading for aid through the Yule season continues to far surpass those containing donations, and Good Fellows are casting anxious eyes on the treasury as arrangements go forward to do all within their power to somehow or other relieve the plight of innocent little children, stricken fathers and mothers, invalid aged men and women without family, and others who are in desperate financial difficulty through no cause of their own.

ONLY WAY

The only way Good Fellows can help these neighbors of ours in their troubles in the season of "Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Man" is to appeal to the more fortunate for money with which to give light to these lives being lived in the dimness of destitution.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —Norway reported to the United Nations Saturday that it got two big doses of radioactive fallout following Soviet nuclear weapons tests explosions last Spring and Fall.

Norwegian Ambassador Sivert A. Nielsen did not mention the Soviet Union by name but said that tests had been carried out "only about 500 miles from our borders."

The Soviet Union conducted nuclear weapons tests just before Norway registered abnormal fallout. During the summer, when fallout levels dropped in Norway, the Russians did not conduct any known test explosions.

Nielsen gave his report to the General Assembly's main political committee which is considering the effects of atomic radiation on human beings.

Every speaker so far, including the United States and the Soviet Union, has agreed the General Assembly should extend the life of a 15-nation scientific committee which has been studying the effects of radiation under U. N. auspices for the past three years.

PLENTY OF HAIR PULLING

Pacifists, Police Stage Battle Royal

SWAFFHAM, England (AP)—A band of pacifists swarmed into a secret missile base Saturday but were driven out by British police in a battle around a concrete mixer.

Women were seized by the hair and shoved into a ditch. The men were pushed from the site by squads of civil and Royal Air Force police.

The incident started as a so-called nonviolent demonstration against the base at nearby North Pickenham. The RAF is setting up a base there to install American-supplied Thor missiles.

The demonstration was organized by a body known as the Direct Action Committee Against Nuclear War. It came a few hours after the Communist Daily Worker carried a story pinpointing a number of missile bases being built along the east coast of England.

An advance guard of about 50 men and women tossed planks over a barbed wire barricade and tramped across.

They made for a cement mixer 300 yards inside the wire with the intention of staging a pacific demonstration to hold up construction work.

Trouble began when they squat-

Vote 91-15 To Override La. Ouster

WASHINGTON (Special) ——The Democratic National Committee squashed southern efforts to soften its civil rights stand Saturday after overwhelmingly endorsing Louisiana Committeeman Camille F. Gravel Jr.

The Southerners shelved plans to make a test case on the Gravel issue after northern and western committeemen repeatedly outvoted them on a resolution reaffirming Chairman Paul M. Butler's endorsement of the Supreme Court school decision.

On the key vote rejecting the Louisiana State Central committee's effort to replace Gravel with Bernice businessman Jett Talbot, the south mustered only 15 votes against 91 for Gravel.

The southern votes were cast by 14 persons representing Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Virginia, Arkansas, South Carolina and North Carolina, and by Talbot, who held the proxy of Louisiana Committee-woman, Mrs. Earl K. Long.

GRAVEL GRATIFIED

Gravel said he was "very gratified" by the vote and pleased for party unity. William M. Shaw, Talbot's attorney and spokesman, said the tally was "about what we expected."

Shaw told a reporter, "It should be clear that not only are the Reuthercrats bent on denying (the South) their voice in the party, but are bent on enforcing the most objectionable force bill upon the people of the South."

Gravel served notice again that he will not resign as national committeeman from Louisiana despite the ouster vote of the Louisiana State Central committee Oct. 8, but will remain in office until the end of his term after the 1960 convention.

He also refused to quit as a member of the party's executive committee, where he represents the south, or of the advisory council, which attempts to shape Democratic party policy.

A cacus of 12 southern states voted 14-5 late Friday to ask Gravel to resign from the executive committee in favor of Hugh N. Clayton, of Mississippi. Plans to bring this action before the National Committee were dropped

Allies, Soviets Approve Section Of Nuclear Pact

GENEVA (AP) — The United States, Britain and the Soviet Union Saturday approved the first article of a treaty to prohibit nuclear tests. They agreed to leave the treaty—when and if completed —open for signature by any country.

Agreement on the treaty's article was the first concrete achievement since the three-nation conference on controlled suspension of nuclear tests opened Oct. 31.

The article lays down the agreement of all signatory countries to prohibit nuclear weapons tests. The article has no legal validity until the whole treaty is drawn and ratified by the three governments.

Ahead of the negotiators is a much higher jump: Agreement on an international control system to prevent violations of the ban.

The text of the agreed article was not made public under an accord between the three powers to publish only the complete treaty draft.

Western sources said the wording of the article had established

GRAND JURIES ACT

Voting Records Are Impounded

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Voting records in at least two Alabama counties which have been subpoenaed by the Civil Rights Commission were impounded Saturday by county grand juries. Similar action was reported taken in a third county.

The voter registration files in the three counties and three others have been subpoenaed for Monday's Civil Rights Commission hearing on complaints that Negroes in the six counties have been denied the right to vote.

Circuit Judge James A. Hare, whose circuit includes Dallas and Wilcox, said the voting records in those counties were turned over to the grand juries for investigations in the state courts.

But the jurist whose district includes Lowndes County, Judge Werth Thagard of Greenville, said he couldn't say what action the grand jury took.

Thagard said he charged the jury that "a situation exists that you might want to look into," an obvious reference to the civil right hearing in Montgomery.

What effect the actions would have on attempts by federal commission to obtain the records was not known immediately. Staff director Gordon Tiffany of the commission declined comment.

The grand jury actions followed the disclosures that voting records in two other counties, Barbour and Bullock, had been impounded by Circuit Judge George Wallace who said he will refuse to surrender them to the civil rights agency and will jail any commission agent who tries to get them.

Hare said he instructed the Dallas and Wilcox juries to investigate the same complaints which were made to the Civil Rights Commission.

"If there has been a maladministration of Alabama's voting laws," he said, "it should be investigated in the state courts."

Hare said qualifications for voting are fixed by Alabama law and not by federal statutes and that it is up to grand juries and state courts to see if the law is being administered fairly.

No action was taken in Macon, the sixth county where records have been subpoenaed by the commission. The Macon grand jury was not in session Saturday.

A spokesman for the Civil Rights Commission had said previously the hearing which is scheduled to open at 9 a.m. Monday will proceed with or without the voting records.

Cleanup Leads To Discovery Of Rare Statue

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — An order from President Nasser to clean up an upper Egyptian town led to the discovery of a rare statue of Pharaoh Rameses III, the Middle East News Agency reported Saturday.

The agency said that when Nasser visited the historic town of Luxor early this year he ordered that it be cleaned up and made more attractive for tourists.

Workmen carrying out the order uncovered the rare granite statue of Rameses III of the 20th dynasty of ancient Egypt, roughly 13 centuries before Christ. A Department of Antiquities announcement said this is one of the few statues of Rameses found intact. The seated figure measures about 7 feet in height.

Demo's Confab Will Be July '60

WASHINGTON (AP) — The week of July 11 has definitely been fixed as the time for the 1960 Democratic national convention but no decision on where to hold the big pow-wow will be made before the end of February.

This was announced Saturday by Camille F. Gravel, speaking for the Democratic National Committee's Site Committee, as seven cities vied for the 1960 Democratic gathering.

The national committee voted to have the seven cities — Chicago, Atlantic City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Miami Beach, New York and Philadelphia — put their offers in writing within 30 days.

The Site Committee will meet again Jan. 16 in New Orleans, then report back to the national body here on Feb. 27.

College Lecturer To Sail Atlantic

LONDON (UPI)—A young college lecturer said Saturday he will sail a "dark ages" boat across the Atlantic to try to prove that an Irish saint discovered America hundreds of years before Lief Erickson and Christopher Columbus got around to it.

Geoffrey Ashe, 35, a lecturer on management studies at Regent Street Polytechnic College in London, told the Daily Telegraph he plans to prove a legend that St. Brendan of Ireland, the Abbot of Clonfert in the 6th century, sailed to the shores of the new world.

Ashe said Irish monks of Brendan's time were known to have reached the Faroes, Iceland and probably Greenland to spread Christianity.

But St. Brendan is represented as voyaging west and southwest from Ireland to a land mass of continental proportions," he said. Ashe said he believes this land was America.

Sometime in the spring of 1960, he said, he plans to launch a boat of the type used in the time of Brendan.

"The ends will be decked, but the middle will be covered, probably only by canvas," he said. "There will probably be a crew of about six. I do not think we shall be cheating if we carry a wireless. But it would have no motor aboard and would rely on winds and currents."

IN ATLANTA

Defense Rests In Bomb Case

ATLANTA (UPI)—The defense rested Saturday night after George Chester Bright spent nearly six hours on the witness stand maintaining his innocence in the bombing of an Atlanta Jewish temple.

Under Georgia's unique system of jurisprudence, Bright was permitted to speak as long as he wished, but without oath and without threat of cross examination.

The 31-year-old defendant was the first of five men indicted for the Oct. 12 dynamiting to stand trial. He faces a possible death sentence if convicted.

Fulton County Superior Court Judge Durwood T. Pye ordered an hour's recess for supper, to be followed by prosecution and defense arguments.

During the five hours and 52 minutes he spent on the witness stand, Bright quoted great men in history to show that others in the past have made unfavorable comments about Jews.

He quoted from Cicero, Napoleon, Voltaire, Goether and others in an effort to show that anti-Semitism was not solely restricted to him.

Bright said "The state's star witnesses lied in their testimony." The witness, Lesley E. Rogers and Jimmy Dave Devore, were "insane," he charged.

Rogers was an undercover man for the FBI and testified Bright threatened violence against the Jewish race. Devore was a cellmate of Bright and said the defendant admitted being the mastermind in the plot to blow up the temple.

Speaking forcefully, Bright said his alibi during the time of the bombing was a woman he named as Miss Marilyn Craig, about 40. However, Miss Craig is now in a state mental hospital after being declared legally insane Nov. 10—nearly a month after the blast.

Bright, who took the witness stand at mid-morning, maintained he was in the same house with Miss Craig at about the time the bomb went off.

After Bright had discoursed on several subjects more than an hour, presiding Judge Durwood Pye suggested a recess, and asked Bright how long he intended to speak.

Plans Long Speech

"After the recess, this afternoon and tomorrow," the defendant answered.

By lunch recess Bright had talked two hours and 13 minutes, interrupted only by one pause for a glass of water and the 10-minute recess.

Although records of lengthy defendant testimony are not kept, court observers said the longest in memory was an 8½ oration in an Atlanta court in 1947.

"My ancesotrs came to this country with William Penn in 1624 to escape religious persecution," he said, "the same thing I'm being persecuted for now.

Claims Persecution

"I'm being persecuted for my political beliefs, my love for segregation, love for the white race, love for my country, love for my Christian beliefs and Baptist beliefs as given me through the teachings of the sacred Bible," the defendant said.

Bright spoke in a clear, well-modulated voice. His excellent delivery brought rapt attention from the all-male jury. The only times he showed emotion were in his discussion of certain witnesses presented by the state, including a former cellmate who said Friday that Bright had admitted masterminding the plot to bomb the temple but that another of the indicted men was the perpetrator.

Bright called the former cellmate "a liar," which drew an admonition from Pye.

After tracing briefly his family history, Bright discoursed on his education. He said he was an industrial engineer, and attended the University of Georgia, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and North Carolina State College.

Day-By-Day Account

Bright then started a detailed, day-by-day account of his activies starting Oct. 1. He said the account would continue through the day of the bombing, but by mid-afternoon he had only covered events of four days.

The state's case, which was concluded Friday, was built principally on witnesses who described Bright's membership in various race - baiting organizations. The former cellmate, whose testimony was discredited by defense witnesses before Bright took the stand, was considered the state's star witness.

Bright and the other four men under indictment were arrested two days after the dynamiting which caused $100,000 damage to the house of worship on Atlanta's famed Peachtree Street. The investigation into the dynamiting attempted to link the Atlanta incident with similar violence elsewhere in the South the past year.

Army's Rocket Carries Message From Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army rocket that didn't get to the moon Saturday carried a tiny plaque with a message from Secretary of the Army Wilbur M. Brucker.

"Exploring the universe to further the welfare of all mankind. WMB. December '58," said the plaque borne aloft in Pioneer III.

Space agency officials, in disclosing this, said Brucker also sent congratulatory messages to three top rocketeers — Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, Dr. William H. Pickering and Dr. Wernher von Braun — despite failure of their shoot to go beyond the moon and into orbit around the sun as hoped.

Brucker said expected information on cosmic radiation from Pioneer III will be of immeasurable aid to science and "I am sure that scientific evaluation of the endeavor will provide us with the knowledge required for future full success."

Prized Gorilla Dies; Weighed For First Time

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The body of Phil, the prized gorilla of the St. Louis Zoo, was put on the scales for the first time Saturday — no one wanted the job when Phil was alive.

The zoo's veteran director, George Vierheller, was amazed to read the animal's weight as 776 pounds, even after a 45-day hunger strike which preceded Phil's death Monday.

"When I used to give my estimate of Phil's weight as 650 pounds," Vierheller said, "I was given many skeptical glances."

He said Phil undoubtedly was the largest gorilla ever in captivity. Vierheller said two others that died in another zoo weighed 618 and 635 pounds.

Area Highway Projects Are Given Starter

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Seven road improvement projects in the Northeast Louisiana area have been authorized by the Louisiana Department of Highways, along with numerous other projects elsewhere in the state.

In this area, the authorized projects are:

East Carroll — blacktopping, three miles, Adams Loop Road, State Route 887, $56,837.

Morehouse — refilling roadway to bridge elevations, one mile, Tillon School Highway, State Route 590, $25,000.

Winn — erection of bridge over Dugdemona River, four miles north of Calvin, and installation of two culvert pipes on Old Alexandria Road, $6,425, with the Winn Parish Police Jury providing lumber and piling.

Union — blacktopping 2.4 miles designated parish roads, $5,470.

Concordia — blacktopping 1.4 miles, designated Ferriday streets, $4,080.

Tensas — erecting frame storage barn with corrugated metal sides and roof on highway department property near Lake Bruin, $4,610.

Cutter Rescues Five As Yacht Is Abandoned

NORFOLK, Va., (AP) — The Coast Guard cutter Cherokee late Saturday took aboard five men who abandoned a 101-foot yacht some 60 miles off the Virginia coast and then battled heavy seas in an effort to take the craft in tow.

Fifth Coast Guard District headquarters here said the Cherokee expected to take the yacht Kyma in tow sometime Saturday night and return to Norfolk with the craft and its passengers.

There was no immediate explanation as to why the yacht was abandoned.

The five men, all uninjured, abandoned the yacht earlier in the day and were taken aboard the tanker Cities Service Baltimore, which in turn transferred them to the Cherokee.

"When I used to give my estimate of Phil's weight as 650 pounds," Vierheller said, "I was given many skeptical glances."

He said Phil undoubtedly was the largest gorilla ever in captivity. Vierheller said two others that died in another zoo weighed 618 and 635 pounds.

Winn — erection of bridge over Dugdemona River, four miles north of Calvin, and installation of two culvert pipes on Old Alexandria Road, $6,425, with the Winn Parish Police Jury providing lumber and piling.

Union — blacktopping 2.4 miles designated parish roads, $5,470.

Concordia — blacktopping 1.4 miles, designated Ferriday streets, $4,080.

Tensas — erecting frame storage barn with corrugated metal sides and roof on highway department property near Lake Bruin, $4,610.

Cutter Rescues Five As Yacht Is Abandoned

NORFOLK, Va., (AP) — The Coast Guard cutter Cherokee late Saturday took aboard five men who abandoned a 101-foot yacht some 60 miles off the Virginia coast and then battled heavy seas in an effort to take the craft in tow.

Fifth Coast Guard District headquarters here said the Cherokee expected to take the yacht Kyma in tow sometime Saturday night and return to Norfolk with the craft and its passengers.

There was no immediate explanation as to why the yacht was abandoned.

The five men, all uninjured, abandoned the yacht earlier in the day and were taken aboard the tanker Cities Service Baltimore, which in turn transferred them to the Cherokee.

Along Highways To Be Controlled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Are billboards along the nation's new superhighways slated for control?

It took Congress three years to decide that regulation is in the public interest. It took the Commerce Department another seven months to work out a specific program.

But control is still a long way from reality.

This superheated controversy now has been passed along to the states. They have until July 1, 1961, to decide whether they like the idea. Officials here are unwilling to predict the verdict.

Each state must decide whether to regulate outdoor advertising along its segment of the 41,000-mile federal road network now being built. States which adopt the control program will get a cash bonus of one half of 1 per cent of the cost of the roads affected.

The federal government is already paying 90 per cent of the cost of this 40-billion-dollar road program. If all the states adopt billboard control, the U.S. Treasury will pay out an extra 90 to 150 million dollars.

No matter what the states decide, the familiar roadside billboard will be far from a dead duck. The control program—as a provision in the federal highway bill—affects only the new interstate highways. That's less than 2 per cent of the total U.S. road mileage.

Even the interstate roads won't be 100 per cent controlled. They'll be exempt from control wherever they follow or cross old routes. At least 10,000 of the 41,000 miles are in this exempt category.

Also, the states can exempt new express roads in incorporated municipalities and areas zoned for commercial and industrial use.

And even along regulated highways, billboards will be permitted in limited numbers.

Why so much fuss, then, over a program that involves such a small fraction of the nation's highways?

The most important factor is the precedent involved. Never before has an attempt been made to regulate billboards on a national scale. Billboard interests fear a small step in this direction could lead to a bigger one later.

Some states may even take a big step now. There is nothing to bar them from enacting more stringent controls than the minimum regulations made public last month by the Commerce Department.

Another factor is the importance of the new roads. They'll be the most heavily traveled in the country—a choice field for outdoor advertisers.

Against this background, powerful lobbies are preparing to carry the billboard fight into dozens of state legislatures next year. A few states, including Ohio, Vermont and Maryland, already have control laws which may meet minimum federal standards. However, government lawyers say even these states probably will need some new legislation.

Temple Bombing Trial Witness Tells His Story

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A state witness Friday quoted George Bright, charged with dynamiting the Jewish Temple Oct. 12, as saying he served as a lookout for the bombing. He said Bright told him another of the five defendants placed the explosive.

James Devore, 33, an automobile plant employe, said Bright told him about the bombing while they were cellmates in jail.

Bright, 31, a thin, balding civil engineer, is on trial in Fulton Superior Court for setting off the blast that tore gaping holes in the Jewish Temple on fashionable Peachtree Road.

Devore said Bright told him that "he drew plans and led the plans for the bombing. He said he did not do the actual bombing but was a lookout."

On cross-examination by defense attorney James R. Venable, Devore said Bright told him Richard Bolling, another defendant, actually placed the explosive.

Devore, jailed on charges of violating state sales tax laws, was asked by Venable if he were not "pimping" for the police. Venable charged Devore was handed something behind the door in a court corridor by Detective Capt. R. E. Little. He also asked Devore if he had not been interested in getting a reward and "trying to get yourself out of jail."

Devore replied, "No, sir. I told Little what Bright told me."

The defense then called witnesses who testified that Bright had been seen at a pharmacy and at a suburban grocery store after midnight on the day the Temple was damaged.

The state has presented evidence the bombing occurred at 3:37 a.m. Sunday.

Union Re-Elects Leaders Charged Of Funds Misuse

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP) — Two Teamsters Union leaders who were charged by a Senate committee with misappropriating union funds have been re-elected overwhelmingly in their local's election.

Raymond Cohen was returned as secretary-treasurer of the 14,000-member Local 107 of the Teamsters, while Joseph Grace was re-elected president of the powerful local.

Official election returns as announced Friday by the union, showed Cohen elected to his second five-year term by a vote of 8,261 to 1,532. The secretary-treasurer is the recognized boss of the local.

Grace, president of the local since 1933, won by a count of 8,136 to 1,516 for a combined opposition.

Cohen pleaded the Fifth Amendment last summer in his appearance before the Senate Rackets Committee. He refused to answer questions concerning his handling of the local's finances. A trustee of the international and a supporter of President James Hoffa, Cohen's victory in the local election was even greater than in 1954.

Members of the local balloted over a five-day period, beginning last Sunday. Most of the members are over-the-road drivers.

In the Senate investigation by the McClellan committee probers charged that Cohen used more than $58,000 in union funds to finance his successful campaign for office in 1954.

Accident Ends Crime Spree Of Three Teenagers

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — A shooting accident today ended a crime spree through the Midwest and South by three teenage youths today.

Officers who investigated the shooting at a local hotel room said 17-year-old Larry Schultz of Morgan, Minn., received a .22 caliber bullet wound in the abdomen.

A rifle apparently fired while another youth was cleaning it, officers said, and the bullet struck Schultz. He was reported in good condition at Confederate Memorial Medical Center in adjoining Shreveport.

Two others were held in jail pending further investigation, Police Chief George Nattin said.

He identified the other two as Thomas Woelsel, 17, Sioux Falls, S.D., and David Forbrook, 16, of Morgan, Minn.

Woelsel and Forbrook told officers they broke into three service stations and two sporting goods stores during their trip southward. They said they were going to New Orleans and Florida.

Police found four rifles, a shotgun, a pistol, 1,000 rounds of 22 caliber ammunition, four electric shavers, five watches, a pair of binoculars and $180 cash in their room.

Schultz and Forbrook were on probation, officers said, in connection with a burglary committed in Morgan, Minn., four months ago.

Churches, Integration

Down through the ages people of many faiths have fought valiantly against tyranny. They have struggled for the right to worship as they pleased. Frequently they have defied state domination.

This irrepressible desire for freedom of worship has made men and women strong and valiant and has given countries strength and greatness.

When we find the highest churchmen of many faiths declaring that the people of America must accept the edicts of a political supreme court as a religious duty to be performed we are forced to wonder if these men have forgotten what made their religions live, vital and great or if they have disregarded the facts in the face of expediency.

High churchmen of many faiths are now asserting that it is the solemn duty of the laity to endorse and effect racial integration because the supreme court, a political body composed of nine men admittedly working on ideological theories has said that is what should be done.

Have these churchmen lost their spiritual virility to such an extent that they are ready and willing to let a political body decide what is spiritually and morally or wrong?

The house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church, the council of bishops of the Methodist Church and the Roman Catholic bishops of the United States have adopted seperate resolutions calling on the clergy and on the laity in their respective churches to suport racial integration as embraced in the edicts of the United States supreme court, a politically-appointed body.

Earlier, some assemblies of Baptist and Presbyterian church authorities at various levels had taken comparable action, one example being the decision of the Baptists of Tennessee about two years ago to integrate their church schools in that state.

The contention of the three groups of bishops is that the integration problem "is a moral and religious issue." Each group of bishops declared that its clergy and laity must, because of their faith in God, accept court-edict integration wherever it is ordered by the supreme court. In effect, these bishops seem to be telling their clergy and their members that their consciences must be guided by the supreme court edicts, although that court, as a body, makes no claim to moral or religious authority.

Reference is also made by the bishops to the present integration problem as one of "law and order." The reference is not to any federal statutory law, for none exists, but to the supreme court edicts.

Even though there were such a statutory law it would not be incumbent upon the church members and other citizens to accept the law as a moral and religious belief, even though they might be compelled to obey the law. Even the supreme court has not declared churches must integrate and if it were to do so it would violate the constitution of the United States, which provides for religious freedom and for the organization of whatever groups of religious people who care to unite.

What the bishops demand cannot be carried out by laymen and ministers without accepting and supporting integration as established by the politically-appointed supreme court, although the words "integration" and "segregation" were not specifically used.

Acceptance by the bishops of the court's edict means acceptance of the federal government's use of troops and of the establishment by the supreme court of its original desegregation decision on foundations of psychology and sociology rather than the wording of the federal constitution.

There is strong opposition in the Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches to acceptance of integration established by court edict, especially when backed by federal troops and justice department intervention. The Episcopalian house of bishops approved its pro-integration document with 73 bishops voting for it and 58 voting against it. The opposition vote shows that a number of bishops outside the south opposed forced integration.

By implication, the various groups of bishops are contending that one may not be a true Christian without accepting racial integration as established through a totalitarian-type of edict of a politically-appointed branch of the federal government.

In doing this, the bishops are following a course contrary to much in the history of their own church ancesters. Throughout past centuries tens of millions of Christians have fled from the effects of totalitarian types of control over their beliefs in moral and religious fields. At different times Roman Catholics, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists and many other churchmen have died in chains in prison in behalf of their moral and religious beliefs or have fled to new countries to escape.

Most of those who believe in segregation do not stress the question as a religious issue, taking the position that it is largely a social problem, yet the Bible points out the difference in the races.

Regardless of whether or not they consider integration morally or religiously wrong, those who do favor segregation reject any attempt to brand them as non-religious simply because they do not choose to accept a ruling of politically-appointed, ideological supreme court as a religious decree upon which they must stand or fall. No court is empowered or qualified to pass upon our religious beliefs.

One might as well argue that schools of different faiths are discriminatory as to contend that schools of different races are unfair.

The bishops seem to be forgetting that everyone has the basic right to choose his own religion.

Big Sums Spent On Fine Buildings In Washington

If it's true that the construction industry led the nation out of the recent business depression, then the Congress of the United States must take a bow for contributing to that leadership.

Nobody knows at present — or if they do know, they're not telling — how much the current expansion program on Capitol Hill is going to cost the taxpayers in the long run. But it will run into the hundreds of millions of dollars before the program is complete.

It all started in 1956 when a $5 million starting appropriation suddenly showed up in the Legislative Departments budget for "extending the East Front of the Capitol." Since then, plans have been going forward for extensive remodeling, new construction, restoration, and additions to the present Capitol plant at a rate to stagger the imagination of the average Capitl Hill observer.

When the 86th Congress convenes January 7, the Senate will have a new office building to house 42 of the 98 senators and 12 of the 15 standing committees of the Senate. The new quarters will be sumptuous enough to please even the most demanding of the members of the "most exclusive club in the world."

On the other side of the Capitol, piles are being driven for a new House Office Building to house 170 of the 435 members, eight of the standing committees, and nearly all of the special subcommittees.

The Senate building cost the taxpayers $25.5 million including land and furnishings. The new House building — the third so far — will cost the taxpayers an estimated $64 million by the time it is completed in "early 1962."

Neither of the new buildings—nor the 16 foot extension of the East Front of the Capitol to provide additional dining and office space — were ever authorized by law as is customary for most public buildings.

Even the plush new quarters for members of Congress present problems, however. The new Senate Office Building requires a subway to house a short - line electric railway for senators and members of their staffs to make the 700 - foot journey back and forth between the Capitol and the office building. That will make two railways under the sod of Capitol Hill because the present "old" Senate Office Building has a two - rail subway already.

On the House side the situation is strikingly different and members are beginning to complain.

Not only is there no subway train between the Capitol and the two existing House Office Buildings, but none is contemplated for the new office building. As a result, several members of the House have come up with suggestions as to how the House can catch up to the Senate transportation - wise.

Rep. John Shelley (D-Calif.) has a unique idea which he, as a member of the House Appropriations Committee, thinks should get quick consideration.

As one of the dozens of members of the House who have had mild heart attacks, Shelley thinks that there should be installed between the House side of the Capitol and the three House Office buildings a system consisting of a number of small passenger-carrying cars riding on conveyor belts.

"Most of us are familiar with the number we all feel as a consequence of long hours we devote to our work in committees, on the floor, in our offices, in our home districts, and in campaigning tax and aggravate our physical capacities for the jobs we are trying our best to do for those back home . . .," Shelley tells his acquaintances.

"As one who suffered a heart attack two and a half years ago and spent nine months in Bethesda Naval Hospital, I can honestly say that I feel the strain of making hurried dashes to the floor, Shelley says.

As Shelley says, "Here is a transportation system with no fumes, no noise, no side sway, no vibration, no bumping, and best of all never any waiting."

We wish Shelley well in his campaign. After all, newspapermen and the public would get to ride the 790 feet from the Capitol to one of the House office buildings, too.

Napoleon Father Of Canned Food

NEW YORK (AP)—Every now and then an idea developed by the military services turns out to be more useful in peace than in war.

The average housewife, for example, doesn't know she owes a debt to Napoleon. But she does. It was Bonaparte's quest for a method of provisioning his troops on the march that spurred the development of canned food.

Another example was the aerosol bomb developed during the World War II. It is now used to spray everything from whitewash to tooth paste.

A still more promising product is a new "fear gas" being developed by the U.S. Army Ordnance Corps. It already is strong enough to cause an alley cat to become terrified at the sight of a mouse.

In time, says Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, it may become refined to a point where, sprayed on a battlefield, it might temporarily paralyze the will of enemy troops to fight.

While this certainly would be a great boon in wartime, can't a gas of this kind find equally important civilian employment?

As it is now, millions of ordinary people are so nervous, upset, and afraid, that they meet every daily emergency by swalloing a couple of tranquilizer pills. The pills don't rid them of their fears. They simply dull the impact of their fears.

How much finer your existence would be if, instead of a bottle of tranquilizer pills, you had a pocketful of small new aerosol bombs loaded with superstrong fear gas! Instead of having to calm your own fears you could make everybody else afraid of you.

Are you afraid to ask your boss for a raise? Not with your trusty fear gas bomb. You merely walk into old Scrooge's office, spray him in the face—and wait for him to hand over to you the keys to the company.

Are you afraid of your wife when you sneak into the house at 3 a.m. after a losing session at poker? Simply squirt a few whiffs of fear gas at her, and she'll run in panic and lock herself in the bedroom.

Are you afraid—as most modern parents are—of your children? Just fumigate them with your nerve gas, and they'll turn into docile little rabbits.

Do you bore everybody to death at a cocktail party? Not any longer. Now you can scare them to death.

Whatever frightened you before —supercilious clothing store salesmen, haughty waiters, threatening landlords, arrogant traffic cops—now quakes before you. The barrage of fear gas you spread around you (don't breathe it yourself!) turns you into a conquering hero.

It is a mighty dream. And it has only one flaw. If everybody brought a supply of these fear gas grenades and started tossing them around, then everybody would be afraid of everybody and everything else.

But what's to lose there? Isn't that about the present situation of the world today anyway?

tional system and is a major cause in the decline of our world position.

It would not be inaccurate, I think, to say that this curious combination of compulsory specialization and incompetent intervention is somewhere near the center of our mid - century problem in living. We must have scientists. Technicians are indispensable. Churchmen are necessary and desirable. Politicians are always with us. Yet, unless we are to live in a caste system or a slave state — any sort of dictatorship approaches both — we must not yield entirely to the specializing trend. We must know enough of the other man's business to see where it fits into the general pattern, but we must respect him at his work and not jab his arm or spoil his aim. To put the matter another way, we must continue to be individualists, though specialists.

There are some who will call this an impossible assignment, but it is merely an extremely difficult one. We must not quit. We must hang on long enough to grow up. In order to avert the unhappy fate of compartmentalized action and thinking, we need an intellectual awakening. It is something which comes at last to all mature persons.

A few nights ago, I heard the matter expounded at the Library of Congress where, in the Coolidge Auditorium, the Ontario Players from Canada presented Shakespeare's "As You Like It," overdue in our aging country.

A statesman speaks these lines which are the epitome of mature enlightenment and the hope of this struggling nation:

"Sweet are the uses of adversity . . .

Church People In Other Fields Appear Less Wise

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "Well, I attach great weight to judgments taken by church people which relate primarily to the realm of moral principles and the like," said Secretary Dulles at a recent press conference. "When it comes down to practical details . . . then I think the judgment does not carry the same weight."

The secretary here was enunciating one of the larger truths of our times even if not an absolute truth, his immediate reference was to the National Council of Churches, a conference of which recently came out for diplomatic recognition of Red China. But the wider application of the principle seems to say that the cobbler should stick to his last.

We are in an age when scientists rush from the laboratory to pronounce policies on national defense, and to disagree among each other — physicists vs. geneticists —on the uses of atomic weaponry. We have a Belgian medical missionary who lectures the statesmen on how to achieve world peace, and we have a Negro opera singer sitting as one of our delegates in the United Nations.

Among the principle agencies of the Communist movement in America are persons like the late Rosenbergs who attempted to take international law into their own hands and to redistribute nuclear knowledge in the interest of equality and peace. Among the demagogues who disunite the American people and create a false and unfavorable impression abroad are Northerners who want to tell the South how to live, and Americas who feel it their duty to tell the world.

All these examples of the shoemaker's not minding his own cobbler's trade take place in a world which sometimes seems to belong to the specialists. The moneycropper has replaced the family farmer, the general practitioner in medicine calls himself an internalist and today the grade school student who neglects to take his credits in science will find himself paying for the mistake years later in college.

Things are not as ludicrous as they used to be when Heavyweight Champion Gene Tunney made his opinions known on Shakespeare, or further back when Henry Ford turned briefly from auto - making to a public spectacle of peace - making. But things are bad enough. The opinion poll must be the most absurd example of inviting shoemakers to express opinions on matters entirely outside their competence. This would be no more than innocent merriment were it not for the fact that politicians have taken to founding their "programs" and "platforms" on the polled desires of the masses. Animals Often Suffer Stress

Animals, as well as humans, are confronted with stress. In a conference of the behaviora' scientists at Oxford, England, one speaker reported that kids separated from their dams for an hour or two right after birth subsequently suffered a high mortality. The majority died within a year.

Stress among animals was the subject of another research study on factors leading to arteriosclerosis. One school of thought is that high levels of fat in the diet are responsible for this process; another, that there is a combination of factors, including stress.

Findings on captive wild mammals and birds tend to support the latter view. The mammal with the greatest incidence of arteriosclerosis is the agouti, a South American rodent that is a relative of the guinea pig. The second highest incidence of hardening of the arteries in mammals occurs in kangaroos, followed in turn by the American water rat (coypu), bears, and civets. Squirrels have the least.

Birds are worse than mammals in that they have a higher frequency of arteriosclerosis. The larger birds are affected most. The incidence of arteriosclerosis among captive birds and mammals has increased between tenfold and twentyfold during the last 40 years. This cannot be accounted for by diet or age. The blame has been placed on the social pressures brought on by overcrowding in the zoos.

Toxemias of pregnancy are twice as common among obese women as among expectant mothers of normal weight, according to a study done on 100 consecutive women whose weight at one time exceeded 200 pounds. Obese patients gained only 11.5 pounds compared with 13 in the nonoverweight group. Fat women had an excessively prolonged labor in contrast to their more slender counterparts.

Sneezing may be due to allergy or to secretions in the nose and throat that are dislodged by change in posture. In some instances, sneezing stems from vasomotor rhinitis. Devout Member Dozes At Church

Gary felt that he was a sinner in the pew, but the real sinner was in the pulpit! Jesus showed us the surefire formula for making an interesting speech. When clergymen put their congregations to sleep, it means cleric is the sinner; not his audience. Send for the booklet below if you want to make an interesting address.

Recently he came up to me after the morning sermon, and apologetically asked:

Well, I informed him that I had been nodding and two other men had just told me they also had dozed briefly, so that made four of us who were in the same boat.

"It is usually the fault of the clergyman when his congregation goes to sleep," I replied.

"Oh, there are occasional exceptions. If a trucker had been driving almost all Saturday night to reach home and then were to attend church with his wife, he might nod a bit in spite of a dramatic sermon.

"But when several men in the audience doze in the pews, that means the priest or clergyman isn't doing his duty.

The sinning is thus in the pulpit and not in the pews!

Listen to Billy Graham or Dr Norman Vincent Peale or Oral Roberts and you'll understand what I mean by clerical "livewires".

People don't go to sleep in THEIR audiences. For these men are not only on fire with religious enthusiasm, but they also understand Christ's formula for a successful speech.

It consists of starting out with a serious point or topic (text). Then document it and illustrate it with actual cases, drawn from real life and told in narrative (story telling) style.

Then carry the audience to an emotional peak or climax with a bit of poetry which contains the essential idea that caps the climax.

If you can quote a few sages of the past who have made relevant comments, this will add more scholarly "oomph".

Imitate Christ's Oratory

Jesus was a great orator or he couldn't have held people all afternoon beside the sea or out in the wilderness.

And Jesus routinely employed this anecdotal or narrative formula for his sermons.

"And who is my neighbor?" asked a lawyer in the crowd.

Did Jesus stall around for 10 minutes trying to define the word in 5-syllable terms?

Did he launch upon a dry, textbookish form of "essay", as far too many modern clergymen still do?

Not on your life. Jesus launched right into a story, as Luke tells us (Luke 10:30):

"And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead . . ."

Then Jesus used his famous "reversible why" technique and asked the lawyer "Which was neighbor to him that fell among the thieves?"

Daily Devotion

He will bless them that fear the Lord, both small and great. — Psalm 118:22.

There should be no aristocracy in the church and certainly there is none in God's kingdom. Sinners are saved through the acceptance of Christ and this saving grace is assuredly not a matter of degree or of high or low estate here upon earth. If there is chance of a high rating for Christians it was pointed up by Christ when He said, "If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all." Those who "pass" in the day of judgment will be those who have accepted the saving atonement of Christ.

Father, help us to understand and accept the wonderful saving power of Thy Son. In His name we ask. Amen.

Churches, Integration

Down through the ages people of many faiths have fought valiantly against tyranny. They have struggled for the right to worship as they pleased. Frequently they have defied state domination.

This irrepressible desire for freedom of worship has made men and women strong and valiant and has given countries strength and greatness.

When we find the highest churchmen of many faiths declaring that the people of America must accept the edicts of a political supreme court as a religious duty to be performed we are forced to wonder if these men have forgotten what made their religions live, vital and great or if they have disregarded the facts in the face of expediency.

High churchmen of many faiths are now asserting that it is the solemn duty of the laity to endorse and effect racial integration because the supreme court, a political body composed of nine men admittedly working on ideological theories has said that is what should be done.

Have these churchmen lost their spiritual virility to such an extent that they are ready and willing to let a political body decide what is spiritually and morally or wrong?

The house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church, the council of bishops of the Methodist Church and the Roman Catholic bishops of the United States have adopted seperate resolutions calling on the clergy and on the laity in their respective churches to suport racial integration as embraced in the edicts of the United States supreme court, a politically-appointed body.

Earlier, some assemblies of Baptist and Presbyterian church authorities at various levels had taken comparable action, one example being the decision of the Baptists of Tennessee about two years ago to integrate their church schools in that state.

The contention of the three groups of bishops is that the integration problem "is a moral and religious issue." Each group of bishops declared that its clergy and laity must, because of their faith in God, accept court-edict integration wherever it is ordered by the supreme court. In effect, these bishops seem to be telling their clergy and their members that their consciences must be guided by the supreme court edicts, although that court, as a body, makes no claim to moral or religious authority.

Reference is also made by the bishops to the present integration problem as one of "law and order." The reference is not to any federal statutory law, for none exists, but to the supreme court edicts.

Even though there were such a statutory law it would not be incumbent upon the church members and other citizens to accept the law as a moral and religious belief, even though they might be compelled to obey the law. Even the supreme court has not declared churches must integrate and if it were to do so it would violate the constitution of the United States, which provides for religious freedom and for the organization of whatever groups of religious people who care to unite.

What the bishops demand cannot be carried out by laymen and ministers without accepting and supporting integration as established by the politically-appointed supreme court, although the words "integration" and "segregation" were not specifically used.

Acceptance by the bishops of the court's edict means acceptance of the federal government's use of troops and of the establishment by the supreme court of its original desegregation decision on foundations of psychology and sociology rather than the wording of the federal constitution.

There is strong opposition in the Episcopal, Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches to acceptance of integration established by court edict, especially when backed by federal troops and justice department intervention. The Episcopalian house of bishops approved its pro-integration document with 73 bishops voting for it and 58 voting against it. The opposition vote shows that a number of bishops outside the south opposed forced integration.

By implication, the various groups of bishops are contending that one may not be a true Christian without accepting racial integration as established through a totalitarian-type of edict of a politically-appointed branch of the federal government.

In doing this, the bishops are following a course contrary to much in the history of their own church ancesters. Throughout past centuries tens of millions of Christians have fled from the effects of totalitarian types of control over their beliefs in moral and religious fields. At different times Roman Catholics, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, Methodists and many other churchmen have died in chains in prison in behalf of their moral and religious beliefs or have fled to new countries to escape.

Most of those who believe in segregation do not stress the question as a religious issue, taking the position that it is largely a social problem, yet the Bible points out the difference in the races.

Regardless of whether or not they consider integration morally or religiously wrong, those who do favor segregation reject any attempt to brand them as non-religious simply because they do not choose to accept a ruling of politically-appointed, ideological supreme court as a religious decree upon which they must stand or fall. No court is empowered or qualified to pass upon our religious beliefs.

One might as well argue that schools of different faiths are discriminatory as to contend that schools of different races are unfair.

The bishops seem to be forgetting that everyone has the basic right to choose his own religion.

Big Sums Spent On Fine Buildings In Washington

If it's true that the construction industry led the nation out of the recent business depression, then the Congress of the United States must take a bow for contributing to that leadership.

Nobody knows at present — or if they do know, they're not telling — how much the current expansion program on Capitol Hill is going to cost the taxpayers in the long run. But it will run into the hundreds of millions of dollars before the program is complete.

It all started in 1956 when a $5 million starting appropriation suddenly showed up in the Legislative Departments budget for "extending the East Front of the Capitol." Since then, plans have been going forward for extensive remodeling, new construction, restoration, and additions to the present Capitol plant at a rate to stagger the imagination of the average Capitl Hill observer.

When the 86th Congress convenes January 7, the Senate will have a new office building to house 42 of the 98 senators and 12 of the 15 standing committees of the Senate. The new quarters will be sumptuous enough to please even the most demanding of the members of the "most exclusive club in the world."

On the other side of the Capitol, piles are being driven for a new House Office Building to house 170 of the 435 members, eight of the standing committees, and nearly all of the special subcommittees.

The Senate building cost the taxpayers $25.5 million including land and furnishings. The new House building — the third so far — will cost the taxpayers an estimated $64 million by the time it is completed in "early 1962."

Neither of the new buildings—nor the 16 foot extension of the East Front of the Capitol to provide additional dining and office space — were ever authorized by law as is customary for most public buildings.

Even the plush new quarters for members of Congress present problems, however. The new Senate Office Building requires a subway to house a short - line electric railway for senators and members of their staffs to make the 700 - foot journey back and forth between the Capitol and the office building. That will make two railways under the sod of Capitol Hill because the present "old" Senate Office Building has a two - rail subway already.

On the House side the situation is strikingly different and members are beginning to complain.

Not only is there no subway train between the Capitol and the two existing House Office Buildings, but none is contemplated for the new office building. As a result, several members of the House have come up with suggestions as to how the House can catch up to the Senate transportation - wise.

Rep. John Shelley (D-Calif.) has a unique idea which he, as a member of the House Appropriations Committee, thinks should get quick consideration.

As one of the dozens of members of the House who have had mild heart attacks, Shelley thinks that there should be installed between the House side of the Capitol and the three House Office buildings a system consisting of a number of small passenger-carrying cars riding on conveyor belts.

"Most of us are familiar with the number we all feel as a consequence of long hours we devote to our work in committees, on the floor, in our offices, in our home districts, and in campaigning tax and aggravate our physical capacities for the jobs we are trying our best to do for those back home . . .," Shelley tells his acquaintances.

"As one who suffered a heart attack two and a half years ago and spent nine months in Bethesda Naval Hospital, I can honestly say that I feel the strain of making hurried dashes to the floor, Shelley says.

As Shelley says, "Here is a transportation system with no fumes, no noise, no side sway, no vibration, no bumping, and best of all never any waiting."

We wish Shelley well in his campaign. After all, newspapermen and the public would get to ride the 790 feet from the Capitol to one of the House office buildings, too.

Napoleon Father Of Canned Food

NEW YORK (AP)—Every now and then an idea developed by the military services turns out to be more useful in peace than in war.

The average housewife, for example, doesn't know she owes a debt to Napoleon. But she does. It was Bonaparte's quest for a method of provisioning his troops on the march that spurred the development of canned food.

Another example was the aerosol bomb developed during the World War II. It is now used to spray everything from whitewash to tooth paste.

A still more promising product is a new "fear gas" being developed by the U.S. Army Ordnance Corps. It already is strong enough to cause an alley cat to become terrified at the sight of a mouse.

In time, says Maj. Gen. August Schomburg, it may become refined to a point where, sprayed on a battlefield, it might temporarily paralyze the will of enemy troops to fight.

While this certainly would be a great boon in wartime, can't a gas of this kind find equally important civilian employment?

As it is now, millions of ordinary people are so nervous, upset, and afraid, that they meet every daily emergency by swalloing a couple of tranquilizer pills. The pills don't rid them of their fears. They simply dull the impact of their fears.

How much finer your existence would be if, instead of a bottle of tranquilizer pills, you had a pocketful of small new aerosol bombs loaded with superstrong fear gas! Instead of having to calm your own fears you could make everybody else afraid of you.

Are you afraid to ask your boss for a raise? Not with your trusty fear gas bomb. You merely walk into old Scrooge's office, spray him in the face—and wait for him to hand over to you the keys to the company.

Are you afraid of your wife when you sneak into the house at 3 a.m. after a losing session at poker? Simply squirt a few whiffs of fear gas at her, and she'll run in panic and lock herself in the bedroom.

Are you afraid—as most modern parents are—of your children? Just fumigate them with your nerve gas, and they'll turn into docile little rabbits.

Do you bore everybody to death at a cocktail party? Not any longer. Now you can scare them to death.

Whatever frightened you before —supercilious clothing store salesmen, haughty waiters, threatening landlords, arrogant traffic cops—now quakes before you. The barrage of fear gas you spread around you (don't breathe it yourself!) turns you into a conquering hero.

It is a mighty dream. And it has only one flaw. If everybody brought a supply of these fear gas grenades and started tossing them around, then everybody would be afraid of everybody and everything else.

But what's to lose there? Isn't that about the present situation of the world today anyway?

"And who is my neighbor?" asked a lawyer in the crowd.

Did Jesus stall around for 10 minutes trying to define the word in 5-syllable terms?

Did he launch upon a dry, textbookish form of "essay", as far too many modern clergymen still do?

Not on your life. Jesus launched right into a story, as Luke tells us (Luke 10:30):

"And Jesus answering said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead . . ."

Then Jesus used his famous "reversible why" technique and asked the lawyer "Which was neighbor to him that fell among the thieves?"

Daily Devotion

He will bless them that fear the Lord, both small and great. — Psalm 118:22.

There should be no aristocracy in the church and certainly there is none in God's kingdom. Sinners are saved through the acceptance of Christ and this saving grace is assuredly not a matter of degree or of high or low estate here upon earth. If there is chance of a high rating for Christians it was pointed up by Christ when He said, "If any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all." Those who "pass" in the day of judgment will be those who have accepted the saving atonement of Christ.

Father, help us to understand and accept the wonderful saving power of Thy Son. In His name we ask. Amen.

Southern U. Sets Annual Farm Meeting

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Techniques in developing an extension program for farmers, homemakers and youth will be the focal theme of the Annual Conference of Agriculture Extension Service, to be held at Southern University, Monday through Friday.

Each year, the state agents hold their annual conference on the Monday that Southern University observes its Farmers' Honor Day. At the Farmers' Honor Day program this year, the Ellois Family of New Roads will be the Farm Family of the year.

The agents will assemble in their first general session Monday at 3 p.m., and listen to H. C. Sanders, director of the Agriculture Extension Service, deliver a keynote address. Also appearing on this program will be Dr. F. G. Clark, president of Southern; J. G. Richard, assistant state director of the Agriculture Extension Service and R. J. Courtney, assistant state agent, who will preside.

Tuesday morning, Mrs. Amelia J. Lewis, presiding, the general assembly will present Miss Ellen LeNoir, state home demonstration agent and John A. Cox, agriculture extension service, in words of welcome.

At 9:15, a panel consisting of Norvel E. Thames, district agent; Julius O'Quin, assistant state agent; Mrs. Ada Hanchey, C. W. Kennedy and Edward W. Gassie, program specialists, discussing the Organization and Function in Developing a Parish Extension Program.

There will be addition panels and demonstrations on Monday that will present Miss Stella Jones, poultry specialist; Miss Martha Mizell, assistant state club agent; W. E. Monroe, agronomy; Miss Estelle Fournet, food preservation; Donald Spurlock, horticulture; Miss Nan Tarwater, recruitment and training and Joseph H Jones, Sociology, all of the Agriculture Extension Service, LSU.

SCHEDULE

Wednesday, P. H. Stone, assistant administrator of Programs, USDA, Washington, D. C., will deliver an address. He will be followed by L. A. Carville, farm management and Miss Ruth Perry, home management, both of the State office, LSU.

In the evening on Wednesday, the program will shift to 4-H Club program work. M. A. Edmonds, of Southern University and manager of the Southern University Livestock and Poultry Show, will preside at an assembly at which C. S. Shirley, state club agent, will discuss the over-all program. He will be followed by Ashford O. Williams, state agent at Southern University.

Thursday, G. Leon Netterville, business manager of Southern University, will address the agents. Mr. Netterville will be followed by a panel that will include E. R. McCrory, district agent; Charles L. Johnson, 4-H; Mrs. Elsie J. Cyrus, homemaking and Joseph Hightower, agriculture, all parish agents discussing training leaders to assist with program excution.

Thursday evening L. J. Washington of the Farmers Home Administration, Washington, D. C.; Miss Ellen LeNoir, state home agent and E. L. Brantley, Southern University College of Agriculture, will discuss "Relationships of Agriculture Extension With Certain Cooperating Agencies.

Also in the afternoon, the agents will listen to reports from W. D. Curtiss and Mrs. Celia Hissong of the state office on "Outlook Report for 1959"; the State Livestock and Poultry Show and several committees.

In the final session, Friday morning, various members of the state office at LSU will present short talks and discuss policies and procedures affecting extension workers; the evaulation committee will report and R. J. Courtney will give the projection of the annual meeting.

Assistance Plans Aid Many At LSU

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Financial assistance at Louisiana State University puts a college education within the reach of almost any Louisiana citizen.

With the aid of fee exemption scholarships, honor awards, cash grants, student employment and low interest student loans, just about any ambitious student can finance his education. Many of the scholarships and loan funds originated through the generosity of Louisiana citizens and businesses.

Last year several thousand LSU students received some kind of scholarship, about 800 worked at student assistance jobs on campus, and $131,600 was loaned in small amounts to others with financial needs. At present, there is more activity in low interest student loans than ever before and scholarships and part time campus jobs are estimated to be about equal with those of last year.

Almost all of the student aids require good personal character and academic standing and are therefore incentives to work as well as rewards. Careful planning also insures that student jobs do not hinder studies and that borrowers cannot get themselves deeply in debt.

Fee exemptions are the most common type of assistance and are provided by a number of governmental and private organizations to deserving students and as awards for scholastic achievement.

MEMBERS

Members of the LSU Board of Supervisors and State Legislators may each appoint two four-year scholarships exempting appointees from scholastic fees up to $50 a year if they meet certain University standards. Similar exemptions are awarded to graduates of the State School for the Blind, veterans orphans, and children and wives of ordained ministers.

Four-year exemptions from University fees are given to one student in the upper one third of each graduating class in Louisiana high schools, to winners of each of the various contests in the State High School Literary Rally, winners of state Future Farmers of America contests, six outstanding men and six outstanding women attending Pelican Boys and Pelican Girls State, and the two men and two women Louisiana delegates to the yearly National 4-H camp.

The Governor, Lt. Governor and each legislator may award cash grants of up to $300 to students of their choice. The governor may award a total of $25,000 per fiscal year, the Lt. Governor $17,000 senators $4,800 and representatives $3,600. Of course these are divided among students going to many different colleges in Louisiana, but a total of more than $140,000 in exemptions went to LSU students last year.

Other appointive cash grants go to veterans orphans and physically handicapped students. The private T.H. Harris Scholarship Fund provides cash grants to worthy high school graduates with at least a "B" average who apply to the State Department of Education for assistance. Another award of $270 a year goes to outstanding freshmen entering senior colleges and to outstanding first year medical and law student.

State and national businesses and organizations each year also give special scholarships for outstanding scholastic achievement and service. Some of the scholarships range above $500.

Accord Expected In Contract With Delhi Industry

DELHI (Special) — The final approval of the contract between Delhi Manufacturing Corp. and the town of Delhi is expected "any day now," according to a spokesman for the manufacturing concern.

The final approval, which is actually more of a formality, is expected this week, with the election for the bond issue expected to be called after the first of the year.

The Board of Commerce and Industry actually the critical point for the approval of such contract, approved it November 20.

Conference On Radiation Seen Likely

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said Saturday continuance of the U.N. Scientific Committee on Radiation Effects might eventually lead to a conference "on some aspect of the radiation field."

He spoke in the General Assembly's Political Committee, debating a 12-nation resolution whereby the Assembly would ask the scientific committee to "continue its useful work."

That 15-nation committee, in a report published last August, concluded that even the smallest amounts of radiation were liable to cause deleterious effects in man. It also said nuclear weapons tests made a "growing increment" to radiation from X-rays and other sources. The Assembly set it up Dec. 3, 1955, to investigate radiation effects.

Hammarskjold said the committee's basic activity still would be "comprehensive reviews of radiation levels and radiation effects on man and his environment, with special reference . . . to the problem of fallout." But he went on:

"I take it that no one would object if the scientific committee, in pursuing this basic activity, would not only point out areas in which additional research could be helpful . . . but would also suggest that an appropriate body in the U.N. family of organizations might undertake to fill that research void.

"Moreover, I would suppose that there could be no objection if this committee . . . should conclude that a seminar, symposium or conference of scientists on some aspect of the radiation field would be useful and would propose to the General Assembly or to one or more of the agencies that such a meeting be held."

Peronista Band Attempts Capture Of Calvary Post

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Reports reaching Buenos Aires Saturday said a small group of self-identified supporters of Juan Peron tried unsuccessfully to take over a cavalry regiment in Entre Rios Province.

The incident was said to have occurred early Friday and to have been put down by sentries at the regiment's station.

The leader of the group was reported seized and identified as a former soldier who took part in an abortive uprising in support of ousted dictator Peron in 1956.

NO REGRETS OVER DEFEAT

Senator Knowland Bows From Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) left the capital Saturday saying he has no regrets over his only election defeat in 25 years of politics.

"In this game two things can happen to you," the retiring Senate Republican leader said in an interview.

"You either win or lose. This time I lost for the first time. It's part of the American system. It keeps both parties on their toes.

"It's a good thing to have new faces in government if we get out a representative vote of the people to do it."

Looking ahead to 1960 when the presidency will be at stake, Knowland said, "There is no reason for a party to throw in the sponge just because you take a defeat," as the GOP did in last month's congressional elections.

"I don't believe we have to take a defeatist attitude for 1960," he continued.

"It's a real challenge to Republican party leaders and members everywhere."

Appearing relaxed despite his strenuous and unsuccessful campaign for governor of California, Sen. Knowland came back to Washington on a freight vessel by way of the Panama Canal to New York City.

"It took 15 days and was just what I wanted," he said with a grin. "Nobody can reach you on a freighter and there is little to do but rest, read, think and get some sunshine."

Knowland said he has no regrets over his decision to retire from the Senate and campaign for governor of his state on issues that proved unpopular with the voters.

Knowland attributed some of this year's Democratic gains to the efforts of organized labor. He said that in some states—which he didn't name—union leaders control the Democratic party rather than being part of it.

"They have very capable, aggressive and well-financed operations," he said, adding that Republicans can not offset this by makeshift "60 - or 90 - day campaigns."

Knowland spoke warmly of his associations here, particularly that with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex). Democratic leader in the Senate.

"He is a very close personal friend and it has been a pleasant association," he said of Johnson. "He always kept his word. We exchanged positions as majority and minority leader and always dealt with complete frankness."

Knowland will return to Oakland by train. There he will be active as assistant publisher of the Oakland Tribune. It is headed by his father, Joseph R. Knowland, 84.

3 Scholarships To Art Schools, Colleges Offered

Three scholarships to any art school or college approved by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and a greeting card company will be awarded to winners in the State Federation of Women Clubs Art Talent Contest.

High school seniors who will graduate in 1959 are eligible to compete, and the winning painting from each state will be sent to the general federation contest.

The scholarships will cover tuition and fees up to $400 for each student, with the $400 going directly to the school.

"The Character of America" will be the theme's contest and may be interpreted by the use of historical subjects, landscapes still lifes or portraits, according to Mrs. J. W. Lindsey.

Mrs. Lindsey is fifth district chairman for the Art and Penny Art Fund of the LFWC.

Students wishing to enter the contest may write her care of the Cosmos Club of Ruston to obtain entry blanks and general rules.

Heroes Lauded On Anniversary Of Sneak Attack

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) —America will mark the 17th anniversary of the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor Sunday with solemn tribute to 1,102 men who went down with the battleship Arizona.

Memorial services will be from a platform on the superstructure of the sunken 33,000-ton battlewagon. Top military and civilian officials will board the platform at 7:55 a.m.

At 7:58 a.m. on Sunday Dec. 7, 1941 a Japanese dive bomber streaked out of the sun and dropped a 2,000-pound bomb on the Arizona's forward deck. The bomb exploded in the ammunition and fuel storage areas. In 8½ minutes the Arizona went to the bottom with almost her entire crew.

Under the rallying cry of "Remember Pearl Harbor," the United States rebuilt its shattered fleet and embarked on an island hopping campaign that led to Japan's surrender.

The animosity generated by the devastating attack on the Pacific fleet at Pearl Harbor has been all but forgotten in Hawaii.

The small group above the hulk of the Arizona Sunday will pay tribute to the fallen heroes and rededicate themselves to peace.

Leading Scientist In Development Of Missile Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Hans R. Friedrich, 47, a co-developer of the German V2 rocket and a leading scientist in the development of the Atlas missile, died Saturday.

Friedrich had been in a local hospital since suffering a heart attack Nov. 28. He was first stricken only a few hours before the Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile was successfully launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on a full course flight.

He was invited to work in the United States after World War II. While at Huntsville, Ala., he helped develop the primary design for the Army's Redstone Missile.

In World War II he was a coworker with Dr. Wernher von Braun at the German rocket center at Peenemuende. The V1 and V2 were developed there.

He leaves his wife and two daughters, Karin and Barbara. He was a native of Zwickau, Germany.

Canada's air defense system is substituting missiles for jet plane interceptors, a vast saving in the budget.

ALTON HARE

Hare Is Named As Mathematics Club Top Officer

Alton Hare of Monroe will head Mu Alpha Theta, mathematics club at Northeast State, during the current school year. Serving with him will be Jeanette McDonald, vice president, Betty Wheat, secretary, and Jessie Varnado, treasurer. Faculty sponsor of the club is Mrs. Emma Mixon.

President Hare appointed the following committee chairmen to function throughout the school year: Berle Palmer, program, Tommy Frazer, study group, and Carol Varner, refreshments.

One of the newer organizations on the campus, Mu Alpha Theta has established the following requirements for membership: eight semester hours of mathematics, including Mathematics 52; an average of 1.5 in all mathematics courses; an over-all average of "C" or better, and payment of $2 annual dues.

PROGRESSION GOLF

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A group of officials of the Virginia State Golf Assn., here for a meeting, had a round on the links first. Bob Scott, chairman of the handicap committee, scored a hole-in-one on the 196-yard 17th at the Country Club of Virginia. Let's make it one, two, three, four said Richmond's Harry Easterly and promptly placed one near the pin for an easy deuce. Jose Davila made the green and was down in two putts for his three. Groege Fulton's drive was bad but he was down in four.

CAPITOL CORRIDORS

Jackson Injects School Issue In Governor Race

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Supt. Shelby M. Jackson Saturday thrust a key issue into the coming race for governor. Jackson declared the winner must have "a definite plan" to provide a permanent solution for school finances.

The education chief, in an interview, countered "no comment" when asked whether he was showing a personal interest in the mansion.

The politician winds are freshening again in Louisiana. Former Gov. Jimmie Davis finally broke his "I don't know" attitude and said publicly for the first time two days ago he was giving some thought to running again.

Last Tuesday, Gov. Earl Long said friends told him Davis had his hat in the ring.

In Washington Friday, the national Democratic Party refused to oust Louisiana Committeeman Camille Gravel as the Democratic state central committee demanded. The party action will reach into the race for Louisiana governor. Gravel, with national party backing, may stand as a man of political influence who will have to be considered when the chips are down.

Long, before the state committee threw out Gravel, accused him of trying to use the Negro vote as a weapon of power.

Jackson, with undisputed statewide strength, stretching down through school boards, principals, teachers and bus drivers, rarely has offered a public comment on the campaign for governor. He usually quietly gains personal endorsement for re-election from most major candidates.

With the recent strain on state finances caused mostly by a weakened oil industry, which provides a great share of school taxes, schools have been having their problems. The state administration tried a new natural gas tax of short duration and patchwork of fiscal shifting and surplus consumption to build enough operating revenues.

While Jackson took the no comment" route when asked whether he might consider a higher post, chances are his school finance remarks were primarily intended as a hint to gubernatorial would-be's to come up with somthing concrete.

"Th next man who is elected governor must have a definite plan for providing adequate financial support on a permanent basis," Jackson said, "to guarantee a total program of education to a. ever increasing school and college population.

"This is necessary so that every student on all levels will have the best in educational opportunities to develop to the fullest capacity as a useful and secure citizen."

Also, Jackson said, the next elected governor must consider this:

"All salary schedules must be put into full effect according to law and not just maintained on a half-salary basis like it has been the last two years. This is important to be able to have the best school personnel at all times."

New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, runnerup to Long last time, still hasn't revealed his play.

State Comptroller William J. Dodd, who already has said he wants to run for governor, is a former education leader.

There has been a new tone of talk in some areas recently about former Gov. Robert Kennon, who stepped out in 1956. He has been getting around the state, because of his law practice.

What about this?

"At this time I do not expect to run," Kennon said. "When I left office in 1956, I entered the practice of law which I expect to follow indefinitely."

Kennon said, "I have already made the decision not to be a candidate for governor in 1959."

While Kennon was an Eisenhower Democrat, Louisiana voted for Eisenhower last time. And the threatened Southern split with the national Democratic Party, because of such events as the Gravel episode, could have its political effect within Louisiana. Kennon always labeled himself a Jeffersonian Democrat, a firm believer in states rights.

Then there are the occasional rumors Gov. Long might resign, letting Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar step in.

"Resign?" said Rep. Wayne Gaudin of Baton Rouge, "Hell, it'll be hard enough to get him out of office when his term expires."

Leading Scientist In Development Of Missile Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Dr. Hans R. Friedrich, 47, a co-developer of the German V2 rocket and a leading scientist in the development of the Atlas missile, died Saturday.

Friedrich had been in a local hospital since suffering a heart attack Nov. 28. He was first stricken only a few hours before the Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile was successfully launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., on a full course flight.

He was invited to work in the United States after World War II. While at Huntsville, Ala., he helped develop the primary design for the Army's Redstone Missile.

In World War II he was a co-worker with Dr. Wernher von Braun at the German rocket center at Peenemuende. The V1 and V2 were developed there.

He leaves his wife and two daughters, Karin and Barbara. He was a native of Zwickau, Germany.

Canada's air defense system is substituting missiles for jet plane interceptors, a vast saving in the budget.

ALTON HARE

Hare Is Named As Mathematics Club Top Officer

Alton Hare of Monroe will head Mu Alpha Theta, mathematics club at Northeast State, during the current school year. Serving with him will be Jeanette McDonald, vice president, Betty Wheat, secretary, and Jessie Varnado, treasurer. Faculty sponsor of the club is Mrs. Emma Mixon.

President Hare appointed the following committee chairmen to function throughout the school year: Berle Palmer, program, Tommy Frazer, study group, and Carol Varner, refreshments.

One of the newer organizations on the campus, Mu Alpha Theta has established the following requirements for membership: eight semester hours of mathematics, including Mathematics 52; an average of 1.5 in all mathematics courses; an over-all average of "C" or better, and payment of $2 annual dues.

PROGRESSION GOLF

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A group of officials of the Virginia State Golf Assn., here for a meeting, had a round on the links first. Bob Scott, chairman of the handicap committee, scored a hole-in-one on the 196-yard 17th at the Country Club of Virginia. Let's make it one, two, three, four said Richmond's Harry Easterly and promptly placed one near the pin for an easy deuce. Jose Davila made the green and was down in two putts for his three. Groege Fulton's drive was bad but he was down in four.

CAPITOL CORRIDORS

Jackson Injects School Issue In Governor Race

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE (AP) — State Supt. Shelby M. Jackson Saturday thrust a key issue into the coming race for governor. Jackson declared the winner must have "a definite plan" to provide a permanent solution for school finances.

The education chief, in an interview, countered "no comment" when asked whether he was showing a personal interest in the mansion.

The politician winds are freshening again in Louisiana. Former Gov. Jimmie Davis finally broke his "I don't know" attitude and said publicly for the first time two days ago he was giving some thought to running again.

Last Tuesday, Gov. Earl Long said friends told him Davis had his hat in the ring.

In Washington Friday, the national Democratic Party refused to oust Louisiana Committeeman Camille Gravel as the Democratic state central committee demanded. The party action will reach into the race for Louisiana governor.

Gravel, with national party backing, may stand as a man of political influence who will have to be considered when the chips are down.

Long, before the state committee threw out Gravel, accused him of trying to use the Negro vote as a weapon of power.

Jackson, with undisputed statewide strength, stretching down through school boards, principals, teachers and bus drivers, rarely has offered a public comment on the campaign for governor. He usually quietly gains personal endorsement for re-election from most major candidates.

With the recent strain on state finances caused mostly by a weakened oil industry, which provides a great share of school taxes, schools have been having their problems. The state administration tried a new natural gas tax of short duration and patchwork of fiscal shifting and surplus consumption to build enough operating revenues.

While Jackson took the no comment" route when asked whether he might consider a higher post, chances are his school finance remarks were primarily intended as a hint to gubernatorial would-be's to come up with somthing concrete.

"Th next man who is elected governor must have a definite plan for providing adequate financial support on a permanent basis," Jackson said, "to guarantee a total program of education to a.. ever increasing school and college population.

"This is necessary so that every student on all levels will have the best in educational opportunities to develop to the fullest capacity as a useful and secure citizen."

Also, Jackson said, the next elected governor must consider this:

"All salary schedules must be put into full effect according to law and not just maintained on a half-salary basis like it has been the last two years. This is important to be able to have the best school personnel at all times."

New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison, runnerup to Long last time, still hasn't revealed his play.

State Comptroller William J. Dodd, who already has said he wants to run for governor, is a former education leader.

There has been a new tone of talk in some areas recently about former Gov. Robert Kennon, who stepped out in 1956. He has been getting around the state, because of his law practice.

What about this?

"At this time I do not expect to run," Kennon said. "When I left office in 1956, I entered the practice of law which I expect to follow indefinitely."

Kennon said, "I have already made the decision not to be a candidate for governor in 1959."

While Kennon was an Eisenhower Democrat, Louisiana voted for Eisenhower last time. And the threatened Southern split with the national Democratic Party, because of such events as the Gravel episode, could have its political effect within Louisiana. Kennon always labeled himself a Jeffersonian Democrat, a firm believer in states rights.

Then there are the occasional rumors Gov. Long might resign, letting Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar step in.

"Resign?" said Rep. Wayne Gaudin of Baton Rouge, "Hell, it'll be hard enough to get him out of office when his term expires."

Packing Firm Blast, Fire Injure Three

CHICAGO (UPI)—An explosion and fire ripped through a big meat packing house in the Chicago stock yards early Saturday, injuring at least three persons.

Cause of the blast at the Reliable Packing Company was not known by fire officials. But a company spokesman said it probably occurred in a lard-rendering room on the third floor of the three-story plant and may have been caused by pressers in the room.

The blast ripped a quarter-block-long section from the third floor, shattered windows in nearby homes and knocked out electric power in the immediate area.

Only Friday, the packing house bought the grand champion barrow of the International Live Stock Exposition at auction for $2.75 a pound, netting the owner of the prize porker, Gerald Anderson, 16, of Leland, Ill., $660.

Five persons were on the first floor of the building when the blast occurred, but all escaped injury.

The three injured were cut by flying glass and masonry. Alberta Lopez, 25, and Efrem Castenida, 20, were sitting in a car across the street from the plant when the blast occurred, and Ruben Chavez, 30, suffered foot cuts when he stepped on glass in his darkened home after the explosion.

U.S. Scientists To Get Access To Better Data

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower Saturday approved a plan to give America's scientists and engineers better access to the mounting volume of science publications.

He created a Science Information Service within the National Science Foundation to coordinate and expand on existing federal and private efforts to collect and disseminate science information.

Under the plan, translation of Russian publications would be expanded to provide full coverage. Additional translation programs in Japanese and other languages would be carried out as needed.

The President acted on the recommendation of his Science Advisory Committee headed by Dr. James R. Killian Jr.

The report said the new service would help answer the scientist's questions: "How can the present volume of research results be published promptly? What is being published now? Where is it? How can I get it?"

Ten federal agencies engaged in abstracting, indexing, translating and preparing technical reports were asked by Eisenhower to cooperate with the news service.

Suspect Faces Charge In Area Woodland Blaze

RAYVILLE (Special) — A 31-year-old Richland parish Negro was in the parish jail here last night after being charged with setting fire to a field near Delhi, which burned 500 acres of woodland.

The Negro was identified as Calvin Powell by James N. Steven, district forester of Winnsboro. Steven said Powell is charged with fire razing on lands of another by criminal negligence. Bond was set at $550.

W. M. Miller, forest agent, made the investigation which led to the arrest of Powell.

In the past week there have been 31 fires in Richland parish over 1,495 acres of woodland. Steven stated investigation of these fires was now in progress.

Four fires in the district were reported yesterday to the district forester. There were two in West Carroll parish, one in East Carroll and one in Concordia. Their size was not known last night.

School Fire Safety Check Up Available

The National Board of Fire Underwriters' "School Inspection Blank" is available to school authorities throughout the nation.

This inspection blank, which has been used by schools since 1933 as a check on fire safety conditions, may be obtained by school administrators from local fire departments or National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The inspection blank consists of a series of 38 questions on fire safety, including questions covering fire escapes, heating equipment, fire extinguishment equipment, building construction, etc.

MANY USED

L. A. Vincent, general manager of the National Board, said hundreds of thousands of the school inspection blanks have been used for years as a key check by school authorities, and fire department officials. Thousands of them, he noted, are distributed by the National Board every year.

The blank's printed instructions state that inspections are to be made each month by the custodian and a member of the faculty. At the quarterly inspection, a member of the fire department should accompany the inspectors, and the complete blank should be filled out. The report of each inspection (monthly and quarterly) is to be filed with the Board of Education or School Commissioners.

The inspection blank, which has been approved and adopted by the National Association of Public School Business Officials, has the endorsement of the International Association of Fire Chiefs.

Swimmer Braves Sub-Zero Water For Third Day

HIXON, B.C. (AP)—It was 13 degrees below zero here Saturday with a brisk north wind, when rubber-suited Louis Lourmais, 36, strode into the Fraser River and thrashed off south toward Quesnel.

It was his third day in the water in a swim he hopes will take him 600 miles to the sea. Louis has battled 50 miles in the last two days since leaving Prince George.

His next stop, Quesnel, is 35 miles down the river.

Lourmais covered 27 miles Thursday to Stone Creek. His lips were badly swollen. Another 25 miles Friday and his cheeks were puffed and parts of his face were bleeding.

The Brittany Frenchman, a frogman in World War II, hopes to prove that frogmen can be used in the industrial development of the province.

The water temperature of the Fraser in this central Columbia regin is 32 degrees. If it stopped flowing, it would set solid.

Most of the time Lourmais has had to pound with his fists through floating ice.

Lourmais's suit froze solid when he stumbled up the river bank Friday night. It took a large heater and a 30-minute bath to thaw him out.

Only a rugged few watched him leave here Saturday. It was too cold for most Hixonites to be out.

Flames Whipped By Wind Sweep Through House

STERLINGTON (Special) — High winds whipped flames through a duplex Negro dwelling near here last night for over an hour, but no injuries were reported in the fire.

Elvia Davenport, Negro, was identified as the owner of the structure, and occupied one side. Clayton Williams, Negro, lived in the other half of the dwelling.

The Davenport woman said smoke suddenly started pouring down from the attic about 7:45 p.m. She said possibly the wiring was faulty.

A fire truck from Commercial Solvents rushed to the scene, one mile west of the Sterlington bridge, and prevented the fire from spreading to three nearby homes and a garage.

Volunteer workers also worked to control the blaze, but the house and contents were a total loss.

Chicago Priests Face Difficult Roles On Sund...

CHICAGO (UPI) — Eight men faced a tough fight with words Saturday. They are the priests who will say the 11 masses and preach the sermons at Our Lady Of The Angels church Sunday.

"What," asked Father John Egan, "can a man say to these people? What words can we use? Won't any words we say to them fall short of the experiences they've lived through this week?"

Fr. Egan and the pastor, Msgr. Joseph Cussen, and all the other priests had been "overwhelmed" by the examples of the people of the parish after the Monday fire that killed 88 children and three nuns.

"Maybe the people preached their own sermon," Fr. Egan said. "We were talking about the sermon problem this morning at the breakfast table. There was no decision as to what to say. Each of us will have his own light to get the words out."

Allies, Soviets Approve Section Of Nuclear Pact

clearly the right of all countries to subscribe to the treaty. This was considered a concession by Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin. He had demanded that the treaty be reserved exclusively to the three powers that now have nuclear weapons.

To allow for bringing in other countries, the three powers agreed on a new title for the proposed treaty: "A Treaty Relating to the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons Test Explosions." The word "prohibition" replaced the word "discontinuance" because the three nuclear powers alone could discontinue tests.

The wording of the article was basically the same as that contained in a draft proposed by U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth Nov. 29.

Tsarapkin previously had resisted repeated Western demands for a Soviet commitment to cooperate on control.

Western sources believe that the Russians' eagerness to obtain formal approval of Article I before any final agreement was reached on Article II on establishing a control organization might foreshadow new stalling tactics to postpone approval of the treaty's control provisions.

ted down in front of a truck moving away from the cement mixer. The driver inched forward until the wheels were touching some of the demonstrators.

Then a group of laborers rushed up and pitched into the demonstrators.

They seized the intruders, men and women, and tossed them into a nearby ditch filled with mud and cement. As the battle stepped up, RAF police dashed across to help.

Then when the demonstrators appeared to be gaining the upper hand a bunch of civilian police moved in to join the battle.

One by one the demonstrators were ejected over the wire fence.

There they regrouped and protested against the way they had been handled.

"They pulled out great lumps of my hair," complained 29-year-old Joyce Hazzard. "Somebody grabbed me by the head and flung me into the mud."

Many of the demonstrators were drenched by water from fire hoses played on them by air force men during the battle.

"It was bloody brutal," declared one girl.

A few of the protesters tried to launch a fresh assault across the barbed wire. This time guards tossed them back before they got halfway over.

Most of the rest took the road back home—except for a small group who settled down to picket the main gate overnight.

JES' Ramblin'

should receive the usual hearty support again at this time.

TB

J. H. Watkins, member of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association organization for over 40 years, recently commended Christmas Seal sale workers in their annual efforts.

Watkins recalls that in 1913 he decided to help stop the spread of tuberculosis, after a relative died with the disease.

Organizational methods began and in the 1920's the work was accelerated by the G. B. Cooley Sanitorium, an institution maintained by the parish.

He asks that those wanting to give should mail contributions to R. C. Sparks, treasurer, at the Central Savings Bank and Trust Co., Monroe.

Fellowship

Tonight at 7 in the First Christian Church the Christian Women's Fellowship will have the program, on missions. Mrs. S. W. Raby will address the group on the "Healing of Nations." Mrs. Rabun Wroten will be soloist for the occasion. Mrs. B. B. Martin invites all friends of the church to attend.

Brotherhood

Ouachita Lodge Brotherhood of Railway Clerks will meet Friday, Dec. 12, at 7 p.m. in Hotel Frances. Officers for 1959 will be elected at this time.

Four Postpone Balloon Flight

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP)—Four Britons planning to cross the Atlantic in a free balloon have put off their scheduled start until Monday. Last minute preparations took longer than anticipated, the group's leader said. They had planned to get under way Saturday.

The expedition is headed by Arnold Beaupre Eiloart, 51-year-old businessman. His 21-year-old son, Timothy, is a member of the crew that also includes a Scottish marine engineer Colin Mudia and Mrs. Mudia. Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, is a sponsor of the attempt.

in the two-foot probe vehicle sent back a steady volume of data on the sea of radiation through which the rocket was passing. What was learned about the troubles with this rocket will indicate changes in the next one.

By midmorning rocket experts here and at Cape Canaveral, Fla., were beginning to suspect that one of the things that went wrong was in the Jupiter IRBM used as the primary launcher. The Army, aiming at giving the rocket greater initial speed, elongated the fuel tanks and changed some of the plumbing.

The idea didn't work entirely as planned. At its top speed, Pioneer III was traveling about 840 miles per hour slower than the 24,900 m.p.h. needed to thrust it beyond earth's full gravity pull and send it to the region of the moon. Even greater speed would have been needed to break the pull of the combined earth-moon gravity and put it into orbit around the sun.

Some other difficulties may have occurred, although the lack of adequate "escape speed" was primary. Pioneer III was more than three degrees off the intended angle in the early stages of its flight.

It was the first of two space probes scheduled for the Army, which has a burning desire to remain in the space program. The Air Force had been given three tries. Two of them were flaming failures. But the Oct. 11 firing sent Pioneer I rifling out to 71,300 miles, farther than any other man-made object is known to have gone.

"If Wernher von Braun had put his satellite around the sun on the first try, after three Air Force failures to reach the moon, there would have been no living with him," he said.

The doctor was impressive in two news conference appearances in Washington. He answered questions in detail and at length, but if he felt any pleasure or disappointment he concealed it.

Von Braun thought a faulty adjustment on a fuel valve might have shortened the burning time of the first stage. This would have reduced the time of acceleration and thus cut top speed.

In Florida, Von Braun's military counterpart, Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, said the failure to achieve planned velocity was caused primarily by a cutoff in burning of fuel three seconds too soon. At speeds around 24,000 m.p.h., three seconds can make a great difference in acceleration.

The space scientists calculated initially that Pioneer III probably would be in flight—going up and coming down—about 38 hours.

The three upper stages of the launching vehicle, consisting of clusters and individual units of Sergeant solid fuel rockets, apparently behaved as planned. But Pioneer III lacked the initial speed, a deficit which the upper stages couldn't correct.

The speed began dropping off steadily. Within four hours after launching, the probe's velocity was estimated as being down to about 7,800 m.p.h. A few hours later it had dropped to about 3,000 m.p.h.

The scientists thought that as it approached its peak the flight would be slowed to hundreds of miles an hour. Then, as it headed back toward earth, the speed would accelerate.

Ahead of the 13-pound, instrument-filled package in its descent was the earth's atmosphere, with its promise of friction-production heat that would consume it while still miles high in the sky.

"No solid parts will hit the ground," said Von Braun.

The first United States coin containing nickel was a small one-cent piece issued in 1857. It was made of an alloy of 12 per cent nickel and 88 per cent copper.

and the request was simply submitted to Butler.

SLAP AT SOUTH

Thomas Pope, of South Carolina, protested that the resolution was a slap at the South. Claude Carpenter, an alternate from Arkansas, moved to refer the statement to the resolutions committee. His motion was defeated 72-29.

Gravel, in an apparent plea for moderation, attempted to amend the resolution by striking out a phrase that praised Butler for "his forthright utterance on Civil Rights, and determination by the Democratic Party that the provisions of the Constitution of the United States as interpreted by the Supreme Court shall be enforced and made effective....."

His motion was supported by Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky and by Byron Skelton of Texas, but lost 79-27.

The committee then voted on the original resolution, including the Civil Rights phrase, and passed it 84-18.

Although Gravel had tried to remove the Civil Rights clause. He voted for the final resolution, adding this explanation:

"I object to part of the language contained in the third paragraph of page three of the resolution.

I disagree with Mr. Butler's position that we should have a stronger Civil Rights plank in the 1960 party platform than that contained in the '56 Platform. Otherwise, I am in full accord with the commendation of Mr. Butler as set forth in the resolution".

GRAVEL TENSE

Gravel appeared tense as the session drew to a close although he retained his usual energy.

In addition to defending himself before the National Committee and the Credentials Committee, he had spent three days as chairman of the committee to select a 1960 convention site.

On Sunday, he was scheduled to attend a meeting of the advisory council.

Talbot took little part in the committee proceedings except to vote against the Civil Rights Resolution. He had announced that he would argue in his behalf before the vote on unseating Gravel, but after conferring with Shaw he merely presented himself to the committee and demanded a roll-call vote.

Like Shaw, Talbot said he was not surprised by his rejection by the committee and asserted that as far as Louisiana is concerned, Gravel is "nothing but a paperhead."

He said that Gravel's challenge to state Sen. W. H. Rainach to run for national committeeman in a statewide primary next December would be "ridiculous." Talbot said it would be like challenging President Eisenhower to a popularity contest. There was little satisfaction in Gravel's camp. One of his supporters summed up the situation by saying, "nobody won."

Gravel who still insists that most true Democrats in Louisiana are on his side, said that he plans to keep working for the Democratic Party and its national ticket in his state.

Shaw, who regards only states-right supporters as "true Democrats", has termed Gravel a "political zombie."

they could buy Debbie a present. They collected $52.

Since then, Debbie has received presents. First a wardrobe dolly, then a nylon robe and slippers and then the payoff — a three-speed phonograph.

Her best present comes Sunday when she will be reunited with her family. She may be on crutches a year or more. She may have another operation or two. But she's smiling and wondering what Santa will bring her.

"Sure I believe in Santa," her father, Edward C. Land, said. "And I believe in miracles and prayer. Anyone who has a kid badly injured should never give up—pray and hope. I prayed for Debbie first and then for her leg. Now, thank God we have both."

Guard Raids Mississippi Bootleggers

PICAYUNE, Miss. (AP) — National Guardsmen, acting on orders from Gov. J. P. Coleman, raided five bootlegging establishments just inside the Hancock County line Saturday.

Four persons, including former Hancock County Rep. Francis Lee, were arrested.

The Guardsmen confiscated about eight cases of whisky, 50 gallons of assorted wines and about 85 cases of beer, which was being sold without a state beer license.

It was the third time in five years Guardsmen had been sent into the area. Coleman ordered the raids at the request of Pearl River County residents who complained the places were enticing teenagers from the Picayune area of the county.

Lee, picked up as the operator of an establishment on Highway 43 near the Hancock County line, and the others arrested were charged with violating the state's prohibition laws.

The others charged were Harry Blackwell, operator of the Halfway Drive-in; Eli Alsobrooks, operator of an unmarked place across the highway from Blackwell's place, and Prentiss Kennedy, operator of a place on a gravel road off Highway 43.

Maj. Gn. W. P. Wilson, state adjutant general, personally led the raids. The 25 Guardsmen hit all places at the same time.

clearly the right of all countries to subscribe to the treaty. This was considered a concession by Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin. He had demanded that the treaty be reserved exclusively to the three powers that now have nuclear weapons.

To allow for bringing in other countries, the three powers agreed on a new title for the proposed treaty: "A Treaty Relating to the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons Test Explosions." The word "prohibition" replaced the word "discontinuance" because the three nuclear powers alone could discontinue tests.

The wording of the article was basically the same as that contained in a draft proposed by U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth Nov. 29.

Tsarapkin previously had resisted repeated Western demands for a Soviet commitment to cooperate on control.

Western sources believe that the Russians' eagerness to obtain formal approval of Article I before any final agreement was reached on Article II on establishing a control organization might foreshadow new stalling tactics to postpone approval of the treaty's control provisions.

Pacifists, Police Stage Battle Royal

ted down in front of a truck moving away from the cement mixer. The driver inched forward until the wheels were touching some of the demonstrators.

Then a group of laborers rushed up and pitched into the demonstrators.

They seized the intruders, men and women, and tossed them into a nearby ditch filled with mud and cement. As the battle stepped up, RAF police dashed across to help.

Then when the demonstrators appeared to be gaining the upper hand a bunch of civilian police moved in to join the battle.

One by one the demonstrators were ejected over the wire fence.

There they regrouped and protested against the way they had been handled.

"They pulled out great lumps of my hair," complained 29-year-old Joyce Hazzard. "Somebody grabbed me by the head and flung me into the mud."

Many of the demonstrators were drenched by water from fire hoses played on them by air force men during the battle.

"It was bloody brutal," declared one girl.

A few of the protesters tried to launch a fresh assault across the barbed wire. This time guards tossed them back before they got halfway over.

Most of the rest took the road back home—except for a small group who settled down to picket the main gate overnight.

TB

J. H. Watkins, member of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association organization for over 40 years, recently commended Christmas Seal sale workers in their annual efforts.

Watkins recalls that in 1913 he decided to help stop the spread of tuberculosis, after a relative died with the disease.

Organizational methods began and in the 1920's the work was accelerated by the G. B. Cooley Sanitorium, an institution maintained by the parish.

He asks that those wanting to give should mail contributions to R. C. Sparks, treasurer, at the Central Savings Bank and Trust Co., Monroe.

Four Postpone Balloon Flight

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Canary Islands (AP)—Four Britons planning to cross the Atlantic in a free balloon have put off their scheduled start until Monday. Last minute preparations took longer than anticipated, the group's leader said. They had planned to get under way Saturday.

The expedition is headed by Arnold Beaupre Eiloart, 51-year-old businessman. His 21-year-old son, Timothy, is a member of the crew that also includes a Scottish marine engineer Colin Mudia and Mrs. Mudia. Prince Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, is a sponsor of the attempt.

Army's Moon Starts Plunge From Space

in the two-foot probe vehicle sent back a steady volume of data on the sea of radiation through which the rocket was passing. What was learned about the troubles with this rocket will indicate changes in the next one.

By midmorning rocket experts here and at Cape Canaveral, Fla., were beginning to suspect that one of the things that went wrong was in the Jupiter IRBM used as the primary launcher. The Army, aiming at giving the rocket greater initial speed, elongated the fuel tanks and changed some of the plumbing.

The idea didn't work entirely as planned. At its top speed, Pioneer III was traveling about 840 miles per hour slower than the 24,900 m.p.h. needed to thrust it beyond earth's full gravity pull and send it to the region of the moon. Even greater speed would have been needed to break the pull of the combined earth-moon gravity and put it into orbit around the sun.

Some other difficulties may have occurred, although the lack of adequate "escape speed" was primary. Pioneer III was more than three degrees off the intended angle in the early stages of its flight.

It was the first of two space probes scheduled for the Army, which has a burning desire to remain in the space program. The Air Force had been given three tries. Two of them were flaming failures. But the Oct. 11 firing sent Pioneer I rifling out to 71,300 miles, farther than any other man-made object is known to have gone.

"If Wernher von Braun had put his satellite around the sun on the first try, after three Air Force failures to reach the moon, there would have been no living with him," he said.

The doctor was impressive in two news conference appearances in Washington. He answered questions in detail and at length, but if he felt any pleasure or disappointment he concealed it.

Von Braun thought a faulty adjustment on a fuel valve might have shortened the burning time of the first stage. This would have reduced the time of acceleration and thus cut top speed.

In Florida, Von Braun's military counterpart, Maj. Gen. John B. Medaris, said the failure to achieve planned velocity was caused primarily by a cutoff in burning of fuel three seconds too soon. At speeds around 24,000 m.p.h., three seconds can make a great difference in acceleration.

The space scientists calculated initially that Pioneer III probably would be in flight—going up and coming down—about 38 hours.

The three upper stages of the launching vehicle, consisting of clusters and individual units of Sergeant solid fuel rockets, apparently behaved as planned. But Pioneer III lacked the initial speed, a deficit which the upper stages couldn't correct.

The speed began dropping off steadily. Within four hours after launching, the probe's velocity was estimated as being down to about 7,800 m.p.h. A few hours later it had dropped to about 3,000 m.p.h.

The scientists thought that as it approached its peak the flight would be slowed to hundreds of miles an hour. Then, as it headed back toward earth, the speed would accelerate.

Ahead of the 13-pound, instrument-filled package in its descent was the earth's atmosphere, with its promise of friction-production heat that would consume it while still miles high in the sky.

COMMUNISM

Moscow Mounts New Offensive

The study, to be published here soon by the Latin-American news magazine Vision, pictures significant strides in a program financed by world Communist headquarters to the tune of more than 100 million dollars annually.

Primary targets are Argentina and Venezuela, the richest Latin-American nations, where there is already a considerable amount of anti-U.S. feeling. But no Latin-American nation is left out.

The immediate goal is to foster a spirit of neutralism between East and West blocs in the cold war and excite a thirst for increased trade with Communist nations. The long-range objective is to separate the Latin-American continent from U.S. influence.

"The separation is to be effected by means of a three-pronged attack," says Vision. "The first objective is to discredit the United States among labor leaders, businessmen and intellectuals. The second is to frighten away United States and European investment by fomenting labor unrest. The third is to attain a sufficiently strong position in the hemisphere's strategic industries to sabotage them, should Moscow give the order."

The movement is aided by the heat of intense nationalism, fanned by the notion that anticommunism somehow is related to U.S. domination. It is also helped by Soviet scientific successes, plus irritation over such Washington measures as the imposition of quotas on lead, zinc and oil and other items important to Latin-American economy.

The United States tries to plead the case of democracy and support those who fight communism, the study says, but it adds: "The task is difficult, due to the ever-present resentment in the hemisphere against U.S. 'intervention.' The most powerful enemy the Reds have to face is the growth of the Latin-American economy, fed by private and public investment from the United States and Europe, and by the widening scope of international trade. If this investment and trade can be based upon an enlightened concept of mutual interdependence of all Western Hemisphere nations, Moscow's current influence in the continent is bound to fade. Every advance of prosperity and political awareness means a retreat from communism in Latin America."

The study makes these findings:

All over Latin America, communism is concentrating on the restless labor movement. Despite efforts to combat the drive, it has picked up much strength since 1955. In that period three countries—Chile, Colombia and Venezuela — have legalized the Communist party. It now is lawful in 8 of the 20 Latin-American nations.

Moscow spends roughly 50 per cent more now than in 1955 in Latin America. The organization staff has been improved and works smoothly. Strategy is controlled totally from Moscow headquarters of the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee.

The centers for supply, coordination and direction are in two extraordinarily large Soviet embassies, in Mexico and Uruguay.

More money goes to Argentina and Venezuela than to any other area. More than 30 million dollars filtered into Argentina alone in 1957, or enough to cover almost the total annual expenses of the local party organization, whose various publishing and other ventures run into fat deficits. The Argentine party membership is approaching the 100,000 mark. In Venezuela it has 26,000 members.

The Communists have made significant progress inside the Argentine labor movement.

Strategy requires the Communists to lose themselves in the turbulence of the labor movement, turning its nationalist slogans to Moscow's advantage.

Soviet propaganda has made strides among the intellectuals.

Florida Gun Battle Fatal For Couple

BUNNELL, Fla. (AP) — Four men were shot, two fatally, in a Friday night gun battle believed to have erupted over labor differences at a Flagler Beach cement plant.

A fifth man was hit on the head apparently by a gun barrell during the wild exchange of fire at an abandoned airport between Bunnell and nearby Flagler Beach.

Investigators questioned him at length Saturday morning but were tight lipped about what they learned.

Sheriff Homer Brooks said the man, Sidney McCraney, about 31, of Bunnell, had been booked on a charge of suspicion of murder.

Asst. State Atty. H. T. Cook said he was "not at liberty to disclose what transpired this morning. We are continuing the investigation."

The men involved were reported to be drivers or former employes of Tropical Transport Co., which has a contract to haul cement for the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. at Flagler Beach.

The Teamsters Union established a picket line at plant entrances a week ago in what a union spokesman said was an effort to gain recognition. Some of the trucking company's drivers are union members.

The dead were identified as Howard Glisson of Flagler Beach and George Jones, about 30, who lived in a trailer at the old airport.

Alex Faircloth, 24, and Robert Drake, 26, both of Flagler Beach, were hospitalized. Faircloth was reported in critical condition from stomach wounds.

Mrs. Jones reported a man came to the door of the house trailer and asked for her husband. When he went to the door, shooting started. She said she did not know who shot first.

Jones, onetime employe at the cement plant, also was a former driver for Tropical. He had been working recently to build a union hall for Local 300 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum workers.

The airport caretaker, A. Knoblaugh, said there was a lot of noise about 10 p.m., but he told a reporter he did not investigate because he heard a lot of union men had been meeting there "and I didn't want to become involved."

A shotgun and two pistols were picked up at the shooting scene. One witness said the bodies of the dead were some distance from the Jones trailer.

There are about 219,800 miles of railway line in continental United States on a point to point basis. This figure does not include parallel tracks, nor yard tracks and sidings.

COMMUNISM

Moscow Mounts New Offensive

The study, to be published here soon by the Latin-American news magazine Vision, pictures significant strides in a program financed by world Communist headquarters to the tune of more than 100 million dollars annually.

Primary targets are Argentina and Venezuela, the richest Latin-American nations, where there is already a considerable amount of anti-U.S. feeling. But no Latin-American nation is left out.

The immediate goal is to foster a spirit of neutralism between East and West blocs in the cold war and excite a thirst for increased trade with Communist nations. The long-range objective is to separate the Latin-American continent from U.S. influence.

"The separation is to be effected by means of a three-pronged attack," says Vision. "The first objective is to discredit the United States among labor leaders, businessmen and intellectuals. The second is to frighten away United States and European investment by fomenting labor unrest. The third is to attain a sufficiently strong position in the hemisphere's strategic industries to sabotage them, should Moscow give the order."

The movement is aided by the heat of intense nationalism, fanned by the notion that anticommunism somehow is related to U.S. domination. It is also helped by Soviet scientific successes, plus irritation over such Washington measures as the imposition of quotas on lead, zinc and oil and other items important to Latin-American economy.

The United States tries to plead the case of democracy and support those who fight communism, the study says, but it adds: "The task is difficult, due to the ever-present resentment in the hemisphere against U.S. 'intervention.' The most powerful enemy the Reds have to face is the growth of the Latin-American economy, fed by private and public investment from the United States and Europe, and by the widening scope of international trade. If this investment and trade can be based upon an enlightened concept of mutual interdependence of all Western Hemisphere nations, Moscow's current influence in the continent is bound to fade. Every advance of prosperity and political awareness means a retreat from communism in Latin America."

The study makes these findings:

All over Latin America, communism is concentrating on the restless labor movement. Despite efforts to combat the drive, it has picked up much strength since 1955. In that period three countries—Chile, Colombia and Venezuela — have legalized the Communist party. It now is lawful in 8 of the 20 Latin-American nations.

Moscow spends roughly 50 per cent more now than in 1955 in Latin America. The organization staff has been improved and works smoothly. Strategy is controlled totally from Moscow headquarters of the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee.

The centers for supply, coordination and direction are in two extraordinarily large Soviet embassies, in Mexico and Uruguay.

More money goes to Argentina and Venezuela than to any other area. More than 30 million dollars filtered into Argentina alone in 1957, or enough to cover almost the total annual expenses of the local party organization, whose various publishing and other ventures run into fat deficits. The Argentine party membership is approaching the 100,000 mark. In Venezuela it has 26,000 members.

The Communists have made significant progress inside the Argentine labor movement.

Strategy requires the Communists to lose themselves in the turbulence of the labor movement, turning its nationalist slogans to Moscow's advantage.

Soviet propaganda has made strides among the intellectuals.

Florida Gun Battle Fatal For Couple

BUNNELL, Fla. (AP) — Four men were shot, two fatally, in a Friday night gun battle believed to have erupted over labor differences at a Flagler Beach cement plant.

A fifth man was hit on the head apparently by a gun barrell during the wild exchange of fire at an abandoned airport between Bunnell and nearby Flagler Beach.

Investigators questioned him at length Saturday morning but were tight - lipped about what they learned.

Sheriff Homer Brooks said the man, Sidney McCraney, about 31, of Bunnell, had been booked on a charge of suspicion of murder.

Asst. State Atty. H. T. Cook said he was "not at liberty to disclose what transpired this morning. We are continuing the investigation."

The men involved were reported to be drivers or former employes of Tropical Transport Co., which has a contract to haul cement for the Lehigh Portland Cement Co. at Flagler Beach.

The Teamsters Union established a picket line at plant entrances a week ago in what a union spokesman said was an effort to gain recognition. Some of the trucking company's drivers are union members.

The dead were identified as Howard Glisson of Flagler Beach and George Jones, about 30, who lived in a trailer at the old airport.

Alex Faircloth, 24, and Robert Drake, 26, both of Flagler Beach, were hospitalized. Faircloth was reported in critical condition from stomach wounds.

Mrs. Jones reported a man came to the door of the house trailer and asked for her husband. When he went to the door, shooting started. She said she did not know who shot first.

Jones, onetime employe at the cement plant, also was a former driver for Tropical. He had been working recently to build a union hall for Local 300 of the United Cement, Lime and Gypsum workers.

The airport caretaker, A. Knoblaugh, said there was a lot of noise about 10 p.m., but he told a reporter he did not investigate because he heard a lot of union men had been meeting there "and I didn't want to become involved."

A shotgun and two pistols were picked up at the shooting scene. One witness said the bodies of the dead were some distance from the Jones trailer.

Bunnell is 24 miles north of Daytona Beach.

There are about 219,800 miles of railway line in continental United States on a point to point basis. This figure does not include parallel tracks, nor yard tracks and sidings.

Gov. Faubus' Candidates Lead Rivals

to jail if necessary to retain it in defiance of federal courts.

A federal court order for gradual integration of the city school system hangs over the school board. Little Rock's four high schools—including all-Negro Horace Mann high—were closed by Faubus last Sept. 12 in a move to forestall integration. Many of the 3,700 white and Negro students displaced by the action have enrolled in private schools or have transferred to other school districts. Hundreds are just marking time.

Polls opened at 8 a.m. and closed at 6:30 p.m. CST.

Early voting was light—a sharp contrast to the heavy balloting in a Sept. 27 city referendum on integration - segregation. Segregationalist sentiment prevailed by a huge majority in the September voting.

The Little Rock School District has about 42,000 registered voters. Balloting in school board elections generally is light.

McKinley, the unopposed candidate, sought the place held by Rep.-elect Dale Alford. Alford, an outspoken segregationalist, defeated veteran Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) in the November general election.

Several months ago Alford proposed McKinley to fill the unexpired term of a school board member who resigned. Other members of the former school board rejected the proposal.

Five members of the former board—all except Alford—resigned in a body several weeks ago. They said the integration dispute had placed the board in an untenable position.

The current federal-state deadlock over integration here is the second major episode in the Little Rock crisis. Faubus blocked integration of Central High School in September 1957, by surrounding the school with a wall of armed state guardsmen.

Nine Negroes tried to enter the school but were barred by the soldiers. Faubus withdrew the guardsmen after a federal district court enjoined him from interfering with integration. A mob rioted at the school when the Negroes entered and they were withdrawn under police guard. Later they re-entered under federal troop protection and remained.

A federal district judge last summer ruled for a 2½-year suspension of integration at Central High but this decision was overturned by an appeals court and later by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Faubus closed the high schools the same day the Supreme Court ordered an immediate resumption of integration.

Dulles Ailing, In Hospital For Checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department announced Saturday night that Secretary John Foster Dulles has entered Walter Reed Army Hospital for a few days observation and treatment of an inflamatory condition of the lower colon.

Department press officer Lincoln White said X-ray and other examinations "revealed no evidence of any recurrence of the malignancy of two years ago."

Dulles entered Walter Reed Hospital Friday night after suffering "intestinal discomfort," White said. He added that Dulles had a mild degree of fever.

PLANS TRIP

White said Dulles planned to take things easy for a few days but still intended to go to Paris as scheduled next weekend for a meeting with the Western Allies on the Berlin crisis.

Following is the text of the statement White read reporters:

"The Secretary of State entered Walter Reed Hospital Friday evening for observation as a result of intestinal discomfort. The examination shows a mild degree of fever and he is remaining for a few days observation and treatment of an inflamatory condition of the lower colon.

"X-ray examination of the gastro-intestinal tract and other pertinent examinations revealed no evidence of any recurrence of the malignancy of two years ago."

White added that the secretary was on a bland diet and was being treated with intestinal antiseptics."

Chief Justice Takes Steps For Code Of Ethics

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Chief Justice John Fournet of the Louisiana Supreme Court said Saturday he had taken steps to put into effect a suggestion that a code of ethics for judges be adopted.

Th governors of the State Bar Assn. recommended Nov. 29 that Louisiana adopt a code of ethics.

Fournet said he already has asked the secretary of the bar association to assemble information on the subject for the court. He said he expected to present the proposal to the court this week.

Previously he had refused to comment on the code recommendation.

IN LOUISVILLE

Northeast Group At Southern Meet

Three representatives from Northeast State attended the three-day meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which held its sixty-third annual session in Louisville, Ky.

Among the association's various activities is the service which it renders as an accrediting agency for colleges, and secondary schools. Through the organization's study of Northeast State, the inst tution was fully accredied as a senior college in 1955.

The program at Louisville included general association meetings and conferences of commissions on colleges and universities, secondary schools and research and service, a cooperative program in elementary education, and meetings of affiliated groups.

President of the Association is Dr. Rutus C. Harris, president of Tulane University, who directed two of the three general sessions in addition to the business meeting. The association's president-elect, James R. Hawkins, who is principal of Harding High School, presided at the second general assembly.

Principal address at the opening convocation emphasized "Whose Values Shall Students Adopt?" The speaker was Dana L. Farnsworth, M.D., professor of hygiene at Harvard University. Featured at the second general session was an address on "A View of Russian Education in 1958" by Oliver J. Caldwell, assistant commissioner for international education, U.S. Office of Education.

EMPHASIS

During the session of the Commission on Colleges and Universities, emphasis was given to the commission program on institutional self-evaluation and periodic visitations.

Discussion groups of the Commission on Secondary Schools emphasized such pertinent subjects as what can be done in these schools to improve science education while maintaining sound curriculum balance, counseling services, and developments in content and teaching of mathematics which are relevant to the secondary program. Paul Marionneaux, supervisor of high schools, Louisiana State Department of Education, chairmaned the last program.

The secondary group also considered the problem: What balance between liberal arts education and professional training should be sought for teachers. Other questions discussed in groups pretained to effective administrative practices in organizing programs for academically gifted children, factors to be considered in determining maximum and minimum standards for class size, and the problem of schools meeting needs of American youth while insisting on quality performance. Dr. L. L. Fulmer, of the Louisiana State University education faculty, was chairman of the section which considered the last question.

Affiliated groups holding sessions during the Southern Association were: Conference of Academic Deans, Association of Junior Colleges, College and University Registrars, Church Related Colleges, Colleges for Women, Public Institutions for Higher Learning, Council on Teacher Education, Association of Independent Schools, Council for Small Schools, and various associations of denominational colleges.

Unless you are a welfare worker or otherwise brought into close contact with the people aided each Christmas by Good Fellows, it is difficult to understand how such anxiety and need and poverty can exist in our very own community.

LETTERS

The letters received by Good Fellows throw a good light on the plight of so many of our own people.

This one for instance:

"Dear Mr. Good Fellows:

"I am writing you for my two boys. They would love to have a bag of groceries for Christmas. We are on the welfare and we just have a little check to live on, so you know we don't have any money to buy anything for Christmas. The boys are 12 years old and would appreciate anything you can give them."

"Dear Good Fellows:

"I am the mother of four children, a girl eight, boy six, girl five, and boy three. My husband has been sick and still has kidney trouble. He has been without a job almost a month, and without your help, these children will have no Christmas. We will appreciate anything you do to help. Thank you very much and God bless you!"

There are many lonely people in our midst at Christmas time. For instance again:

"Dear Good Fellows:

"I would appreciate any help I could get. I'm a widow on the old age pension. I have to buy so much medicine that I don't have any money left and I will not have any Christmas unless someone helps me."

Another letter comes from a lonely soul:

"I am on the old age pension. My husband is dead and I am all alone. The little money I get does not go very far. I am sick and it takes most all my money for medicine. I have a leg ailment and bed-ridden most all the time. I need food and a pair of shoes for Christmas.

"I will sincerely appreciate anything you can do for me this Christmas."

Deaths

STEVE MANLEY

COLUMBIA (Special) — Services for Steve Manley, 73, of Columbia, will be held at 9:30 this morning from Riser and Son Funeral chapel conducted by the Revs. Jerry Greene and Kenneth Lukens.

The deceased expired Friday in a Monroe hospital after a long illness. Burial will be in Columbia Cemetery by Riser and Son.

U.S. Envoy Departs For Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Secretary of State William M. Rountree left Saturday for the troubled Middle East where American officials fear that Russia is about to grab a first mortgage on the economy of another Arab country.

One of the stops on Rountree's two-week fact-finding tour will be in Iraq, where the Russians have started supplying military aid to the revolutionary government of Premier Abdul Karim Kassem.

American officials were worried because they have been unable to learn any details of the transaction, although they say it appears to be a big one. They are concerned lest it result in the sort of arrangement under which Egypt and Syria, the two states forming the United Arab Republic, have mortgaged their future for years ahead to get Red Arms and the technicians.

CONFER WITH NASSER

Rountree, the State Department's top official on Middle East affairs, also will visit Lebanon, Israel, Jordan, Greece and the UAR, where he expects to confer with President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He is due back in Washington to report to Dulles shortly before Christmas.

Officials said that in Iraq Rountree hopes to meet General Kassem, who had headed that country's government since the brief but bloody July 14 revolt. It was this successful rebellion which prompted President Eisenhower to send American military forces into neighboring Lebanon to head off a threatened revolt there.

The United States has tried for more than four months to find out whether Kassem wants to continue receiving American military aid under the agreement made with the previous regime. American officials also have asked if he intends to keep Iraq in the Baghdad Pact, whose other members are Britain, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran.

So far they have been unable to get any clear answer but they see some ominous indications.

The Soviet arms deal and Iraq's action in other matters have virtually convinced many American officials that the country is headed for domination by Russia, despite Kassem's avowed desire to remain neutral. The Iraqi premier last month ordered the United States, Britain, Turkey and Iran to close their consulates at Kirkuk in the heart of Iraq's oil producing area near the Russian border.

Kassem has resisted demands among pro - nasser elements in Iraq that he tie the country in closer with Egypt and Syria, but he has had to accept increasingly the support of Iraqi Communists who have been his principal backers in standing firm against the UAR pressure.

HAVE FAITH — Many hearts in our community are heavy at this season of the year when the atmosphere sparkles with the tingling of good cheer. Many people see no happiness for this Christmas unless the Good Fellows fill the role of Santa Claus. Good Fellows can not do this without your contributions, and many, like this grandmother and grandchild, will have a bleak December 25 morn unless you help. (Staff Photo by Bill Coleman)

ON ATTACK ANNIVERSARY

Admiral Recalls Japs' Sneak Raid

That curt alert from Adm. Logan G. Ramsey, then a commander, to his radio operator was the message that announced to the world that Japan had attacked Pearl Harbor.

He was called to duty 7:20 a.m. that Sunday 17 years ago by a report a Navy plane and a destroyer had sunk a Japanese submarine off Oahu.

"At first I thought it might have been a drill message," he said. "I got up and dressed in slacks and a tan 'aloha' shirt with a picture of a pineapple on the pocket. That was the uniform I wore for the first three days of the war."

At his station at Ford Island Naval Air Station, he watched an airplane fly toward him, contrary to the accepted flight plan for landing. He thought a fly-happy pilot ws about to buzz the field. He called an assistant to get the plane's number.

Seconds later, a bone-jarring explosion shook the building, a flash of flame reddened the sky. Ramsey ordered the warning message sent.

"The next 30 minutes were hectic ones," he said. "We saw the Arizona sink, the Oklahoma capsize and the Nevada steaming under attack until her captain beached her rather than sink in the entrance channel.

"We had a panoramic view that was just too big to describe."

He didn't get home until 11 p.m. that day. A chunk of the Arizona had fallen through his roof. His wife and daughter had reached a temprary bomb shelter 100 yards from the house.

Mrs. Ramsey was halfway to the shelter when a Japanese plane buzzed overhead.

"She hid behind a bush," said the retired admiral. "She told me later the plane was so low she could see the Jap pilot grinning at her from the cockpit."

"Another Pearl Harbor can happen anytime," he said. "It's more likely to happen now than it was in 1941 because of the greater range of modern weapons."

Integration School Plan Under Study

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Four of seven Delaware school boards and the State Board of Education met for more than six hours Saturday to start working on a plan for integration of public schools.

The meeting was the first step in the state board's compliance with the Nov. 19 order of U.S. Dist. Judge Caleb R. Layton III to provide an integration plan within 35 days.

The seven boards were defendants in a federal court integration suit filed in May 1956.

The integration problem was considered from the point of view of what grade integration might be initiated, Dr. George R. Miller Jr., superintendent of the state board said.

He said representatives of the boards favored a gradual plan. The school officials considered the basic problems to be the attitude of their respective communities and the lack of room in the schools, Dr. Miller said.

"The state will have something for the court deadline," he went on, "but I can't be sure if it would be acceptable to all seven schools."

The Clayton, Milford, Milton and John M. Clayton schools met with the state board. Greenwood, Laurel and Seaford schools were not present. The Shelbyville board — not a defendant — sent an observer to the closed meeting.

The United States and its western allies have been careful not to exert too much pressure of their own lest this result in pushing Kassem more rapidly into the UAR or Soviet camps.

Most of Iraq's foreign trade still is with the West, which provides the market for Iraq's large petroleum production. Kassem has said he wants to maintain true neutrality and continue this lucrative western trade. But officials here fear that he may not be able to remain independent in the face of Communist pressure at home and the maneuvers of the Russians.

Area Parishes Attract Industry

Investment figures involved in the new industries may not be large by customary big city standards, but according to Siegelin, they are very significant.

"We find working with these areas—where the smallest type manufacturing unit means so much to the economy—as exciting as seeing another multi - million dollar plant locate along the Mississippi river," Siegelin said.

In neighboring Bienville parish, a new fish hatchery will result from a $350,000 investment—more than has been invested for industry in the parish during the past 12 years.

Delhi is floating a bond issue for a $220,000 fiberglass boat plant which will put 50 persons on a company payroll.

Johns was working at the State police weighing station on U.S. 80 East of Monroe and said:

"They stopped at the station and asked highway clearance to Vicksburg." Jones was driving a late model Ford and left in a hurry", Johns said.

Johns had the highway cleared into Vicksburg.

A check with hospitals in Vicksburg at 7:45 and 9 o'clock last night produced no record of the Harrells and their daughter.

By this time Johns said he figured something must be wrong.

The exact condition of the little girl could not be verified and some officials became concerned about the safety of the group.

At 10:10 p.m., C. W. Sorey, Rayville, said he knew that the Harrells had left there about 8:30 for San Antonio.

"They came back here and packed and said they had to get to the hospital in a hurry. I was at their house when they left.

Sorey is a member of Harrell's church.

He said that the little girl seemed paralyzed all over except for one arm and her neck.

"They said she didn't have fever when they left", Sorey said.

Windows Broken In Postoffice

FLINT, Mich. (AP)—Wiliam A. Stevens was arrested on a charge of destroying government property after 16 windows in the Flint Post Office were smashed with pieces of steel pipe Friday.

Acting Postmaster Charles Pratt said Stevens, 34, of New York, had told him: "I don't like the government."

WORLD WATCHES INTENTLY

West Berliners March To Polls

BERLIN (AP)—West Berliners hold a city election Sunday, watched intently by the world. For the real issue is the Soviet plan to convert West Berlin into an unarmed, "free city."

Communist East Germans and West Germans, too, call the voting for municipal offices a plebiscite on Premier Nikita Khrushchev's scheme to get U. S., British, and French troops out of the old German capital.

Mayor Willy Brandt has called on the voters to send a thundering "No" to the Kremlin by defeating every Communist candidate for office. He calls the Soviet plan a device to suck West Berlin into the Communist orbit.

Khrushchev himself has said his plan has no chance "unless the people want it."

Ranged against forceful Mayor Brandt, 44, and other pro-Western candidates for West Berlin's 133-seat Parliament are Communist candidates and the propaganda machine of East Germany and the Soviet Union.

Powerful as that machine is, the Communists have never elected a member of Parliament since Berlin was divided in 1948. Few expect the Communists to make much of a showing this time.

But the Communists have spared no effort to persuade West Berliners that their life will be better if the Western Allies get out. The East German press is depicting the Allied soldiers, especially the Americans, as drunken bums enjoying high living—at the expense of the West Berlin taxpayers—and West Berlin frauleins.

The Communists have sent East German agitators into West Berlin to make trouble and deface campaign posters of pro-Western parties. About 180 Communists—most of them from the East—were arrested by West Berlin police Friday night. They were released Saturday.

The arrests came as Brandt, leader of West Berlin's anti-Communist Socialist Party, and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer were winding up their election campaigns.

Brandt's Socialists traditionally win elections in West Berlin. But because of the Communist threat, they have joined hands with Adenauer's Christian Democrats in the past and ruled the city with a coalition government.

The current campaign has been so hot that friendly relations between the local branches of the two parties have been strained.

Brandt was conspicuously absent today when Adenauer boarded a U. S. Air Force plane at Templehof Airport for the trip back to West Germany.

Local political issues have been completely overshadowed by the Communist threat to the city.

Both Brandt and Adenauer have been depicted in the Communist press as U. S. stooges. Fake photos show them wearing U. S. Army helmets.

Speaking at a news conference, Brandt again said the election will be a plebiscite on the Soviet plan.

"In the East and in the West," Brandt said, "the number of Communist votes will be taken as an indicator of how many West Berliners vote for the Soviet proposal in a free election."

West Berlin's Independent BZ said in an editorial:

"Tomorrow the world will be watching us. In all capitals, in all ministries, in all editorial offices, they want to know what answer we will give Khrushchev. The world will see that we want to remain free."

The Communists' campaign has been so intensive that for the first time since 1933, when Hitler drove them underground, they used West Berlin's mammoth Sportpalast for a campaign rally.

Gov. Faubus' Candidates Lead Rivals

to jail if necessary to retain it in defiance of federal courts.

A federal court order for gradual integration of the city school system hangs over the school board. Little Rock's four high schools—including all-Negro Horace Mann high—were closed by Faubus last Sept. 12 in a move to forestall integration. Many of the 3,700 white and Negro students displaced by the action have enrolled in private schools or have transferred to other school districts. Hundreds are just marking time.

Polls opened at 8 a.m. and closed at 6:30 p.m. CST.

Early voting was light—a sharp contrast to the heavy balloting in a Sept. 27 city referendum on integration - segregation. Segregationalist sentiment prevailed by a huge majority in the September voting.

The Little Rock School District has about 42,000 registered voters. Balloting in school board elections generally is light.

McKinley, the unopposed candidate, sought the place held by Rep.-elect Dale Alford. Alford, an outspoken segregationalist, defeated veteran Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) in the November general election.

Several months ago Alford proposed McKinley to fill the unexpired term of a school board member who resigned. Other members of the former school board rejected the proposal.

Five members of the former board—all except Alford—resigned in a body several weeks ago. They said the integration dispute had placed the board in an untenable position.

The current federal-state deadlock over integration here is the second major episode in the Little Rock crisis. Faubus blocked integration of Central High School in September 1957, by surrounding the school with a wall of armed state guardsmen.

Nine Negroes tried to enter the school but were barred by the soldiers. Faubus withdrew the guardsmen after a federal district court enjoined him from interfering with integration. A mob rioted at the school when the Negroes entered and they were withdrawn under police guard. Later they re-entered under federal troop protection and remained.

A federal district judge last summer ruled for a 2½-year suspension of integration at Central High but this decision was overturned by an appeals court and later by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Faubus closed the high schools the same day the Supreme Court ordered an immediate resumption of integration.

Dulles Ailing, In Hospital For Checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department announced Saturday night that Secretary John Foster Dulles has entered Walter Reed Army Hospital for a few days observation and treatment of an inflamatory condition of the lower colon.

Department press officer Lincoln White said X-ray and other examinations "revealed no evidence of any recurrence of the malignancy of two years ago."

Dulles entered Walter Reed Hospital Friday night after suffering "intestinal discomfort," White said. He added that Dulles had a mild degree of fever.

PLANS TRIP

White said Dulles planned to take things easy for a few days but still intended to go to Paris as scheduled next weekend for a meeting with the Western Allies on the Berlin crisis.

Following is the text of the statement White read reporters:

"The Secretary of State entered Walter Reed Hospital Friday evening for observation as a result of intestinal discomfort. The examination shows a mild degree of fever and he is remaining for a few days observation and treatment of an inflamatory condition of the lower colon.

"X-ray examination of the gastro-intestinal tract and other pertinent examinations revealed no evidence of any recurrence of the malignancy of two years ago."

White added that the secretary was on a bland diet and was being treated with intestinal antiseptics."

Chief Justice Takes Steps For Code Of Ethics

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Chief Justice John Fournet of the Louisiana Supreme Court said Saturday he had taken steps to put into effect a suggestion that a code of ethics for judges be adopted.

Th governors of the State Bar Assn. recommended Nov. 29 that Louisiana adopt a code of ethics.

Fournet said he already has asked the secretary of the bar association to assemble information on the subject for the court. He said he expected to present the proposal to the court this week.

Previously he had refused to comment on the code recommendation.

IN LOUISVILLE

Northeast Group At Southern Meet

Three representatives from Northeast State attended the three-day meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which held its sixty-third annual session in Louisville, Ky.

Among the association's various activities is the service which it renders as an accrediting agency for colleges, and secondary schools. Through the organization's study of Northeast State, the institution was fully accredied as a senior college in 1955.

The program at Louisville included general association meetings and conferences of commissions on colleges and universities, secondary schools and research and service, a cooperative program in elementary education, and meetings of affiliated groups.

President of the Association is Dr. Rufus C. Harris, president of Tulane University, who directed two of the three general sessions in addition to the business meeting. The association's president-elect, James R. Hawkins, who is principal of Harding High School, presided at the second general assembly.

Principal address at the opening convocation emphasized "Whose Values Shall Students Adopt?" The speaker was Dana L. Farnsworth, M.D., professor of hygiene at Harvard University. Featured at the second general session was an address on "A View of Russian Education in 1958" by Oliver J. Caldwell, assistant commissioner for international education, U.S. Office of Education.

EMPHASIS

During the session of the Commission on Colleges and Universities, emphasis was given to the commission program on institutional self-evaluation and periodic visitations.

Discussion groups of the Commission on Secondary Schools emphasized such pertinent subjects as what can be done in these schools to improve science education while maintaining sound curriculum balance, counseling services, and developments in content and teaching of mathematics which are relevant to the secondary program. Paul Marionneaux, supervisor of high schools, Louisiana State Department of Education, chairmaned the last program.

The secondary group also considered the problem: What balance between liberal arts education and professional training should be sought for teachers. Other questions discussed in groups pertained to effective administrative practices in organizing programs for academically gifted children, factors to be considered in determining maximum and minimum standards for class size, and the problem of schools meeting needs of American youth while insisting on quality performance. Dr. L. L. Fulmer, of the Louisiana State University education faculty, was chairman of the section which considered the last question.

Affiliated groups holding sessions during the Southern Association were: Conference of Academic Deans, Association of Junior Colleges, College and University Registrars, Church Related Colleges, Colleges for Women, Public Institutions for Higher Learning, Council on Teacher Education, Association of Independent Schools, Council for Small Schools, and various associations of denominational colleges.

Unless you are a welfare worker or otherwise brought into close contact with the people aided each Christmas by Good Fellows, it is difficult to understand how such anxiety and need and poverty can exist in our very own community.

LETTERS

The letters received by Good Fellows throw a good light on the plight of so many of our own people.

This one for instance:

"Dear Mr. Good Fellows:

"I am writing you for my two boys. They would love to have a bag of groceries for Christmas. We are on the we'fare and we just have a little check to live on, so you know we don't have any money to buy anything for Christmas. The boys are 12 years old and would appreciate anything you can give them."

"Dear Good Fellows:

"I am the mother of four children, a girl eight, boy six, girl five, and boy three. My husband has been sick and still has kidney trouble. He has been without a job almost a month, and without your help, these children will have no Christmas. We will appreciate anything you do to help. Thank you very much and God bless you!"

There are many lonely people in our midst at Christmas time. For instance again:

"Dear Good Fellows:

"I would appreciate any help I could get. I'm a widow on the old age pension. I have to buy so much medicine that I don't have any money left and I will not have any Christmas unless someone helps me."

Another letter comes from a lonely soul:

"I am on the old age pension. My husband is dead and I am all alone. The little money I get does not go very far. I am sick and it takes most all my money for medicine. I have a leg ailment and bed-ridden most all the time. I need food and a pair of shoes for Christmas.

"I will sincerely appreciate anything you can do for me this Christmas."

The deceased expired Friday in a Monroe hospital after a long illness. Burial will be in Columbia Cemetery by Riser and Son.

U.S. Envoy Departs For Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Assistant Secretary of State William M. Rountree left Saturday for the troubled Middle East where American officials fear that Russia is about to grab a first mortgage on the economy of another Arab country.

One of the stops on Rountree's two-week fact-finding tour will be in Iraq, where the Russians have started supplying military aid to the revolutionary government of Premier Abdul Karim Kassem.

American officials were worried because they have been unable to learn any details of the transaction, although they say it appears to be a big one. They are concerned lest it result in the sort of arrangement under which Egypt and Syria, the two states forming the United Arab Republic, have mortgaged their future for years ahead to get Red Arms and the technicians.

CONFER WITH NASSER

Rountree, the State Department's top official on Middle East affairs, also will visit Lebanon, Israel, Jordan, Greece and the UAR, where he expects to confer with President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He is due back in Washington to report to Dulles shortly before Christmas.

Officials said that in Iraq Rountree hopes to meet General Kassem, who had headed that country's government since the brief but bloody July 14 revolt. It was this successful rebellion which prompted President Eisenhower to send American military forces into neighboring Lebanon to head off a threatened revolt there.

The United States has tried for more than four months to find out whether Kassem wants to continue receiving American military aid under the agreement made with the previous regime. American officials also have asked if he intends to keep Iraq in the Baghdad Pact, whose other members are Britain, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran.

So far they have been unable to get any clear answer but they see some ominous indications.

The Soviet arms deal and Iraq's action in other matters have virtually convinced many American officials that the country is headed for domination by Russia, despite Kassem's avowed desire to remain neutral. The Iraqi premier last month ordered the United States, Britain, Turkey and Iran to close their consulates at Kirkuk in the heart of Iraq's oil producing area near the Russian border.

Kassem has resisted demands among pro - nasser elements in Iraq that he tie the country in closer with Egypt and Syria, but he has had to accept increasingly the support of Iraqi Communists who have been his principal backers in standing firm against the UAR pressure. The United States and its western allies have been careful not to exert too much pressure of their own lest this result in pushing Kassem more rapidly into the UAR or Soviet camps.

Most of Iraq's foreign trade still is with the West, which provides the market for Iraq's large petroleum production. Kassem has said he wants to maintain true neutrality and continue this lucrative western trade. But officials here fear that he may not be able to remain independent in the face of Communist pressure at home and the maneuvers of the Russians.

HAVE FAITH — Many hearts in our community are heavy at this season of the year when the atmosphere sparkles with the tingling of good cheer. Many people see no happiness for this Christmas unless the Good Fellows fill the role of Santa Claus. Good Fellows can not do this without your contributions, and many, like this grandmother and grandchild, will have a bleak December 25 morn unless you help. (Staff Photo by Bill Coleman)

ON ATTACK ANNIVERSARY

Admiral Recalls Japs' Sneak Raid

That curt alert from Adm. Logan G. Ramsey, then a commander, to his radio operator was the message that announced to the world that Japan had attacked Pearl Harbor.

He was called to duty 7:20 a.m. that Sunday 17 years ago by a report a Navy plane and a destroyer had sunk a Japanese submarine off Oahu.

"At first I thought it might have been a drill message," he said. "I got up and dressed in slacks and a tan 'aloha' shirt with a picture of a pineapple on the pocket. That was the uniform I wore for the first three days of the war."

At his station at Ford Island Naval Air Station, he watched an airplane fly toward him, contrary to the accepted flight plan for landing. He thought a fly-happy pilot ws about to buzz the field. He called an assistant to get the plane's number.

Seconds later, a bone-jarring explosion shook the building, a flash of flame reddened the sky. Ramsey ordered the warning message sent.

"The next 30 minutes were hectic ones," he said. "We saw the Arizona sink, the Oklahoma capsize and the Nevada steaming under attack until her captain beached her rather than sink in the entrance channel.

"We had a panoramic view that was just too big to describe."

He didn't get home until 11 p.m. that day. A chunk of the Arizona had fallen through his roof. His wife and daughter had reached a temprary bomb shelter 100 yards from the house.

Mrs. Ramsey was halfway to the shelter when a Japanese plane buzzed overhead.

"She hid behind a bush," said the retired admiral. "She told me later the plane was so low she could see the Jap pilot grinning at her from the cockpit."

"Another Pearl Harbor can happen anytime," he said. "It's more likely to happen now than it was in 1941 because of the greater range of modern weapons."

Integration School Plan Under Study

DOVER, Del. (AP) — Four of seven Delaware school boards and the State Board of Education met for more than six hours Saturday to start working on a plan for integration of public schools.

The meeting was the first step in the state board's compliance with the Nov. 19 order of U.S. Dist. Judge Caleb R. Layton III to provide an integration plan within 35 days.

The seven boards were defendants in a federal court integration suit filed in May 1956.

The integration problem was considered from the point of view of what grade integration might be initiated, Dr. George R. Miller Jr., superintendent of the state board said.

He said representatives of the boards favored a gradual plan. The school officials considered the basic problems to be the attitude of their respective communities and the lack of room in the schools, Dr. Miller said.

"The state will have something for the court deadline," he went on, "but I can't be sure if it would be acceptable to all seven schools."

The Clayton, Milford, Milton and John M. Clayton schools met with the state board. Greenwood, Laurel and Seaford schools were not present. The Shelbyville board — not a defendant — sent an observer to the closed meeting.

Area Parishes Attract Industry

dustries, the commerce department concludes.

Investment figures involved in the new industries may not be large by customary big city standards, but according to Siegelin, they are very significant.

"We find working with these areas—where the smallest type manufacturing unit means so much to the economy—as exciting as seeing another multi - million dollar plant locate along the Mississippi river," Siegelin said.

In neighboring Bienville parish, a new fish hatchery will result from a $350,000 investment—more than has been invested for industry in the parish during the past 12 years.

TEMPERANCE

Ladies Of WCTU May Bow Heads, But Never Despair

By WILLIAM CONWAY

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Against the bubbling tide of liquor, wine and beer the ladies of the WCTU bow their heads in prayer but never in despair.

They have been fighting the flood for 84 years. They haven't stopped it. But it hasn't stopped them either.

The best and worst entries on the current wet-dry balance sheet, as the Women's Christian Temperance Union sees it, are these:

There is a growing percentage of nondrinkers in the U.S. population. But the drinkers are drinking more.

WCTU members, who have lifetime passes on the water wagon, now are bending their chef efforts to persuade others to climb aboard.

On the front section stands a venerable frame house that once was the home of Frances Willard—in death, as in life, the guiding, inspiring spirit of the organization.

A staff of 35 to 40 works at the headquarters. They handle correspondence and business details and send out books, 16mm films and pamphlets with such titles as "Alcohol at the Wheel" and "Beverage Alcohol and the Brain."

At noon each day a gong sounds and staff members pause for a minute of silent prayer.

Mrs. Glenn G. Hays, the president, occupies an office with a plain-but-polished look. The austerity is relieved only by flowered cretonne draperies at the windows.

"I picked them up at a bargain counter," Mrs. Hays says.

Mrs. Hays resembles none of the others, some of whom ran to dowager dimensions. She's a trim woman who seems much younger than her 63 years. Her light brown hair is parted in the center and drawn back in soft waves. Her eyes are blue and friendly.

Once a teacher, she could be taken now for a high school principal—a principal who would suspend afternoon classes on the opening day of the local baseball season. She is not so lenient about alcohol.

WCTU gal 2 advance for Dec. 7

The trend of consumption has been upward since repeal, she says, U.S. drinking, once limited to late afternoon and evening, has gained many lunch-hour practitioners.

"No, we're not discouraged," Mrs. Hays says. "If we got discouraged, we would have been couraged long before this."

"Our only hope is that people will begin to think about it (the alcohol problem)," she says, "and people are beginning to think about it."

Mrs. Hays says there now is "a larger ratio of nondrinkers." The WCTU has no statistics of its own to support that opinion, but says it is based on Gallup polls showing 45 per cent of those covered. are abstainers compared with 33 per cent 10 years ago.

She cited the preaching of safety experts, the persuasion of Alcoholics Anonymous, the quiet work of church temperance boards.

The wet-dry coin has two sides.

The WCTU says 865 of the nation's 3,068 counties outlaw hard liquor and 525 prohibit beer.

"Nearly 2,000 communities rated as cities," it adds, "are currently dry, banning liquor, wine and beer alike."

Local WCTU groups work for their cause in local option elections. They have played a role in dry gulching a sizable segment of the nation's citizenry. The WCTU says about 25 million people—one seventh of the population—live in areas which han hard liquor.

The saloon was the first target of women crusaders. They marched into barrooms in 1873, prayed, sang hymns and importuned saloon keepers to close up shop.

The WCTU was organized in November 1874 in Cleveland, Ohio, and it soon began to go places, figuratively and literally. Frances Willard, the second president (1879-1898), logged 30,600 miles in just one year, 1883.

The WCTU has had its ups and downs since then. The eyes of the ladies saw the glory (from their viewpoint) of prohibition Jan. 16, 1920, and beheld the dark deluge of repeal Dec. 5, 1933.

Mrs. Hays estimates the current membership at about 250,000 to 300,000. It was around 400,000 in 1944.

The average member, in her word sketch, is in her 40s or 50s, comes from a teetotaling family, is active in church and civic affairs and is most likely to live in a small town or medium-sized city.

Mrs. Hays fits that pattern fairly well. She's a native of Ransom, Kan., a tiny community in the wheat and cattle country 60 miles north of Dodge City. She and her husband, now retired, spend part of their time there in a white cottage with green shutters.

Her parents were temperance

Mrs. Hays, who has been president for five years, received a salary of $3,200 a year. That's the top pay item in a budget of $100,000 a year derived from dues and bequests. The WCTU also maintains an office, with a registered lobbyist, Miss Elizabeth A. Smart, in Washington.

The 25th anniversary of repeal Friday found the WCTU still in there making its pitch—in Mrs. Hays' words: "Prevention of alcoholism and related problems through abstinence."

Does Mrs. Hays think prohibition ever again will put the nation in dry-dock?

"It's beyond my lifetime," she says, "but there is a possibility."

NEW ORLEANS REPORTS

Gamblers Dropping Secrecy Pretense

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gamblers in Louisiana are removing all pretense of secrecy from their operations, the New Orleans States and Item said Saturday.

The afternoon newspaper published pictures it said showed gambling activities at O'Dwyers, an establishment in adjoining Jefferson Parish.

Gamblers, the newspaper said, have "the reported assurance there won't be any interference by law enforcement officers during the remainder of Gov. Earl K. Long's administration."

Long was reported away from the mansion at Baton Rouge and unavailable for comment.

The States-Item cited several factors it said bare out the report. They were:

"Spot checks of known gambling dens, increased open usage of slot machines, the changing of public attitude of state police Supt. John Nick Brown and federal gambling records."

"Slot machines, dice and blackjack tables are being hauled from the back rooms out front," the States-Item said, "as gamblers remove even the pretense of secrecy."

Gamblers reportedly have been told, the newspaper said, they are "home free" during the next 18 months.

Criticism of gambling operations in Jefferson has come from several sources, including newspaper, a women's organization, and civic groups. Much of the criticism has been aimed at Sheriff William Coci.

Brown has said anti-gambling law enforcement is Coci's responsibility, but has issued several edits against non-enforcement.

Brown said in January, 1957, "I'll have them (gamblers) closed whenever I hear of them, if I can

The States-Item said Brown "has done little to put his words into action, seems to go along with the idea."

U.S. Seeking To Bar Steel Firms' Deals

NEW YORK (AP)—The government asked Saturday for a perpetual injunction against any acquisitions by Bethlehem Steel Co. and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. that might lessen competition within the steel industry.

U. S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfeld ruled Nov. 20 against a proposed Bethlehem - Youngstown merger on the ground there was a reasonable probability it would violate the Clayton Antitrust Act, lessen competition, and ten toward monopoly.

The request for the injunction against acquisitions came in a government draft of a final decree that would prohibit the merger.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Gen. Allen A. Dobey presented the draft to Weinfeld in U. S. Dist. court. Attorneys for the companies objected to the proposal, asserting it would place an unjustified burden on the companies.

Weinfeld directed both sides to confer on a new draft settling differences between them. Dobey said he hoped a conference could take place this week.

Under provisions suggested by Dobey, each company would be required to demonstrate in court prior to any acquisition that it would not violate the Clayton Act.

Bruce Bromley, counsel for Bethlehem, said this would make the companies "second-class citizens."

"It would be a completely unjustified burden that we must come to court every time we buy some pipe from U. S. Steel," he said.

Whitney North Seymour, representing Youngstown, said a perpetual injunction would prevent the company from engaging in the most routine business transaction.

No Rise Likely Soon In Prices Of Furnishings

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Housewives, you've got a lucky break coming next year, prices of household furnishings are expected to rise little, if at all.

Take the word of Mrs. Celia Hissong, Louisiana State University extension specialist.

While there is an increased demand for household items, she said Saturday, the country is experiencing a decrease in the formation of new households and a drop in marriage rates, which means a sales boom is unlikely.

Heavy Damages Are Chalked Up By Earth Shocks

GUATEMALA (AP) — Seventy-five earth shocks were recorded here in a 24-hour period up to 7 a.m. Saturday, some of them strong enough to damage old and weak buildings. Several persons were injured.

The shocks created widespread alarm among residents of an area within a 15-mile radius of this capital. Hundreds of persons deserted their homes during the night and slept in automobiles or parks.

Authorities took special precautions to guard prisoners after the walls of the central penitentiary had been damaged.

The government ordered office workers home Saturday and closed movie houses and other places of amusement until further notice. A large number of business establishments closed voluntarily. Government officials recommended that church services Sunday be held in the open air.

The capital's observatory reported that the shocks' epicenter was in the vicinity of Lake Amitlan, about 10 miles from the capital.

Some industrial workers can endure temperatures up to 500 degress Fahrenheit for two or three minutes at a time.

TEMPERANCE

Ladies Of WCTU May Bow Heads, But Never Despair

By WILLIAM CONWAY

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Against the bubbling tide of liquor, wine and beer the ladies of the WCTU bow their heads in prayer but never in despair.

They have been fighting the flood for 84 years. They haven't stopped it. But it hasn't stopped them either.

The best and worst entries on the current wet-dry balance sheet, as the Women's Christian Temperance Union sees it, are these:

There is a growing percentage of nondrinkers in the U.S. population. But the drinkers are drinking more.

WCTU members, who have lifetime passes on the water wagon, now are bending their chef efforts to persuade others to climb aboard.

On the front section stands a venerable frame house that once was the home of Frances Willard —in death, as in life, the guiding, inspiring spirit of the organization.

A staff of 35 to 40 works at the headquarters. They handle correspondence and business details and send out books, 16mm films and pamphlets with such titles as "Alcohol at the Wheel" and "Beverage Alcohol and the Brain."

At noon each day a gong sounds and staff members pause for a minute of silent prayer.

Mrs. Glenn G. Hays, the president, occupies an office with a plain-but-polished look. The austerity is relieved only by flowered cretonne draperies at the windows.

"I picked them up at a bargain counter," Mrs. Hays says.

Mrs. Hays resembles none of the others, some of whom ran to dowager dimensions. She's a trim woman who seems much younger than her 63 years. Her light brown hair is parted in the center and drawn back in soft waves. Her eyes are blue and friendly.

Once a teacher, she could be taken now for a high school principal—a principal who would suspend afternoon classes on the opening day of the local baseball season. She is not so lenient about alcohol.

WCTU gal 2 advance for Dec. 7

The trend of consumption has been upward since repeal, she says, U.S. drinking, once limited to late afternoon and evening, has gained many lunch-hour practitioners.

"No, we're not discouraged," Mrs. Hays says. "If we got discouraged, we would have been couraged long before this."

"Our only hope is that people will begin to think about it (the alcohol problem)," she says, "and people are beginning to think about it."

Mrs. Hays says there now is "a larger ratio of nondrinkers." The WCTU has no statistics of its own to support that opinion, but says it is based on Gallup polls showing 45 per cent of those covered are abstainers compared with 33 per cent 10 years ago.

She cited the preaching of safety experts, the persuasion of Alcoholics Anonymous, the quiet work of church temperance boards.

The wet-dry coin has two sides.

The WCTU says 865 of the nation's 3,068 counties outlaw hard liquor and 525 prohibit beer.

"Nearly 2,000 communities rated as cities," it adds, "are currently dry, banning liquor, wine and beer alike."

Japs Ignore Sneak Attack Anniversary

TOKYO (UPI)— Japan will let one of histoy's most infamous anniversaries slip by virtually unnoticed Sunday — the attack on Pearl Harbor 17 years ago. But its memory remains and there are many to defend it.

For Americans, it came with a sneak attack on the sleepy Sunday morning of Dec. 7, 1941. For Japanese across the International Dateline it occurred in the predawn hours of Dec. 8.

Most Japanese ignore the anniversary. But they will talk about it if asked. Not all are sorry.

It was a gamble. Either you won or you lost. The Pearl Harbor attack was simply one of our war tactics."

Said a shoeshine man: "There were casualties and damage at Pearl Harbor, and I'm sorry for that. But you must remember a sneak attack was the only form of attack Japan had at the time."

Two university students told a reporter his question about regret was "absolute nonsense."

"Why should we feel sorry for doing what we thought was right?" one of them said. "Frankly, the only thing we regret is the stupidity of our wartime leaders who should have known they could not beat the United States."

There were others, approached in the street, who felt regret over Pearl Harbor but only because Japan lost the war.

"We had a cause," said a 31-year-old telephone company employe. "We had reason to fight the U.S., Britain and other powers. And the fact so many underdeveloped Asian countries won their independence was due indirectly to Japan's initiative in starting the war."

Many of those questioned were young, and had not fought themselves. But young and old remembered the air raids that helped bring Japan to its knees.

"Just thinking about the last war scares me to death," said a 61-year-old farmer from Gumma, north of Tokyo. "I have tried to put the war out of my mind and my only hope now is that the mighty Kamisami (gods) are merciful to all of us and keep world peace."

He added thoughtfully: "Pearl Harbor is over and done with. Let us forget about the past and work for a bright future."

NORTH SHIVERS IN COLD

Mercury Sinks To Below Zero

Temperatures ranged from the pleasant 80s in Florida to 7 below zero in the northern fringe of Minnesota and Montana Saturday while parts of Upstate New York floundered in 10 to 17 inches of snow.

A frigid high - pressure mound tumbled temperatures more than 40 degrees below zero in northwest Canada Saturday. Midday readings in the 30s ranged from northern Texas to the Tennessee-Georgia border, while teens predominated from Kansas into the Maryland mountains.

Strong winds brought showers of snow over the Great Lakes area. A tanker ran aground near Sturgeon Bay, Wis., while two other vessels were trapped in the frozen ice north of the Green Bay, Wis., harbor.

Wind gusts of 45 miles an hour reached into the middle and Atlantic coastal plains carrying snow flurries to islands off New England and into the hills of West Virginia. Gusts of nearly 60 m.p.h. were clocked at Allentown, Pa.

Skies Saturday generally were sunny through the eastern half of the nation, except for clouds along the Gulf Coast where temperatures lingered in the 50s or 60s. Miami, Fla., registered 80 degrees.

Snowfall occasionally mixed with rain or freezing drizzle extended from Montana and the northern Rockies into western sections of Kansas and Nebraska and to the eastern slopes of the mountains in New Mexico.

There was rain in Washington and Oregon, but most of the West was sunny and dry.

J. S. Pittman, Area Business Man, 63, Dies

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) —James Stuart Pittman, 63, prominent merchant and life-time resident died unexpectedly at his home here. Death came around 6 a.m. and was attributed to a heart attack.

Israeli Accuse Syrian Troops Of New Attack

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel accused Syrian troops of raking an area south of the Huleh reclamation area Saturday night with 90 minutes of intermittent mortar, machine gun and rifle fire.

The area lies in the border region where Israelis and Syrians dueled with artillery for an hour Wednesday.

An Israeli army spokesman said Saturday night's fire was not returned and there were no casualties.

Informants said the firing began at 8 p.m. as many settlements in the area were in the full swing of ceremonies ushering in the Chanukah feast of lights holiday.

Three Cabinet ministers visited Israeli villages damaged in the Wednesday shelling and promised a program of quick rebuilding, it was reported. Israel has complained to the U.N. Security Council about the Wednesday shooting.

The National Fire Protection Assn., a non - profit membership oganization, insists that 90 per cent of fires are preventable.

BACKSTAIRS

Communications System Tapped

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House:

Without doubt there will be immediate efforts to correct the situation and with no thought whatever of embarrassing anyone, it must be reported that one of the vital communications systems of the White House has been tapped.

A special Army Signal Corps detail assigned to the White House handles many forms of communication for President Eisenhower and his staff. One of these involves a shortwave radio network connecting all White House automobiles with a master control station.

Over this system, the progress of presidential motorcades is reported, cars are dispatched for very important persons and similar transit business of the White House is conducted.

Most of the language flowing over these theoretically private White House airwaves is relatively cryptic—"Car 25, Signal 54" and such electronic gobbledegook beloved of police radio stations aand radio taxi dispatchers.

There are code names or numbers for the President, various locations and conceivably such things as "Please pick up a pound of butter and a loaf of bread on the way home."

Well, the other day an individual inside the White House picked up a telephone and somewhat faintly, but quite distinctly he heard voices exchanging messages. Cars were being called, signal so-and-so being batted around, short counts, long counts —all sorts of shortwave blather.

Apparently, thought the individual, the White House was testing or adjusting its shortwave transmitters and receivers.

Rather torn by curiosity, the individual went to the same telephone in the White House the next day. Yep. There it was again. "Okay, 58, how do you read me now? Testing, one, two, three, four, five. This is (censored voluntarily because it is a code name) testing."

The tinny revelations continued to reverberate in the telephone. "Calling 25, calling 25. This is (censored). We have a message from (censored) who wants to know whether you picked up (censored) okay."

Third straight day—the individual tested his telephone again and began to wonder whether his quite unintentional eavesdropping, at least at the start, could lead to violation of some sort of statute. The shortwave transmission was not constant by any means, but sufficiently frequent that it interfered occasionally with the individual's own business transacted over the telephone.

People at the other end of the wire were saying, "Would you repeat that, please? There seems to be some trouble on the line."

The weather here recently has been cold and quite damp. This might have caused some sort of induction between telephone and radio circuits down in the bowels of the White House. Or it might be simply that the particular telephone involved, possibly more, is serving as a crude radio receiver.

Meriwether Appointed To Finance Post

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov.-elect John Patterson Saturday appointed Charles M. Meriwether of Birmingham as state finance director.

Meriwether, who managed Patterson's successful gubernatorial campaign last spring, pledged "competent and economical management of state finances." He will succeed Ed Pepper in the $10,000 a year post Jan. 19.

"Knowing first hand of Mr. Meriweather's ability and his diligence, I am proud to announce this appointment," said Patterson. "His addition to my cabinet is added assurance that Alabama will enjoy reliable and efficient state government during the next four years."

Meriwether, 47 - year - old businessman, has long been active in city and state affairs. For the past 13 years he has served as executive sales director for Dewberry Drug Co. of Birmingham, engaging in sales promotion and public relations work.

"People all over Alabama are certainly aware of the need for sound direction of state finances," said Meriwether. "I supported Mr. Patterson for governor because he guaranteed to the people of Alabama that he would give them good, clean and economical government. Mr. Patterson has seen fit to offer me the opportunity of helping him carry out his promise and I intend to devote all my energies toward this end."

Meriwether will be faced immediately with the problem of how to raise some 12 million dollars Alabama needs to meet the education appropriation. Education was appropriated about nine million dollars in the past fiscal year and the appropriation for the current fiscal year is almost four million dollars higher.

A drop in employment and income tax were primarily responsible for the money shortage.

In 1953, Meriwether directed Wade Bradley's successful campaign for Birmingham City Commissioner. A year later he was North Alabama manager for the late Albert Patterson's victorious campaign for state attorney general. The elder Patterson was slain in a Phenix City alley during the vice cleanup of the one-time sin town.

At present, Meriwether is state director for the National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Demo Claims Farm Funds Cut Unlikely

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A key Democrat predicted Saturday that Congress will reject administration proposals to cut federal spending on farm conservation [illegible]ural electrification programs.

Budget Director Maurice H. Stans indicated Friday the President's new budget would include proposals for reducing the 250-million-dollar-a-year agricultural conservation program and federal loans to rural co-ops under the Rural Electrification Administration.

Stans said the co-ops should be required to borrow from private sources rather than the government.

Rejecting both proposals, Whitten said the administration should focus its economy efforts on defense spending "where far more money is wasted than many other agencies spend."

Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of the House defense appropriations subcommittee, asserted several weeks ago that the defense program will require a minimum outlay of 42 billion dollars in the next fiscal year, compared with an estimated $40,800,000,000 this year.

When an interviewer reminded Whitten of this, the lawmaker replied that he did not agree with Mahon.

"I don't know how much we can cut defense spending, but 25 per cent of what we are spending on it is not providing any defense," he said.

Whitten said subsidy payments to help farmers finance conservation practices must be maintained at present level as long as farm income "remains depressed" under administration farm price support policies.

W. Monroe Girl To State Office With FHA Group

A West Monroe High school girl was elected to the office of reporter at the state meeting of the Louisiana Future Homemakers Association in Baton Rouge last week, it was learned today.

Sandra Odom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Odom, 1839 Old Natchitoches Road in West Monroe, was elected to the office during a Friday meeting. The state session of FHA closed yesterday.

Sandra, a third year homemaking student at West Monroe High, has served as parish FHA secretary and will hold the post of northern FHA reporter until February, 1959.

Homemakers' Meet

WINNSBORO (Special) — Attending the 25th annual Louisiana Future Homemakers of America convention in Baton Rouge, Friday and Saturday were Winnsboro FHA members Judy Waller, Ann Tillman, Emily Funderburk, Sue Cotton, Brenda Bryant, Virginia Kincaid, Sandra King, Sandra Dalton, and chapter mothers, Mrs. Katherine Funderburk and Mrs. L. S. Bryant.

Accompanying the group were Miss Jeanette Hogan and Miss Sue Wilkins, FHA advisors.

Long Expected To Keep Same Port Commission

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Earl Long is expected to reappoint two members of the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission Monday.

The governor is expected to make his selection from panels nomination by the city - parish council.

He also may appoint to a full six-year term A. J. McInnis, picked by him a few months ago to fill the unexpired term of the late J. Theron Brown.

In classical Greece elections, white or black balls were dropped into an urn to denote for - or - against votes. Hence the modern term "blackball."

EXPLAIN FUNCTIONING OF JUNO II MISSILE — Wernher von Braun, rear, leans over Dr. William H. Pickering as the two scientists explain to a news conference Saturday, how the stages of the Army's Juno II missile separated after firing in flight to carry the space probe, Pioneer III, into the heavens after launching from the Missile range at Cape Canaveral at 12:45 am EST, Saturday. The model marked Jupiter at right represents the main vehicle and the other models from left upward to right, are the second, third and fourth stages, with the nose cone on the stage held by von Braun containing the Pioneer III instrumented payload. von Braun is director of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency. Japs Ignore Sneak Attack Anniversary

TOKYO (UPI)— Japan will let one of histoy's most infamous anniversaries slip by virtually unnoticed Sunday — the attack on Pearl Harbor 17 years ago. But its memory remains and there are many to defend it.

For Americans, it came with a sneak attack on the sleepy Sunday morning of Dec. 7, 1941. For Japanese across the International Dateline it occurred in the predawn hours of Dec. 8.

Most Japanese ignore the anniversary. But they will talk about it if asked. Not all are sorry. It was a gamble. Either you won or you lost. The Pearl Harbor attack was simply one of our war tactics."

Said a shoeshine man: "There were casualties and damage at Pearl Harbor, and I'm sorry for that. But you must remember a sneak attack was the only form of attack Japan had at the time."

"Why should we feel sorry for doing what we thought was right?" one of them said. "Frankly, the only thing we regret is the stupidity of our wartime leaders who should have known they could not beat the United States."

There were others, approached in the street, who felt regret over Pearl Harbor but only because Japan lost the war.

"We had a cause," said a 31-year-old telephone company employe. "We had reason to fight the U.S., Britain and other powers. And the fact so many underdeveloped Asian countries won their independence was due indirectly to Japan's initiative in starting the war."

Many of those questioned were young, and had not fought themselves. But young and old remembered the air raids that helped bring Japan to its knees.

"Just thinking about the last war scares me to death," said a 61-year-old farmer from Gumma, north of Tokyo. "I have tried to put the war out of my mind and my only hope now is that the mighty Kamisami (gods) are merciful to all of us and keep world peace."

He added thoughtfully: "Pearl Harbor is over and done with. Let us forget about the past and work for a bright future."

NORTH SHIVERS IN COLD

Mercury Sinks To Below Zero

Temperatures ranged from the pleasant 80s in Florida to 7 below zero in the northern fringe of Minnesota and Montana Saturday while parts of Upstate New York floundered in 10 to 17 inches of snow.

A frigid high-pressure mound tumbled temperatures more than 40 degrees below zero in northwest Canada Saturday. Midday readings in the 30s ranged from northern Texas to the Tennessee-Georgia border, while teens predominated from Kansas into the Maryland mountains.

Strong winds brought showers of snow over the Great Lakes area. A tanker ran aground near Sturgeon Bay, Wis., while two other vessels were trapped in the frozen ice north of the Green Bay, Wis., harbor.

Wind gusts of 45 miles an hour reached into the middle and Atlantic coastal plains carrying snow flurries to islands off New England and into the hills of West Virginia. Gusts of nearly 60 m.p.h. were clocked at Allentown, Pa.

Skies Saturday generally were sunny through the eastern half of the nation, except for clouds along the Gulf Coast where temperatures lingered in the 50s or 60s. Miami, Fla., registered 80 degrees.

Snowfall occasionally mixed with rain or freezing drizzle extended from Montana and the northern Rockies into western sections of Kansas and Nebraska and to the eastern slopes of the mountains in New Mexico.

There was rain in Washington and Oregon, but most of the West was sunny and dry.

J. S. Pittman, Area Business Man, 63, Dies

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) —James Stuart Pittman, 63, prominent merchant and life-time resident died unexpectedly at his home here. Death came around 6 a.m. and was attributed to a heart attack.

He had been in ill health for several weeks but had not been hospitalized. He was active in civic affairs and in the Grace Episcopal Church which he was serving senior warden of the vestry. He was a member of the Masonic Order and affiliated with Pecan Grove Lodge No. 222.

He was owner and operator of Pittman Implement Company, one of the oldest equipment dealerships in the state, being established in 1901 by his father, the late J. W. Pittman. He was active in the Deep South Farm Equipment Association and had served on the board of directors. Last Monday he was elected as second vice-president of this association.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. at Grace Episcopal Church with Father H. Newton Griffith officiating. Burial will be in Providence Cemetery under the direction of Gay Funeral Home of Lake Providence. The body will remain at the funeral home until time of the services.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Marion Dunn Pittman; one son, J. S. Pittman Jr., Bartlesville, Okla.; one sister, Mrs. Stephen Voelker, New Orleans; one brother, J. W. Pittman Jr., Lake Providence and two grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Mark Brown Herman Harvey, W. Y. Bell, J. H. Gilfoil, George Hider, George Lensing, Herman Johnson, Keoner Howard, Austin Driver.

Israeli Accuse Syrian Troops Of New Attack

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel accused Syrian troops of raking an area south of the Hulch reclamation area Saturday night with 90 minutes of intermittent mortar, machine gun and rifle fire.

The area lies in the border region where Israelis and Syrians dueled with artillery for an hour Wednesday.

An Israeli army spokesman said Saturday night's fire was not returned and there were no casualties.

Informants said the firing began at 8 p.m. as many settlements in the area were in the full swing of ceremonies ushering in the Chanukah feast of lights holiday.

Three Cabinet ministers visited Israeli villages damaged in the Wednesday shelling and promised a program of quick rebuilding, it was reported. Israel has complained to the U.N. Security Council about the Wednesday shooting.

The National Fire Protection Assn., a non-profit membership oganization, insists that 90 per cent of fires are preventable.

BACKSTAIRS

Communications System Tapped

By MERRIMAN SMITH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House:

Without doubt there will be immediate efforts to correct the situation and with no thought whatever of embarrassing anyone, it must be reported that one of the vital communications systems of the White House has been tapped.

A special Army Signal Corps detail assigned to the White House handles many forms of communication for President Eisenhower and his staff. One of these involves a shortwave radio network connecting all White House automobiles with a master control station.

Over this system, the progress of presidential motorcades is reported, cars are dispatched for very important persons and similar transit business of the White House is conducted.

Most of the language flowing over these theoretically private White House airwaves is relatively cryptic—"Car 25, Signal 54" and such electronic gobbledegook beloved of police radio stations aand radio taxi dispatchers.

There are code names or numbers for the President, various locations and conceivably such things as "Please pick up a pound of butter and a loaf of bread on the way home."

Well, the other day an individual inside the White House picked up a telephone and somewhat faintly, but quite distinctly he heard voices exchanging messages. Cars were being called, signal so-and-so being batted around, short counts, long counts —all sorts of shortwave blather.

Apparently, thought the individual, the White House was testing or adjusting its shortwave transmitters and receivers.

Rather torn by curiosity, the individual went to the same telephone in the White House the next day. Yep. There it was again. "Okay, 58, how do you read me now? Testing, one, two, three, four, five. This is (censored volunstarily because it is a code name) testing."

The tinny revelations continued to reverberate in the telephone. "Calling 25, calling 25. This is (censored). We have a message from (censored) who wants to know whether you picked up (censored) okay."

Third straight day—the individual tested his telephone again and began to wonder whether his quite unintentional eavesdropping, at least at the start, could lead to violation of some sort of statute. The shortwave transmission was not constant by any means, but sufficiently frequent that it interfered occasionally with the individual's own business transacted over the telephone.

People at the other end of the wire were saying, "Would you repeat that, please? There seems to be some trouble on the line."

The weather here recently has been cold and quite damp. This might have caused some sort of induction between telephone and radio circuits down in the bowels of the White House. Or it might be simply that the particular telephone involved, possibly more, is serving as a crude radio receiver.

Meriwether Appointed To Finance Post

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov.-elect John Patterson Saturday appointed Charles M. Meriwether of Birmingham as state finance director.

Meriwether, who managed Patterson's successful gubernatorial campaign last spring, pledged "competent and economical management of state finances." He will succeed Ed Pepper in the $10,000 a year post Jan. 19.

"Knowing first hand of Mr. Meriweather's ability and his diligence, I am proud to announce this appointment," said Patterson. "His addition to my cabinet is added assurance that Alabama will enjoy reliable and efficient state government during the next four years."

Meriwether, 47-year-old businessman, has long been active in city and state affairs. For the past 13 years he has served as executive sales director for Dewberry Drug Co. of Birmingham, engaging in sales promotion and public relations work.

"People all over Alabama are certainly aware of the need for sound direction of state finances," said Meriwether. "I supported Mr. Patterson for governor because he guaranteed to the people of Alabama that he would give them good, clean and economical government. Mr. Patterson has seen fit to offer me the opportunity of helping him carry out his promise and I intend to devote all my energies toward this end."

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

Industry Braces For Space Age

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business still shrugging off the effects of recession, braced itself this week for the coming of the age of space.

As the Army hurled a rocket toward the moon, bankers, investors and just plain speculators took a closer look at industry's progress in the guided missiles field.

Shares of companies making rocket components and missile fuels performed brilliantly in an otherwise listless stock market.

Stock sales totaled 17,565,462 shares in the latest week compared to 16,941,099 in the previous week and 11,077,429 shares in the same 1957 week.

Bond sales had a par value of $31,890,000 in the latest week against $27,709,000 for the previous week and $28,532,400 in the corresponding week last year.

Interest in missiles was heightened by reports—later disputed at the Pentagon — that Russia had successfully flown an atomic-powered aircraft.

Preoccupation with space age problems was manifest at the annual meeting in Bal Harbour, Fla., of the Investment Bankers Assn. These are the men who help raise the billions of dollars of capital required for such projects as superhighways, schools, factories, power plants, atomic-powered submarines, space ships, satellites and rockets. They act as middlemen in the sale of new issues of bonds and stock.

Lt. Gen. James M. Gaven (Ret), the Army's former rocket chief, told the bankers: "I honestly believe we will enter space more rapidly as our whole economy benefits from the technological advances in our space programs. We are beginning, just beginning, to utilize benefits from missiles in civilian commerce. While developing the missile industry we have created new materials and new technology."

The latest batch of business indicators showed further evidence of general economic recovery this week, albeit at considerable less than rocket speed.

While auto dealers reported a pickup in sales, Ford and Chevrolet started a real old-fashioned production race. Chevvy turned out 43,500 cars — its highest output for any week this year; Ford Motor Co.'s Ford division rolled out 33,360.

Although Chrysler Corp. was hampered by strikes, the industry's total new car production zoomed to a new 1958 high of nearly 147,000.

The Commerce Department reported that new construction activity declined less in November than it usually does at this time of year. Construction outlays for the month totaled $4,400,000,000. That's an increase of $200,000,000 over November 1957.

The consumer — the state of his pocketbook and the state of his mind — came under scrutiny this week at the University of Michigan survey research center. After an intensive survey of the buying plans for families earning $5,000 a year or more, university researchers came up with these findings:

By and large, consumers are optimistic. They feel this is a good time to buy "big ticket" items like refrigerators, furniture, TV sets and stoves. But they'd be a lot happier, and in much more of a buying mood, if prices came down a little.

Prof. George Katona of the university's survey research center said consumer dissatisfaction with rising prices is a major obstacle to a really rapid business upturn.

The rapid emergence of Russia as a world trade power worried U. S. businessmen this week. Soviet influence made itself felt at several sensitive spots: in Argentina, where — in the midst of delicate negotiations between the Buenos Aires government and two Western oil companies — Russia offered to swap 1 million tons of Soviet crude oil for Argentine goods, and in Tokyo, where the Russians and the Japanese concluded a 25 million-dollar barter agreement.

Max D. Howell, executive vice president of the American Iron & Steel Institute, predicted a rising flood of Russian steel products in world markets. Said Howell: "We are faced with an economic war of great dimensions."

Briefly over the business scene: Soft coal prices may go up about 20 cents a ton next year following the award of a $2 a-day pay increase of John L. Lewis' miners. . . Oil refinery workers are planning a nationwide strike. . . Sears, Roebuck & Co. predicts its Christmas sales this year will be the biggest ever recorded. . . Somebody paid $125,000 for a seat on the New York Stock Exchange this week (it's exchange policy not to give the buyer's name when prices are made public). . . Prosperity note: Woolens & Worsteds of America Inc. says Santa Claus is wearing a beard of wool this year instead of cotton. That, says the association, explains his cherry smile. The woolly beard keeps his chin warm on windy street corners.

BURIAL SCENE AT MASS FUNERAL — This was the scene in Queen of Heaven cemetery in Chicago Friday after a funeral mass for some of the 88 pupils who lost their lives in the parochial school holocaust. The Mass was said for more than a score and almost that many were buried in contiguous graves. (AP Wirephoto)

WM Youth Hurt When Car Fails To Make Curve

A youth identified by police as Walter D. Gaster, 19, of 905 North Third street in West Monroe was hospitalized in St. Francis Hospital yesterday after he lost control of his automobile and wrecked at the intersection of Spencer and Sara, on Monroe's northside.

The automobile apparently failed to negotiate a curve near the intersection and rammed into a driveway. Police said the car was a total loss.

Gaster was not believed to be in serious condition. However, he was suffering severe pains in one hip. X-rays revealed that he did not suffer a fracture pelvis, as first suspected.

A Mulhearn ambulance picked Gaster up at the scene of the wreck shortly after midnight Saturday. Mulhearn logged the call at 12:20 a.m.

Fish story: A blue whale can weigh as much as 25 elephants or 150 oxen.

54 Persons Die On Mississippi Roads In Month

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi Highway Patrol said Saturday 54 persons died on Mississippi highways during November, bringing the state's toll for 1958 to 481.

Commissioner of Public Safety Tom Scarbrough warned that unless the upward trend in December fatalities is curbed Mississippi's 1958 traffic death toll could reach a new record.

The 1957 traffic death toll was 526. December's total was 67.

ADMIRAL SLIGHT FAVORITE

Venezuela Voters Elect Ruler Today

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal was ranked a slight favorite Saturday night in a three-man race for the presidency Sunday in Venezuela's first free election in 10 years.

The 47-year-old admiral, who led the junta which overthrew dictator Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez in January, is running with Communist support that he did not openly seek or renounce.

He faces a tough fight against two staunch anti - Communists. They are Romulo Betancourt, 50, a veteran radical who fled into exile when Perez Jimenez seized dictatorial power in 1948, and Rafael Caldera, 42, leader of the strongly Roman Catholic Christian Socialists.

Women could decide the election, with 2,913,801 voters eligible, there are 132,285 more women registered than men. All three presidenial candidates directed appeals to women.

The voters, in addition to choosing a president, will elect a Congress of 144 deputies and 46 senators and municipal officers.

Air force planes and warships were called out to give a security cover, but no trouble is expected. Venezuelans, looking forward to a return to civilian rule, were in a festive mood as the campaigning ended.

The three presidential nominees have pledged to form a coalition government if elected and bow out gracefully if defeated. Edgard Sanabria, provisional president as head of the ruling junta and a professor of Roman law, has promised to hand over power to the winner without hesitation.

Larrazabal is backed by three leftist parties—the Union Republicana Democratica, the Movimiento Electroal Nacional Independiente, and the Communists, led by millionaire Gustavo Machado. While the Communists campaigned openly for him, Larrazabal gave no indication he would bring them into the government if elected.

Betancourt, who flirted with communism in his early years in what he called "a youthful attack of political smallpox," leads an older and more tightly organized party as the nominee of Accion Democratica.

Cotton Quota Vote Is Due On Dec. 15th

Ouachita Parish farmers will vote Dec. 15 on marketing quotas for the 1959 upland cotton crop.

Robert G. Harmon, chairman of the county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee, said at least two-thirds of the farmers who vote nationally must approve the quotas if they are to be effective.

All growers engaged in producing upland cotton in 1958 are eligible to cast ballots in the referendum.

If quotas are approved, farm operations will have their choice between two programs of allotments and price supports. One choice is to include the regular farm allotments and price support at not less than 80 per cent of parity for 1959.

INCLUDE

The other choice will include farm allotments which are 40 per cent larger than the regular allotments, and price support which is 15 per cent of parity less than the first choice.

If quotas are disapproved, Harmon said, only the regular allotment program will be in effect.

Under a quota program, a farmer who exceeds his chosen allotment will be subject to marketing quota penalties amounting to 50 per cent of parity as of June 15, 1959, on the excess production, Harmon added.

Also, none of the upland cotton produced on the farm will be eligible for price support.

January is a summer month in Chile, but it is also a month in which this southernmost part of South America is exposed to some of the world's stormiest weather.

THIS WEEK IN BUSINESS

Industry Braces For Space Age

By WALTER BREEDE JR.
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business, still shrugging off the effects of recession, braced itself this week for the coming of the age of space.

As the Army hurled a rocket toward the moon, bankers, investors and just plain speculators took a closer look at industry's progress in the guided missiles field.

Shares of companies making rocket components and missile fuels performed brilliantly in an otherwise listless stock market.

Stock sales totaled 17,565,462 shares in the latest week compared to 16,941,099 in the previous week and 11,077,429 shares in the same 1957 week.

Bond sales had a par value of $31,890,000 in the latest week against $27,709,000 for the previous week and $28,532,400 in the corresponding week last year.

Interest in missiles was heightened by reports—later disputed at the Pentagon — that Russia had successfully flown an atomic-powered aircraft.

Preoccupation with space age problems was manifest at the annual meeting in Bal Harbour, Fla., of the Investment Bankers Assn. These are the men who help raise the billions of dollars of capital required for such projects as superhighways, schools, factories, power plants, atomic-powered submarines, space ships, satellites and rockets. They act as middlemen in the sale of new issues of bonds and stock.

Lt. Gen. James M. Gaven (Ret), the Army's former rocket chief, told the bankers: "I honestly believe we will enter space more rapidly as our whole economy benefits from the technological advances in our space programs. We are beginning, just beginning, to utilize benefits from missiles in civilian commerce. While developing the missile industry we have created new materials and new technology."

The latest batch of business indicators showed further evidence of general economic recovery this week, albeit at considerable less than rocket speed.

While auto dealers reported a pickup in sales, Ford and Chevrolet started a real old-fashioned production race. Chevvy turned out 43,500 cars — its highest output for any week this year; Ford Motor Co.'s Ford division rolled out 33,360.

Although Chrysler Corp. was hampered by strikes, the industry's total new car production zoomed to a new 1958 high of nearly 147,000.

The Commerce Department reported that new construction activity declined less in November than it usually does at this time of year. Construction outlays for the month totaled $4,400,000,000. That's an increase of $200,000,000 over November 1957.

The consumer — the state of his pocketbook and the state of his mind — came under scrutiny this week at the University of Michigan survey research center. After an intensive survey of the buying plans for families earning $5,000 a year or more, university researchers came up with these findings:

By and large, consumers are optimistic. They feel this is a good time to buy "big ticket" items like refrigerators, furniture, TV sets and stoves. But they'd be a lot happier, and in much more of a buying mood, if prices came down a little.

Prof. George Katona of the university's survey research center said consumer dissatisfaction with rising prices is a major obstacle to a really rapid business upturn.

The rapid emergence of Russia as a world trade power worried U. S. businessmen this week. Soviet influence made itself felt at several sensitive spots: in Argentina, where — in the midst of delicate negotiations between the Buenos Aires government and two Western oil companies — Russia offered to swap 1 million tons of Soviet crude oil for Argentine goods, and in Tokyo, where the Russians and the Japanese concluded a 25 million-dollar barter agreement.

Max D. Howell, executive vice president of the American Iron & Steel Institute, predicted a rising flood of Russian steel products in world markets. Said Howell: "We are faced with an economic war of great dimensions."

Briefly over the business scene: Soft coal prices may go up about 20 cents a ton next year following the award of a $2 a-day pay increase of John L. Lewis' miners. . . Oil refinery workers are planning a nationwide strike. . . Sears, Roebuck & Co. predicts its Christmas sales this year will be the biggest ever recorded. . . Somebody paid $125,000 for a seat on the New York Stock Exchange this week (it's exchange policy not to give the buyer's name when prices are made public). . . Prosperity note: Woolens & Worsteds of America Inc. says Santa Claus is wearing a beard of wool this year instead of cotton. That, says the association, explains his cherry smile. The woolly beard keeps his chin warm on windy street corners.

BURIAL SCENE AT MASS FUNERAL — This was the scene in Queen of Heaven cemetery in Chicago Friday after a funeral mass for some of the 88 pupils who lost their lives in the parochial school holocaust. The Mass was said for more than a score and almost that many were buried in contiguous graves. (AP Wirephoto)

WM Youth Hurt When Car Fails To Make Curve

A youth identified by police as Walter D. Gaster, 19, of 905 North Third street in West Monroe was hospitalized in St. Francis Hospital yesterday after he lost control of his automobile and wrecked at the intersection of Spencer and Sara, on Monroe's northside.

The automobile apparently failed to negotiate a curve near the intersection and rammed into a driveway. Police said the car was a total loss.

Gaster was not believed to be in serious condition. However, he was suffering severe pains in one hip. X-rays revealed that he did not suffer a fracture pelvis, as first suspected.

A Mulhearn ambulance picked Gaster up at the scene of the wreck shortly after midnight Saturday. Mulhearn logged the call at 12:20 a.m.

54 Persons Die On Mississippi Roads In Month

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi Highway Patrol said Saturday 54 persons died on Mississippi highways during November, bringing the state's toll for 1958 to 481.

Commissioner of Public Safety Tom Scarbrough warned that unless the upward trend in December fatalities is curbed Mississippi's 1958 traffic death toll could reach a new record.

The 1957 traffic death toll was 526. December's total was 67.

ADMIRAL SLIGHT FAVORITE

Venezuela Voters Elect Ruler Today

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)— Rear Adm. Wolfgang Larrazabal was ranked a slight favorite Saturday night in a three-man race for the presidency Sunday in Venezuela's first free election in 10 years.

The 47-year-old admiral, who led the junta which overthrew dictator Gen. Marcos Perez Jimenez in January, is running with Communist support that he did not openly seek or renounce.

He faces a tough fight against two staunch anti - Communists. They are Romulo Betancourt, 50, a veteran radical who fled into exile when Perez Jimenez seized dictatorial power in 1948, and Rafael Caldera, 42, leader of the strongly Roman Catholic Christian Socialists.

Women could decide the election, with 2,913,801 voters eligible, there are 132,285 more women registered than men. All three presidential candidates directed appeals to women.

The voters, in addition to choosing a president, will elect a Congress of 144 deputies and 46 senators and municipal officers.

Air force planes and warships were called out to give a security cover, but no trouble is expected. Venezuelans, looking forward to a return to civilian rule, were in a festive mood as the campaigning ended.

The three presidential nominees have pledged to form a coalition government if elected and bow out gracefully if defeated. Edgard Sanabria, provisional president as head of the ruling junta and a professor of Roman law, has promised to hand over power to the winner without hesitation.

Larrazabal is backed by three leftist parties—the Union Republicana Democratica, the Movimiento Electroal Nacional Independiente, and the Communists, led by millionaire Gustavo Machado. While the Communists campaigned openly for him, Larrazabal gave no indication he would bring them into the government if elected.

Betancourt, who flirted with communism in his early years in what he called "a youthful attack of political smallpox," leads an older and more tightly organized party as the nominee of Accion Democratica.

Cotton Quota Vote Is Due On Dec. 15th

Ouachita Parish farmers will vote Dec. 15 on marketing quotas for the 1959 upland cotton crop.

Robert G. Harmon, chairman of the county agricultural stabilization and conservation committee, said at least two-thirds of the farmers who vote nationally must approve the quotas if they are to be effective.

All growers engaged in producing upland cotton in 1958 are eligible to cast ballots in the referendum.

If quotas are approved, farm operations will have their choice between two programs of allotments and price supports. One choice is to include the regular farm allotments and price support at not less than 80 per cent of parity for 1959.

INCLUDE

The other choice will include farm allotments which are 40 per cent larger than the regular allotments, and price support which is 15 per cent of parity less than the first choice.

If quotas are disapproved, Harmon said, only the regular allotment program will be in effect.

Under a quota program, a farmer who exceeds his chosen allotment will be subject to marketing quota penalties amounting to 50 per cent of parity as of June 15, 1959, on the excess production, Harmon added.

Also, none of the upland cotton produced on the farm will be eligible for price support.

January is a summer month in Chile, but it is also a month in which this southernmost part of South America is exposed to some of the world's stormiest weather.

The Perfect Christmas Gift For The Man of Your House

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Louisiana State needs only to win the Sugar Bowl game New Year's Day for a sweep of national collegiate football glory, while halfback Billy Cannon and center Max Fugler keep right on hauling in the individual honors.

Cannon, so far, has been named to all the big All-America teams—Associated Press, United Press International, and the various coaches and national magazine selections. Fugler, the power behind the mighty LSU defense, was named to the UPI's second team, the AP's third team, and Look magazine had him on its first squad of 22 players. They'll probably pick up a little more glory in the next few weeks.

Meanwhile, there's still a lot of feeling that the Sugar Bowl could have found a more representative foe than Clemson for that January 1 scramble at New Orleans, but by the time the publicity experts get through we'll probably begin to think this is the Bayou Bengals' most dangerous game.

There are still area fans who will argue Southern Methodist, or maybe Mississippi Southern, should have received the Sugar Bowl invitation.

Some will tell you that SMU failed to get the invite because the Mustangs are among schools —like Auburn — who are restrained from competing in any post-season or championship play other than in their own conference because of reprimands for recruiting practices. Such, however, is not the case where SMU is concerned.

True, SMU is "serving out a term" of disciplinary action, but the ban against the Dallas school applies only to its basketball team—not the football Mustangs.

The Clemson supporters argue their seven won-two lost record in more impressive to carry against LSU than SMU's five won-four lost. Then the Mustang crowd points out SMU played Ohio State, Notre Dame, Missouri, Rice, Georgia Tech, Texas, Arkansas, Texas A&M, and Baylor and will claim this is a more impressive schedule than Clemson's Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, Vanderbilt, South Carolina, Wake Forest, Georgia Tech, North Carolina State, and Boston College. Georgia Tech, the lone school on both schedules, beat Clemson, 13-0, but lost to SMU, 20-0.

But all the beefing gets you nowhere. It's Clemson vs. LSU and the Sugar Bowl, being the kind of show it is, will still draw the kind of crowd the Mid-Winter Sports Association likes to see.

Highland Park Country Club, West Monroe, is grooming for its annual Twin City Open Golf Tournament, scheduled for December 19-20-21, and club pro Jimmy Aulds yesterday said Alvin Dark, the Lake Charles athlete of major league baseball fame, is a "definite" entry.

Other invited golfers, many of whom are certain to accept the Highland hospitality, include Tommy Bolt, the U.S. Open champion; brothers Lionel and Jay Hebert, Lafayette, consistent winners on the national golf tour; Milo Matthinson, Bastrop; Jack Finley, Silver City, Miss.; Scudday Horner, Montgomery, Ala.; David Ivey and L. V. Dukes, Clarksdale, Miss.; Marty Furgol, Pacoma, Calif · Ford Ames, Alexandria; Doug Higgins, Fort Worth, Tex.; Bert Weaver, ex-LSU linksman; Jackie Doss, Monroe, and Eddie Merrins, Shreveport, a pair of strong area amateurs who now champaign as pros; John Wear, Elgin AFB; Jimmy Green, Tallulah; Henry Castillo, champion of Florida; Pete Fleming, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Bob Inman, Tulsa, Okla.; Bob Crow, Minneapolis, Minn.; John Lively, Eastland, Tex. C. A. DeWees, Mineral Wells, Tex., Johnny Stahl, Vicksburg, Miss.; Cotton Hill, Shreveport; Buck White, Greenwood, Miss.; Felice Torza, St. Charles, Ill.; Budddy Sprague, Fort Worth, Tex Winnie Cole, Monroe; Leonard Warren, Bastrop; Paul Jopes, Grand Junction, Colo.; Ned White and Everett Nelson, Shreveport; Iverson Martin, Fort Worth; Palmer Lawrence, Arlington, Tex.; Bill Brewer, Greggton, Tex.; Gray Little, Lake Charles; Johnny Myers, former Bastrop linksman now of Minneapolis, Minn.; and Buster Cupit, former pro at Highland (when it was McGuire Park) and at Ruston but now at Fort Smith, Ark.

The tournament, a $2,500 event, will be limited to 150 contenders with the entry deadline set for December 17. One thousand dollars in cash is offered the winner, with $1,500 in additional cash awards. Special prizes will be given amateurs.

Oak Grove will have Joe Adcock, the Milwaukee Braves first baseman, as guest speaker for Little Boys and Dixie League baseball players at a banquet this coming Wednesday night. Ralph Moore, president of West Carroll Little Boys Baseball, Inc., reports the banquet is set for 9:30 p.m. in the Oak Grove High School cafeteria. The banquet will honor all players in Little Boys and Dixie League of West Carroll parish, their umpires, managers, sponsors, and other persons who have contributed to the success of the two leagues.

A new bowling alley will be in operation in Monroe about the middle of this month, and area bowlers are being invited to prepare to participate in the grand opening of the Bowlero Bowling Lanes, Inc. Tommy Higgins, who once did a bowling column for this newspaper, has been named manager of the 24-lane establishment on Louisville avenue.

Our sympathy goes to the family of Monroe McNaughton who died suddenly last Tuesday at Rayville where he had been in the hardware business for the past several years. Although well-known at Rayville, McNaughton was better known through Louisiana two decades ago as a fine welterweight boxer who won laurels with the old Rayville Athletic Club and as a collegiate fighter for the Northeast Indians of Monroe.

As a Rayville High athlete handy with his dukes, McNaughton won AAU and Tri-State Golden Gloves championships before he joined Coach James L. Malone's Northeast fighters in 1937 and campaigned with the Indian team that included "Bumps" Gormley, Lavelle "Shorty" Green, Snyder Parham, James Williams, Ernest Freeman, Ed "Pop" Walker, "Soapy" Hand, and Tony Veranda.

A brother, Fort McNaughton also was quite an amateur boxer in that early 1930s era when such athletes as Herbert Sorey and Leroy Francis were appearing on fistic cards of the area and handling themselves with credit to their Rayville A. C. Brother Fort now lives in Seattle, Wash.

We saw no hint of anything off color in wire reports of the Virgil Akins-Don Jordan welterweight championship fight at Los Angeles Friday night, but area TV fans came up with such observations as "worst I ever saw . . . should be investigated . . . most terrible showing . . . Akins had no defense or offense, all he did was hold." Akins, the St. Louis Negro who once fought on a Gus Kallio card here, was shorn of his title by unanimous decision in 15 rounds. It may have looked different at the ringside, but angry video fans are calling it a "stinker."

Temple Falls To Kentucky In 76-71 Tilt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kentucky, last season's NCAA basketball champions, held off a determined Temple team Saturday night and pulled out a 76-71 victory in the second game of a Palestra doubleheader.

St. Joseph's beat Kentucky Wesleyan 81-75 in the first game.

Temple had compiled a 41-43 halftime lead on the play of Bill Kennedy, who scored 17 of his 27 points in the first 20 minutes. Kennedy was the game's high scorer.

Once the second half started, Cox started hitting from the inside. The 6-4 senior sent Kentucky ahead after four minutes of the second half. The Wildcats remained in the lead the rest of the game.

The biggest Kentucky lead came at the 2-minute mark. The Wildcats led 74-63. Tempe rallied on the jump shooting of Joey Goldenberg and Bernie Ivens. The Owls drove to a 74-71 margin, then fell back.

Box finished with 22 points.He led Kentucky to its second victory in two games. Temple, last year's No. 5 team in The Associated Press final poll, has won one game, lost two.

St. Joseph's fast break clicked around the playing of Bobby McNeill in the first game before 6,198.

Five Unanimous On All-TC

Neville's Bill Ruple Voted Coach Of Year

Five players, two of them repeaters from last year's eleven, were unanimous choices for the 1958 All-Twin Cities football team selected by local coaches in cooperation with the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Tommy Crowe of Ouachita, Jerry Stovall and Albert Fields of West Monroe and Neville's Gene Howard and Ross Nolan were selected on the first team by all four coaches, cecil Pirkey of West Monroe, Bob Ellen of Ouachita, Bill Ruple of Neville and Fred Lindsey of Southside.

For end Crowe and tackle Nolan, All-Twin Cities recognition came for the second year in a row. Crowe was picked at the center position last year. Moore, Howard, Stovall and Carter moved up from the 1957 second team.

District 2-AA champion Neville placed three players as did West Monroe, third in district 1-AAA. End Larry Lewis joined teammates halfback Stovall and guard Fields on the first team while halfbacks Joe Cage and Gene Howard were the other Neville players selected.

Neville's Bill Ruple, dean of Twin Cities coaches, was voted "Coach of the Year" by his fellow mentors. A periennial producer of outstanding teams at Neville, Ruple turned in one of his greatest jobs this season, taking a team with only five returning lettermen into district 2-AA's champions.

Stovall stood out all season long as West Monroe's outstanding star. The 180-pound senior scored 11 touchdowns and 12 extra points for a total of 78, tops in the Twin Cities and second in district 1-AAA. A breakaway threat as well as a great inside runner, Stovall also starred on defense and turned in one of his top performances in this department in West Monroe's season-opening 7-0 win over Neville. Stovall scored all of West Monroe's 14 points against Central of Little Rock, going 65 yards with an interception for one touchdown.

Howard was Neville's most dangerous runner, always a long distance threat. He scored two touchdowns in Neville's 20-0 victory over Ouachita, one on a 58-yard sprint and the other on a 15-yard trip. Howard almost pulled Neville's 21-20 loss to Natchez, Miss., out of the fire with an 80-yard gallop into the end zone in the fourth period but had it called back on a clipping penalty.

Already one of the Twin Cities' all-time all-round athletes as a junior, Neville's Cage, the state's record holder in the javelin and a baseball and basketball star, played quarterback, half and full this season. A fine runner, inside and out, Cage was also an outstanding passer. He turned in one of his greatest games in Neville's 26-13 victory over Ruston, gaining 144 yards and scoring on a 60-yard dash.

Carter, an aerial artist in 1957, went in more heavily for the ground game this season while continuing his fine passing. With his two outstanding receivers of 1957, Eddie McGowen and Billy Roach, gone, Carter went overland to score four touchdowns this year. He unlimbered his arm to win Ouachita's game with Haynesville, 9-7, with a 14-yard touchdown toss to Crowe in the contest's waning minutes.

Crowe, who has played center, fullback and end in his career at Ouachita, conitnued the outstanding defensive work that made him an All-Twin Cities choice last season at center. He was also Carter's favorite passing target.

Lewis, a standout basketballer as well as football star, made his first year as a West Monroe starter an outstanding one. A defensive stickout, he was one of the Rebels' top blockers up front and a capable receiver.

An all-district selection, Ouachita's Moore was a bruising mover on offense and a defensive bulwark. Quick and resourceful, he raced 86 yards with a fumble for a touchdown against Bossier.

Nolan, the squad's biggest man at 210, again stood out in Neville's forward wall. Selected with teammate Dan Keith at the All-Twin Cities tackle posts last year, Ross earned honors again this season with powerful defensive play and effective offensive work.

A lightweight at 155 pounds, Fletcher made his final season at Ouachita an outstanding one with quick, aggressive work at guard. A sure and bruising tackler, Fletcher was also a mobile offensive blocker.

Fletcher's companion guard, also 155 pounds, Albert Fields of West Monroe made up for his lack of size with quick reactions and fierce competitiveness. Unheralded at season's start, his fine play gained the approval of every local coach.

The All-Twin Cities line's only junior, Ouachita's Kimball combined aggressive linebacking with sure passing and blocking to earn the center position. A starter for two years, Kimball developed into one of the top stars in Ouachita's line.

All the members of the All-Twin Cities team and Coach of the Year Ruple will be guests of the Monroe Jaycees at the organization's noon luncheon Monday at the Penn Hotel where Harry Arthur, sports director of a local television station, will be the featured speaker.

The All-Twin Cities team and the Coach of the Year were selected by the local coaches with the ballots complied by Joe Maggio, chairman of the Jaycees All-Twin Cities committee.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

NSC Wins Bowl Contest, 18 To 11

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Northwestern State College, aided by fumbles and pass interceptions, downed Sam Houston State 18-11 Saturday in the inaugural Christmas Festival Bowl.

The Texans dominated the game in the air and on the ground but lost the ball three times on fumbles and had three passes intercepted.

NSC scored twice in the first quarter and added its other touchdown in the third quarter.

The first score came on a 52-yard pass play, from Dale Hoffpauir to Bill Booth. Center Douglas Burt intercepted a pass and raced 72 yards for the second score. The final touchdown was made on a 35-yard drive, capped by Hoffpauir's one-yard plunge.

In the second quarter, Ronnie Choate kicked an 18-yard field goal for Sam Houston. In the fourth quarter, a 41-yard pass play from Choate to Kenneth, Stegall, gave the Texans' their touchdown. Coate passed to Jackie Harris for a two-point conversion.

Sam Houston had a 19-3 edge in first downs and gained 296 yards rushing to 74 for Northwestern State. The Texans also made 145 yards on 10 completed passes, while NSC connected on six passes for 124 yards.

George Jackson of Sam Houston State, who gained 124 yards in 18 carries, was voted the most valuable back by the sportswriters and sportscasters. NSC's Billy Booth received the most valuable lineman's award.

Spearsville Boys Win In Marion Meet

MARION, La. (Special)—Spearsville's boys and Farmerville's girls captured first place honors in the annual Marion basketball tournament completed here last night.

The Spearsville quint rolled over Marion, 65-60, and Farmerville tripped Marion, 43-41 in the championship contests. Ike Futch and R. V. Lockwood with 20 and 19 points led Spearsville to victory, while Bob Andrews popped the nets for 40 points in the losing cause.

Bonnie Hay's 22 points paced the Farmerville girls and Tiny Pilgreen with 21 and Sue Graves with 20 led Marion.

Semi-final action in the girls division saw Marion beat Linville 41-38 and Farmerville drop Spearsville, 50-41. Pilgreen topped Marion with 15 and Lona Ford led Linville with 17. Peggy Wade hooped 22 for Farmerville and Mary Harris scored the same for Spearsville.

Boys' semi-finals were won by Marion, 63-34 over Huttig, Ark., and Spearsville, 94-64, over Linville. Andrews with 27 led Marion and Kitchens with 9 paced Huttig. Lockwood netted 32 in the Spearsville win and Norman Pace made 37 for Linville.

Placing on the girls all-tournament team were forwards Ford, Linville, Hay, Farmerville, and Pilgreen, Marion, and guards Sandra Allen, Farmerville, Judy Graves, Marion and Eloise Pagan, Strong, Ark.

Selected to the boys' all-tourney quint were Futch and Lockwood, Spearsville, Andrews and Miller, Marion, and Pace, Linville.

MORELAND HELD TO 30

Techmen Tumble Southeast Texas

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech's cagers soundly trounced a cold-shooting Southwest Texas quintet, 76-45, here last night to hand the Texans their first loss and extend Tech's own unbeaten string to three games.

The Bobcats employed a zone defense to hold Tech's Jack Moreland, 6-8 center, to 30 points, which left him with a 36-point average after three contests. Moreland also collected 18 rebounds against the tall Texans.

Raymond Germany, 6-5 Tech forward, hit for 14 points and guard Bud Frye chipped in with 12. Charles Sharp, Bobcat forward, led his team with 14 points with Frank Wilkening getting 10.

The Techsters turned in their best defensive performance of the season, holding the Bobcats to only three field goals in the first 15 minutes. The Texans hit only 27.7 per cent from the floor for the night while the Techmen were hitting 41.9.

Both teams went scoreless for 2½ minutes before Germany hit three fielders and a charity toss and Moreland got two fielders to give Tech a 11-3 lead.

Tech went on to build up a 22-point lead before a spurt by Southwest cut the lead to 33-17 at the half.

Early in the second half, three fielders by Sharp cut Tech's lead again to 15 points but the Bulldogs gradually pulled away to win handily.

These same two teams meet here again on Tuesday night after the Texans battle Northeast in Monroe Monday.

Bastrop beat Holly Ridge, 51-48, in the girls consolation. Brown sacked 38 for Bastrop and Moton got 21 for Holly Ridge.

Bastrop boys gained the finals by upsetting St. Matthew's, 56-32, as Brakefield and Bryan each scored 19 points. John Varino led the losers with 16 points.

Forest routed Neville, 48-25, in the semin-finals. L. Butler led the way with 12 points while Max Pennington topped Neville's scoring with six points.

West Monroe whipped Holly Ridge easily, 61-42. Nancy Smith starred for West Monroe with 32 points while Moton led the losers with 17.

Most Valuable Player awards went to Miss Brown of Bastrop and Glen Kelly of Forest.

Girls all-star team —Shipp, Ouachita; Smith, West Monroe; Chapman, West Monroe; Toney, Holly Ridge; J. Clement, Lake Providence; Trichell, Ouachita.

Fort Boys, Ogden Girls Take Titles

FORT NECESSITY, La. (Special —The host Fort Necessity boys defeated Grayson, 57-41, and the Ogden girls dumped Central of Delhi, 55-43, to emerge victorious in the annual cage tournament here last night.

Fort Necessity, which now has an undefeated record of fifteen straight wins, advanced to the finals with a 67-45 decision over Winnsboro. A. J. Burlew and Milton Linder poured in 26 points apiece in the semi-final tilt to spark the win. Sisk hooped 18 for Winnsboro.

In the finals victory over Grayson, it was again Burlew who led the way with 22 markers. Ferrand of Grayson tossed in 20.

Ogden thumped the Winnsboro girls, 53-40 in the semi-finals with Thompson's 23 points pacing the win. Watson had 19 for the losers.

In the final tilt in the girls' division Thompson again tok scoring honors with 26 points, while Blake topped Ogden with 17.

Ferrand tallied 29 to spark Grayson to a 62-44 verdict over the Central boys and Pepper hit 23 to pace Central's girls over Grayson 56-45 in other semi-final play. Hammonds scored 13 for Central's boys.

Three Fort Necessity hoopsters and two from Grayson were named to the boys' all-tournament squad. They were James Taylor, Burlew and Linder of Fort Necessity and Ferrand and Pine of Grayson.

The girls' all-tournament team was composed of Thompson of Ogden, Watson of Winnsboro and Blake of Central at forwards, and Rushing and M. Stegall of Pioneer and Dixon of Central at the guards.

Rams Defeat Baltimore In 30-28 Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams got sweet revenge Saturday—if small consolation. A whopping crowd of 100,202 joined in the celebration as the home heroes defeated the Baltimore Colts 30-28 in Memorial Coliseum.

The huge crowd, second 100,000 plus assemblage to see the Rams in action here this season, was treated to a great offensive show which was nationally televised.

Actually the game meant nothing because the Colts had already sewed up the Western Division title in the National Football League and the best the Rams could hope for was to break a second-place tie with the Chicago Bears.

Two weeks ago the Colts wrecked any chance the Rams had for the title.

Left end Del Shofner turned in two brilliant runs on passes from Billy Wade, one for 63 yards that set up the first Los Angeles touchdown. The other was a spectacular 69-yard romp for a touchdown that ended the Rams' scoring.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Louisiana State needs only to win the Sugar Bowl game New Year's Day for a sweep of national collegiate football glory, while halfback Billy Cannon and center Max Fugler keep right on hauling in the individual honors.

Cannon, so far, has been named to all the big All-America teams—Associated Press, United Press International, and the various coaches and national magazine selections. Fugler, the power behind the mighty LSU defense, was named to the UPI's second team, the AP's third team, and Look magazine had him on its first squad of 22 players. They'll probably pick up a little more glory in the next few weeks.

Meanwhile, there's still a lot of feeling that the Sugar Bowl could have found a more representative foe than Clemson for that January 1 scramble at New Orleans, but by the time the publicity experts get through we'll probably begin to think this is the Bayou Bengals' most dangerous game.

There are still area fans who will argue Southern Methodist, or maybe Mississippi Southern, should have received the Sugar Bowl invitation.

Some will tell you that SMU failed to get the invite because the Mustangs are among schools —like Auburn — who are restrained from competing in any post-season or championship play other than in their own conference because of reprimands for recruiting practices. Such, however, is not the case where SMU is concerned.

True, SMU is "serving out a term" of disciplinary action, but the ban against the Dallas school applies only to its basketball team—not the football Mustangs.

The Clemson supporters argue their seven won-two lost record in more impressive to carry against LSU than SMU's five won-four lost. Then the Mustang crowd points out SMU played Ohio State, Notre Dame, Missouri, Rice, Georgia Tech, Texas, Arkansas, Texas A&M, and Baylor and will claim this is a more impressive schedule than Clemson's Virginia, North Carolina, Maryland, Vanderbilt, South Carolina, Wake Forest, Georgia Tech, North Carolina State, and Boston College. Georgia Tech, the lone school on both schedules, beat Clemson, 13-0, but lost to SMU, 20-0.

But all the beefing gets you nowhere. It's Clemson vs. LSU, and the Sugar Bowl, being the kind of show it is, will still draw the kind of crowd the Mid-Winter Sports Association likes to see.

Highland Park Country Club, West Monroe, is grooming for its annual Twin City Open Golf Tournament, scheduled for December 19-20-21, and club pro Jimmy Aulds yesterday said Alvin Dark, the Lake Charles athlete of major league baseball fame, is a "definite" entry.

Other invited golfers, many of whom are certain to accept the Highland hospitality, include Tommy Bolt, the U.S. Open champion; brothers Lionel and Jay Hebert, Lafayette, consistent winners on the national golf tour; Milo Matthinson, Bastrop; Jack Finley, Silver City, Miss.; Scudday Horner, Montgomery, Ala.; David Ivey and L. V. Dukes, Clarksdale, Miss.; Marty Furgol, Pacoma, Calif · Ford Ames, Alexandria; Doug Higgins, Fort Worth, Tex.; Bert Weaver, ex-LSU linksman; Jackie Doss, Monroe, and Eddie Merrins, Shreveport, a pair of strong area amateurs who now champaign as pros; John Wear, Elgin AFB; Jimmy Green, Tallulah; Henry Castillo, champion of Florida; Pete Fleming, St. Petersburg, Fla.; Bob Inman, Tulsa, Okla.; Bob Crow, Minneapolis, Minn.; John Lively, Eastland, Tex. C. A. DeWees, Mineral Wells, Tex., Johnny Stahl, Vicksburg, Miss.; Cotton Hill, Shreveport; Buck White, Greenwood, Miss.; Felice Torza, St. Charles, Ill.; Budddy Sprague, Fort Worth, Tex Winnie Cole, Monroe; Leonard Warren, Bastrop; Paul Jopes, Grand Junction, Colo.; Ned White and Everett Nelson, Shreveport; Iverson Martin, Fort Worth; Palmer Lawrence, Arlington, Tex.; Bill Brewer, Greggton, Tex.; Gray Little, Lake Charles; Johnny Myers, former Bastrop linksman now of Minneapolis, Minn.; and Buster Cupit, former pro at Highland (when it was McGuire Park) and at Ruston but now at Fort Smith, Ark.

The tournament, a $2,500 event, will be limited to 150 contenders with the entry deadline set for December 17. One thousand dollars in cash is offered the winner, with $1,500 in additional cash awards. Special prizes will be given amateurs.

Oak Grove will have Joe Adcock, the Milwaukee Braves first baseman, as guest speaker for Little Boys and Dixie League baseball players at a banquet this coming Wednesday night. Ralph Moore, president of West Carroll Little Boys Baseball, Inc., reports the banquet is set for 9:30 p.m. in the Oak Grove High School cafeteria. The banquet will honor all players in Little Boys and Dixie League of West Carroll parish, their umpires, managers, sponsors, and other persons who have contributed to the success of the two leagues.

A new bowling alley will be in operation in Monroe about the middle of this month, and area bowlers are being invited to prepare to participate in the grand opening of the Bowlero Bowling Lanes, Inc. Tommy Higgins, who once did a bowling column for this newspaper, has been named manager of the 24-lane establishment on Louisville avenue.

Our sympathy goes to the family of Monroe McNaughton who died suddenly last Tuesday at Rayville where he had been in the hardware business for the past several years. Although well-known at Rayville, McNaughton was better known through Louisiana two decades ago as a fine welterweight boxer who won laurels with the old Rayville Athletic Club and as a collegiate fighter for the Northeast Indians of Monroe.

As a Rayville High athlete handy with his dukes, McNaughton won AAU and Tri-State Golden Gloves championships before he joined Coach James L. Malone's Northeast fighters in 1937 and campaigned with the Indian team that included "Bumps" Gormley, Lavelle "Shorty" Green, Snyder Parham, James Williams, Ernest Freeman, Ed "Pop" Walker, "Soapy" Hand, and Tony Veranda.

A brother, Fort McNaughton also was quite an amateur boxer in that early 1930s era when such athletes as Herbert Sorey and Leroy Francis were appearing on fistic cards of the area and handling themselves with credit to their Rayville A. C. Brother Fort now lives in Seattle, Wash.

We saw no hint of anything off color in wire reports of the Virgil Akins-Don Jordan welterweight championship fight at Los Angeles Friday night, but area TV fans came up with such observations as "worst I ever saw . . . should be investigated . . . most terrible showing . . . Akins had no defense or offense, all he did was hold." Akins, the St. Louis Negro who once fought on a Gus Kallio card here, was shorn of his title by unanimous decision in 15 rounds. It may have looked different at the ringside, but angry video fans are calling it a "stinker."

Temple Falls To Kentucky In 76-71 Tilt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kentucky, last season's NCAA basketball champions, held off a determined Temple team Saturday night and pulled out a 76-71 victory in the second game of a Palestra doubleheader.

St. Joseph's beat Kentucky Wesleyan 81-75 in the first game.

Temple had compiled a 41-43 halftime lead on the play of Bill Kennedy, who scored 17 of his 27 points in the first 20 minutes. Kennedy was the game's high scorer.

Once the second half started, Cox started hitting from the inside. The 6-4 senior sent Kentucky ahead after four minutes of the second half. The Wildcats remained in the lead the rest of the game.

The biggest Kentucky lead came at the 2-minute mark. The Wildcats led 74-63. Tempe rallied on the jump shooting of Joey Goldenberg and Bernie Ivens. The Owls drove to a 74-71 margin, then fell back.

Box finished with 22 points.He led Kentucky to its second victory in two games. Temple, last year's No. 5 team in The Associated Press final poll, has won one game, lost two.

St. Joseph's fast break clicked around the playing of Bobby McNeill in the first game before 6,198.

Five Unanimous On All-TC

Neville's Bill Ruple Voted Coach Of Year

Five players, two of them repeaters from last year's eleven, were unanimous choices for the 1958 All-Twin Cities football team selected by local coaches in cooperation with the Monroe Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Tommy Crowe of Ouachita, Jerry Stovall and Albert Fields of West Monroe and Neville's Gene Howard and Ross Nolan were selected on the first team by all four coaches, cecil Pirkey of West Monroe, Bob Ellen of Ouachita, Bill Ruple of Neville and Fred Lindsey of Southside.

For end Crowe and tackle Nolan, All-Twin Cities recognition came for the second year in a row. Crowe was picked at the center position last year. Moore, Howard, Stovall and Carter moved up from the 1957 second team.

District 2-AA champion Neville placed three players as did West Monroe, third in district 1-AAA. End Larry Lewis joined teammates halfback Stovall and guard Fields on the first team while halfbacks Joe Cage and Gene Howard were the other Neville players selected.

Neville's Bill Ruple, dean of Twin Cities coaches, was voted "Coach of the Year" by his fellow mentors. A periennial producer of outstanding teams at Neville, Ruple turned in one of his greatest jobs this season, taking a team with only five returning lettermen into district 2-AA's champions.

Stovall stood out all season long as West Monroe's outstanding star. The 180-pound senior scored 11 touchdowns and 12 extra points for a total of 78, tops in the Twin Cities and second in district 1-AAA. A breakaway threat as well as a great inside runner, Stovall also starred on defense and turned in one of his top performances in this department in West Monroe's season-opening 7-0 win over Neville. Stovall scored all of West Monroe's 14 points against Central of Little Rock, going 65 yards with an interception for one touchdown.

Howard was Neville's most dangerous runner, always a long distance threat. He scored two touchdowns in Neville's 20-0 victory over Ouachita, one on a 58-yard sprint and the other on a 15-yard trip. Howard almost pulled Neville's 21-20 loss to Natchez, Miss., out of the fire with an 80-yard gallop into the end zone in the fourth period but had it called back on a clipping penalty.

Already one of the Twin Cities' all-time all-round athletes as a junior, Neville's Cage, the state's record holder in the javelin and a baseball and basketball star, played quarterback, half and full this season. A fine runner, inside and out, Cage was also an outstanding passer. He turned in one of his greatest games in Neville's 26-13 victory over Ruston, gaining 144 yards and scoring on a 60-yard dash.

Carter, an aerial artist in 1957, went in more heavily for the ground game this season while continuing his fine passing. With his two outstanding receivers of 1957, Eddie McGowen and Billy Roach, gone, Carter went overland to score four touchdowns this year. He unlimbered his arm to win Ouachita's game with Haynesville, 9-7, with a 14-yard touchdown toss to Crowe in the contest's waning minutes.

Crowe, who has played center, fullback and end in his career at Ouachita, conitnued the outstanding defensive work that made him an All-Twin Cities choice last season at center. He was also Carter's favorite passing target.

Lewis, a standout basketballer as well as football star, made his first year as a West Monroe starter an outstanding one. A defensive stickout, he was one of the Rebels' top blockers up front and a capable receiver.

An all-district selection, Ouachita's Moore was a bruising mover on offense and a defensive bulwark. Quick and resourceful, he raced 86 yards with a fumble for a touchdown against Bossier.

Nolan, the squad's biggest man at 210, again stood out in Neville's forward wall. Selected with teammate Dan Keith at the All-Twin Cities tackle posts last year, Ross earned honors again this season with powerful defensive play and effective offensive work.

A lightweight at 155 pounds, Fletcher made his final season at Ouachita an outstanding one with quick, aggressive work at guard. A sure and bruising tackler, Fletcher was also a mobile offensive blocker.

Fletcher's companion guard, also 155 pounds, Albert Fields of West Monroe made up for his lack of size with quick reactions and fierce competitiveness. Unheralded at season's start, his fine play gained the approval of every local coach.

The All-Twin Cities line's only junior, Ouachita's Kimball combined aggressive linebacking with sure passing and blocking to earn the center position. A starter for two years, Kimball developed into one of the top stars in Ouachita's line.

All the members of the All-Twin Cities team and Coach of the Year Ruple will be guests of the Monroe Jaycees at the organization's noon luncheon Monday at the Penn Hotel where Harry Arthur, sports director of a local television station, will be the featured speaker.

The All-Twin Cities team and the Coach of the Year were selected by the local coaches with the ballots complied by Joe Maggio, chairman of the Jaycees All-Twin Cities committee.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

NSC Wins Bowl Contest, 18 To 11

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Northwestern State College, aided by fumbles and pass interceptions, downed Sam Houston State 18-11 Saturday in the inaugural Christmas Festival Bowl.

The Texans dominated the game in the air and on the ground but lost the ball three times on fumbles and had three passes intercepted.

NSC scored twice in the first quarter and added its other touchdown in the third quarter.

The first score came on a 52-yard pass play, from Dale Hoffpauir to Bill Booth. Center Douglas Burt intercepted a pass and raced 72 yards for the second score. The final touchdown was made on a 35-yard drive, capped by Hoffpauir's one-yard plunge.

In the second quarter, Ronnie Choate kicked an 18-yard field goal for Sam Houston. In the fourth quarter, a 41-yard pass play from Choate to Kenneth, Stegall, gave the Texans' their touchdown. Coate passed to Jackie Harris for a two-point conversion.

Sam Houston had a 19-3 edge in first downs and gained 296 yards rushing to 74 for Northwestern State. The Texans also made 145 yards on 10 completed passes, while NSC connected on six passes for 124 yards.

George Jackson of Sam Houston State, who gained 124 yards in 18 carries, was voted the most valuable back by the sportswriters and sportscasters. NSC's Billy Booth received the most valuable lineman's award.

Spearsville Boys Win In Marion Meet

MARION, La. (Special)—Spearsville's boys and Farmerville's girls captured first place honors in the annual Marion basketball tournament completed here last night.

The Spearsville quint rolled over Marion, 65-60, and Farmerville tripped Marion, 43-41 in the championship contests. Ike Futch and R. V. Lockwood with 20 and 19 points led Spearsville to victory, while Bob Andrews popped the nets for 40 points in the losing cause.

Bonnie Hay's 22 points paced the Farmerville girls and Tiny Pilgreen with 21 and Sue Graves with 20 led Marion.

Semi-final action in the girls division saw Marion beat Linville 41-38 and Farmerville drop Spearsville, 50-41. Pilgreen topped Marion with 15 and Lona Ford led Linville with 17. Peggy Wade hooped 22 for Farmerville and Mary Harris scored the same for Spearsville.

Boys' semi-finals were won by Marion, 63-34 over Huttig, Ark., and Spearsville, 94-64, over Linville. Andrews with 27 led Marion and Kitchens with 9 paced Huttig. Lockwood netted 32 in the Spearsville win and Norman Pace made 37 for Linville.

Placing on the girls all-tournament team were forwards Ford, Linville, Hay, Farmerville, and Pilgreen, Marion, and guards Sandra Allen, Farmerville, Judy Graves, Marion and Eloise Pagan, Strong, Ark.

Selected to the boys' all-tourney quint were Futch and Lockwood, Spearsville, Andrews and Miller, Marion, and Pace, Linville.

MORELAND HELD TO 30

Techmen Tumble Southeast Texas

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech's cagers soundly trounced a cold-shooting Southwest Texas quintet, 76-45, here last night to hand the Texans their first loss and extend Tech's own unbeaten string to three games.

The Bobcats employed a zone defense to hold Tech's Jack Moreland, 6-8 center, to 30 points, which left him with a 36-point average after three contests. Moreland also collected 18 rebounds against the tall Texans.

Raymond Germany, 6-5 Tech forward, hit for 14 points and guard Bud Frye chipped in with 12. Charles Sharp, Bobcat forward, led his team with 14 points with Frank Wilkening getting 10.

The Techsters turned in their best defensive performance of the season, holding the Bobcats to only three field goals in the first 15 minutes. The Texans hit only 27.7 per cent from the floor for the night while the Techmen were hitting 41.9.

Both teams went scoreless for 2½ minutes before Germany hit three fielders and a charity toss and Moreland got two fielders to give Tech a 11-3 lead.

Tech went on to build up a 22-point lead before a spurt by Southwest cut the lead to 33-17 at the half.

Early in the second half, three fielders by Sharp cut Tech's lead again to 15 points but the Bulldogs gradually pulled away to win handily.

These same two teams meet here again on Tuesday night after the Texans battle Northeast in Monroe Monday.

Rams Defeat Baltimore In 30-28 Game

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Rams got sweet revenge Saturday—if small consolation. A whopping crowd of 100,202 joined in the celebration as the home heroes defeated the Baltimore Colts 30-28 in Memorial Coliseum.

The huge crowd, second 100,000 plus assemblage to see the Rams in action here this season, was treated to a great offensive show which was nationally televised.

Actually the game meant nothing because the Colts had already sewed up the Western Division title in the National Football League and the best the Rams could hope for was to break a second-place tie with the Chicago Bears.

Two weeks ago the Colts wrecked any chance the Rams had for the title.

Left end Del Shofner turned in two brilliant runs on passes from Billy Wade, one for 63 yards that set up the first Los Angeles touchdown. The other was a spectacular 69-yard romp for a touchdown that ended the Rams' scoring.

WITH PAY RAISE

Dietzel Awarded Five-Year Pact For Unbeaten Season

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Louisiana State Saturday rewarded Coach Paul Dietzel with a new $16,500, five-year contract for winning the national football crown and a Sugar Bowl invitation.

The LSU board acted unanimously, almost as its first order of business and without debate in giving Dietzel a $2,500 raise.

President Troy H. Middleton said Dietzel, now in New York City for honors, "informed me he would sign it and was very happy to serve at LSU."

The LSU board dreamed happily of using some of its big new gate receipts to double deck part of the 67,000 seat Tiger Stadium, expanding it to a giant 83,000-seat concrete oval.

And it voted Dietzel's seven assistants higher pay with new one-year contracts boosted Athletic Director Jim Corbett to $15,000 a year, a $2,000 raise, and gave basketball Coach J. A. McCreary a two-year contract with a raise to $9,000.

The undefeated and untied Tigers, actually a 33-man first team which Dietzel labels "the finest squad I've ever seen," meets Clemson in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 1.

The blond and handsome former Army line coach, who looks as youthfully fresh as one of his crack Tigers, came to LSU in 1955 at $13,000 a year for three years. He got a $1,000 hike a year later. The board now has extended for four years his contract which had a year to go.

At one point, Middleton stomped hard on rumors LSU had selected Clemson.

Board Chairman Theo Cangelosi said, "LSU absolutely had nothing to do with selection of Clemson," and Middleton, stirring in his chair, snapped in agreement, "not one iota."

Middleton said he wanted to report Dietzel would sign because of talk "he might have been shopping around."

Board member Sterling Gladden agreed, saying Dietzel told him he would never use LSU as a stepping stone, "and I believe him."

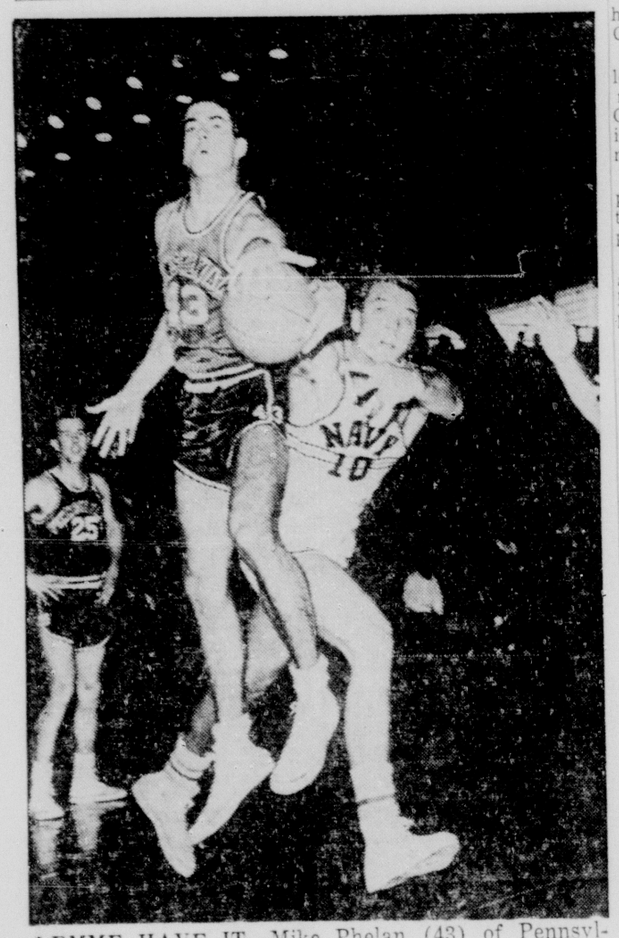
"It is very gratifying that LSU has expressed confidence in our coaching staff.

"My family and I have enjoyed Louisiana and the many fine people with whom we have become friends. It is particularly pleasant to be associated with people of the caliber of our president, Mr. Middleton, and our athletic director, Mr. Corbett."

With about $85,000 expected from the Sugar Bowl, the board voted other sugar plums as bonuses for the athletic staff, including Dietzel and others who must do extra work in preparing for the Sugar Bowl clash. The special bonuses included an extra allowance of 10 per cent of their annual salaries.

It also okayed $175 rings for players and coaches emblematic of their championship, $75 for expenses during bowl training, awards costing $50 for each player, campus entertainment, and $3,000 for award watches for players and coaches — all conforming with NCAA and SEC rules.



LEMME HAVE IT—Mike Phelan (43) of Pennsylvania and Navy's Jay Metzler (10) each get a hand on the ball as it rebounds in a basketball game which Navy won 66-53 yesterday. Penn's Bob Kerns watches with detached interest in background.

SEVEN

Sullivan Award Nominees Picked

CHICAGO (AP)—Seven candidates for the Sullivan Award were named Saturday by a screening committee of the National AAU currently holding its annual convention here.

The winner of the Sullivan Award for 1958—the outstanding amateur athlete of the year—will be named around the first of next year after a nationwide ballot of sportswriters and the AAU Sullivan Awards Committee.

The swimming committees for both men and women named their 1958 All-American squads. The men's team included Lance Larsen, Los Angeles Athletic Club 100-yard and 100-meter freestyle; Richard Hanley, Ann Arbor, Michigan, 200 yard and 200 meter freestyle; George Breen, Indianapolis Athletic Club, 440-yard and 400 and 1,500-meter freestyle, Frank McKinney, Indianapolis Athletic Club; backstroke; Fred Munsch, New York Porpoise Club; butterfly; Frank Brunell, Indianapolis Athletic Club individual medley; Don Harper, springboard diving and Gary Tobian, Los Angeles Athletic Club, platform diving.

Long distance of the Berkeley, Calif., YMCA, was named in four different individual departments on the women's All-American team including freestyle, at 500 yards and 400 meters, and 1,500 meters and one mile; the butterfly at 200 yards and 200 meters and the individual medley at 400 yards and 400 meters.

Earlier in the day, the Olympic Swimming Committee awarded the trials for the 1959 Pan-American Games to Michigan State University at East Lansing, Mich., to be held sometime between Dec. 7-12.

West Downs East, 9-3, In Shrine Game

HAMILTON (AP)—Frank Tripucka's passing provided the payoff Saturday as the West All-Stars came from behind and defeated the East 9-3 in the fourth annual pro football's Canadian Shrine Game.

Tripucka, Notre Dame quarterback of a decade ago who now plays for Saskatchewan, tossed a nine-yard pass to Winnipeg's Kenny Ploen,former Iowa quarterback, for a touchdown early in the second period. A 45-yard pass from Tripucka to Saskatchewan mate Jack Hill, one time Utah State star, set up the TD.

The West then added three singles in the last half while wrapping up its second victory in the series which has seen one tie. Bitter cold winds and 17-degree temperature held the crowd to 5,000 for the charity game at Civic Stadium.

The East, scoring on a safety and a single in the first quarter, was far outclassed in the statistics. The West rolled up a 21-7 advantage in first downs, rushed for 216 yards and passed for 172 to the East's 19 yards rushing and 92 passing.

A "single" is scored with an end zone punt that isn't returned.

Northeastern Okla. Defeats St. Benedict's

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Northeastern Oklahoma State staved off a furious fourth quarter spurt by St. Benedict's of Kansas here Saturday to salvage a 19-14 triumph and win a spot in the Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 20.

After rolling up a three touchdown lead through three periods, the Redmen from Cherokeeland at Tahlequah had to fight desperately in the closing moments for the victory that made them the fifth Oklahoma team in a post season classic.

Until the final quarter, Northeastern, rated the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic No. 1 team, dominated the playoff game with touchdown drives of 32, 45 and 47 yards. St. Benedict's in that time was able to penetrate Northeastern's territory but four times and its closest advance was the Redmen's 21 yard line.

But in the last eight minutes the visiting Ravens, ranked fifth by the NAIA, found its attacks in Mark Flynn's passing and the running of Gerald Mohlman and Fred Finder to get back in the game with scoring marches of 78 and 52 yards.

Yankees May Have Winning Combination

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Yankee coaches, tired of returning home from the Blue-Gray football show on the short end of the score, may have a winning combination this year.

Heading the squad is All-America halfback Bill Austin of Rutgers. Another player to watch is 248-pound Gene Selawski, Purdue tackle who was a third team selection on The Associated Press All-America.

The mythical All-East team, made up of the best college talent in that section of the country will be represented in the Blue-Gray by end Gene O'Pella of Villanova.

Rebels' Stovall, Lions' Moore On All-District

By BILL MCINTYRE
Shreveport Times
Written for Louisiana Sports-Writers Association)

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special)—A pair of Twin Cities football players, halfback Jerry Stovall of West Monroe and tackle Harold Moore of Ouachita, wound up their high school grid careers by being named on the 1958 all-district 1-AAA team announced here today.

Bossier's Bearcats, forced to settle for second place in district standings, made up for the non-title finish by monopolizing the team with five players. The Bearcats, 8-2-1 for the season, landed halfback Henry Brown, end Thomas Harr, tackle Robbie Hucklebridge, guard Donald King and center David Dow on the 12-man team.

League-leading Fair Park (6-5-1), a 32-6 victim of Warren Easton in the first round of the state playoffs last week, grabbed four positions with quarterback Danny Fairley, halfback Lonnie Harper, end Jerry Burton and guard Pat Collins.

The remaining three spots on the 12-man club, brought about when three guards squeezed into the voting, were plit between West Monroe (5-5-1), Ouachita (4-7), and Byrd, (2-7-2). The Rebels came up with Stovall, Ouachita was represented by Moore and Byrd contributed guard Larry Rambin.

Bastrop (3-8), failed to gain a position on the first team.

Four of the all-stars were unanimous choices. Brown and Stovall in the backfield and Hucklebridge and Burton up front. Only one of three juniors on the 1957 squad was able to make the team a second time. Byrd's Rambin, a unanimous selection last year but hampered by the fact that Byrd hit a losing streak this year, is the squad's only returnee. Fair Park tackle Jim Willis, a center on the 1957 roster, dropped to the second team and Byrd halfback Bo Campbell, a unanimous choice last year, was sidelined most of the year by leg injuries.

Only two of the current players are non-seniors —Harr and Hucklebridge.

Brown and Stovall stand out as the top individual performers on the all-district club. Brown gained 1,356 yards on 178 carries for a 7.6 average per carry and paced the district in scoring with 116 points on 19 touchdowns and 2 conversions.

Brown, also a tremendous defensive linebacker, was an adept pass-catcher as well as runner, hauling in nine passes for 75 yards and two TDs. Six of his 19 scoring jaunts came on runs of more than 30 yards and turned in brilliant performances agains Ouachita and Byrd, scoring four touchdowns against the Lions and all 19 points against Byrd.

Stovall, West Monroe's "one-man gang", was equally prominent. A dangerous runner from anywhere on the field, the Rebel back wound up second in the district scoring chase with 78 points on 11 touchdowns and 12 extra points, 35 points more than the rest of the team put together.

No back in the state was better on defense than Stovall. Jerry returned three pass interceptions for touchdowns —65 yards aginst Little Rock Central, 38 yards against Byrd and 35 against Ouachita —as well as legging back a 68-yard punt return against Bastrop.

Harper and Fairley were Fair Park's one-two punch to the 1-AAA championship — one by land and the other by air. Harper, scorer of 18 points, wasn't one of the flashest backs around but one of the most dependable, gaining 551 yards on 131 carries, mostly on dive plays over the middle for short yardage.

Fairley, in connection with Burton, formed one-half of one of the best pitch-catch combinations in the state. Fairley completed 43 of 105 passes for 747 yards and nine touchdowns.

Burton, the receiving half of the firm, caught 15 of those throws for 451 yards and four touchdowns. Three of Burton's touchdowns catches came on plays covering more than 50 yards.

Harr wasn't able to list impressive aerial statistics because of Bossier's lack of a strong passing game but rates as one of the best defensive flankmen in the area.

Hucklebridge, the team's heaviest player at 220 pounds, and Moore give the all-district team one of its best tackle tandems in six years. Hucklebridge, who has another season ahead, was tremendous in every facet, of play and Moore, a powerhouse at 195 pounds, was the best lineman at Ouachita since Ken Wheeler. Moore also achieved a lineman's dream, returning a fumble 86 yards against Bossier for a touchdown.

Behind Brown and Stovall in the district scoring derby were Bastrop's Walter Moore with 51 points, Byrd's Sonny Parnell with 37 and Fair Park's Paul LaBenne with 30.

Boudreaux Meets Cook Here Dec. 16

The long-awaited match between Bastrop's Clarence Cook and Westwego's All Boudreaux has been set for Kallio's Arena Dec. 16, matchmaker Ray Kruger and promoter Gus Kallio announced last night.

The matching of two of the most popular fighters in this area had been in the mill for several weeks. Highly-rated Cook, enjoying a great comeback, was signed for the bout several weeks ago by Kruger and Boudreaux agreed to terms last week.

Cook will probably enjoy a hefty weight advantage over Boudreaux. The Bastrop bomber scaled 155½ pounds for the Miler fight while Boudreaux came in at 142½ against Dukes.

Matchmaker Kruger has lined up an attractive preliminary card to back up the 10-round main event. Dewayne Garris of Monroe and Farmerville will meet Charles King of Jena in a lightheavyweight scrap in one. West Monroe's promising Ladell Pate will tangle with Jimmy Boyer of Bastrop in another and Shreveport's Bill DeSoto, who showed promise in his debut against Garris here several week's ago, will face Jack Dalton of Algiers.

All the preliminary bouts will be over the four-round route.

The Cook-Boudreaux card will be the first of a planned series of monthly boxing features at Kallio's.

AF All-Stars Down Marines In Shuri Bowl

It was the Air Force's third straight Shuri Bowl victory. The airmen have won 10 of 14 bowl games since 1949.

Dietzel Awarded Five-Year Pact For Unbeaten Season

By JAMES MCLEAN

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— Louisiana State Saturday rewarded Coach Paul Dietzel with a new $16,500, five-year contract for winning the national football crown and a Sugar Bowl invitation.

The LSU board acted unanimously, almost as its first order of business and without debate in giving Dietzel a $2,500 raise.

President Troy H. Middleton said Dietzel, now in New York City for honors, "informed me he would sign it and was very happy to serve at LSU."

The LSU board dreamed happily of using some of its big new gate receipts to double deck part of the 67,000 seat Tiger Stadium, expanding it to a giant 83,000-seat concrete oval.

And it voted Dietzel's seven assistants higher pay with new one-year contracts boosted. Athletic Director Jim Corbett to $15,000 a year, a $2,000 raise, and gave basketball Coach J. A. McCreary a two-year contract with a raise to $9,000.

The undefeated and untied Tigers, actually a 33-man first team which Dietzel labels "the finest squad I've ever seen," meets Clemson in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans Jan. 1.

The blond and handsome former Army line coach, who looks as youthfully fresh as one of his crack Tigers, came to LSU in 1955 at $13,000 a year for three years. He got a $1,000 hike a year later. The board now has extended for four years his contract which had a year to go.

At one point, Middleton stomped hard on rumors LSU had selected Clemson.

Board Chairman Theo Cangelosi said, "LSU absolutely had nothing to do with selection of Clemson," and Middleton, stirring in his chair, snapped in agreement, "not one iota."

Middleton said he wanted to report Dietzel would sign because of talk "he might have been shopping around."

Board member Sterling Gladden agreed, saying Dietzel told him he would never use LSU as a stepping stone, "and I believe him."

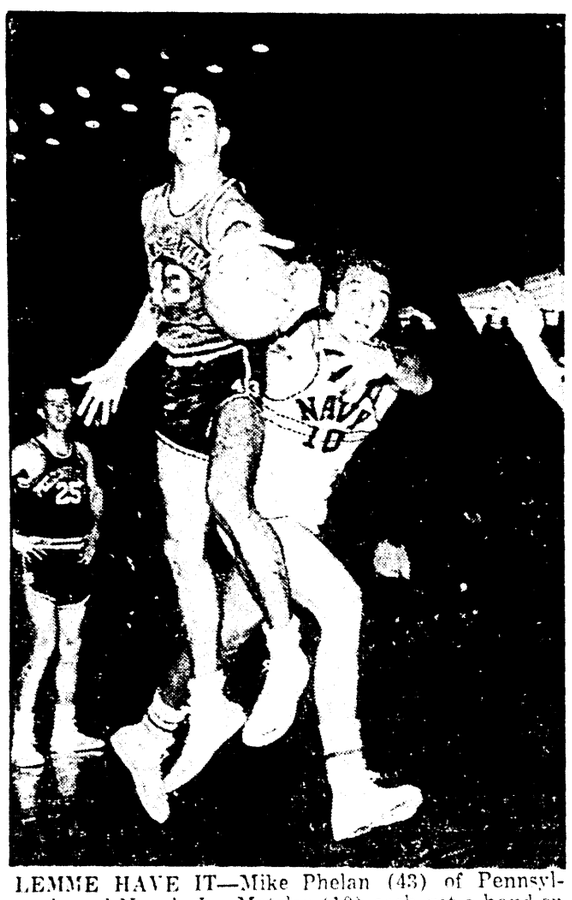
"It is very gratifying that LSU has expressed confidence in our coaching staff.

"My family and I have enjoyed Louisiana and the many fine people with whom we have become friends. It is particularly pleasant to be associated with people of the caliber of our president, Mr. Middleton, and our athletic director, Mr. Corbett."

With about $35,000 expected from the Sugar Bowl, the board voted other sugar plums as bonuses for the athletic staff, including Dietzel and others who must do extra work in preparing for the Sugar Bowl clash. The special bonuses included an extra allowance of 10 per cent of their annual salaries.

It also okayed $175 rings for players and coaches emblematic of their championship, $75 for expenses during bowl training, awards costing $50 for each player, campus entertainment, and $3,000 for award watches for players and coaches — all conforming with NCAA and SEC rules.



LEMME HAVE IT—Mike Phelan (43) of Pennsylvania and Navy's Jay Metzler (10) each get a hand on the ball as it rebounds in a basketball game which Navy won 66-53 yesterday. Penn's Bob Kerns watches with detached interest in background.

SEVEN

Sullivan Award Nominees Picked

CHICAGO (AP)—Seven candidates for the Sullivan Award were named Saturday by a screening committee of the National AAU currently holding its annual convention here.

The winner of the Sullivan Award for 1958—the outstanding amateur athlete of the year—will be named around the first of next year after a nationwide ballot of sportswriters and the AAU Sullivan Awards Committee.

The swimming committees for both men and women named their 1958 All-American squads. The men's team included Lance Larsen, Los Angeles Athletic Club 100-yard and 100-meter freestyle; Richard Hanley, Ann Arbor, Michigan, 200 yard and 200 meter freestyle; George Breen, Indianapolis Athletic Club, 440-yard and 400 and 1,500-meter freestyle; Frank McKinney, Indianapolis Athletic Club; backstroke; Fred Munsch, New York Porpoise Club; butterfly; Frank Brunell, Indianapolis Athletic Club individual medley; Don Harper, springboard diving and Gary Tobian, Los Angeles Athletic Club, platform diving.

Long distance of the Berkeley, Calif., YMCA, was named in four different individual departments on the women's All-American team including freestyle, at 500 yards and 400 meters, and 1,500 meters and one mile; the butterfly at 200 yards and 200 meters and the individual medley at 400 yards and 400 meters.

Earlier in the day, the Olympic Swimming Committee awarded the trials for the 1959 Pan-American Games to Michigan State University at East Lansing, Mich., to be held sometime between Dec. 7-12.

Yankees May Have Winning Combination

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Yankee coaches, tired of returning home from the Blue-Gray football show on the short end of the score, may have a winning combination this year.

Heading the squad is All-America halfback Bill Austin of Rutgers. Another player to watch is 248-pound Gene Selawski, Purdue tackle who was a third team selection on The Associated Press All-America.

The mythical All-East team, made up of the best college talent in that section of the country will be represented in the Blue-Gray by end Gene O'Pella of Villanova.

West Downs East, 9-3, In Shrine Game

HAMILTON (AP)—Frank Tripuck's passing provided the payoff Saturday as the West All-Stars came from behind and defeated the East 9-3 in the fourth annual pro football's Canadian Shrine Game.

Tripucka, Notre Dame quarterback of a decade ago who now plays for Saskatchewan, tossed a nine-yard pass to Winnipeg's Kenny Ploen,former Iowa quarterback, for a touchdown early in the second period. A 45-yard pass from Tripucka to Saskatchewan mate Jack Hill, one time Utah State star, set up the TD.

The West then added three singles in the last half while wrapping up its second victory in the series which has seen one tie. Bitter cold winds and 17-degree temperature held the crowd to 5,000 for the charity game at Civic Stadium.

The East, scoring on a safety and a single in the first quarter, was far outclassed in the statistics. The West rolled up a 21-7 advantage in first downs, rushed for 216 yards and passed for 172 to the East's 19 yards rushing and 92 passing.

A "single" is scored with an end zone punt that isn't returned.

Northeastern Okla. Defeats St. Benedict's

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Northeastern Oklahoma State staved off a furious fourth quarter spurt by St. Benedict's of Kansas here Saturday to salvage a 19-14 triumph and win a spot in the Holiday Bowl at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 20.

After rolling up a three touchdown lead through three periods, the Redmen from Cherokeeland at Tahlequah had to fight desperately in the closing moments for the victory that made them the fifth Oklahoma team in a post season classic.

Until the final quarter, Northeastern, rated the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic No. 1 team, dominated the playoff game with touchdown drives of 32, 45 and 47 yards. St. Benedict's in that time was able to penetrate Northeastern's territory but four times and its closest advance was the Redmen's 21 yard line.

But in the last eight minutes the visiting Ravens, ranked fifth by the NAIA, found its attacks in Mark Flynn's passing and the running of Gerald Mohlman and Fred Finder to get back in the game with scoring marches of 78 and 52 yards.

Rebels' Stovall, Lions' Moore On All-District

By BILL MCINTYRE
Shreveport Times
Written for Louisiana Sports-Writers Association)

SHREVEPORT, La. (Special)—A pair of Twin Cities football players, halfback Jerry Stovall of West Monroe and tackle Harold Moore of Ouachita, wound up their high school grid careers by being named on the 1958 all-district 1-AAA team announced here today.

Bossier's Bearcats, forced to settle for second place in district standings, made up for the non-title finish by monopolizing the team with five players. The Bearcats, 8-2-1 for the season, landed halfback Henry Brown, end Thomas Harr, tackle Robbie Hucklebridge, guard Donald King and center David Dow on the 12-man team.

League-leading Fair Park (6-5-1), a 32-6 victim of Warren Easton in the first round of the state playoffs last week, grabbed four positions with quarterback Danny Fairley, halfback Lonnie Harper, end Jerry Burton and guard Pat Collins.

The remaining three spots on the 12-man club, brought about when three guards squeezed into the voting, were plit between West Monroe (5-5-1), Ouachita (4-7), and Byrd, (2-7-2). The Rebels came up with Stovall, Ouachita was represented by Moore and Byrd contributed guard Larry Rambin.

Bastrop (3-8), failed to gain a position on the first team.

Four of the all-stars were unanimous choices. Brown and Stovall in the backfield and Hucklebridge and Burton up front. Only one of three juniors on the 1957 squad was able to make the team a second time. Byrd's Rambin, a unanimous selection last year but hampered by the fact that Byrd hit a losing streak this year, is the squad's only returnee. Fair Park tackle Jim Willis, a center on the 1957 roster, dropped to the second team and Byrd halfback Bo Campbell, a unanimous choice last year, was sidelined most of the year by leg injuries.

Only two of the current players are non-seniors —Harr and Hucklebridge.

Brown and Stovall stand out as the top individual performers on the all-district club. Brown gained 1,356 yards on 178 carries for a 7.6 average per carry and paced the district in scoring with 116 points on 19 touchdowns and 2 conversions.

Brown, also a tremendous defensive linebacker, was an adept pass-catcher as well as runner, hauling in nine passes for 75 yards and two TDs. Six of his 19 scoring jaunts came on runs of more than 30 yards and turned in brilliant performances agains Ouachita and Byrd, scoring four touchdowns against the Lions and all 19 points against Byrd.

Stovall, West Monroe's "one-man gang", was equally prominent. A dangerous runner from anywhere on the field, the Rebel back wound up second in the district scoring chase with 78 points on 11 touchdowns and 12 extra points, 35 points more than the rest of the team put together.

No back in the state was better on defense than Stovall. Jerry returned three pass interceptions for touchdowns —65 yards aginst Little Rock Central, 38 yards against Byrd and 35 against Ouachita —as well as legging back a 68-yard punt return against Bastrop.

Harper and Fairley were Fair Park's one-two punch to the 1-AAA championship — one by land and the other by air. Harper, one of its best tackle tandems in six years. Hucklebridge, who has another season ahead, was tremendous in every facet, of play and Moore, a powerhouse at 195 pounds, was the best lineman at Ouachita since Ken Wheeler. Moore also achieved a lineman's dream, returning a fumble 86 yards against Bossier for a touchdown.

Behind Brown and Stovall in the district scoring derby were Bastrop's Walter Moore with 51 points, Byrd's Sonny Parnell with 37 and Fair Park's Paul LaBenne with 30.

Boudreaux Meets Cook Here Dec. 16

The long-awaited match between Bastrop's Clarence Cook and West wego's Al Boudreaux has been set for Kallio's Arena Dec. 16, matchmaker Ray Kruger and promoter Gus Kallio announced last night.

The matching of two of the most popular fighters in this area had been in the mill for several weeks. Highly-rated Cook, enjoying a great comeback, was signed for the bout several weeks ago by Kruger and Boudreaux agreed to terms last week.

Cook will probably enjoy a hefty weight advantage over Boudreaux. The Bastrop bomber scaled 155½ pounds for the Miler fight while Boudreaux came in at 142½ against Dukes.

Matchmaker Kruger has lined up an attractive preliminary card to back up the 10-round main event. Dewayne Garris of Monroe and Farmerville will meet Charles King of Jena in a lightheavyweight scrap in one. West Monroe's promising Ladell Pate will tangle with Jimmy Boyer of Bastrop in another and Shreveport's Bill DeSoto, who showed promise in his debut against Garris here several week's ago, will face Jack Dalton of Algiers.

All the preliminary bouts will be over the four-round route.

The Cook-Boudreaux card will be the first of a planned series of monthly boxing features at Kallio's.

AF All-Stars Down Marines In Shuri Bowl

It was the Air Force's third straight Shuri Bowl victory. The airmen have won 10 of 14 bowl games since 1949.

The victory gave Air Force a chance to repeat as Far Eastern champion in the Dec. 20 Rice Bowl at Tokyo against Army, winner of the Kimchi Bowl game.

HUMPHREY, HIBBERT

Southwest Produces Year's Leading Passer, Receiver

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember when Southwest college teams threw the ball so often they were accused of taking the foot out of football? Well, they're back again.

For the first time in 20 years the Southwest has come up with the major college individual pass throwing and pass receiving champions, final NCAA Service Bureau statistics disclosed today. They are Buddy Humphrey of Baylor in passing, and stubby (5-9, 160 pound) Dave Hibbert of Arizona in receiving.

With a couple of finishing flourishes, Humphrey overtook Arizona's Ralph Hunsaker and won the tossing title with 112 pass completions for the season, and Hibbert made a record number of 61 receptions.

In his final game, a 21-33 loss to Rice, Humphrey completed 22 of 37 passes for 387 yards. That gave him the season's high of 195 attempts. Only one major college player ever passed for more yardage in one game. Ted Marchibroda gained 390 for Detroit against Tulsa in 1952.

Hibbert, twice a junior all-star quarterback at Phoenix J. C. before entering Arizona last fall, caught 12 passes in his last game. The 61 total broke the major college record of 57 set by Fordham's Ed Brown in 1952.

Somehow such teams as Iowa, Navy, Army, Illinois, Rutgers and Idaho managed to invade the Southwest's domain and capture minor statistical titles in the passing area.

Iowa's Randy Duncan, No. 3 on the completion list with 101 Hunsaker completed 106 took two titles and shared another. Duncan's .587 completion average was best and so was his total of 1,347 air yards. His 11 touchdown passes tied Joe Tranchini of Navy, Rich Mayo of the Air Force and Jack Cummings of North Carolina for the title.

Only two of Tranchini's 117 passes were intercepted. Army's Joe Caldwell took long passing honors, averaging 20.3 yards on his 54 completions.

He had considerable help there from Pete Dawkins, who averaged 30.9 yards on each of his 16 receptions.

The receiving distance champion and new record holder, however, was Rich Kreitling of Illinois because the minimum was set at 20 catches. He averaged 29.9 yards on 23 receptions, compared to the old mark of 29.6 by Ellery Williams of Santa Clara in 1946.

John Hangartner of Arizona State made the best mark on yards per attempt—10 yards even on 121 tosses. Bob Simmos of Rutgers and Don Black of New Mexico caught nine touchdown passes each and Idaho's Jim Norton intercepted nine and ran them back 222 yards.

TWO-STROKE LEAD

Ellis Sets Pace In P. R. Tourney

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DORADO BEACH, Puerto Rico (AP)—Wes Ellis of Aldecress, N. J. conquered the Droado Beach course and its steaming heat with a one-under-par 71 Saturday for a two-stroke lead at the end of the third round in the $30,000 invitational golf tournament.

Ellis, who started the day in second place, twice was interrupted by heavy showers while putting together a 34-37 round for a 211 total.

Ted Kroll was second with 213 after his third consecutive round of 71 over the 7,115-yard jungle layout that calls for 36-36—72. Winter rules applied on the course Saturday because of water on the fairways.

Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., who had a one-stroke lead over Ellis at the half-way point, faltered with a fat 76 that left him fourth at 215. Howie Johnson of Glenwoodie, Ill., held third place at 214 with a third round 73.

Ellis, a young Texan who gave up an idea of becoming a doctor after graduating from Texas University in 1953, got off to a slow start Saturday with a bogey when he three-putted the first green. But then he took off on a run of four birdies over the next six holes as his putter turned hot.

He finished as he started, three-putting the 18th hole to go one over par for the back nine. His putter saved him another stroke at the 17th, where he sank a tricky 5-footer after all sorts of fairways troubles.

Ellis finished with three bogyes and four birdies.

Kroll was as steady as ever while staying within two strokes of Ellis, a youngster who was the pro at River Vale, N. J., until he joined the tour a year ago.

The third round scores:

Eagles Take 26-8 Win Over Holy Cross

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Sophomore quarterback John Amabile shrewdly guided Boston College's trip-hammer offense to a 26-8 football victory Saturday over traditional rival Holy Cross.

The stubby 5-7 field general from Jersey City, N. J., picked apart Crusader defenses as the stand-in for Don Allard who received a broken collarbone two weeks ago.

Amabile, a master of the art of ball control in the regionally televised encounter, baffled Holy Cross and an overflow crowd of 28,000 when he faked a handoff and raced over from the 3 to score on the first play of the second period.

STATISTICS	HC	BC
First downs	5	19
Rushing yardage	19	247
Passing yardage	67	40
Passes	4-14	2-3
Passes intercepted by	1	3
Punts	3-25	1-1
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	40	20

Then the 180 - pounder passed nine yards to end John Flanagan and handed off to the Eagles' twin battering rams, Jimmy Duggan and Alan Miller, for scores.

While the aggressive Boston College line ripped holes for its ball carriers, the Eagles threw an iron defense around Tommy Greene and his intended pass receivers.

The vaunted Holy Cross aerial game cut loose only once when Greene teamed with end Dave Stecchi on a sensational 55-yard scoring play.

The maneuver came just four plays after BC broke the ice. It put the Crusaders into a temporary 8-6 lead after Greene also ran the conversion.

Greene got off four passes in the first halfg. After the first one went for a touchdown, his next three were picked off by alert BC defenders who effectively delayed the receivers and still played the ball.

In the first half, Boston College did such an effective job of carrying out its ball control plan of attack the Crusaders had the ball for only 13 plays.

Holy Cross	0	8	0	0	— 8
Boston College	0	18	0	8	—26

BC—Amabile 3 run (kick failed)
HC—Stecchi 55 pass from Greene (Greene run)
BC—Flanagan 9 pass from Amabile (pass failed)
BC—Duggan 8 run (pass failed)
BC—Miller 6 run (run failed)
BC—Safety (Flanagan tackled Green in end zone)

NCAA Rules Infractions Meet Slated

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Infractions Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. will meet in Kansas City Sunday and Monday to consider several of 15 cases now being investigated.

Walter Byers, executive director of NCAA, said there would be no announcement as to identity of member schools involved until they have been considered by the NCAA's policy making council. The next council session will be in Cincinnati Jan. 7-9.

Byers said such cases are kept confidential "to protect institutions during the period of inquiry since they may well be innocent even though charges have been filed." He said statistics of the NCAA enforcement program showed in 86 cases to come before the committee the facts did not support the allegations.

Members of the committee are N. M. McKnight, Columbia University; George Young, University of Wisconsin; A. D. Kirwan, University of Kentucky, and Byers who is a non-voting member.

Phillies To Play 32 Contests In Spring Training

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Phillies announced Saturday they would play 32 pre-season exhibition games, 30 of them in spring training in Florida.

The Phils open the 1959 Grapefruit League season March 8 against Los Angeles and close the Florida campaign against the Pittsburgh Pirates April 5. On April 7 and 8 the National Leaguers play the Orioles at Baltimore.

Clemson Ticket Allotment For Bowl Depleted

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP) — The Clemson athletic ticket office said Saturday the college's allotment of Sugar Bowl tickets will be depleted this weekend by orders of students and IPTAY members.

Clemson received 10,178 tickets. Orders have been received to account for all of them.

The 8,000 IPTAY (I-Pay-$10-a-Year) members, alorg with college students, have priority over alumni. Orders from alumni not IPTAY members are being returned.

Clemson accounted for 14,500 Orange Bowl tickets two years ago, and for 18,000 to the 1951 Gator Bowl.

YOST TO DETROIT

Senators, Tigers Involved In Three-For-Three Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators Saturday traded third baseman Eddie Yost, shortstop Rocky Bridges and outfielder Neil Chrisley to the Detroit Tigers for infielders Reno Bertoia and Ron Samford and center fielder Jim Delsing.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Senators, announced the deal after long conferences with the Tigers that began during the major league baseball meeting here this week.

Yost has spent his entire baseball career with the Senators.

The 32-year-old third baseman came to Washington in 1944 and has remained with the Senators ever since, except for two war years in the Navy.

Frequently mentioned as trade material in the last few years as he grew older, Yost stayed on and was captain of the club as well as chief player representative of the American League in dealing with club owners.

Neither player hit well last season. Yost averaged .224 and Bertoia .233.

Bridges was acquired from Cincinnati during the 1957 season. He and Chrisley played with Washington last season. Samford and Delsing were with Charleston, W. Va., in the American Assn. Both have knocked around in the majors in previous seasons.

Bridges, 31-year-old spark plug of the Senators' infield, batted 263 in 1958. Shortstop Samford, 28, led his team in hitting with .301 as Charleston won the American Assn. pennant.

Delsing was Charleston's second best hitter with a .287 average. The 33-year-old centerfielder, exchanged for the 26-year-old Chrisley, advanced to the majors with the Chicago White Sox in 1948. He shifted to the New York Yankees, the old St. Louis Browns, the Tigers and back to the White Sox before going to Indianapolis in the American Assn. in 1957.

Chrisley batted .215 in 105 games with the Senators. He has been Washington property since 1955. The 6-foot-2 outfielder spent most of 1957 with Indianapolis, where he finished second in batting in the American Assn.

Bridges, whose tobacco chaw is almost as well known as that of Nellie Fox of Chicago, has been in organized baseball since 1947. He came up to the majors from Montreal to Brooklyn in 1951 and went to Cincinnati in 1953.

The trade was the second of the week for Detroit. While the major-minor meetings were in progress, the Tigers obtained catcher Lou Berberet, a former Senator, from Boston in exchange for pitcher Herb Moford.

Griffith said trade negotiations with both the Yankees and Cleveland Indians were in the serious stage. He said he hoped to complete three or four deals before the 1959 season opens.

DEFENSIVE BATTLE

Miami Takes 2-0 Win Over Oregon

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fran Curci, Miami's 148-pound quarterback, kicked a football Saturday for the first time this season and set up a safety that gave the Hurricanes a 2-0 upset victory over the University of Oregon.

Curci's boot in the third period of a tough defensive battle rolled dead on the Oregon 1-yard line. Dave Grayson drove for two yards but on second down Bill Poole and Dan Coughlin slashed through to drop Dave Grosz behind the goal line for the winning two points.

Playing before a television audience and 22,898 "live" fans, Miami broke a seven-game losing streak to take the bitter edge off the worst football season in Hurricane history.

STATISTICS	Oregon	Miami
First downs	17	10
Rushing yardage	162	189
Passing yardage	126	70
Passes	23-12	10-6
Passes intercepted by	0	4
Punts	4-31.5	8-38.6
Fumbles lost	2	4
Yards penalized	30	45

For Oregon, it was a day of frustration. Twice, the Webfoots shoved the ball across the Miami goal, only to have the scores cancalled by penalties.

In the first quarter, Paul Grover dashed 18 yards to the goal line on a keeper play but the officials called him back to march off a 15-yard holding penalty against the Webfoots.

In the third period, Grayson swept wide to his right and lateraled to Willie West in the Miami end zone as flags dropped on the field.

The play, which had started at the Miami 7, was ruled illegal because the flying Grayson had crossed the line of scrimmage before throwing the ball.

Other breaks hurt hard-luck Oregon, a team which has won only four games this season in spite of a great defense which held the combined opposition to only 50 points.

An offside penalty wiped out a beautiful 42-yard pass play from Grover to Ron Stover in the first quarter.

Then, shortly after Miami had scored its points, the Webfoots roared back, only to see their drive die on the Miami 6 when Len Read fumbled to Bill Poole.

Larry DiGiammarino, an eager sophomore halfback, was a thorn in Oregon's side all the hot afternoon in which an 80-degree temperature offered a cruel test to the stamina of the team from the chilly Northwest.

Twice in the second period, DiGiammarino stopped Oregon by intercepting passes from Grosz at the Miami 15 and 25.

DiGiammarino caught a 41-yard pass from Bonnie Yarbrough to star in one of Miami's thrusts deep into Oregon territory. Late in the game he intercepted still another Webfoot throw to wind up a great day.

HUMPHREY, HIBBERT

Southwest Produces Year's Leading Passer, Receiver

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Remember when Southwest college teams threw the ball so often they were accused of taking the foot out of football? Well, they're back again.

For the first time in 20 years the Southwest has come up with the major college individual pass throwing and pass receiving champions, final NCAA Service Bureau statistics disclosed today. They are Buddy Humphrey of Baylor in passing, and stubby (5-9, 160 pound) Dave Hibbert of Arizona in receiving.

With a couple of finishing flourishes, Humphrey overtook Arizona's Ralph Hunsaker and won the tossing title with 112 pass completions for the season, and Hibbert made a record number of 61 receptions.

In his final game, a 21-33 loss to Rice, Humphrey completed 22 of 37 passes for 387 yards. That gave him the season's high of 195 attempts. Only one major college player ever passed for more yardage in one game. Ted Marchibroda gained 390 for Detroit against Tulsa in 1952.

Hibbert, twice a junior all-star quarterback at Phoenix J. C. before entering Arizona last fall, caught 12 passes in his last game. The 61 total broke the major college record of 57 set by Fordham's Ed Brown in 1952.

Somehow such teams as Iowa, Navy, Army, Illinois, Rutgers and Idaho managed to invade the Southwest's domain and capture minor statistical titles in the passing area.

Iowa's Randy Duncan, No. 3 on the completion list with 101 Hunsaker completed 106 took two titles and shared another. Duncan's .587 completion average was best and so was his total of 1,347 air yards. His 11 touchdown passes tied Joe Tranchini of Navy, Rich Mayo of the Air Force and Jack Cummings of North Carolina for the title.

Only two of Tranchini's 117 passes were intercepted. Army's Joe Caldwell took long passing honors, averaging 20.3 yards on his 54 completions.

He had considerable help there from Pete Dawkins, who averaged 30.9 yards on each of his 16 receptions.

The receiving distance champion and new record holder, however, was Rich Kreitling of Illinois because the minimum was set at 20 catches. He averaged 29.9 yards on 23 receptions, compared to the old mark of 29.6 by Ellery Williams of Santa Clara in 1946.

John Hangartner of Arizona State made the best mark on yards per attempt—10 yards even on 121 tosses. Bob Simmos of Rutgers and Don Black of New Mexico caught nine touchdown passes each and Idaho's Jim Norton intercepted nine and ran them back 222 yards.

TWO-STROKE LEAD

Ellis Sets Pace In P. R. Tourney

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DORADO BEACH, Puerto Rico (AP)—Wes Ellis of Aldecress, N. J. conquered the Droado Beach course and its steaming heat with a one-under-par 71 Saturday for a two-stroke lead at the end of the third round in the $30,000 invitational golf tournament.

Ellis, who started the day in second place, twice was interrupted by heavy showers while putting together a 34-37 round for a 211 total.

Ted Kroll was second with 213 after his third consecutive round of 71 over the 7,115-yard jungle layout that calls for 36-36—72. Winter rules applied on the course Saturday because of water on the fairways.

Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., who had a one-stroke lead over Ellis at the half-way point, faltered with a fat 76 that left him fourth at 215. Howie Johnson of Glenwoodie, Ill., held third place at 214 with a third round 73.

Ellis, a young Texan who gave up an idea of becoming a doctor after graduating from Texas University in 1953, got off to a slow start Saturday with a bogey when he three-putted the first green. But then he took off on a run of four birdies over the next six holes as his putter turned hot.

He finished as he started, three-putting the 18th hole to go one over par for the back nine. His putter saved him another stroke at the 17th, where he sank a tricky 5-footer after all sorts of fairways troubles.

Ellis finished with three bogyes and four birdies.

Kroll was as steady as ever while staying within two strokes of Ellis, a youngster who was the pro at River Vale, N. J., until he joined the tour a year ago.

The third round scores:

Wes Ellis	72-68-71—211

Eagles Take 26-8 Win Over Holy Cross

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—Sophomore quarterback John Amabile shrewdly guided Boston College's trip-hammer offense to a 26-8 football victory Saturday over traditional rival Holy Cross.

The stubby 5-7 field general from Jersey City, N. J., picked apart Crusader defenses as the stand-in for Don Allard who received a broken collarbone two weeks ago.

Amabile, a master of the art of ball control in the regionally televised encounter, baffled Holy Cross and an overflow crowd of 28,000 when he faked a handoff and raced over from the 3 to score on the first play of the second period.

Then the 180 - pounder passed nine yards to end John Flanagan and handed off to the Eagles' twin battering rams, Jimmy Duggan and Alan Miller, for scores.

While the aggressive Boston College line ripped holes for its ball carriers, the Eagles threw an iron defense around Tommy Greene and his intended pass receivers

The vaunted Holy Cross aerial game cut loose only once when Greene teamed with end Dave Stecchi on a sensational 55-yard scoring play.

The maneuver came just four plays after BC broke the ice. It put the Crusaders into a temporary 8-6 lead after Greene also ran the conversion.

Greene got off four passes in the first halfg. After the first one went for a touchdown, his next three were picked off by alert BC defenders who effectively delayed the receivers and still played the ball.

In the first half, Boston College did such an effective job of carrying out its ball control plan of attack the Crusaders had the ball for only 13 plays.

NCAA Rules Infractions Meet Slated

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Infractions Committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. will meet in Kansas City Sunday and Monday to consider several of 15 cases now being investigated.

Walter Byers, executive director of NCAA, said there would be no announcement as to identity of member schools involved until they have been considered by the NCAA's policy making council. The next council session will be in Cincinnati Jan. 7-9.

Byers said such cases are kept confidential "to protect institutions during the period of inquiry since they may well be innocent even though charges have been filed." He said statistics of the NCAA enforcement program showed in 86 cases to come before the committee the facts did not support the allegations.

Members of the committee are N. M. McKnight, Columbia University; George Young, University of Wisconsin; A. D. Kirwan, University of Kentucky, and Byers who is a non-voting member.

Phillies To Play 32 Contests In Spring Training

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Phillies announced Saturday they would play 32 pre-season exhibition games, 30 of them in spring training in Florida.

The Phils open the 1959 Grapefruit League season March 8 against Los Angeles and close the Florida campaign against the Pittsburgh Pirates April 5. On April 7 and 8 the National Leaguers play the Orioles at Baltimore.

Clemson Ticket Allotment For Bowl Depleted

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP) — The Clemson athletic ticket office said Saturday the college's allotment of Sugar Bowl tickets will be depleted this weekend by orders of students and IPTAY members.

Clemson received 10,178 tickets. Orders have been received to account for all of them.

The 8,000 IPTAY (I-Pay-$10-a-Year) members, along with college students, have priority over alumni. Orders from alumni not IPTAY members are being returned.

Clemson accounted for 14,500 Orange Bowl tickets two years ago, and for 18,000 to the 1951 Gator Bowl.

YOST TO DETROIT

Senators, Tigers Involved In Three-For-Three Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators Saturday traded third baseman Eddie Yost, shortstop Rocky Bridges and outfielder Neil Chrisley to the Detroit Tigers for infielders Reno Bertoia and Ron Samford and center fielder Jim Delsing.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Senators, announced the deal after long conferences with the Tigers that began during the major league baseball meeting here this week.

Yost has spent his entire baseball career with the Senators.

The 32-year-old third baseman came to Washington in 1944 and has remained with the Senators ever since, except for two war years in the Navy.

Frequently mentioned as trade material in the last few years as he grew older, Yost stayed on and was captain of the club as well as chief player representative of the American League in dealing with club owners.

Neither player hit well last season. Yost averaged .224 and Bertoia .233.

Bridges was acquired from Cincinnati during the 1957 season. He and Chrisley played with Washington last season. Samford and Delsing were with Charleston, W. Va., in the American Assn. Both have knocked around in the majors in previous seasons.

Bridges, 31-year-old spark plug of the Senators' infield, batted 263 in 1958. Shortstop Samford, 28, led his team in hitting with .301 as Charleston won the American Assn. pennant.

Delsing was Charleston's second best hitter with a .287 average. The 33-year-old centerfielder, exchanged for the 26-year-old Chrisley, advanced to the majors with the Chicago White Sox in 1948. He shifted to the New York Yankees, the old St. Louis Browns, the Tigers and back to the White Sox before going to Indianapolis in the American Assn. in 1957.

Chrisley batted .215 in 105 games with the Senators. He has been Washington property since 1955. The 6-foot-2 outfielder spent most of 1957 with Indianapolis, where he finished second in batting in the American Assn.

Bridges, whose tobacco chaw is almost as well known as that of Nellie Fox of Chicago, has been in organized baseball since 1947. He came up to the majors from Montreal to Brooklyn in 1951 and went to Cincinnati in 1953.

The trade was the second of the week for Detroit. While the major-minor meetings were in progress, the Tigers obtained catcher Lou Berberet, a former Senator, from Boston in exchange for pitcher Herb Moford.

Griffith said trade negotiations with both the Yankees and Cleveland Indians were in the serious stage. He said he hoped to complete three or four deals before the 1959 season opens.

DEFENSIVE BATTLE

Miami Takes 2-0 Win Over Oregon

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Fran Curci, Miami's 148-pound quarterback, kicked a football Saturday for the first time this season and set up a safety that gave the Hurricanes a 2-0 upset victory over the University of Oregon.

Curci's boot in the third period of a tough defensive battle rolled dead on the Oregon 1-yard line. Dave Grayson drove for two yards but on second down Bill Poole and Dan Coughlin slashed through to drop Dave Grosz behind the goal line for the winning two points.

Playing before a television audience and 22,898 "I've" fans, Miami broke a seven-game losing streak to take the bitter edge off the worst football season in Hurricane history.

STATISTICS	Oregon	Miami
First downs	17	10
Rushing yardage	162	189
Passing yardage	126	70
Passes	23-12	10-6
Passes intercepted by	0	4
Punts	4-31.5	8-38.6
Fumbles lost	2	4
Yards penalized	30	45

For Oregon, it was a day of frustration. Twice, the Webfoots shoved the ball across the Miami goal, only to have the scores cancalled by penalties.

In the first quarter, Paul Grover dashed 18 yards to the goal line on a keeper play but the officials called him back to march off a 15-yard holding penalty against the Webfoots.

In the third period, Grayson swept wide to his right and [illegible]ed to Willie West in the Miami end zone as flags dropped on the field.

The play, which had started at the Miami 7, was ruled illegal because the flying Grayson had crossed the line of scrimmage before throwing the ball.

Other breaks hurt hard-luck Oregon, a team which has won only four games this season in spite of a great defense which held the combined opposition to only 50 points.

Northeast Cagers To Host Three Invaders This Week

The Northeast State Indians, who found a winning combination for the first time when they switched play to their home court this week and posted an 83-76 victory over Texas Wesleyan, will be looking for similar good fortune when they host three more teams here next week.

Coach Lenny Fant's short but tenacious Braves will meet Southwest Texas State of San Marcos, December 8; the Pemex Oilers of Mexico, December 10, and Lamar Tech of Beaumont, December 13.

The Warriors lost two tough but close games at the beginning of the season against teams which were far superior in heighth. "Lack of the height hurts on defense," Fant said.

They lost the opener to Lamar Tech by only 71-69 and the second game with Louisiana College was even closer as the game was tied up 13 times in the first half before Northeast finally bowed 74-71. In both of the opening games, the Indians scored more field goals than their opponents and a Northeast cager was high-point man for the evening. But the games were lost on rebound recoveries and this is where lack of height hurt the Warriors.

Big Billy May of Grayson, a 6' 6" center, and the only really tall man on the Indians' first string, got 21 rebounds in the Texas Wesleyan game to bring his total for the three games to 39 rebounds. May scored 25 points, high of the night's work. He has been the most accurate shooter for the Indians, hitting for 20 of 33 attempted field goals, and a 61 per cent average in the first three games.

Other on the first team for Northeast include John Freeman of Bismarck, Mo., forward; Sid Bradley, also of Bismarck, guard; Mickey Kitchens, Keltys, Tex., who leads the Tribe with 54 points, an 18-point game average, guard, and Ronald Doyle of Calvert City, Ky., forward. "We are short on experienced depth," said Fant who added that only three reserves have college expererience. There are Missourians Center, Vernon Cottrell of Dillard, forward; Fred Bradley, brother of Sid of Bismarck, and Larry Stegall, guard, of Desloge.

"Out of the first ten men, eight are guards," said Fant. "We have a definite shortage of depth in forwards."

Freman, who has scored 42 points this season, has been consistent and accurate in shooting. He has made 14 of 27 field goals attempted, a nice 52 per cent average.

On the following week, the Warriors head for Arkansas and Tennessee for three games before returning here to host the four-game Christmas Tournament December 29-30.

KALLIO'S CARD

6-Man Scramble On Mat Program

A six - man wrestling battle royal will be a feature of Promoter Gus Kallio's mat card here tomorrow night with results of the mass mayhem brawl, the program opener, to determine the lineup for the rest of the night's show.

There will be no time limit on the battle royal beginning at 8 o'clock.

The first two contenders to suffer defeat in the royal scramble will return later for a 15-minute time limit preliminary. The next two losers go against each other in a 30-minute limit semi-final, and the pair surviving longest in the six-man affair come back for the nightcap in an hour time limit main event match.

LaRue, once a favorite with Twin Cities wrestling customers, is making his first appearance here after a long absence. Monroe is the relative newcomer who made his debut before Kallio's Arena fans last Monday night.

Twin City Open Tourney Slated

The Highland Park Twin City Open Golf Tournament, with $2500 cash prizes at stake, will be held Dec. 19-21, club Pro James Aulds announced this week.

Many well known figures of the golfing world are expected to tee off for the $1000 first prize. Among these are Tommy Bolt, 1958 U. S. Open winner, Alvin Dark, Chicago Cub infielder, Bert Weaver, Beaumont, Tex., and Lionel and Jay Hebert of Lafayette.

With the PGA season winding up next weekend in the Stanford, Fla., Open, Aulds hopes to get a number of name golfers making the cross country trip to Los Angeles where play will resume in January.

Bolt has assured Aulds that he will enter the local meet, if possible, after competing at Stanford.

The prize money, which represents the largest in the tourney history, is expected to lure a field of 150 entrants. Non-cash prizes will be awarded to amateur winners.

Pete Flemming of St. Petersburg, Fla., won over a strong field of entries, including Bolt, the last time the tournament was held. Last year construction of the club building cancelled the open.

Deadline for entries will be Dec. 17. A fee of $12.50 will be charged.

Warren Easton Defeats Fair Park 32 To 6

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Warren Easton stunned Fair Park with three first quarter touchdowns and went on to a 32-6 victory Friday night in the semi-finals of the state triple-A playoffs.

The New Orleans public school champions added their last two touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

The first touchdown was set up by Justin O'Rourke's recovery of Byron Pipes' fumble on the Fair Park 33. Seven plays later quarterback Bobby Terrel went the last three yards for the score.

Minutes later Roger Gorumba raced 40 yards for the second Warren Easton touchdown. The third score came on a 72-yard drive. Peter Ascani, the state's top scorer, went the last nine yards.

Fair Park marched 51 yards for its only touchdown. The score came on the first play of the fourth quarter on a 19-yard scoring pass from Danny Fairley to Paul LaBenne.

Easton came back and drove 65 yards for its next touchdown with Ascani going the last 11 yards. Terrell raced 25 yards for the final touchdown.

John Marshall made the two Easton conversions.

Coaches Picked For Jr. College All-Star Game

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — The coaching staff was chosen Saturday for the Junior College All-Star football game here Dec. 20.

Coach Don Hall, who led Stockton's College of The Pacific to four straight Big 8 championships, will coach one team, assisted by Bill Gott, coach of Stagg High School, conference champion this year.

The other team will be coached by Ray Clemons of Sacramento Junior College, assisted by John Giannoni of Lodi High.

Hall and Clemons will flip a coin to decide who coaches the California Stars or the U. S. Stars.

Twenty-five players are being chosen from California schools, and 25 from schools throughout the nation meet in the third annual game in Memorial Stadium, starting at 8 p.m.

The players will arrive here by Dec. 15, and will work out before the contest.

The game is promoted by the Stockton Quarterback Club as a benefit for COP scholarships.

Dutrow Signed For South Team

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Andy Cvercko, 225-pound Northwestern tackle, accepted an invitation Saturday to play for the North team in the Shrine's North-South college all-star football game here Dec. 27.

L. Providence Girls Launch Cage Season

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La. (Special) — The Lake Providence girls basketball team launched the 1958 season this week-end by entering tournament play at the Bastrop tournament. Coach Lou Dean Henry says that she only has three returning lettermen from last year's squad, including Alice Kelly and Loretta Essex, guards and Beverly Honeycutt, forward. However, it is expected that the local sextet will be strong in the district race this year, with the addition of six experienced girls who graduated from the Transylvania Jr. High School last year and are now attending Lake Providence School, two transfers from without the parish and four other squad members from last year.

In addition to the lettermen already named, the team will consist of Janice Clement, Joan Clement, Betty Lou Johnson, Geneva Fortenberry, Betty Jane Sanders, Dinah Lewis, Nanette Schneider, Collette Moss, Connie Shelton, Sheila Greer, Glenda Odom and Sandra Mohundro.

This year's schedule is as follows: December 11th, Oak Grove, there, December 12th, Pioneer, here; December 16th, Bonita, here; December 18th, Pioneer, there; January 6th, Forest, here; January 8, 9, 10, Oak Grove tournament; January 13th, Kilbourne, there; January 15th, Oak Grove, here; January 20th, Forest, there; January 22, 23, 24, Lake Providence High School tournament; February 3rd, Bonita, there; February 5th, Monticello, here; February 10th, Monticello, there; February 12, 13, 14, district tournament, Pioneer; February 17th, here.

The regular season opener on December 11th, at Oak Grove will include both boys and girls teams, as the two schedules are identical.

Tenacious In Stretch Run For BR Prize

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Joe W. Brown's Tenacious snapped back into championship form Saturday with a great stretch run to win the $10,000 Baton Rouge Handicap at the Fair Grounds.

The 4-year-old son of Challedon, a 4-5 favorite, finished a length in front of W. Hal Bishop's Pete's Folly. On The Job, from the Circle K Farm, took the show spot.

Jockey Ray Broussard brought Tenacious from last place in the nine-horse field, overhauled On The Job at the stretch run and finished under Broussard's stringing whip to edge Pete's Folly.

Tenacious returned $3.30, $2.80 and $2.40. Pete's Folly coupled in the betting with Brown Hackle, paid $2.60 and $2.40 and On The Job returned $2.80. Tenacious toured the mile and 1-16th on a fast track in 1:44.4, only one second off the track record.

Discernment, a 60-1 shot owned by the Pin Oak Farm, showed the way as the field hit the first turn with a three-length margin over T. A. Grissom's Shan Pac. On The Job held the No. 3 spot with Tenacious well back in the pack.

Down the long back stretch, Discernment still held a three-length lead with Shan Pac beginning to tire and On The Job making his move. Around the final turn, On The Job went to the top with both Tenacious and Pete's Folly moving up on the outside.

In the early stages of the stretch, Tenacious passed On The Job and Broussard had to go to the whip to stave off the challenge of Pete's Folly.

Tenacious ran in the Thanksgiving Handicap on opening day and finished a disappointing fourth. He was the big winner at the Fair Grounds last year and capped his great season by winning the $50,000 New Orleans Handicap.

NEED HELP FROM LIONS

Cleveland Browns Ready To Clinch Shot At Colts

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cleveland Browns can win their customary title shot Sunday, but they need an assist from Detroit's lame duck Lions to pull it off. The Browns are at Philadelphia and the Lions entertain New York in the top battles on a five-game NFL card.

The Baltimore Colts, who already had clinched the Western Conference championship, played the Rams at Los Angeles Saturday.

If the Browns whip the Eagles, and the Lions turn back the Giants the Dec. 28 title game will match the Browns and Colts in Cleveland.

But "the book" says the Eastern Conference winner won't be decided until next Sunday, when New York is host to Cleveland on the final day of the pro season. The Browns are favored by seven points Sunday, and the Giants get the nod by three.

The New York team, however, is the most unpredictable in the game. The Giants on successive Sundays handed the Colts and Browns their first defeats, but lost three other games in which they were favored.

Detroit (4-5-1), already stripped of its Western Conference crown and thereby denied a championship spot, was never in the running in the West. But the Lions are the only team besides the Giants to beat the Browns.

Pittsburgh still has a mathematical chance for the Eastern title. But the Steelers (6-4) have to win both remaining games, including Sunday's at Washington, while the Browns (8-2) drop two and the Giants (7-3) lose to the Lions, to even tie for the crown.

Other games Sunday are Chicago Cards (2-7-1) at the Chicago Bears (6-4) in an inter-conference rivalry, and Green Bay (1-8-1) at San Francisco (4-6).

Pittsburgh is a three-point favorite, the Bears seven and the 49ers ten.

Since the Browns entered the league in 1950 they have been in the post - season playoffs every year except 1956, when the Giants won the Eastern Conference and then the world championship by beating the Bears. Cleveland has a 3-4 record for its seven title games.

The Colts' Western title is their first.

This year's Cleveland team was being rated the best of all as it ripped through its first five games before losing to the Giants and Lions. The Browns have been winning, but struggling, ever since.

Their big boy, Jimmy Brown, rushed to an NFL record in the first eight games with 1,163 yards but the last two weeks he has been held to totals of 66 and 12 yards. It was the Eagles who held him to the 66, but that day rookie Bobby Mitchell got off scoring runs of 98 yards on a kickoff return and 69 yards on a punt return to offset Norm Van Brocklin's passing in a 28-14 Browns' victory. Quarterback Milt Plum and halfback Lew Carpenter had to take up the slack last week in the Browns' last-quarter, 21-14 victory over the Redskins.

The Giants and the Lions have been heavily crippled by injuries in recent weeks, but the Giants expect No. 1 quarterback Charley Conerly to be ready for Sunday's game. Their big concern was ace defensive back Jim Patton, who suffered a virus attack in mid-week. Without him the Giants pass defense, already the clubs weakest link, would be at the mercy of the Lions' Tobin Rote.

DON JORDAN

Champion To Be Busy Titleholder

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Don Jordan of Los Angeles, who dethroned Virgil Akins as world welterweight champion in a 15-round upset Friday night, said Saturday he intends to be a busy titleholder.

First he must fulfill a contract to give Akins a return match in the ex-champ's hometown of St. Louis within 60 days.

Jordan appeared to relish the idea of tangling with Akins again. "I don't care where or when we fight," he said. "I'll beat him again anywhere, anytime."

After that Jordan, 24, would like to fight Joe Brown for the lightweight championship, indicating he prefers the 135-pound division, his natural weight scale.

He also would like a third match with Art Aragon. His two losses to Aragon in 1955 still rankle.

"I want Aragon," said Jordan, "and I'll give him first crack at the title after Akins if he's brave enough to take the chance."

Aragon is California's all-time drawing champion at the gate.

Akins, who blazed his way to the title with knockouts over Tony DeMarco, Isaac Logart and Vince Martinez, gave Jordan little more than a stiff workout.

The judges' decision in favor of Jordan was unanimous.

To assuage his bruises and pride, Akins Saturday received $26,641.34, his 40 per cent share of the $67,238.05 net from the gate and television. Jordan's 20 per cent amounted to $13,230.67.

The gross gate was $28,549.02 with a net of $24,488.50.

Jordan, who scaled a surprisingly heavy 145 to 145½ for Akins, said he was jarred once, in the late rounds, but he never appeared to be in serious trouble.

"It was just one of those nights," said the ex-champ. "I'll be better in St. Louis. It's colder there."

Truman Gibson, president of the International Boxing Club which will promote the Jordan-Akins rematch, said it will be staged in mid-February.

"Jordan looks like he can whip Akins seven days a week," Gibson said. "It's a matter of styles."

Army Schedules 7 New Foes For '59 Grid Season

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Seven new opponents, among them Air Force, Oklahoma, Duke, Illinois and Syracuse are included in Army's football schedule for 1959, announced by the academy Saturday.

Only Penn State and traditional foe Navy remain from the nine teams against which the Cadets posted an 8-0-1 record this season.

The schedule:

Sept. 26 — Boston College. Oct. 3—at Illinois; 10—Penn State; 17—at Duke; 24—Colorado State Univ.; 31—Air Force; Nov. 7—Syracuse; 14—at Oklahoma. 28—Navy at Philadelphia.

Arizona State Wins NAIA Playoff, 41-12

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Arizona State College at Flagstaff turned recovered fumbles and pass interceptions into six touchdowns Saturday and beat Gustavus-Adolphus 41-12 in a National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic football playoff.

The Arizona State Lumberjacks will meet Northeastern Oklahoma in the Holiday Bowl NAIA final at St. Petersburg, Fla., Dec. 20.

Arizona State cashed in on breaks after Bob Swiggum had shoved the Gusties ahead with a 76-yard touchdown pass to Rollie Hanks.

A pair of recovered fumbles gave Ted Sorich a chance to flip a 4-yard pass to Alvin Rex in the end zone and Bill McCormick a nine-yard touchdown sprint for a couple of quick Arizona State touchdowns.

Pass interceptions set it up for McCormick to go around end for two yards and Sorich to heave a 41-yard scoring pass to Rex. Earl Randolph ran an interception 45 yards for a touchdown and Rudy Cabrera went 78 yards with another.

The Gusties recovered an Arizona State fumble on the 18 in the dying minutes. Pete Nyhus ran the final 6 yards for the score.

Arizona State is now 11-0 for the season and has won 15 in a row. Gustavus Adolphus of St. Peter, Minn., was unbeaten in eight starts.

Northeast Cagers To Host Three Invaders This Week

The Northeast State Indians, who found a winning combination for the first time when they switched play to their home court this week and posted an 83-76 victory over Texas Wesleyan, will be looking for similar good fortune when they host three more teams here next week.

Coach Lenny Fant's short but tenacious Braves will meet Southwest Texas State of San Marcos, 7:30 December 8; the Pemex Oilers of Mexico, December 10, and Lamar Tech of Beaumont, December 13. North ast cazer was high-point man for the evening. But the Warriors lost two tough games at the beginning of the season against teams which were far superior in heighth. "Lack of the height hurts on defense," Fant said.

They lost the opener to Lamar Tech by only 71-69 and the second game with Louisiana College was even closer as the game was tied up 13 times in the first half before Northeast finally bowed 74-73. In both of the opening games, the Indians scored more field goals than their opponents and a hitting for 20 of 33 attempted field goals, and a 61 per cent average in the first three games.

Other on the first team for Northeast include John Freeman of Bismarck, Mo., forward; Sid Bradley, also of Bismarck, guard; Mickey Kitchens, Keltys, Tex., who leads the Tribe with 54 points, an 18-point game average, guard, and Ronald Doyle of Calvert City, Ky., forward. "We are short on experienced depth," said Fant who added that only three reserves have college expererience. There are Missourians Center, Vernon Cottrell of Dillard, forward; Fred Bradley, brother of Sid of Bismarck, and Larry Stegall, guard, of Desloge.

"Out of the first ten men, eight are guards," said Fant. "We have a definite shortage of depth in forwards."

Freman, who has scored 42 points this season, has been consistent and accurate in shooting. He has made 14 of 27 field goals attempted, a nice 52 per cent average.

On the following week, the Warriors head for Arkansas and Tennessee for three games before returning here to host the four-game Christmas Tournament December 29-30.

KALLIO'S CARD

6-Man Scramble On Mat Program

A six - man wrestling battle royal will be a feature of Promoter Gus Kallio's mat card here tomorrow night with results of the mass mayhem brawl, the program opener, to determine the lineup for the rest of the night's show.

There will be no time limit on the battle royal beginning at 8 o'clock.

The first two contenders to suffer defeat in the royal scramble will return later for a 15-minute time limit preliminary. The next two losers go against each other in a 30-minute limit semi-final, and the pair surviving longest in the six-man affair come back for the nightcap in an hour time limit main event match.

ROCKY MONROE

LaRue, once a favorite with Twin Cities wrestling customers, is making his first appearance here after a long absence. Monroe is the relative newcomer who made his debut before Kallio's Arena fans last Monday night.

AT HIGHLAND PARK

Twin City Open Tourney Slated

The Highland Park Twin City Open Golf Tournament, with $2500 cash prizes at stake, will be held Dec. 19-21, club Pro James Aulds announced this week.

Many well known figures of the golfing world are expected to tee off for the $1000 first prize. Among these are Tommy Bolt, 1958 U. S. Open winner, Alvin Dark, Chicago Cub infielder, Bert Weaver, Beaumont, Tex., and Lionel and Jay Hebert of Lafayette.

With the PGA season winding up next weekend in the Stanford, Fla., Open, Aulds hopes to get a number of name golfers making the cross country trip to Los Angeles where play will resume in January.

Bolt has assured Aulds that he will enter the local meet, if possible, after competing at Stanford.

The prize money, which represents the largest in the tourney history, is expected to lure a field of 150 entrants. Non-cash prizes will be awarded to amateur winners.

Pete Flemming of St. Petersburg, Fla., won over a strong field of entries, including Bolt, the last time the tournament was held. Last year construction of the club building cancelled the open.

Deadline for entries will be Dec. 17. A fee of $12.50 will be charged.

Warren Easton Defeats Fair Park 32 To 6

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Warren Easton stunned Fair Park with three first quarter touchdowns and went on to a 32-6 victory Friday night in the semi-finals of the state triple-A playoffs.

The New Orleans public school champions added their last two touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

The first touchdown was set up by Justin O'Rourke's recovery of Byron Pipes' fumble on the Fair Park 33. Seven plays later quarterback Bobby Terrel went the last three yards for the score.

Minutes later Roger Gorumba raced 40 yards for the second Warren Easton touchdown. The third score came on a 72-yard drive. Peter Ascani, the state's top scorer, went the last nine yards.

Fair Park marched 51 yards for its only touchdown. The score came on the first play of the fourth quarter on a 19-yard scoring pass from Danny Fairley to Paul LaBenne.

Easton came back and drove 65 yards for its next touchdown with Ascani going the last 11 yards. Terrell raced 25 yards for the final touchdown.

John Marshall made the two Easton conversions.

Coaches Picked For Jr. College All-Star Game

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — The coaching staff was chosen Saturday for the Junior College All-Star football game here Dec. 20.

Coach Don Hall, who led Stockton's College of The Pacific to four straight Big 8 championships, will coach one team, assisted by Bill Gott, coach of Stagg High School, conference champion this year.

The other team will be coached by Ray Clemons of Sacramento Junior College, assisted by John Giannoni of Lodi High.

Hall and Clemons will flip a coin to decide who coaches the California Stars or the U. S. Stars.

Twenty-five players are being chosen from California schools, and 25 from schools throughout the nation meet in the third annual game in Memorial Stadium, starting at 8 p.m.

The players will arrive here by Dec. 15, and will work out before the contest.

The game is promoted by the Stockton Quarterback Club as a benefit for COP scholarships.

ATMOSPHERE OF HOSTILITY PREVAILS

Montgomery Tense On Eve Of Civil Rights Vote Probe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission undertakes its first investigation of Negro voting complaints here Monday in a tense atmosphere of Southern hostility.

Segregationist resistance may keep the commission from getting registration files in six south Alabama counties where Negroes have filed charges of racial discrimination.

But spokesmen for the new fact-finding agency say the hearing scheduled to open at 9 a.m. will proceed with or without the voting records.

The most outspoken defiance has come from a state judge who has threatened to jail any commission agents who try to get the records in two counties—Barbour and Bullock.

Circuit Judge George Wallace, who had impounded the records for a grand jury investigation on complaints of fraud in the registration of some voters, said he will refuse to surrender them to the commission.

Registration files dating back for three years in Barbour, Bullock, Dallas, Owndes, Macon and Wilcox County have been subpoenaed along with the public officials who have custody of them, and unidentified Negroes who filed the complaints.

Alabama Atty. Gen. John Patterson, who takes office as governor Jan. 19, has advised voter registration boards to keep the records to themselves in the absence of a federal court order to produce them.

Even that may not be enough. Patterson, who contends the registration files are private and confidential records, could appeal to higher courts if U. S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. ordered the files surrendered to the commission.

Such an appeal might keep the records out of the commission's hands for weeks, perhaps months.

The civil rights hearing will be primarily a fact-finding procedure. The commission, headed by Dr. John Hannah, president of Michigan State University, has no power to prefer charges.

But it can use the testimony as the basis for recommending stronger federal civil rights laws or for any action it thinks the executive department can take within the framework of existing laws.

This first public hearing will produce testimony about voting conditions in six fundamentally rural counties where Negroes outnumber white residents.

But even though population ratio ranges almost as high as 5-1 in some communities, white voters have a decided numerical advantage on Election Day.

A breakdown by the Southern Regional Council in 1956 listed no Negro voters in either of two counties—Lowndes and Wilcox.

The Congressional Record, which reprinted the council survey, said the 1950 federal census showed 6,512 Negroes of voting age in Lowndes county and 8,218 in Wilcox.

In the other four counties, the survey showed 220 Negroes registered as voters in Barbour out of 7,158 of voting age; six in Bullock out of 5,425; 275 in Dallas out of 18,145, and 1,100 in Macon out of 14,539.

It was the refusal of registration officials in Macon County to show their records to commission investigators last month that led to the call for Monday's hearing.

Macon, where famed Tuskegee Institute is located, has long been troubled with racial discontent.

Futures Mart In Cotton In Dip For Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The cotton futures market went down last week for its biggest loss since early August.

The market was off from the very start, and the downturn gained momentum as the week wore on. At the close on Friday, active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange showed net losses ranging from $1.10 to $5.05 a bale.

Biggest declines were posted by the current crop months. The more distant deliveries, although down less sharply, scored new life-of-contract lows.

Much of the decline stemmed from tired long liquidation, increased hedge selling and the uncovering of stop-loss orders. Bearishness was also encouraged by the outlook for a sharp increase in crop production, a slow export market, and a widening of the gap between domestic export prices and prices abroad.

Flurries of mill price fixing and short covering could not halt the downtrend. A continued heavy movement of cotton into the government loan, and the prospect of heavy loan entries in the future, had little or no effect on the futures market.

On the subject of crop forecasts, traders here expressed belief that the government's December estimate, to be announced Monday, would show little change from the November forecast of 11,764,000 bales for the current season. The average estimate of the 54 members of the New York Cotton Exchange: 11,725,000 bales.

Exports of U.S. cotton in the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 56,000 bales against 87,000 a week ago and 80,000 a year ago. The total for the season through Tuesday was estimated at 1,055,000 bales compared to 1,743,000 at the same time last year.

Exports in November trailed the same month last year by 38 per cent—a trend which, if continued, would put the total for the current season at 3,500,000 bales against 5,700,000 last season.

Special Broadcasts Spotlight Yuletide

Christmas holds the spotlight, with few exceptions, in December radio programs, which will be presented from the Northeast State broadcasting studios.

The yuletide theme will be expressed in music by the college band and choir, and in word by the home economics department and foreign students enrolled in Northeast.

Programs are scheduled Tuesday and Thursday at 4:30 p.m. over KUZN, according to Mrs. Virginia Popham, director of the college radio section.

Announcers for December will be chosen from winners of the college-wide radio auditions to be held tomorrow on the campus.

A preview of Redskins on Parade, annual variety show which will open December 15 for a two-night performance, will be heard Tuesday. Norman Jones, the show director, has lined up a galaxy of talent, with lively or sentimental music as the Redskins staff offering.

Included in the program will be Martha Seiler singing "Can't Help Loving That Man of Mine," and a group from Alpha Omega Pi Sorority giving their rendition of "Some Enchanted Evening" and "South Pacific." In that group will be Betty Bandy, Jane Gill, Jane Luffey, Betty Thompson, Billie Sue Swanson, Dell Marie Rushing and Martha Seiler.

Thursday's radio entertainment will feature foreign students as guests on a program, "Christmas Everywhere." Presented in nformal panel, will be foreign customs of celebrating Christmas, with a sprinkling of carols to add yule color. To tell of Christmas in Germany, Dietz Von Beulwitz will be on hand; Gerald Chouvon will represent France; Olga Kokinos will describe customs in her native Greece, and Miss Hazel Mitchell, assistant professor of Spanish, will elaborate on customs in Spain.

APPEARANCE

December 16 will herald the appearance of the Northeast Choir under direction of Lee Fiser. The half-hour program will emphasize Christmas.

Home decorations for Christmas will be discussed December 18 by home economics students supervised by Miss Frances Kelso. Returning to music for the December 23 program, Joe Mullins, associate professor of music, will direct the band in a 30-minute feature of entertainment.

While students are enjoying Christmas dinner at home with their parents, they will be able to hear the college program, which will be on tape recording, Mrs. Popham said. Groups sharing time on the most important day of the year will be the five student religious organizations on the campus. These include the Baptist Student Union, with songs led by John LaPrairie, the Wesley Foundation, with President Bud Littlefield and a soloist, and the Westminster Fellowship, The Newman Club, and Canterbury Club.

Completing the Christmas month, two students of the radio class will present a program of music on December 30. Gerald Chouvon and Linda Rogers will conduct the program in the style of trained radio personnel, selecting their numbers, timing them, writing "commercials" for the college, and directing the complete feature.

The procedure is part of the training which students receive in class where they use the control board and studios of the college broadcasting outlet in the Fine Arts Building, Mrs. Popham explained.

Ike May Seek Tax Hike To Offset Output

NEW YORK (UPI) — Federal Budget Director Maurice H. Stans hinted Saturday that President Eisenhower may seek a tax rise if the new Congress fails to hold down spending.

Stans, in a dean's day speech at New York University, said Eisenhower will submit a 1960 budget as tight as the law allows to the Democratic - controlled new Congress.

The choice then will be up to the American people, he said. If they demand more federal spending than tax revenues can cover, Congress will act accordingly, unbalancing the budget, he said.

"The government should spell out what new taxes must be raised," Stans said. "It is time for realism in government finances—in the federal budget."

Stans said the budget for the 1959-60 fiscal year starting next July 1 would be tailored to the facts of the nation's economic life.

"It will be as tight as the President can make it, in the face of existing laws," he said.

"The new budget will run into sharp criticism because of the very fact that it will be tight. It will likewise be met by criticism on the part of those who think it should be even tighter."

Stans said military costs would continue to absorb 50 per cent of federal spending, unless world tension abates. But the government also has to provide for all other needs, ranging from slum clearance to the conquest of space, he said.

ATMOSPHERE OF HOSTILITY PREVAILS

Montgomery Tense On Eve Of Civil Rights Vote Probe

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Civil Rights Commission undertakes its first investigation of Negro voting complaints here Monday in a tense atmosphere of Southern hostility.

Segregationist resistance may keep the commission from getting registration files in six south Alabama counties where Negroes have filed charges of racial discrimination.

But spokesmen for the new fact-finding agency say the hearing scheduled to open at 9 a.m. will proceed with or without the voting records.

The most outspoken defiance has come from a state judge who has threatened to jail any commission agents who try to get the records in two counties—Barbour and Bullock.

Circuit Judge George Wallace, who had impounded the records for a grand jury investigation on complaints of fraud in the registration of some voters, said he will refuse to surrender them to the commission.

World Briefs

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The Swedish army has ruled out the bow and arrow in its search for a soundless weapon to be carried on frontier patrols. Replying to a published report that the ancient crossbow was being considered, a spokesman said: "We can do better than that, I think."

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chief Librarian Han Shih-lu is against lifting the barrier between males and females at the Tainan Public Library on southern Formosa. He told city councilmen favoring the idea that even now paper darts are used for flirtations between the segregated sexes, and added: "If the rule is revoked, even more undesirable forms of flirtation might occur."

VIENNA (AP) — The Prague newspaper Hospodarske Noviny in an edition received here reports economic experts of Communist countries will meet in Prague Dec. 9-12.

ACCRA, Ghana, (AP) — Eight Russians have arrived as delegates and observers at the All-Africa People's conference opening here Monday to promote African independence. Conference Secretary General G. K. Amegbe said the Russians have the same status as delegates and observers from the United States and Britain. Premier Kwame Nkrumah will open the session. It was postponed from Friday to Monday.

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—The Buganda Lukkiiko — legislature —is petitioning Queen Elizabeth II to restore full powers to his highness the Kabaka—King Freddy. The Buganda Province ruler was superseded by Uganda's governor Sir Frederick Crawford in 1955 as a condition of the King's return from exile.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Kenya is on the alert against a possible resurgence of Mau Mau type violence. A government statement said: "There have been statements . . . about a plan for 'positive action,' and the government naturally is watching such developments very closely."

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Parents of brides in Formosa's aboriginal tribes object to this modern practice of paying marriage fees on the installment plan. Councilman Chen Hsueh-yi of the mountain coastal town of Hualien says the parents, who get the fees, complain the bridegrooms often fall behind in their payments or run out on them after the wedding.

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet trade unions were urged to devote more attention to getting better treatment for women. A letter to Trud said while women in the Soviet Union have economic and political equality with men, they still are suffering from disrespect — not necessarily in cases when "hooligans insult girls or a man beats his wife" but in ordinary day-to-day courtesies.

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—The U. S. Air Force is making an $80,000 contribution to Manchester University toward financing a project mapping the visible surface of the moon. Officials of the university, whose Jodrel Bank radio telescope is one of the most powerful in the world, said the project will take about five years.

ROME (AP)—Oreothecus,' the 10 - million - year - old skeleton believed to be an ancestor of mankind, ran into passport trouble in trying to go to Switzerland. A Swiss scientist, Dr. Johannes Hurzeler, after a long delay finally got permission to take the remains of a pint-size pre-man to his laboratory in the Basel Museum of Natural Sciences, but only after promising Italian authorities it would be returned.

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—A German physician says he has developed a drug to keep you sober even while drinking heavily. Dr. A. Schoenberger said he had tested the pill—a composition of yeast ferments and plant extracts —on 24 persons.

Each, he said, was given 12 glasses of brandy which had to be downed in 10 minute intervals. Between every second drink came the pill. All drinkers reportedly behaved and reacted normally, even after taking all 12 slugs of brandy.

Collapses In Chair Fails to Recover

Monroe, Dec. 6—Thomas Wilder of 595 Seneca Ave. was watching an exciting TV program when the chair on which he was sitting suddenly collapsed. Strangely enough he was not too unhappy about the accident. It then became the question of whether or not to recover the old chair or buy a new one. He had been shopping around with his wife and had seen a wonderful, comfortable Reclining Chair in foam rubber and Naugahyde covering at Brennan Utilities, Monroe's greatest discount house, for the low, low price of $39.95. A quick phone call to the store, the chair was ordered. Brennan Utilities will be happy to do the same for you . . . or better still, come to 133 N. Grand St. right at the R. R. Helen Keller's Companion Has Serious Attack

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — Polly Thompson, 74, companion of famed Helen Keller, was admitted to Bridgeport Hospital Saturday after suffering a heart attack.

A hospital spokesman said she was in poor condition.

She lives with Miss Keller, 77, in nearby Easton. Miss Thompson joined Miss Keller in 1914 as secretary when the noted teacher Anne Sullivan Macy was still Miss Keller's companion.

When Mrs. Macy's health and eyesight failed, Miss Thompson took over many of her former duties. After Mrs. Macy's death she carried on as the "eyes" and "ears" for Miss Keller.

Miss Keller, blind and deaf since she was 19 months old, became world famous for her conquests of her handicaps and her achievements as author and educator.

FIREMEN VETO OPERATION

Researchers Rig Up Atom Fire Bell

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—University of California nuclear researchers rigged a hookup that caused a single, strange new kind of atom, hidden among a billion other atoms, to ring a fire bell.

They needed the loud warning so they wouldn't have to watch an instrument panel for hours at a time in the hope of seeing a single tiny flash of light that would herald the existence of the new atom.

Once the atom signaled its existence, they had to rush quickly into the billion-atom collection and try to sort out the newcomer for chemical tests which would prove it to be a new man-made element.

The hookup worked fine until the Fire Department learned about it and vetoed all further operations with the bell, says Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, leading figure in the discovery of new elements heavier than uranium, the weightiest one of the regular chemicals.

Dr. Seaborg, Nobel prize winner and now chancellor of the Berkeley campus, told about the makeshift scientific gadget in a book just published by the Yale University Press.

In the book, "The Transuranium Elements," Dr. Seaborg discloses for the first time what he calls seemingly foolish procedures which he and other researchers used because they appeared to be the best ways of tackling certain problems directly.

The fire bell was in the hall of the Chemistry Building and was not supposed to sound a general alarm. The researchers were keeping its operation all to themselves, but somehow the word got around.

Anyway, the hookup helped the scientists toward the discovery of Element 101, which they named Mendelevium. It is the ninth of the 10 transuranium elements so far found. The last one to be discovered, Nobelium or Element 102, came too late to be included in the book.

The heavy man-made elements have come from bombarding natural uranium, which is Element 92, with atomic particles from cyclotrons. The heaviest ones have been made by bombarding certain of the lighter man-made atoms. This was the case with Mendelevium, which was produced by shooting cyclotron projectiles into Einsteinium, Element 99.

The researchers used a billion atoms of Einsteinium — all they could find in this country's atom supply—for the experiments.

Even this huge number was too small to be weighed when spread on a tiny bit of gold foil cyclotron target was invisible. Yet the researchers were able to detect even one of the atoms when it had been changed into Mendelevium.

Two U. S. Presidents, John Adams, and his son, John Quincy Adams, were born in Quincy, Mass.

Chinese Charge Plane Intrusion

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China charged a U. S. Air Force reconnaissance plane intruded for 2½ hours over Chekiang, Fukien, and Kiangsi Provinces Saturday.

Peiping radio said the spokesman of Red China's Foreign Ministry had been authorized to issue the 45th "serious warning against yet another military provocation by U. S. military aircraft intruding into China's territorial air."

World Briefs

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The Swedish army has ruled out the bow and arrow in its search for a soundless weapon to be carried on frontier patrols. Replying to a published report that the ancient crossbow was being considered, a spokesman said: "We can do better than that, I think."

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chief Librarian Han Shih-lu is against lifting the barrier between males and females at the Tainan Public Library on southern Formosa. He told city councilmen favoring the idea that even new paper darts are used for flirtations between the segregated sexes, and added: "If the rule is revoked, even more undesirable forms of flirtation might occur."

VIENNA (AP) — The Prague newspaper Hospodarske Noviny in an edition received here reports economic experts of Communist countries will meet in Prague Dec. 9-12.

ACCRA, Ghana, (AP) — Eight Russians have arrived as delegates and observers at the All-Africa People's conference opening here Monday to promote African independence. Conference Secretary General G. K. Amegbe said the Russians have the same status as delegates and observers from the United States and Britain. Premier Kwame Nkrumah will open the session. It was postponed from Friday to Monday.

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—The Buganda Lukkiiko — legislature—is petitioning Queen Elizabeth II to restore full powers to his highness the Kabaka—King Freddy. The Buganda Province ruler was superseded by Uganda's governor Sir Frederick Crawford in 1955 as a condition of the King's return from exile.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Kenya is on the alert against a possible resurgence of Mau Mau type violence. A government statement said: "There have been statements . . . about a plan for 'positive action,' and the government naturally is watching such developments very closely."

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Parents of brides in Formosa's aboriginal tribes object to this modern practice of paying marriage fees on the installment plan. Councilman Chen Hsueh-yi of the mountain coastal town of Hualien says the parents, who get the fees, complain the bridegrooms often fall behind in their payments or run out on them after the wedding.

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet trade unions were urged to devote more attention to getting better treatment for women. A letter to Trud said while women in the Soviet Union have economic and political equality with men, they still are suffering from disrespect — not necessarily in cases when "hooligans insult girls or a man beats his wife" but in ordinary day-to-day courtesies.

MANCHESTER, England (AP) —The U. S. Air Force is making an $80,000 contribution to Manchester University toward financing a project mapping the visible surface of the moon. Officials of the university, whose Jodrel Bank radio telescope is one of the most powerful in the world, said the project will take about five years.

ROME (AP)—Oreothecus,' the 10 - million - year - old skeleton believed to be an ancestor of mankind, ran into passport trouble in trying to go to Switzerland. A Swiss scientist, Dr. Johannes Hurzeler, after a long delay finally got permission to take the remains of a pint-size pre-man to his laboratory in the Basel Museum of Natural Sciences, but only after promising Italian authorities it would be returned.

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—A German physician says he has developed a drug to keep you sober even while drinking heavily. Dr. A. Schoenberger said he had tested the pill—a composition of yeast ferments and plant extracts—on 24 persons.

Each, he said, was given 12 glasses of brandy which had to be downed in 10 minute intervals. Between every second drink came the pill. All drinkers reportedly behaved and reacted normally, even after taking all 12 slugs of brandy.

Soviet Chief Sends Note To President

LONDON (AP) — Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) said Saturday he is taking a personal message from Nikita Khrushchev to President Eisenhower.

"I feel it is significant," the senator told a news conference.

Stopping off here for two days after an eight-hour interview with the Soviet Premier in the Kremlin, Humphrey said Khrushchev had gotten confidential at times.

He said Khrushchev had told him: I'm now going to tell you a secret." After telling it, the ebullient Russian added: "And now I'm going to tell you another."

The senator would not disclose the secrets.

"You couldn't pry them out of me with a crowbar," he said.

The senator also refused to disclose the contents of Khrushchev's personal message to Eisenhower.

"I shall deliver it in person," he said.

Humphrey emphasized that he had taken no message from the President to Khrushchev. He said the Soviet Premier impressed him as an amazing man in many ways.

"He even admitted we grow better corn in the United States," said Humphrey.

He added that Khrushchev had an American ear of corn, sent to him by a Middle Western seed company, on his desk.

Humphrey made it plain the Soviet Premier didn't do all the talking.

"I told him we had a new spirit in our country," he said, "and that he better not think he's got it easy.

"'We're not going to get run out of the ball park,' I told him. 'In fact, somebody else might get run out.' I believe this sort of frank talk—this sort of talking to him—is why we spent more than eight hours together."

FBI JOINS IN SEARCH

Gunman Kidnaps, Robs Businessman

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — A Tuscaloosa, Ala., business man Saturday said he was kidnaped and robbed by a gunman who forced him to drive to Meridian.

W. K. E. James, 72, a retired minister now in the real estate business, said the kidnaper Friday threatened his life if he attempted to signal for help. James was not harmed, however.

"You'll get it," the gunman told James. "They'll kill me but I'll kill you first."

The FBI joined in the hunt for the kidnaper because James was forced to cross a state line.

James said that after they drove around Meridian, the kidnaper ordered him to go to a wooded area. He said the gunman bound him with his belt and tie and made him lie on the ground. James said he was robbed of $50.

The man attempted to drive off in James' foreign car, but it was parked in such a position that it had to be backed up and the man couldn't put it in reverse. He fled on foot.

James described the kidnaper as 30-35 years old with black hair and eyes. He was wearing a gray suit and felt hat.

The businessman said that the gunman, a stranger, made an appointment with him to look at a farm. But when James started back toward town he pulled a pistol and forced James to drive to Meridian 100 miles away.

Girl, 8, Killed Near Thibodaux

THIBODAUX, La. (AP)—Brenda Martin, 8-year-old school girl, died on the way to a hospital after she was struck by a car, state police said.

The victim apparently dashed in front of a car as she crossed State Highway 20 about six miles north of here Friday.

State trooper Cyrus Tardo identified the driver as Steven Becnel, 20, a Francis T. Nicholls State College student. Tardo said his investigation showed the accident was unavoidable.

World's Biggest Space Tracking Equipment Fails

JODRELL BANK, England (AP — The world's biggest radio telescope tracking equipment broke down Saturday while trying to trace the U.S. Army's Juno II moon shoot.

Prof. Alfred Lovell, the astronomer who runs the huge telescope said the trouble was in a special amplifying device on its radio antenna.

The telescope got a brief fix on a signal from space at 6 a.m. (1 a.m., EST), 15 minutes after the launching of the rocket at Cape Canaveral, Fla., but there was no confirmation that the signal was from Juno.

Next Wednesday There Will Be An Empty Chair

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

"To conceal the failure, people had to be cured by every means of terrorism of the habit of thinking and judging for themselves, and forced to see what didn't exist, to assert the very opposite of what their eyes told them."

Next Wednesday, in Stockholm, these words will spring to life in the form of an empty chair.

It was to have been occupied by a craggy-faced man with tortured, searching eyes, a Russian poet, Boris Pasternak. He wrote a novel about the Russian Revolution, "Dr. Zhivago." Far worse, in the Soviet eyes, he accepted the highest award the civilized world can bestow for his work.

In short, he declined to be "cured" of thinking and judging.

On Wednesday, in Concert Hall, the 1958 Nobel Prizes will be presented to scientists and statesmen —but not, this year, to the laureate for literature.

The winners sit on one side of the stage. Opposite each is an authority who reads the citation and describes the achievement for which the award was granted. The Swedish Royal family and a host of distinguished men and women from many nations assist in the ceremonies.

The most dramatic fact, this year, will be the invisible shadow of Boris Pasternak.

This brings to a climax—for the moment, at least — the greatest propaganda disaster Russia has suffered since the Hungarian rebellion. Never has the Kremlin, and the whole slave system in Russia, stood more nakedly exposed to the eyes of the world.

"Dr. Zhivago" is a quiet but powerful indictment of men, methods and results to communism. But the train of events set in motion by the Soviets themselves, has been a far more damaging indictment.

On Oct. 23, the Swedish Academy notified Pasternak that he was this year's Nobel laureate. He telegraphed the next day, "immensely thankful, touched, proud, astonished abashed."

Almost immediately, the Soviet writers and newspapers began assaulting Pasternak in words of poison and vulgarity usually reserved for Russia's principal enemies in the cold war. The award itself was denounced as a "hostile act" and a "cold war plot" against Russia.

Hardly more than a week later, Pasternak had declined the prize and was pleading with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev not to be exiled from Russia.

Today, on many counts, this has become one of the most fantastic, and carefully followed, developments since the cold war began—

1. "Dr. Zhivago" has been translated into 15 languages. (The Yugoslavs started to publish it, but American publishers say they have broken off the work).

2. People in Communist East Germany, who slip into non-Communist West Berlin to buy the book, are paying the equivalent of a week's salary for it . . . in Japan, it is being serialized in newspapers . . . in the United States, Mrs. Helen Wolff, the American publisher, says it already has sold about 250,000 copies. She expects it to reach toward a million sales.

3. Two weeks before the Nobel award, Radio Free Europe broadcast passages of "Dr. Zhivago" to Hungary, Romania, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Bulgaria. More than 90 radio scripts have quoted it. The Voice of America broadcast six 15-minute programs about it in Russian and Chinese.

4. The Italian publisher, Gian Giacomo Feltrenelli, says a "pirated" edition is being circulated, clandestinely, in Russia.

5. Two American producers have laid claims to the movie rights. Feltrenelli cabled, "Considering the present situation and the dangers involving the author's personal safety, I am not for the moment considering the sale of movie or television rights to 'Dr. Zhivago.'" He said he would bring legal action to stop anyone from filming the story.

6. Royalties from the sale of the book are going into a trust fund, set up in Switzerland for Pasternak, Mr. Wolff said. "He undoubtedly will be a millionaire," she said.

Around the world, the sparks are flying. The strange case bristles with questions.

Was it a "political award," as the Soviets contend?

Absolutely not, says the Swedish Academy. Swedish sources say that, for 10 years, Pasternak's poetry has made him a potential Nobel winner. Alfred Nobel's will reads that the literary award shall go to "the person who shall have produced in the field of literature the most outstanding work of an idealistic tendency."

Dr. Anders Osterling, the academy's permanent secretary, said: "Because of its pure and powerful spirit, this book can be said to meet, to an unusual degree, the original requirements for the literary Nobel Prize."

Why did Pasternak reverse himself and refuse the award?

Thomas P. Whitney, Associated Press specialist on Soviet affairs, wrote:

"It need not be attributed to any direct Kremlin threats or pressure against him or his relatives. Pasternak never had the slightest desire to become a storm center of cold war controversy. All his life, he has attempted to keep his art distant from politics."

Will Pasternak be formally prosecuted?

Authorities disagree. Some feel the Kremlin will not further aggravate world opinion by taking direct action. But the London Daily Telegraph said recently:

"The regime is not strong enough to tolerate even one critic among its writers. He must be reduced to silence and poverty. He should have refused it (the prize) at once. Then he would perhaps have escaped some of the worst punishments he is now to suffer."

Why doesn't Pasternak leave Russia?

Those who know him say, simply, "His roots are too deep at home. He couldn't write anywhere else."

Who is Boris Pasternak?

He is Jewish, 68, born in Moscow. His father was a painter, his mother a musician. Before "Dr. Zhivago," he was best known as a lyric poet, often compared to the greatest Russian writers.

His book is long (568 pages in the American edition), involved, long descriptions of landscape and filled with massive Russian scenery. Russia, mainly between 1903 and 1929. An epilogue carries the story discussions of life, philosophy, and It covers the terrible years in into World War II.

Friday, Dec. 5, permits were issued to:

Frank C. Eason, to build a brick veneer residence, six rooms and two baths at 505 Wilmuth, size 1230 square feet, cost $14,000.

Economy Service Station, to move a frame warehouse from 203 S. Second St. to 3112 DeSiard Rd. Cost for moving the 20 foot long, 20 foot wide and 12 foot high building is $75.

Woman Suffers Serious Burns At Providence

KILBOURNE (Special) —Burns from a bedroom heater seriously burned a Lake Providence school teacher here yesterday, it was reported last night.

Mrs. Dwain Tharp, 22, caught her clothing on fire while standing by a stove in her mother's home yesterday about 8:30 a.m. A neighbor, Mrs. Thad Finch, heard Mrs. Tharp's screams and caught the victim as she was running from the house.

Mrs. Finch rolled her on the ground and it appeared the flames were out. However, as Mrs. Tharp started to a water hydrant, wind whipped the smoldering clothing into flame again.

Mrs. Nellie Rawls, a friend, arrived on the scene and took Mrs. Tharp to an Oak Grove clinic, where she is suffering back burns.

Mrs. Tharp and her husband had spent the night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Littlefield. Tharp and Mrs. Littlefield were away from the house at the time of the mishap.

Littlefield, father of the woman, was outside at the time.

READY TO START NEW LIFE

Parolee Rejoins Family For Yule

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—An Ohio slayer, paroled after twice going to prison for life, slipped away for a quiet reunion with his family today.

"From now on I'm just a plain citizen," said Aaron Gordon, 55, who arrived on an early-morning plane.

The stocky, black-haired little man left the Ohio State Prison in Columbus once more Friday—this time without fear of pursuit. He escaped in 1947, married, and started a new life in Houston before being taken back 20 months ago.

"It's nice to be out in time for Christmas," said Gordon. "My wife had hoped I'd get home by last Christmas. I didn't think I'd ever make it."

He smiled at the prospect of spending the holiday with three young grandchildren. They are the two sons and daughter of Robert Bowlin of Houston, one of Mrs. Gordon's two adult sons by a former marriage.

Gordon plans to resume his business as a successful contractor for home flooring and repairs.

He went to prison under a life sentence in 1931 for the Cleveland slaying of Mrs. Rose Becker, who had caught him committing a burglary. He was an honor prisoner, driving a truck outside the walls in 1947, when he abandoned the truck and fled.

After his return in March, 1957, he noted with a grin: "They put me back to driving a truck again —outside."

Gordon came to Houston soon after his escape, started learning his new trade, and married Mrs. Ann Bowlin, a widow, in 1948. They have a home in south Houston.

"Everything was going fine until one of the 'brothers' (another former Ohio prison inmate) recognized me," he said.

Authorities took Gordon back to prison, and efforts to win his release followed. Last September, Ohio Gov. William O'Neill commuted his sentence from first to second-degree murder, clearing the way for a parole.

French Chief Tours Desert Oil Holdings

ALGIERS (AP(— Premier Charles de Gaulle completed an inspection of France's petroleum riches in the Sahara Saturday and turned to political problems in Algeria.

Arriving in flag-bedecked Algiers from the newly tapped oil fields in the desert, the 68-year-old Premier prepared to end a military rule that threw out the civilian officials of Algeria last May.

At De Gaulle's side was government industrial expert Paul Delouvrier, 43, the man all Algeria believes will be named to the top post in the territory. Throughout the Algerian tour that began Wednesday Delouvrier was at De Gaulle's elbow as a demonstration to the restive Algerian settlers that he enjoyed De Gaulle's confidence.

The appointment of Delouvrier was tied up with the official promotion of Gen. Raoul Salan to inspector general of France's defense forces.

This maneuver would remove Salan diplomatically as Algeria's commander in chief and relieve him of civilian responsibility.

The military war against the nationalist rebels would again be the top priority of the armed forces in Algeria under the command of air force Gen. Maurice Challe.

Such an arrangement has long been a aim of De Gaulle. But he cannot move too fast for fear of arousing the French settlers who openly revolted last May. Yet he faces the compelling need to restore the authority of the Paris government over Algeria.

To try to settle the rebellion De Gaulle has promised to confer with Algeria's elected representatives. Yet the Moslems named in last Sunday's voting are far from representative, although he may find among them the genuine intermediaries he is seeking.

He may have contacts with some of these men overnight before flying back to Paris Sunday.

TEMPLE MEETING

All officers, Sisters and Knights are requested by Mrs. Bessie Haile to attend the Monday night meet of Monroe Temple No. 1, Pythian Sisters at 8 p.m. in Castle Hall, 127½ St. John.

The 1959 election of officers will be held and refreshments will be served afterwards.

American Cities Are Not Serving

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—American cities are not serving American citizens and the American society. Rather, they are creating problems of such economic and social importance that society and the family itself is breaking down.

This view was expressed by Dr. Constantine A. Doxiadis, a 44-year-old architect from Athens, Greece, who has visited the United States 10 times in the past 13 years.

Doxiadis, who was Greece's minister of redevelopment at the age of 31, is a private consultant on urban planning in nine different countries.

At a press conference here recently, he said the centers of American cities have become "uncontrolled jungles where the citizen has been driven out by the car. The city is actually inhabited by cars and occasionally by people."

This, Doxiadis said, is symptomatic of the fact that U. S. urban problems are increasing so quickly that a much greater effort is necessary if they are to be solved.

Moreover, he continued, "with people swarming into cities everywhere in the world" it is up to the United States to show how more attractive, livable cities can be achieved. This country, he said, enjoys a civilization and technology sufficiently advanced to permit solution of urban problems if the effort is made.

The core of the problem, as Doxiadis outlined it, is a combination of population growth and widespread use of the auto. The two have made obsolete and unworkable the concept of a downtown business area surrounded by constantly growing suburbs. Downtown streets are choked with traffic, causing constantly increasing commuting time.

But the auto also has become an indispensable part of suburban life because of the distances from shopping centers, commercial districts, church, recreation areas and friends.

"If there is one car in the family and the man takes it to work the suburban housewife may be isolated all day," Doxiadis observed.

Doxiadis' solution, to making cities more livable, is to think in terms of "sectors" instead of conventional blocks.

One sector would comprise several present-day blocks. Fringe parking on its edge would leave the interior reserved for people, shops, markets, office buildings and homes.

Autos and trucks would be confined to main arteries, connecting the sectors.

Streets in the center of a sector might be converted into malls, major pedestrian thoroughfares, free from the noises and tangle of vehicular traffic.

With traffic restricted, landscaping and courtyards encouraged and emphasis directed more to the pleasure and comfort of human beings, Doxiadis said, the flight to the suburbs of middle and upper-income families could be checked and the renaissance of the city realized.

21 Killed In Plane Crash In Spain Mountains

MADRID (AP) — The twisted wreckage of a Spanish airliner, missing since Thursday night was found Saturday only 30 miles northwest of the airport it was trying to reach. All 21 persons aboard were dead.

In addition to the five-men crew there were 16 passengers — 12 men, two women and two young girls — aboard. A Chilean student was the only non-Spaniard aboard.

CEREMONIAL

The El Miro Temple No. 187 - Knights of Khorassan - will hold a Dokey ceremonial and supper Saturday beginning at 6 p.m. at Castle Hall, 127½ St. John. Out-of-state and surrounding area members are expected. Secretary Jim Tolsan urges all Dokeys to wear fez and bring their candidates.

Building Permits Total Is $94,225

Fourteen building permits for construction totalling $94,225 were issued by the office of William C. Hines, Jr., building inspector, last week.

Chief Inspector John E. Zufall who issued the permits also released the totals on November building permits.

Fifty permits for construction worth $265,785.00 were obtained, in addition to 11 permits for moving buildings and 3 to demolish structures, during November.

A breakdown on the total for the past month shows that 20 dwellings, at a cost of $182,745.00 were begun.

Other permits were issued for one club house, cost $12,000; a tourist cabin, $2,500; a church educational building, $6,000; a combined store and barber shop, $6,100; and a store, $30,000.

Twenty-three permits for $24,140 worth of additions and alterations to residences were obtained, besides two for $2,300 in alterations to non-residential units.

During the past week, building permits were issued to:

Joe E. Marx, Jr., who received a permit on Monday to construct a brick veneer residence, six rooms and two baths at 2216 Pargoud Blvd., size 2,700 feet, cost $25,250.

Dec. 2 permits were obtained by:

Hal Farmer, to place a veneer of eight-inch concrete blocks on a two-room used car office at 310 Walnut, cost $300.

J. E. Hart and Son, to build a brick veneer home, seven rooms and two baths at 2119 Dogwood Dr., size 1550 square feet, cost $14,000.

Pete J. Butitta, to remodel a frame home by adding two rooms and a bath at 504 Arkansas, size 392 square feet, cost $7,000.

On Wednesday, Dec. 3, permits went to:

Joe Ford, to add two rooms to a frame home at the rear of 316 N. Eighth St, size 138 square feet, cost $500.

Sterlington Lumber and Supply, to construct a brick veneer home, six rooms and two baths, at 2218 Beechwood, size 1,582 square feet, cost $17,000.

Ben Freeman, to remodel a brick veneer home by adding one room at 1700 Lexington Ave., size 360 square feet, cost $500.

Corbin J. Turpin, to construct a brick veneer residence, six rooms, bath and carport at 3800 Lionel, size 1,000 square feet, cost $8,000.

Three permits were obtained on Thursday, Dec. 4, by:

R. W. Gregory, Jr., to build a concrete block office and warehouse containing two rooms and ½ bath on North 16th St., size 1800 square feet, cost $3,600.

Mabry W. Savage, to construct a five room and bath brick veneer home at 220 Pope, size 1150 square feet, cost $6,000.

Mabry W. Savage, to remodel a frame house at 222 Pope, cost $1,000.

Friday, Dec. 5, permits were issued to:

Frank C. Eason, to build a brick veneer residence, six rooms and two baths at 505 Wilmuth, size 1230 square feet, cost $14,000.

Economy Service Station, to move a frame warehouse from 203 S. Second St. to 3112 DeSiard Rd. Cost for moving the 20 foot long, 20 foot wide and 12 foot high building is $75.

YOUNG FIRE VICTIMS MOURNED

Officials To Quiz Pupils In Probe Of Fatal Blaze

CHICAGO (UPI)—Heavy-hearted city authorities Saturday night mapped additional steps in an exhaustive, formal investigation into the Our Lady of the Angels fire.

Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn ordered an intensive questioning, beginning Monday, of every sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupil who escaped the holocaust in the Roman Catholic elementary school.

The fire claimed the lives of 88 children and three runs. Sixty-nine of the nearly 100 burned and injured remained in hospitals Saturday, 11 still in critical condition.

Twelve grieving families said goodbye to young fire victims Saturday in solemn last rites at parish churches. Funeral arrangements were pending for the last victim, Victor Jacabellis, 9, who died Friday as the city mourned and flags flew at half mast.

Seventy children were buried Friday. Mass services for 27 of them were held in huge Northwest Armory with Archbishop Albert G. Meyer celebrating the mass and Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York presiding.

Nuns Buried

Eight others, including three heroic nuns who perished with their charges, were buried Thursday.

Priests announced that seven Sunday masses would be said at the usual times in Our Lady of the Angels Church adjoining the school. Four others will be transferred to a movie house because the fire damaged the basement chapel of the school in which they had been held.

"What can a man say to these people?" asked the Rev. John Egan. "What words can we use? Won't any words we say to them fall short of the experiences they've lived through this week?"

Commissioner Quinn said police and fire experts would quiz at least 500 of the 1,200 boys and girls who escaped from the inferno that saddened the world.

A "blue ribbon" coroner's jury of experts will convene Wednesday to seek answers to three big questions: What happened? Why? How can another such tragedy be avoided?

Back to Classess

The school's remaining pupils—except for those still hospitalized or not receovered from burns and injuries—will go back to classes Tuesday. Kindergarten and first grade children will resume their studies in a school annex untouched by the flames. Some 1,200 other children will resume classes on a half-day basis at a neighboring Catholic school.

Christmas gifts and candy were taken to the hospital rooms of victims who face a prospect of spending the holiday season in bed.

Financial help already was reaching the stricken families. Checks for $500 each were delivered to parents of victims by representatives of the Our Lady of the Angels fund, now swollen to more than $26,000.

Spiritual Leader Is $61.15 Closer To Squaring Tax

DETROIT (AP)—Prophet Jones, a Negro spiritual leader, is $61.16 closer to squaring a tax bill held by federal agents.

Without the benfit of the Prophet's presence, Internal Revenue Service men opened a safe deposit box in a Detroit bank, sifted through a stack of souvenirs, and left with a bag of change Friday.

A friend of Prophet Jones, Ophelia Kemp, watched the opening and explained the Prophet "could not be bothered by earthly things."

Prophet Jones, given to weighing himself down with furs and jewelry, is head of the Church of the Universal Triumph of the Dominion of God, Inc.

Federal agents last month seized the Prophet's bank account of $131 in an attempt to satisfy a $10,522.46 income tax lien for 1953 and 1954.

An attorney for the Prophet said the Prophet had caused the tax troubles when he overstated the value of an ermine cape and a fancy bracelet.

Chevalier Takes Rest In France

PARIS (AP) — Maurice Chevlier flew into Paris Saturday for two months of rest but plans to return to Hollywood because he likes being Papa and Uncle Maurice.

"I don't plan to sing any more in France," the 70-year-old actor-singer told reporters at the airport. "In the United States I have begun a new career as comedian, specializing in roles of father and uncle. Such jobs are pleasant because among other things they help me get acquainted with pretty daughters and nieces."

Soviets Warn Iran Against Defense Pact

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union hinted to Iran Saturday that signing a defense agreement with the United States would give the Soviet Union the right to send troops into Iran.

Iranian officials deny that this right from a 1921 treaty still exists.

The Soviet warning was published in Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, and signed "Observer." This signature is used on important but unofficial statements of Soviet foreign policy.

Except for the additional hint of sending troops, the warning was similar to earlier Soviet attacks on a U.S.-Iranian agreement. On Nov. 8 Iran rejected a Moscow note warning it not to sign.

Pravda spoke of "Iran's conclusion of a new military agreement with the United States." Although both Washington and Tehran have said it is under negotiation, there has been no indication of signing yet.

Iran is a member of the Baghdad Pact. The proposed agreement would put into effect an American pledge to defend pact members against aggression without the United States' joining the anti-Communist alliance.

Instead of being defensive, Pravda said the agreement was with "the aggressive forces of the United States." The paper said the Soviet Union "cannot remain indifferent in the face of the situation arising from (the agreement) which represents a direct danger to the southern frontiers of the U.S.S.R." Iran borders the Soviet Union on both sides of the Caspian Sea.

Pravda said signing the agreement would violate treaties between Iran and the Soviet Union, particularly a 1927 treaty of security and neutrality and the 1921 pact.

The 1921 agreement granted Communist troops the right to enter Iran to put down any danger from anti-Communist forces in the Russian civil war. Iran contends that later Soviet guarantees to respect its territorial integrity and sovereignty canceled the 1921 agreement.

POWER CURBS FAVORED

Law Deans Polled On U.S. Passports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Curbing the secretary of state's discretionary power to deny passports is recommended by many law school deans and professors who responded to a Senate inquiry.

They said legislation should be enacted setting forth clearly defined standards and procedures for handling passport applications.

Their views were requested by Sen. Thomas C. Hennings (D-Mo) as chairman of the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee in a letter sent in April, 1957, to the deans of 132 accredited law schools.

Replies, received from 65 deans and professors of law, are published in a 357-page volume released by the subcommittee Saturday night for public distribution.

Since the replies were received, the broad discretionary power exercised by the secretary of state over passports has been curtailed by the Supreme Court.

In a split decision last June, the court held the secretary has no authority under present law to deny passports to Communists or others because of their beliefs and associations.

President Eisenhower asked Congress for legislation to overcome the effect of this decision. No action has been taken, but the battle is expected to be renewed in the new Congress convening Jan. 7.

The law school deans and professors replying to Hennings' letter were divided on the question of whether freedom to travel abroad is a constitutional right.

However, regardless of whether it is, a majority of them were in general agreement that:

1. Freedom to travel is not an absolute right and is subject to restrictions in the national interest

2. Any denial of passports should be in accord with the due process of law guarantees of the Constitution.

Fairly typical was a letter from Charles H. Anderson, associate professor of law at William and Mary College, proposing that present executive regulations be supplanted by legislation establishing "a detailed procedure for the issuance or denial of passports."

"The ground for denial should be made as specific and definite as reasonably possible," he added.

Anderson said such leglislation would be based on congressional power over foreign commerce and would not constitute an infringement on the powers of the executive branch for the conduct of foreign affairs.

Gov. Faubus Not Fully Welcome In Houston, Tex.

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Petitions circulated by church leaders hint that Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus won't be entirely welcome to appear here next Saturday.

He has been invited to speak at the Houston Music Hall under sponsorship of the Sons of the American Revolution.

The petitions state:

"The people of Houston know that we are faced with a court decision requiring the desegregation of our public schools. We do not want another 'Little Rock' here. Therefore we, the undersigned, wish publicly to express our conviction that the public school system must not be destroyed."

The Houston Post said six unnamed ministers and a school board member originated the petitions.

U.S. Geological Course To Begin

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Louisiana State University said the eight basic short course sponsored by the U.S. Geological Survey will begin Monday.

The week-long course is expected to attract 30 delegates from 11 states. It is designed to train survey personnel in fundamentals of collecting, analyzing and interpreting hydrologic information on surface waters.

YOUNG FIRE VICTIMS MOURNED

Officials To Quiz Pupils In Probe Of Fatal Blaze

CHICAGO (UPI)—Heavy-hearted city authorities Saturday night mapped additional steps in an exhaustive, formal investigation into the Our Lady of the Angels fire.

Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn ordered an intensive questioning, beginning Monday, of every sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupil who escaped the holocaust in the Roman Catholic elementary school.

The fire claimed the lives of 88 children and three nuns. Sixty-nine of the nearly 100 burned and injured remained in hospitals Saturday, 11 still in critical condition.

Twelve grieving families said goodbye to young fire victims Saturday in solemn last rites at parish churches. Funeral arrangements were pending for the last victim, Victor Jacabellis, 9, who died Friday as the city mourned and flags flew at half mast.

Seventy children were buried Friday. Mass services for 27 of them were held in huge Northwest Armory with Archbishop Albert G. Meyer celebrating the mass and Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York presiding.

Nuns Buried

Eight others, including three heroic nuns who perished with their charges, were buried Thursday.

Priests announced that seven Sunday masses would be said at the usual times in Our Lady of the Angels Church adjoining the school. Four others will be transferred to a movie house because the fire damaged the basement chapel of the school in which they had been held.

"What can a man say to these people?" asked the Rev. John Egan. "What words can we use? Won't any words we say to them fall short of the experiences they've lived through this week?"

Commissioner Quinn said police and fire experts would quiz at least 500 of the 1,200 boys and girls who escaped from the inferno that saddened the world.

A "blue ribbon" coroner's jury of experts will convene Wednesday to seek answers to three big questions: What happened? Why? How can another such tragedy be avoided?

Back to Classess

The school's remaining pupils —except for those still hospitalized or not receovered from burns and injuries—will go back to classes Tuesday. Kindergarten and first grade children will resume their studies in a school annex untouched by the flames. Some 1,200 other children will resume classes on a half-day basis at a neighboring Catholic school.

Christmas gifts and candy were taken to the hospital rooms of victims who face a prospect of spending the holiday season in bed.

Financial help already was reaching the stricken families. Checks for $500 each were delivered to parents of victims by representatives of the Our Lady of the Angels fund, now swollen to more than $26,000.

Spiritual Leader Is $61.15 Closer To Squaring Tax

DETROIT (AP)—Prophet Jones, a Negro spiritual leader, is $61.16 closer to squaring a tax bill held by federal agents.

Without the benfit of the Prophet's presence, Internal Revenue Service men opened a safe deposit box in a Detroit bank, sifted through a stack of souvenirs, and left with a bag of change Friday.

A friend of Prophet Jones, Ophelia Kemp, watched the opening and explained the Prophet "could not be bothered by earthly things."

Prophet Jones, given to weighing himself down with furs and jewelry, is head of the Church of the Universal Triumph of the Dominion of God, Inc.

Federal agents last month seized the Prophet's bank account of $131 in an attempt to satisfy a $10,522.46 income tax lien for 1953 and 1954.

An attorney for the Prophet said the Prophet had caused the tax troubles when he overstated the value of an ermine cape and a fancy bracelet.

Chevalier Takes Rest In France

PARIS (AP) — Maurice Chevalier flew into Paris Saturday for two months of rest but plans to return to Hollywood because he likes being Papa and Uncle Maurice.

"I don't plan to sing any more in France," the 70-year-old actor-singer told reporters at the airport. "In the United States I have begun a new career as comedian, specializing in roles of father and uncle. Such jobs are pleasant because among other things they help me get acquainted with pretty daughters and nieces."

House Blast Kills Baby Girl In Ind.

MADISON, Ind. (UPI)—An explosion shattered a two - story frame house late Saturday in downtown Madison and killed a one-year-old baby girl, whose body was found in the wreckage, and injured four adults.

The child was identified as Janet Renee Haas, who had been sleeping on a davenport of the house when the blast—blamed on a defective furnace—disintegrated the building.

Volunteers — working under floodlights—formed a bucket brigade to remove debris when it was learned a child and possibly a woman were trapped in the rubble. But police chief Ralph Bruther said he later learned from one of the four persons injured that the baby was the only one left in the building.

Cause of the child's death was not immediately determined, but it was believed she may have died of exposure in the 17-degree cold.

Cotton Price Data Subject Of Sessions

Information on the 1959 cotton price support program will be provided at a meeting for bankers and others interested in farm credit and financing, at a meeting Monday, Dec. 15, in the West Monroe Agricultural building.

Tuesday another similar meeting will be held on the second floor of the courthouse in Alexandria. Both sessions will get under way at 9:30 a.m.

All phases of the portion of the 1958 agricultural act which affects cotton will be discussed at the meetings which will be sponsored jointly by the LSU Agricultural Extension Service and the Louisiana Bankers Association.

Announcement of the meetings was made by Billy J. Baker, associate specialist with extension service, and R. Irby Didier of Baton Rouge, executive secretary of the bankers association.

The principal speaker at both meetings will be C. C. Smith, vice-president of the First National Bank of Commerce, Memphis, Tenn. An economist and authority on cotton, Smith, will explain the two price support plans provided in the new law, and will describe in detail the possible effects of each plan on farm income and farm credit.

Bankers will have an opportunity to ask questions about the cotton program after Smith's talk.

Rainach Hits Demo Action In Retaining C. Gravel

HOMER, La. (UPI)—State Sen. W. M. Rainach said Saturday the Democratic National Committee's refusal to unseat Louisiana committeeman Camille Gravel is an effort to hold Negro vote in the North.

Rainach, a leader in Louisiana's attempt to oust the articulate Alexandria attorney, termed Gravel's retention by the national committee a "pyrrhic victory."

"Gravel's removal is an accomplished fact in so far as the Democratic party of Louisiana is concerned and Jett Talbot has taken over the functions of that office and will continue to exercise them," Rainach told United Press International.

Rainach, chairman of a joint legislative "watchdog" committee on segregation, was a prime mover in proceedings by the state central Democratic committee that replaced segregation moderate Gravel with Talbot.

As for fresh moves in the controversy that hits the core of national Democratic unity, the state senator said:

"There won't be any more moves until the leaders of the radical movement in the Democratic party show their hand."

Gravel has contended that Rainach, Talbot and St. Bernard-Plaquemines parish Dist. Atty. Leander Perez are using the issue of his ouster to bolt the national party.

But Rainach put a different emphasis on the issue today. "Louisiana doesn't intend to get out of the Democratic party. I think that will apply for every other state in the south," he said adding:

"If anybody gets out of the party it will be the states of the North and the West who have deserted the party's traditions and are selling their place for the bloc vote."

Rainach said the national party was not interested in retaining Gravel in his position. They did this to hold the Negro vote in the northern states because of the Civil Rights issue."

As for the legality of the Washington proceedings, Rainach said:

"Actually the national Democratic party is an association of state Democratic parties organized under a single national law.

"The national party has no formal legal status because the power to hold elections is reserved to the states and the states grant legal status only to the state parties."

Rainach said "the party belongs to us and we plan to keep it," and added he does not feel the Democrats can win the 1960 elections without the south.

"Any statement to the contrary is whistling in the dark," he concluded.

"Kit" Carson, famed scout, pioneer and Indian fighter in the early days of New Mexico, ran away from his employer in Missouri when he was 16. His employer offered a reward of one cent for Carson's return.

Gloom Is Thick Over Restricted Futures Market

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The gloom which settled over the restricted grain futures market last week was so thick it caused some traders to cry out in despair for the future of the business.

The most disconcerting development probably was disclosure that Russia definitely is in the world wheat market as an export competitor with the United States. It entered into a barter agreement with Japan which involves a large shipment of Russian wheat to a nation that had been a good U.S. wheat customer in recent years.

While that foreign market slipped away to lower Russian prices, the trade noted that grains moved very slowly into U.S. commercial channels because of producer doubt about whether to sell there or place their stocks in the government loan program, perhaps eventually to default them.

Except for a few instances, futures prices moved within small fractions a cent all week but with no decisive trend either way.

At the end of the week, wheat was ¼ cent a bushel lower to 1⅛ cents higher than a week ago, December $1.94⅜-½; corn 1⅜ higher to ¾ lower, December old type contract $1.14½; oats 2¼ higher to ⅛ lower, December 65⅝; rye 1⅝ higher to ¼ lower, December $1.32-32⅛, and soybeans ⅞ higher to 1⅞ lower, January $2.15-15⅛.

Dad Pens Letter To His Dead Son

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A grieving father Saturday wrote a public letter to his dead son, explaining why he let the youth go with two other Boy Scouts on a tragic mountain hike.

"Some people have criticized me for letting him go on this mountain hike," said David Greenberg. "Even, some said, I had no feeling for my boy."

Greenberg's 13-year-old son, David, a tenderfoot Boy Scout, died with Mike Early, 16, and Michael La Noue, 13, on 9,400-foot Mt. Baldy in a fierce snowstorm. They were last seen Nov. 15—after three other companions turned back in the blizzard.

Their bodies were found last Thursday, huddled around the remains of a campfire, after a search that included 700 men, bloodhounds and dozens of aircraft.

The Arizona Daily Star of Tucson printed this letter from Greenberg:

To my son on his great adventure

"Dear Son:

"Some people down here say that you were foolish to reach for the top of the mountin; that this was a task for a grown man.

"I do not believe this. All kids at some time or other in their lives want to think they are grown men ahead of their time and try to reach for the stars.

"Some of your friends and mine tell me that you failed to reach your goal. Not so, your great adventure led you to the very top itself. Not the mountain, it is true, but to the very heavens.

"You made the seven-thousand-foot level and God reached down and lifted you above the highest mountain to place you by His side. He took your soul but returned to us your body. For this we thank Him.

"I kind of believe the good Lord was a bit short of angels and seeing you already so high up merely reached down to lend you a helping hand to place you forever by his side.

"Adventure? This is the greatest adventure of all: no more rocky roads and snow-covered trails to stumble forward on. Pity us poor mortals below with our trials and tribulations to come.

"My son, keep a close watch upon the trail you left behind. Guide the footsteps of the children who will tread upon it in the years to come.

"Your father and mother in due time will also walk the long trail to be with you forever. In your journeys over the broad heavens walk slowly and from time to time look behind you and call our names. And if you hear footsteps turn your face ever so often for it could be us, your father and mother.

"The hand that holds this pen falters, the ink runs dry and the tears fall.

"In the language you knew and loved so well.

"Adio, adios
Your father and mother."

Troops Guard Irish Prison

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Rifle-toting Irish soldiers rushed out to guard the Curragh detention camp Saturday against a rumored attack from angry womenfolk.

Fire trucks were moved up to strategic points, pumps primed and hoses ready, around the government's political inferment center 25 miles from Dublin.

Authorities received reports relatives of the Curragh prisoners were preparing to storm the camp in protest against a ban on visiting.

All visits have been banned as part of a disciplinary crackdown following a mass escape of 15 prisoners Tuesday.

Troops waited behind barricades and roadblocks round the camp for about an hour. Then word came through that the march had fizzled out. Defenses were dismantled and soldiers went back to their barracks.

Most of the prisoners in the camp are members of the Irish Republican Army — the outlawed organization dedicated to violence for reuniting southern Ireland with British-ruled Northern Ireland.

Vessels Unload Large Loads Of Island Supplies

Under their self-imposed rules of not shelling the Quemoy Islands on even-numbered days, the Reds did not shoot. Their silence followed minor action Friday—an odd-numbered day—in which they fired only 279 rounds at the islands, the lightest attack in five weeks.

Despite the apparent slackening of the war, replacements arrived to man U.S. Air Force F104A Starfighters rushed to this island after the outbreak. The personnel, 410 officers and enlisted men, came from the Westover Air Force base at Westover, Mass. They belonged to the 337th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron commanded by Lt. Col. James Jabara, 34, first jet ace in history and top living jet ace in the world.

Jabara, who shot down 15 MIG 15s during the Korean War, arrived at a North Formosa air base and was given an enthusiastic welcome by American and National airmen based there.

Army's Rocket Is Tracked By New Facility

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Tracking of the Army's first space probing rocket was accomplished by a new down-range facility located at Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

The facility, capable of tracking space vehicles more than 50,000 miles, was used Saturday to follow the initial trajectory of Juno II as it unsuccessfully sought to gain the far reaches of space.

Collins Radio Co. of Cedar Rapids designed and constructed the Mayaguez installation for the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The tracking station followed Juno until it fell below the horizon in Puerto Rico. This was accomplished by the use of a low-powered transmitter in the missile, which emitted telemetry signals picked up by highly sensitive receivers

"Adventure? This is the greatest adventure of all: no more rocky roads and snow-covered trails to stumble forward on. Pity us poor mortals below with our trials and tribulations to come.

"My son, keep a close watch upon the trail you left behind. Guide the footsteps of the children who will tread upon it in the years to come.

"Your father and mother in due time will also walk the long trail to be with you forever. In your journeys over the broad heavens walk slowly and from time to time look behind you and call our names. And if you hear footsteps turn your face ever so often for it could be us, your father and mother.

"The hand that holds this pen falters, the ink runs dry and the tears fall.

"In the language you knew and loved so well.

"Adio, adios

Your father and mother."

Troops Guard Irish Prison

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Rifle-toting Irish soldiers rushed out to guard the Curragh detention camp Saturday against a rumored attack from angry womenfolk.

Fire trucks were moved up to strategic points, pumps primed and hoses ready, around the government's political interment center 25 miles from Dublin.

Authorities received reports relatives of the Curragh prisoners were preparing to storm the camp in protest against a ban on visiting.

All visits have been banned as part of a disciplinary crackdown following a mass escape of 15 prisoners Tuesday.

Troops waited behind barricades and roadblocks round the camp for about an hour. Then word came through that the march had fizzled out. Defenses were dismantled and soldiers went back to their barracks.

Most of the prisoners in the camp are members of the Irish Republican Army — the outlawed organization dedicated to violence for reuniting southern Ireland with British-ruled Northern Ireland.

Vessels Unload Large Loads Of Island Supplies

Under their self-imposed rules of not shelling the Quemoy Islands on even-numbered days, the Reds did not shoot. Their silence followed minor action Friday—an odd-numbered day—in which they fired only 279 rounds at the islands, the lightest attack in five weeks.

Despite the apparent slackening of the war, replacements arrived to man U.S. Air Force F104A Starfighters rushed to this island after the outbreak. The personnel, 410 officers and enlisted men, came from the Westover Air Force base at Westover, Mass. They belonged to the 337th Fighter-Interceptor Squadron commanded by Lt. Col. James Jabara, 34, first jet ace in history and top living jet ace in the world.

Jabara, who shot down 15 MIG 15s during the Korean War, arrived at a North Formosa air base and was given an enthusiastic welcome by American and National airmen based there.

Army's Rocket Is Tracked By New Facility

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Tracking of the Army's first space probing rocket was accomplished by a new down-range facility located at Mayaguez, Puerto Rico.

The facility, capable of tracking space vehicles more than 50,000 miles, was used Saturday to follow the initial trajectory of Juno II as it unsuccessfully sought to gain the far reaches of space.

Collins Radio Co. of Cedar Rapids designed and constructed the Mayaguez installation for the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The tracking station followed Juno until it fell below the horizon in Puerto Rico. This was accomplished by the use of a low-powered transmitter in the missile, which emitted telemetry signals picked up by highly sensitive receivers

Cotton Price Data Subject Of Sessions

Information on the 1959 cotton price support program will be provided at a meeting for bankers and others interested in farm credit and financing, at a meeting Monday, Dec. 15, in the West Monroe Agricultural building.

Tuesday another similar meeting will be held on the second floor of the courthouse in Alexandria. Both sessions will get under way at 9:30 a.m.

All phases of the portion of the 1958 agricultural act which affects cotton will be discussed at the meetings which will be sponsored jointly by the LSU Agricultural Extension Service and the Louisiana Bankers Association.

Announcement of the meetings was made by Billy J. Baker, associate specialist with extension service, and R. Irby Didier of Baton Rouge, executive secretary of the bankers association.

The principal speaker at both meetings will be C. C. Smith, vice-president of the First National Bank of Commerce, Memphis, Tenn. An economist and authority on cotton, Smith, will explain the two price support plans provided in the new law, and will describe in detail the possible effects of each plan on farm income and farm credit.

Bankers will have an opportunity to ask questions about the cotton program after Smith's talk.

Rainach Hits Demo Action In Retaining C. Gravel

HOMER, La. (UPI)—State Sen. W. M. Rainach said Saturday the Democratic National Committee's refusal to unseat Louisiana committeeman Camille Gravel is an effort to hold Negro vote in the North.

Rainach, a leader in Louisiana's attempt to oust the articulate Alexandria attorney, termed Gravel's retention by the national committee a "pyrrhic victory."

"Gravel's removal is an accomplished fact in so far as the Democratic party of Louisiana is concerned and Jett Talbot has taken over the functions of that office and will continue to exercise them," Rainach told United Press International.

Rainach, chairman of a joint legislative "watchdog" committee on segregation, was a prime mover in proceedings by the state central Democratic committee that replaced segregation moderate Gravel with Talbot.

As for fresh moves in the controversy that hits the core of national Democratic unity, the state senator said:

"There won't be any more moves until the leaders of the radical movement in the Democratic party show their hand."

Gravel has contended that Rainach, Talbot and St. Bernard-Plaquemines parish Dist. Atty. Leander Perez are using the issue of his ouster to bolt the national party.

But Rainach put a different emphasis on the issue today. "Louisiana doesn't intend to get out of the Democratic party. I think that will apply for every other state in the south," he said adding:

"If anybody gets out of the party it will be the states of the North and the West who have deserted the party's traditions and are selling their place for the bloc vote."

Rainach said the national party was not interested in retaining Gravel in his position. They did this to hold the Negro vote in the northern states because of the Civil Rights issue."

As for the legality of the Washington proceedings, Rainach said:

"Actually the national Democratic party is an association of state Democratic parties organized under a single national law.

"The national party has no formal legal status because the power to hold elections is reserved to the states and the states grant legal status only to the state parties."

Rainach said "the party belongs to us and we plan to keep it," and added he does not feel the Democrats can win the 1960 elections without the south.

"Any statement to the contrary is whistling in the dark," he concluded.

"Kit" Carson, famed scout, pioneer and Indian fighter in the early days of New Mexico, ran away from his employer in Missouri when he was 16. His employer offered a reward of one cent for Carson's return.

According to a 1958 Federal Reserve Board Survey of Consumer Finances Americans have assets of at least a trillion dollars.

MAY BRIDGE DIFFERENCES

New Rifts Flare Among Allies On West Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP)—New rifts have developed among the Western allies in the course of drafting a rejection of the Soviet demand that they get out of West Berlin.

U.S. officials said Saturday they believe the differences will be overcome—or perhaps temporarily bridged — in preparation for decisive talks at Paris beginning next week end.

Representatives of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany will meet there a week from Sunday. The foreign ministers will meet the next day.

A broad range of possible approaches has been discussed.

The possibilities reported here include a British suggestion for a summit conference primarily on issues other than Germany, a French comment at one point that the Soviet note might be ignored entirely, and a West German suggestion that a plebiscite might convince Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that his "free city" formula wouldn't work.

Khrushchev proposed 10 days ago that West Berlin be made a demilitarized "free city." That followed his earlier demand that the four-power occupation be ended and Allied troops and rights be withdrawn. He allowed six months for negotiation from which time, if no agreement was reached, he said the Soviet Union would turn over its rights to German Communist authorities in East Berlin.

During the past week the Western powers in talks centered at Bonn have been searching for a formula to make it clear they have no intention of withdrawing from Berlin. But they also want it understood they are willing to seek settlements on such wider considerations as reunification of Germany.

Public positions taken by various Allied leaders plus other available information make it clear there are divisions of the kind which plagued Allied councils earlier last month when a Berlin blockade was threatened. Any blockade has evidently been put off for six months.

The central question over which the splits have occurred each time is now tough to get. In general German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is said to want a tough policy in replying to Moscow. At the other extreme British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd has made it equally clear Britain prefers to hold out inducements to try to draw the Soviets into negotiation. The U.S. position may be summed up as one of firmness with an avowed readiness to negotiate on German unification. Thus Secretary of State Dulles appears somewhere between Adenauer and Lloyd.

State Department authorities are privately puzzled by the attitude of the French government under Premier Charles de Gaulle and Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville. France so far has been active chiefly in turning down various proposals, contending the Western position had already been made unmistakably clear.

U. S. authorities do not know whether De Gaulle simply thinks silence at this stage is more effective in showing determination to the Russians, or whether he is developing a bargaining position. They think it possible he may be taking this line in advancing his recent demand for revival of full cooperation among the Western Big Three.

The nature of the Western split was shown in part by a statement Adenauer made during a political campaign speech in West Berlin Friday. He said: "It is impossible for us to allow the Berlin question to hang in the air and negotiate on other questions."

This seemed to contradict what Washington had understood to be general agreement on the line of approach to the reply to Khrushchev. That understanding was that rejection of Khrushchev's Berlin plan should be coupled with a bid for East-West negotiations on the broader German issues. As Adenauer's words were read here, his implication was that the Western note should be not only firm but flatly negative.

Lloyd, at the other extreme, told Parliament Thursday that the British government is ready for a full discussion with the Soviet Union about Germany's future and continental security.

The State Department declined to comment on Lloyd's ideas. Behind the scenes some informed officials said Lloyd had spoken too soon and in advance of any Allied agreement.

School Levy Is Approved In Crossett

CROSSET, ARK.(Special) — Voters in Crossett School District No. 52 of Ashley County yesterday approved a 31-mill tax, which included a four-mill tax for retirement of $500,000 in bonds over a 25-year period.

The $500,000 in bonds will make possible the construction of a new senior high school here as well as the erection of a new cafetorium at Calhoun elementary school.

The measure won by a margin of 491 to 44.

Voters also named Dr. William E. Harville to a five year term as a member of the school board of directors. He received 307 votes. Others in the race were J. R. Weatherly Jr. who received 157 votes and R. S. Kennedy with 69 votes.

The provision for the retirement of bonds assured funds for a project already in the preliminary stages. A truck route had been rerouted and a new one established, and property arrangements had already been made for the Crossett high school project.

During the month of August 1958 at least 21 million women were employed in the United States.

Industrialist Gives School Issue Views

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — A leading Virginia industrialist said Saturday his firm probably would not have located in the state if it had been able to anticipate the state would close public schools to avoid integration.

The executive, who asked to remain unidentified, said he feared he would lose one-fourth of his top employes if schools in his Central Virginia locality closed. Nine public schools in the state have been shut down more than two months under Virginia anti-integration law.

The speaker, whose firm has a 5 million dollar annual payroll, told a meeting of 70 delegates from 15 Virginia communities gathered to form a statewide committee for public schools that he would find it virtually impossible to recruit new employes if public schools in his locality were not open.

The group adopted a statement of purpose which said, "We affirm our determined support for free public education for every child in Virginia. We believe that this should continue to be guaranteed by the Constitution of Virginia."

Dr. J. L. Blair Buck of Richmond, former director of teacher training for the State Department of Education, was elected temporary coordinator to map out the structure and name for a permanent state group which would oppose school closures.

Buck said an organizational meeting would probably be called within a few weeks.

Francis Pickens Miller of Charlottesville, who unsuccessfully opposed Sen. Harry F. Byrd in the 1952 Democratic senatorial primary election, told the group it was important to "attrack to our standard the largest possible number of people in Virginia."

He said business and industrial leaders especially "can save the day" by speaking out for public schools and impressing people with the importance of public education to the state.

"The more who stand up," he said, "the quicker we'll get through this tragic period."

Italy's Coalition Regime Receives Confidence Vote

ROME (UPI) — Pro-Western Premier Amintore Fanfani's coalition government won a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies Saturday night against extreme left and rightwing opposition.

The unofficial vote was 294 to 286 for Fanfani, with eight abstentions.

The confidence vote was brought on by the government's embarrassing defeat Thursday on a measure to extend a penny surtax on gasoline sales.

Before the start of the extraordinary Saturday session of the Chamber of Deputies, the observers had rated Fanfani's chances of survival a toss-up.

Fighting for his political life, Fanfani made a slashing attack on the Communist opposition. He denounced Italian Communist Party Chief Palmiro Togliatti who speaks "badly of everyone" — especially "the poor Italian premier."

But the Republican Party, after hearing Fanfani, announced it would abstain from voting.

Fanfani spoke for more than 90 minutes, defending his position. He denied his regime was wooing the leftwing Socialists led by Pietro Nenni.

Several times, he was interrupted by shouts and questions from Communists, neo - Fascists and other opponents.

The 50-year-old Fanfani needs 295 votes in the 595-seat chamber to weather the storm, allowing for abstentions. The actual majority is 298.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever", applies to kitchens. Here is an airy kitchen done in Early American in the Dr. W. B. Liles home on Deborah Drive. Note the ironstone cups and fruit container on the pine table, crisp curtains and provincial wall paper. Mrs. Liles is shown here serving an after-school snack to sons, Jerry, Arthur and Douglas.

A new kitchen look is at the James Greenbaum home on Pargoud Blvd. The big part of "the look" comes from the cabinets of black walnut and the counters of white. This is complimented by the breakfast area which features a white table and chairs trimmed in brown. Just beyond this area are sliding panels forming a utility room. About to cut a slice of dessert is Mrs. Greenbaum with son, Bobby, lending a helping hand.

Rock maple cabinets of fruitwood finish, the pink counters, pink ceramic tile floor, pink-veined marble table and the plastic ceiling all blend to compose this masterpiece at the W. C. Feazel home at 1015 Trenton in West Monroe. Having a mid-morning cup of coffee is Miss Lallage Feazel.

This is complimented by the breakfast area which features a white table and chairs trimmed in brown. Just beyond this area are sliding panels forming a utility room. About to cut a slice of dessert is Mrs. Greenbaum with son, Bobby, lending a helping hand.

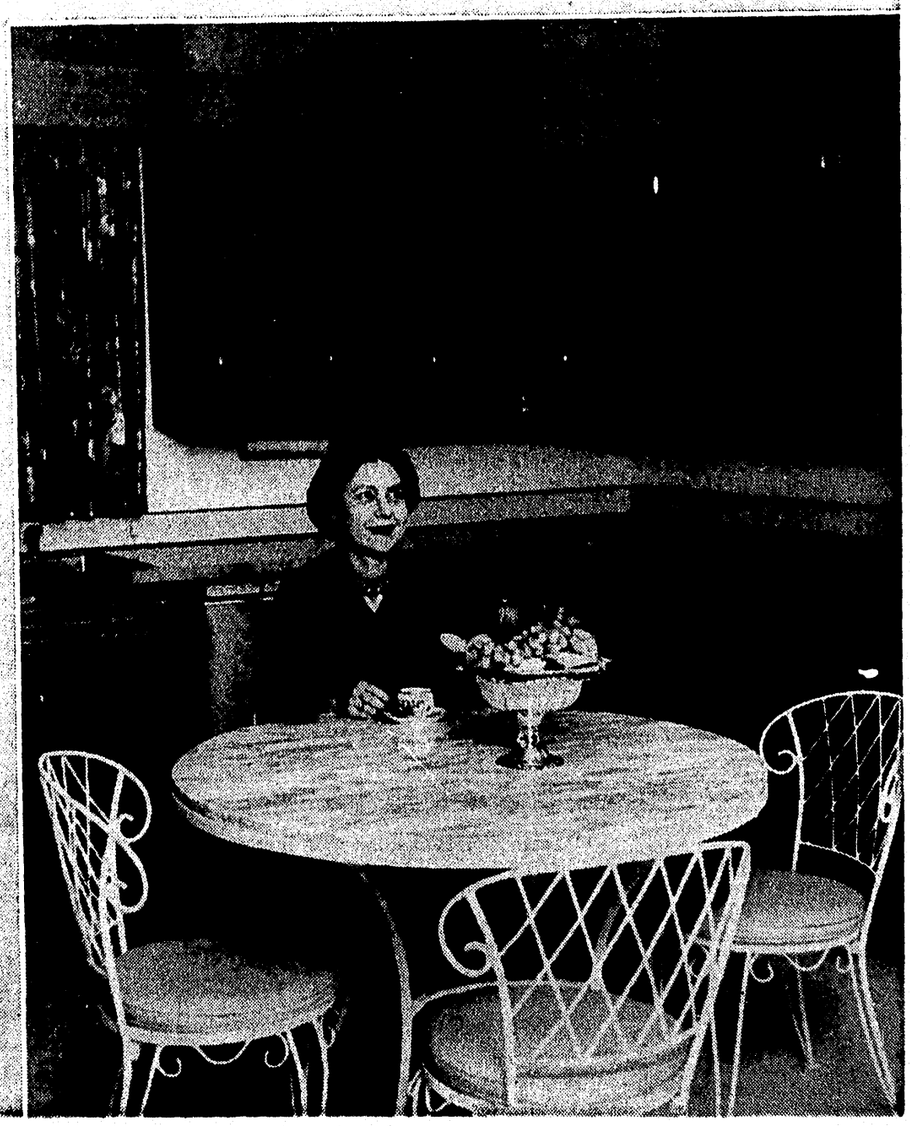
Rock maple cabinets of fruitwood finish, the pink counters, pink ceramic tile floor, pink-veined marble table and the plastic ceiling all blend to compose this masterpiece at the W. C. Feazel home at 1015 Trenton in West Monroe. Having a mid-morning cup of coffee is Miss Lallage Feazel.



MR. AND MRS. P. H. EUBANKS of West Monroe announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Melba Jean to Reginald Walker of Bossier City. She is a graduate of West Monroe High School and he is a graduate of Roosevelt High School, Honolulu Hawaii. He attended University of Hawaii and Louisiana Tech. The wedding will take place on December 20, at eight o'clock in the evening.

Short Cuts Ease Holiday Work

Naturally, you'll want your home sparkling clean and shining for the holidays. While there's no single way to take the work out of housework, your tasks can be lightened by employing a few time-saving tricks.

Mirrors, glass table tops and windows can be cleaned and polished to a sparkling brilliance by adding a little starch to the washing water and then wiping dry with a paper towel. No rinse water is necessary.

You can give your floors added luster by mixing in a little liquid floor polish with the washing water and moving the scrub brush or sponge mop with the grain of the wood. Use cold water for washing floors.

Incidentally, you can save considerable wear on knees and skirts when scrubbing floors by cutting away one side and the top of a grocery carton and kneeling in the carton.

Glasses will gleam if you add a few drops of lemon juice to the rinsing water.

Porcelain can be cleaned by using salt on a flannel cloth.

To whisk dirt out of hard-to-reach corners or carved furniture, twist a piece of tissue around an orange stick or toothpick.

If your candles are loose in their holders, melt some paraffin and pour it into the sockets. Place candles in sockets while paraffin still is hot.

Miss Carolyn Knight, Lieutenant Jake Humble United In Marriage

The chapel of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe was the scene of the wedding Saturday, November 29, at two o'clock uniting in marriage, in the presence of relatives and friends, Miss Carolyn Knight and Lieutenant Jake Humble. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Knight and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Humble of West Monroe.

Dr. Jaroy Weber performed the impressive double ring ceremony before a semi-circle mass arrangement of southern smilax and white gladioli with burning white tapers, glowing to light the chapel.

THE BRIDE

Escorted and given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a white satin princess gown. The long sleeves ended in lily points over her hands. Her shoes were white satin. A princess crown of pearls held her shoulder-length veil of illusion. Her only jewelry was her grandmother's strand of pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of lilies of the valley, centered with a white orchid.

Miss Sandra Knight, sister of the bride lighted the candles. She wore a dress of mint green frosted crystalline and a wrist corsage of pink carnations and rosebuds. A white feather bandeau adorned her head.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Carolyn Humble, sister of the bridegroom. Her dress was blue crystalline and velvet complemented by a pink carnation and rosebud corsage.

Larry Cole, cousin of the bride, from Spearsville, Louisiana, and Mickey Bass from Monroe were ushers.

Miss Tistie Wiggins of Fort Worth, Texas, registered the guests.

The mother of the bride chose to wear a brown woolen suit with beige accessories. At her shoulder she wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Humble, mother of the bridegroom, wore a royal blue velveteen, two - piece dress with accessories and an orchid corsage.

GUESTS

Out - of - town guests included Dr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter of Clinton, Mississippi; Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hester and Marilyn of Columbia, Louisiana; Mr. and Mrs. George Cole, Mr. Larry Cole, Miss Eunice Cole, and Mrs. Dora Lambert of Spearsville, Louisiana.

The bride was graduated from West Monroe High School and attended Louisiana Tech, where her sorority was Sigma Kappa.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Wisner High School and has a degree in electrical engineering from Louisiana Tech.

They will be at home in Biloxi, Mississippi, where the bridegroom is attending a school of electronics at Kessler Air Base. After graduating January 7, they will sail for Japan where the bridegroom will be stationed for three years.

MRS. BOBBY KNOTTS

Vows Exchanged By Miss Lowery And B. Knotts

Miss Thelma Lowery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lowrey of Hodge, and Bobby Knotts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie C. Knotts of Saline, were married on November 22, at the home of the bride's parents.

The Rev. G. A. Morgan performed the ceremony at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening.

Fall blossoms were used to make the living and dining rooms decorative.

The bride was attired in a blue suit with three - quarter length sleeves, complimented by a corsage of white carnations.

Miss La Vera Lowery was the bride's only attendant. She wore a pastel street length model accented by a white corsage.

Miss Hahn And Herman Jeffer Are Married

Of interest to many friends in Louisiana is the marriage of Miss Abigail Hahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin S. Hahn, of Winnfield, to Mr. Herman Jeffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marx Jeffer of New Orleans, which was solemnized in a beautiful setting and ceremony, with only members of the immediate families present, at six o'clock in the evening on Monday, December first, in the Heller Room of Temple Sinai, St. Charles Avenue, in New Orleans.

Miss Hahn's only attendant, as matron of honor, was her sister, Mrs. John Astin (nee Suzanne Hahn) of New York City; Mr. Jeffer's best man was his father Mr. Marx Jeffer; ring bearers were the groom's nephews, Ronny and Stephen, young son's of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lazarov of Memphis, Tenn.

Immediately following the ceremony, a beautiful wedding dinner was served at an uptown restaurant in New Orleans.

GUESTS

Out of town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Alvin S. Hahn, Winnfield, La., parents of the bride, Mrs. Rosa Hahn, Winnfield, La., grandmother of the bride, Mrs. John Astin, sister of the bride, New York City, (Mr. Astin was unable to attend as he is in production of a new Broadway show), Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Lazarov and sons, Stephen and Ronny, of Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. Marvin Jeffer of New Orleans, brother of the groom was also present for the ceremony; Mrs. Iler Long, nurse of Mrs. Rosa Hahn, accompanied her to New Orleans.

After a wedding trip, the young couple will be at home after December 20th at 413 Iona St., Apt. J. Metairie.

Melba Jones Is Feted At A Shower

Miss Melba Jones, bride-elect of Eddie Wayne Harvey, was honor guest at a beautifully planned miscellaneous shower given in the home of Mrs. Cecil Waldrip in Hodge.

A color theme of pink and white was used, with arrangements of pink roses and orange blossoms at advantage points throughout the reception rooms.

The refreshment table was covered with a pink linen cloth and centered with a pink and white flower arrangement. Mrs. Francis served dainty cookies while. Mrs. V. W. Barber presided at the crystal punch service.

Miss Jones was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts.

Shopper's Feet? Here's Sure Cure

Footsore from too much gift shopping?

Pamper your feet with a relaxing foot bath after each expedition. It will removed the tired feeling from all over your body.

First soak your feet in warm sudsy water for a few minutes. Then rub off callouses with pumice stone. Last, massage your insteps and toes with rich cream. Wipe off excess cream with tissues before donning hosiery.

JAM, JELLIES

Recipes for jams and jellies using commercial pectin usually direct that the mixture be brought to "a full rolling boil;" that means a boil that can't be stirred down.

Tea-Shower Compliments Miss Jordan

Bride-elect, Miss Enid LaRue Jordan, was complimented at a tea-shower with Miss Marqueritte Norris, Mrs. J. D. Purvis, Mrs. M. E. Robinson, Mrs. H. B. Ramsey and Mrs. A. A. Wallace as hostesses.

Miss Norris greeted the guests and in the receiving line were the honoree, lovely in a turquoise and black taffeta model accented by a shoulder corsage, Mrs. George W. Jordan and Mrs. Dayton Fordham.

Arrangements of red and white seasonal flowers were placed at vantage points throughout the reception room.

The table held a pyramid arrangement of miniature white chrysanthemums interspersed with red pyracantha. At one end of the table was the silver coffee service and at the other end was the chrystal punch bowl. Silver trays held pastries that complimented the red and white decor.

Mrs. F. L. Hearn presided at the silver coffee service and Mrs. Peggy Ford served punch. Registering the guests was Miss Sally Purvis, and presiding over the display of gifts was Miss Mary Ann Purvis.

ASH TRAY TIP

Keep your ash trays shining during a party with a quick swish with a piece of tissue each time you empty them. When guests have left, you can wash and dry them properly.

Miss Brunetti Is Betrothed To Thomas Fisher

Captain and Mrs. Anthony W. Brunetti of Walker Air Force Base, Roswell, New Mexico, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Nancy, to Thomas Melvin Fisher. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Fisher of Columbia.

The wedding will be an event of December 20, at the Walker Air Force Base Chapel.

Miss Brunetti is a graduate of school in Bridgeport, Connecticut and attended Bryant College in Providence, R. I. She received her degree in secretarial science in 1956. She was affiliated with Sigma Iota Chi social sorority.

The groom - elect is a graduate of Grayson High School and Louisiana State University. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining, Metalurgical and Petroleum Engineers, and the Society of American Military Engineers. At present, he is a lieutenant in the U. Miss Melba Jones, bride-elect of Eddie Wayne Harvey, was honor guest at a beautifully planned miscellaneous shower given in the home of Mrs. Cecil Waldrip in Hodge.

A color theme of pink and white was used, with arrangements of pink roses and orange blossoms at advantage points throughout the reception rooms.

The refreshment table was covered with a pink linen cloth and centered with a pink and white flower arrangement. Mrs. Francis served dainty cookies while Mrs. V. W. Barber presided at the crystal punch service.

Miss Jones was the recipient of many lovely and useful gifts.

Shopper's Feet? Here's Sure Cure

Footsore from too much gift shopping?

Pamper your feet with a relaxing foot bath after each expedition. It will removed the tired feeling from all over your body.

First soak your feet in warm sudsy water for a few minutes. Then rub off callouses with pumice stone. Last, massage your insteps and toes with rich cream. Wipe off excess cream with tissues before donning hosiery.

JAM, JELLIES

Recipes for jams and jellies using commercial pectin usually direct that the mixture be brought to "a full rolling boil;" that means a boil that can't be stirred down.

Tea-Shower Compliments Miss Jordan

Bride-elect, Miss Enid LaRue Jordan, was complimented at a tea-shower with Miss Marqueritte Norris, Mrs. J. D. Purvis, Mrs. M. E. Robinson, Mrs. H. B. Ramsey and Mrs. A. A. Wallace as hostesses.

Miss Norris greeted the guests and in the receiving line were the honoree, lovely in a turquoise and black taffeta model accented by a shoulder corsage, Mrs. George W. Jordan and Mrs. Dayton Fordham.

Arrangements of red and white seasonal flowers were placed at vantage points throughout the reception room.

The table held a pyramid arrangement of miniature white chrysanthemums interspersed with red pyracantha. At one end of the table was the silver coffee service and at the other end was the chrystal punch bowl. Silver trays held pastries that complimented the red and white decor.

Mrs. F. L. Hearn presided at the silver coffee service and Mrs. Peggy Ford served punch. Registering the guests was Miss Sally Purvis, and presiding over the display of gifts was Miss Mary Ann Purvis.

Miss Peggy Ann Jones Becomes Bride Of Bobby Edwards Brown

Amid a setting of white specimen chrysanthemums, jade foliage and softly burning tapers in candelabra, Miss Peggy Ann Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordy M. Jones of Linville, became the bride of Bobby Edwards Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown of Bastrop.

The ceremony was solemnized Saturday afternoon, Nov. 29 at four o'clock in Christ Episcopal Church with the Rev. Richard R. Cook officiating.

Mrs. Ernest Eubanks was vocalist for the wedding and sang "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer." Organist was Miss Betty Amy Leavell.

The guests were seated in the pews designated by white satin bows by the ushers, Neal Oliver and James Farrar.

LeVoe Ireland served the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Charles Gladney and Lehman Williamson.

ATTENDANTS

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her attendants with Mrs Harold Bassett as matron of honor and bridesmaids, Miss Pat Turner and Mrs. Lehman Williamson. They were gowned in soft green satin dresses with a draped neckline and bell-shaped skirts. The folds of the skirts were caught with a bow at the hemline. They wore matching slippers and headbands of green satin. They carried crescents of white chrysanthemums and pom pons.

BRIDAL GOWN

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a traditional family gown of slipper satin and Chantilly lace, elegantly designed with a yoke of illusion embellished by seed pearls. Lace formed the tiny Peter Pan collar which was also embroidered in pearls and the fitted bodice of lace covered satin featured long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full flowing skirt was fashioned with two scalloped lace panels in the front and back which terminated in a cathedral train. Her veil of illusion was caught to her dark hair with a tiara of satin and pearls and she carried a cascade of lilies of the valley centered with a hybrid orchid.

Last to be seated before the entrance of the wedding party were the mothers of the bridal couple. Mrs. Jones chose a frock of blue lace, sequin trimmed with matching blue hat and shoes and long white gloves. Mrs. Brown was attired in a frock of pink chiffon and lace over satin with softly draped neckline and cummerbund of satin with matching accessories and long white kid gloves. Both wore white orchid corsages.

RECEPTION

The bridal couple received the felicitations of their friends and relatives at a reception held immediately after the ceremony in the Episcopal Parish House.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white cutwork cloth over green satin. In the center was the tiered wedding cake encircled with greenery, poufs of net and tiny chrysanthemums and wedding bells. At either end of the table was placed white milk glass punch bowls. Presiding at the punchbowls alternately were Mrs. Charlie Martin, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Annie Turner, Mrs. Joan Parker, Mrs. Betty Jean McClendon and Mrs. Earl Turner. Cutting and serving the wedding cake was Mrs. L. L. Kilgore of Baton Rouge.

Presiding at the guest book was Mrs. Charles Gladney. The bride's book was placed on a table with a lovely array of chrysanthemums banked with white satin ribbons, wedding bells and greenery. Receiving the guests with the bride and groom were their parents.

When the couple left on a wedding trip, the bride was wearing a beige wool suit with a mink collar and brown lizard accessories. After the honeymoon, the couple will make their home in Bastrop.

The bride is a graduate of Linville High School and Louisiana Tech where she was a member of Kappa Delta Sorority and Alpha Tau Delta Society. The groom is a graduate of Bastrop High School and attended Northeast College and Louisiana Tech.

Maternal grandparents of the bride is Mrs. G. M. Jones and the late Mr. Jones of Junction City, Ark. and the paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Turner of Linville. Maternal grandparents of the groom is Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Hayes of Bastrop and paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. James Brown of Rayville.

Miss McDonald Is Married To Willie Antley

Miss Patsy Marie McDonald daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baxter McDonald of Tallulah and Willie Lane Antley, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Antley of Monticello, were married in an impressive double ring ceremony at the Waverly Baptist church on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. The Rev. Bobby Brown was the officiating minister.

Tall gold colored floor baskets filled with white gladioli and greenery and floor candelabra holding white tapers decorated the chancel. A single candle in a base of greenery was placed in each window.

The nupital music was played by Frank McKay who accompanied the soloist, Newton Horn, who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Ruth McDonald was her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Betty McDonald, Miss Jeane Williams and Miss Ann Laird. They wore ballerina length dresses of pink and carried bronze baskets of pink chrysanthemums and bronzed ivy sprays.

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father was lovely in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta. The fitted bodice was attached to the full ballerina length skirt and her veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls and sequins. Her bridal bouquet was a single orchid in a heart shaped setting of tulle and satin.

Scarlet McDonald, the flower girl, wearing pink taffeta carried a bronze basket of petals and David McDonald Jr., was the ring bearer.

Talbert Williams served the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were George McDonald, Sonny King and Wayne Antley.

Mrs. McDonald, the bride's mother was attired in a charcoal silk model with accents of aqua and the groom's mother wore a blue and gray print. They both had corsages of American Beauty rosebuds.

RECEPTION

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the recreation hall of the church. The lace draped bride's table was centered with a bouquet of Picardy gladioli surrounded by pink tapers. At one end was the crystal punch service and at the opposite end the prettily embossed three tiered weddding cake. Presiding at the table were Misses Ruth and Betty McDonald, the bride's sisters. Mrs. J. A. Crowson of Shreveport had charge of registration in the bride's book.

WEDDING TRIP

Later in the afternoon when the couple left for a trip to St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Antley was wearing a gray tweed suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Tallulah High School and Mr. Antley graduated from the Monticello High School. They will reside temporarily in Waverly.

Baskets of white gladioli and mums with greenery and cathedral candles formed the decorations for the marriage scene. The couple stood beneath a flower trimmed arch for the exchange of vows.

Miss Becky Wood played the wedding music and accompanied Ed Johnston who sang, "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. D. A. Nichols, sister of the bride and matron of honor wore a gown of pale blue nylon over ice blue taffeta and a matching headdress. Her flowers were large and miniature yellow chrysanthemums. Pam Nichols, the flower girl also wore pale blue with a band of yellow around her hair and carried a basket of rose petals. Candlelighters were Linda Backle and Lou Ann Carter wearing blue and wrist corsages of yellom chrysanthemums.

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father was becomingly attired in a waltz length gown of white organza over taffeta fashioned with sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of white satin trimmed with seed pearls. Her bridal bouquet was a shower of maline and white satin ribbons, centered with an orchid on a white Bible.

Carl Wallace served the bridegroom as best man and the ushers were Gary Backle and Don Parker.

Mrs. Davis, chose for her daughter's wedding a navy blue frock with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Backle, the groom's mother wore aqua with black accessories and she also had a pink carnation corsage.

RECEPTION

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents which was decorated with pink roses, chrysanthemums and fern. The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth over pink was centered with an arrangement of pink roses. At one end was the crystal punch service and at the opposite end the tiered wedding cake surmounted by a miniature bride and groom.

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Evans And Percy T. Causey

The First Baptist Church of Bastrop was the scene of the marriage of Miss Betty Ruth Evans and Percy Causey. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira L. Evans of Bastrop and he, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William O. Causey of this city.

The Rev. Ray Rust performed the double ring ceremony on November 27, at five o'clock in the afternoon.

The church was decorated by glowing arcs of candles entwined by smilax, beautifully draped to the floor. Massive arrangements of white mums and gladioli were flanked by tall burning tapers.

Miss Ann Jones of Crossett, Ark., was the soloist, accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Spier at the organ.

THE BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of white peau de soie with fitted bodice and portrait neckline. The front panel of the bouffant skirt was appliqued with white alencon lace encrusted with dainty seed pearls and irridescent sequins. The long sleeves tapered to points at the wrists. The skirt swept into a graceful chapel train. The headdress was a tiny coronet of pearls holding in place a triple tiered veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white fleur de amour, centered by a white orchid, mounted on a white Bible.

Mrs. James M. Gilbert of Jonesboro served her sister of matron of honor. She wore a gown of Imperial ruby red velveteen made on princess lines with a bouffant skirt. She carried a double wedding ring bouquet of white mums and satin ribbons.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lucy Banks, Miss Jeanette Ford and Miss Ina Beth Causey. They were attired identical to that of the matron of honor.

Miss Susan Fran Gilbert was the flower girl. She wore a floor length gown of white taffeta with an overskirt of white silk organza. She carried white blossoms tied with white and ruby red satin ribbons.

William O. Causey served his son as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were Larry Stephens, Joel Venable, Frank Smith and Taylor McNeel.

RECEPTION

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors.

The bride's table was covered with white satin, overlaid with net. In the center of the table, three candles burned from a silver epergne, surrounded by white net and the bouquets of the bridesmaids.

After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Ruston.

MR. AND MRS. PERCY THOMAS CAUSEY

Sue Holland Is To Wed Charles Pyles

Miss Sue Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Price Holland of Jonesboro, is engaged to marry Charles R. Pyles, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pyles of North Hodge.

December 14, is the date set for the wedding and the Rev. Jimmy Pyles, brother of the groom - elect, will perform the ceremony at seven - thirty o'clock in the evening.

Miss Johnson, James Tullos Exchange Vows

A beautiful background setting of fall flowers and greenery in the Little Mission Church in Ole Town in Oak Grove, was used for the double ring ceremony when Miss Jeanette Johnson became the bride of James Alvin Tullos.

The Rev. H. D. Hammond officiated at the ceremony which took place on Thanksgiving Day at two o'clock in the afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Mattye Johnson of Oak Grove, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Tullos of Kilbourne.

Music for the ceremony was rendered by Mrs. Wandal Coody.

Mrs. Edgel Burgess served her sister as matron of honor and only attendant. She was gowned in a waltz length model of mauve silk with a fitted bodice and bouffant skirt.

BRIDE

The bride was given in marriage by Henry Vaughn Jr. She was lovely in a gown of white lace over white taffeta with a fitted bodice, high neckline and long sleves. The veil of illusion fell from a headdress of white satin and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white carnations centered by an orchid.

Serving as best man was Oscar Tullos, father of the groom.

CEREMONY

The table was overlaid with a white cloth and held an arrangement of white mums. To one end was the tiered wedding cake.

After a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Biloxi, Miss.

Connie Graves And T. R. Moody Are Married

Miss Connie Lea Graves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wright Graves of Transylvania, became the bride of Teddy Reese Moody, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Russell Moody, of Rush Springs, Okla., on Thanksgiving evening at seven o'clock, at the Lake Providence Church of Christ.

The Rev. Calvin Conn officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Ivy garlands with cache of chrysanthemums entwined the wrought iron candelabra and outlined the pulpit stand. A single candle burned in each window.

Candlelighters were Boyett Graves, brother of the bride, and Richard Allen of Vicksburg, Miss. They also served as ushers.

The nuptial music was A Cappella numbers sung by the choir of Harding College, and included "Because," "I Love You Truly," "Oh Promise Me" with "Faithful and True," the processional and recessional.

THE BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a copenhagen blue wool flannel with draped neckline, three - quarter sleeves, and self covered button down the back. She wore a white felt hat with rhinestone trim and short face veil. Her accessories were in black. She carried a white Bible topped with a purple orchid, with graduated streamers of narrow satin ribbon.

Miss Della Graves, sister of the bride and her only attendant, chose a blue two piece nubby textured winter tweed. The blouse had a V neckline with tab buttoned closing. The skirt was narrow and slim. She wore a white satin shell with fluted rim and white quill feather. Her accessories were in black. Her shoulder corsage was of pink rosebuds.

RECEPTION

Mr. and Mrs Graves were hosts for the reception at the family home in Transylvania. Mrs. Graves greeted the guests wearing a polished cotton in tones of grey and blue. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

Miss Imogene Graves, sister of the bride, invited the guests to register in the bride's book.

Mrs. Isadore Feder of Vicksburg, Miss., presided at the crystal punch service.

The three tiered wedding cake was decorated with white bridal roses and was topped with a miniature bride and groom. The cake was sliced and served by Mrs. Darrell Moody of Vicksburg.

After a motor wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Moody will make their home in Vicksburg, Miss., where Mr. Moody is employed.

Holiday Style Show By Lambda Sigma Chi

One of the most outstanding social events of the holidays for the young group was the style show given by Lambda Sigma Chi. The setting for this beautiful show was the main ball room of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Over two hundred guests were seated in the lounge.

Nancy Snellings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Snellings, Jr., was lovely in a modified red velvet sheath dress with matching shoes. Nancy is president of Lambda Sigma Chi, and gave the welcoming address, introducing Mrs. Frank Breece, who did a wonderful job of narrating the show. Mrs. Breece was wearing a beautiful beige skirt with a matching jeweled sweater complemented by a beautiful orchid corsage, presented to her by the Lambda Sigma Chi Sorority. Mrs. George Snellings, Jr. rendered many beautiful and appropriate selections on the piano during the entire show.

DECORATIONS

The ballroom was beautifully decorated in bouquets of holly berries and other holiday flowers. At one end of the room was a beautifully appointed tea table covered with a white organdy cloth. The cut glass punch bowl and silver trays filled with delicious cookies were served to the guests immediately following the show. Serving at the table were Nancy Snellings and Joan Williams, the latter lovely in a black torso dress with a huge skirt in matching polka dots. Dorothy Cudd was wearing a black crepe empire sheath with back floating panels and a beautiful orchid corsage presented to her by Lambda Sigma Chi.

Girls six to twelve years of age were: Peggy Marx, Terry Rubin, Donna Montrozas, Wanda Phillips, Janie Wilbert, Myla Lance, Janet Vanderpool, Linda Montrozas, Nancy Talbot, and Holly, Nancy and Jan Powell.

Jane Sherrouse modeled a beautiful pink floor length formal. The long torso top had the off shoulder effect and the skirt was trimmed in ruffles with rows of satin and Venice lace.

RED VELVET

Sherry Dickenhorst modeled a red velveteen blouse with a sleeveless square yoke with vertical grosgrain ribbon detail and the white nylon skirt to match with the full taffeta underslip and grosgrain ribbon trim.

Till Wright modeled a white velveteen dress. The skirt was a complete circle and the front was covered in pink appliqued roses. The high waist was finished with a low neckline and matching cummerbund. The jacket had full raglan sleeves and a high neckband with velvet tie. This dress was completely lined in white taffeta and was designed and made by Dorothy Cudd.

MEMBERS

Don't Let Cold Spoil Your Holiday Season

Santa Claus and his noble reindeer, Rudolph, won't be the only ones with red noses during this holiday season.

Your chances are equally good since the unhappy statistics disclose that every man, woman and child in the United States is going to catch at least three colds during the year. The cost of these colds to the American public is more than three billion dollars in lost working days, cures which don't seem to work, and medical care.

Further, these colds take most of the fun out of the holidays. However, common sense can help you fight the common cold. Here are some basic rules recommended by health authorities to help you clear up a cold should you be unfortunate enough to catch one:

1. Keep away from others who have colds. This is the season when we all think about being more considerate to others, but don't let your "giving" include a cold.

2. At the first symptom of a cold, go to bed. If that isn't possible, rest as much as you can and avoid over-exertion.

3. When you blow your nose, blow it gently so as not to force the infection into the sinuses or middle ear, thus further complicating the illness. Use a fresh piece of tissue each time to avoid re-infecting yourself.

4. Drink plenty of water, broth and citrus fruit juices and eat light, wholesome foods. The old adage "feed a cld and starve a fever" is unsound.

5. If your cold worsens and is accompanied by body aches, fever and chills call a doctor. That cold can develop into influenza, Asian flu or pnuemonia.

6. Avoid sharp changes in temperature, low humidity, drafts.

7. If it becomes necessary, take a mild laxative.

United Press International

For women who want a modified Empire line, manufacturer Larry Aldrich shows dresses with waistlines raised only slightly. The Empire effect is achieved by wearing wide belts from the waist up instead of at the natural waistline.

Alaska has inspired a line of hats by Miss Mary. The milliner named one silhouette the "kayak." It's a narrow hat, softly rounded and jutting forward. Made of strawcloth, it is trimmed with straw braids, stiletto quills pointing northwest, or forget-me-nots in reindeer shades. She also designed parkas of flowers and veiling for day and after-five wear.

"At home" evenings are becoming dressier, reports the National Shoe Institute. The reason: Women's desire to pretty-up for the men in leisure hours, television, saving of wear and tear on daytime clothes, and in increase in home entertaining. This trend shows in fancy flats, such as a pair in bright red velvet trimmed with rhinestone bars and green "cat's whiskers."

Holiday Style Show By Lambda Sigma Chi

One of the most outstanding social events of the holidays for the young group was the style show given by Lambda Sigma Chi. The setting for this beautiful show was the main ball room of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Over two hundred guests were seated in the lounge.

Nancy Snellings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Snellings, Jr., was lovely in a modified red velvet sheath dress with matching shoes. Nancy is president of Lambda Sigma Chi, and gave the welcoming address, introducing Mrs. Frank Breece, who did a wonderful job of narrating the show. Mrs. Breece was wearing a beautiful beize skirt with a matching jeweled sweater complemented by a beautiful orchid corsage, presented to her by the Lambda Sigma Chi Sorority. Mrs. George Snellings, Jr. rendered many beautiful and appropriate selections on the piano during the entire show.

DECORATIONS

The ballroom was beautifully decorated in bouquets of holly berries and other holiday flowers. At one end of the room was a beautifully appointed tea table covered with a white organdy cloth. The cut glass punch bowl and silver trays filled with delicious cookies were served to the guests immediately following the show. Serving at the table were Nancy Snellings and Joan Williams, the latter lovely in a black torso dress with a huge skirt in matching polka dots. Dorothy Cudd was wearing a black crepe empire sheath with back floating panels and a beautiful orchid corsage presented to her by Lambda Sigma Chi.

Girls six to twelve years of age were: Peggy Marx, Terry Rubin, Donna Montrozas, Wanda Phillips, Janie Wilbert, Myla Lance, Janet Vanderpool, Linda Montrozas, Nancy Talbot, and Holly, Nancy and Jan Powell.

Jane Sherrouse modeled a beautiful pink floor length formal. The long torso top had the off shoulder effect and the skirt was trimmed in ruffles with rows of satin and Venice lace.

RED VELVET

Sherry Dickenhorst modeled a red velveteen blouse with a sleeveless square yoke with vertical grosgrain ribbon detail and the white nylon skirt to match with the full taffeta underslip and grosgrain ribbon trim.

Till Wright modeled a white velveteen dress. The skirt was a complete circle and the front was covered in pink appliqued roses. The high waist was finished with a low neckline and matching cummerbund. The jacket had full raglan sleeves and a high neckband with velvet tie. This dress was completely lined in white taffeta and was designed and made by Dorothy Cudd.

MEMBERS

TEASERS

Party teasers: shrimp, water chestnuts, nut - stuffed pitted soaked prunes and oysters may all be wrapped round with bacon, secured with picks and broiled until the bacon is crisp.

Miss Glover, Bride - Elect Is Feted At Shower

Miss Margaret Glover, a December bride - elect, was honored at a shower at the home of Mrs. F. D. Mabry in Ruston. Mrs. Dick Taylor was co-hostess for the occasion.

Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Taylor and presented to Miss Glover, her mother, Mrs. Fred Glover, the groom - elect's mother, Mrs. Jack Douglas and Mrs. Mabry.

TABLE

The tea table was beautifully adorned with yellow and white gladioli, interspersed by yellow candles and white wedding bells Presiding here was Miss Julia Douglas, assisted by Mrs. R. L. Barbee, Mrs. W. T. Turner and Mrs. Marvin Hill. Others assisting were Miss Bobbie Sue Hogan and Mrs. Roy Smith.

The lovely gifts were displayed in the adjoining den where Miss Viva Hancock, Miss Betty Naff and Miss Katherine Martin greeted the guests. Miss LaLuce Thompson registered the guests.

GUESTS

Out - of - town guests included Misses Naff and Hancock of Bastrop, Mrs. P. E. Glover and Mrs. K. F. Thaxton of Bernice, Mrs. Lester Hartman of Farmerville, Mrs. Fred Hamilton, Downsville, Mrs. W. T. Turner and Mrs. Marvin Hill, Monroe, Mrs. R. L. Barbee, Mrs. James Pace, Miss Katherine Martin, Miss Julia Douglas and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Douglas of Shreveport.

Something New And Different For Christmas

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M. D.

Would you like to do something new and different this year at Christmas time? There is an old old Christian custom that's well worth dusting off and using in our modern lives.

Fill the Advent crib. Prepare a manger-like crib and set it up on the First Sunday of Advent. This crib is to receive the Christ Child on Christmas Eve. It needs to be filled with straw to make a soft bed for the Babe. Each straw represents an act of kindness or good will. After supper every evening from the time you set up the crib until Christmas Eve the whole family gathers around the crib and each member of the family is allowed to put in as many straws as his day of good deeds permits.

Tell the children the story of Mary and Joseph, of how they were turned away from the Inn and finally found quarters in the stable. The children will be anxious to make the Christ Child's bed just as soft and comfortable as possible. Christmas Eve when you fill the children's stockings you can place a little figure of the Christ Child in the crib for the children to find the next morning.

This is a lovely custom and one which will give the children some of the real spirit of Christmas. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." This is the most important tenent of Christianity which we profess to live by. Unfortunately it too often gets lost in our hard workaday worlds. Nevertheless it is what is in our hearts we want to live up to. What better time than Christ's birthday to try to put it into operation.

As you put the straws into the crib each evening, talk to the children about the kind of person Christ was. Explain to them that what would truly please Him and make Him comfortable is human beings who are kind and considerate of others and that by patterning their lives on this principle, they will grow in the image of Christ.

Not only the children but the grownups too can profit from each straw they lay in the crib. It is surprising how all through the day the thought of those little straws keeps you going. Perhaps it is that you must live up to your children's expectations of you that you remember to do the nice things. It is little things often that are the most important.

Give the children credit when they remember to say thank you or tell you that something you or tell you that someting you cooked was real good. They get credit for hanging up their clothes without being nagged. Maybe a child could polish your shoes for you or run an errand or wash the dishes. Maybe your husband could bring you a cup of coffee in bed on Sunday morning or it might be the other way around, you take it to him.

When the whole family is trying to think up things to do for each oher it's amazing what you can come up with. And don't confine it to the family. How about that unpopular child in Susie's class. Could Susie do something nice for her — just talk to her or go over and sit beside her at lunch time.

Full Skirt Popular For Evening Wear

By BETH BLAIR

Short formal dresses have become popular and generally they are designed with a full skirt silhouette. This can be in a variety of shapes from simple flares to the bubble and harem types. A reader writes—

Dear Miss Blair:

I have a slim royal blue peau de soie cocktail dress with wide cut-out neckline and draped bodice treatment just below it. This draped effect carries across for tiny sleeves. Do you think I could give it a more formal appearance with a wide net overskirt? I have been invited to a formal dance and wonder if I could make it do. What kind of shoes would you suggest with it?

Your idea for a sheer overskirt is a good one and from the description of the dress bodice, I should think it would look very well. Use two or three layers of the net for a smart effect. Chiffon over a taffeta skirt might be attractive, too. Try to match shoes to your dress for a more formal look. They could be cutout sandals or pumps.

TOPPING

Singer Has Never Sung In Homeland

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK — A Japanese prima donna is pioneering abroad, but she never has sung in her homeland.

For Miss Imai, a Met contract is like a dream. One of six children, she grew up in Imabari, Japan. When she was a teenager, she began collecting records of great singers.

"I listened and fell in love with them," she said. When she was a junior in high school, she decided to become a singer. But the family had no money for the years of training she needed.

Then a Roman Catholic missionary heard her sing, and sent her to Spain to study. She won scholarships and helped pay her way by singing in concerts.

STUDIED IN ITALY

After four and a half years in Madrid, she went to Italy, where she studied with the present teacher, Ettore Verna, who divides his time between Italy and New York.

Miss Imai, known as "Kuny," spoke only Japanese when she left home. Today, she speaks fluent Spanish and Italian and fast is learning English.

"But I have had no trouble in New York. Everyone at the Met speaks Italian, and I learned to give addresses to cab drivers in English. I even found my way around the subway," she said in Italian, which Verna translated.

A tiny (five-feet two - inches) sweet-natured person, Miss Imai is a "prima donna on stage, but at home, I'm just a good girl." She likes to cook Japanese and Italian dishes, admits a passion for eating, swims, and likes "conservative but elegant" clothes. She usually wears Japanese clothes, but wore a two-piece chemise during the interview after her first Met performance., "Madame Butterfly."

PLANS AUTOMAT VISIT

Although she has seen little except the Met and her teacher's home, she finds the United States "full of nice, hard-working people" and hopes to do the usual sightseeing. First on her list of places to visit was an automat because "there I can find people who speak Spanish and Italian," she said.

When Miss Imai winds up her concert schedule, she hopes to go home and appear in a Japanese opera.

"I want to tell the Japanese how grateful I am to Italy and the United States for the opportunity they've given me. When—and if—I make a lot of money, I will return the money to the people who helped me and to my teachers, so that someone else can get the chance I've had," she said.

"Then," she added, "I will buy a home and raise a family."

Any steady beau?

Miss Imai giggled. "I had several proposals of marriage in Europe, but right now, Im concentrating just on my career. But not always—I am a woman, also," she said.

PARSLEY FLAVOR

Don't be afraid to add plenty of minced parsley when you are making a stuffing for meat or poultry — it takes a fair amount to give real parsley flavor.

Something New And Different For Christmas

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M. D.

Would you like to do something new and different this year at Christmas time? There is an old old Christian custom that's well worth dusting off and using in our modern lives.

Fill the Advent crib. Prepare a manger-like crib and set it up on the First Sunday of Advent. This crib is to receive the Christ Child on Christmas Eve. It needs to be filled with straw to make a soft bed for the Babe. Each straw represents an act of kindness or good will. After supper every evening from the time you set up the crib until Christmas Eve the whole family gathers around the crib and each member of the family is allowed to put in as many straws as his day of good deeds permits.

Tell the children the story of Mary and Joseph, of how they were turned away from the Inn and finally found quarters in the stable. The children will be anxious to make the Christ Child's bed just as soft and comfortable as possible. Christmas Eve when you fill the children's stockings you can place a little figure of the Christ Child in the crib for the children to find the next morning.

This is a lovely custom and one which will give the children some of the real spirit of Christmas. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." This is the most important tenent of Christianity which we profess to live by. Unfortunately it too often gets lost in our hard workaday worlds. Nevertheless it is what is in our hearts we want to live up to. What better time than Christ's birthday to try to put it into operation.

As you put the straws into the crib each evening, talk to the children about the kind of person Christ was. Explain to them that what would truly please Him and make Him comfortable is human beings who are kind and considerate of others and that by patterning their lives on this principle, they will grow in the image of Christ.

Not only the children but the grownups too can profit from each straw they lay in the crib. It is surprising how all through the day the thought of those little straws keeps you going. Perhaps it is that you must live up to your children's expectations of you that you remember to do the nice things. It is little things often that are the most important.

Give the children credit when they remember to say thank you or tell you that something you or tell you that someting you cooked was real good. They get credit for hanging up their clothes without being nagged. Maybe a child could polish your shoes for you or run an errand or wash the dishes. Maybe your husband could bring you a cup of coffee in bed on Sunday morning or it might be the other way around, you take it to him.

When the whole family is trying to think up things to do for each oher it's amazing what you can come up with. And don't confine it to the family. How about that unpopular child in Susie's class. Could Susie do something nice for her — just talk to her or go over and sit beside her at lunch time.

Full Skirt Popular For Evening Wear

By BETH BLAIR

Short formal dresses have become popular and generally they are designed with a full skirt silhouette. This can be in a variety of shapes from simple flares to the bubble and harem types. A reader writes—

Dear Miss Blair:

I have a slim royal blue peau de soie cocktail dress with wide cut-out neckline and draped bodice treatment just below it. This draped effect carries across for tiny sleeves. Do you think I could give it a more formal appearance with a wide net overskirt? I have been invited to a formal dance and wonder if I could make it do. What kind of shoes would you suggest with it?

Your idea for a sheer overskirt is a good one and from the description of the dress bodice, I should think it would look very well. Use two or three layers of the net for a smart effect. Chiffon over a taffeta skirt might be attractive, too. Try to match shoes to your dress for a more formal look. They could be cutout sandals or pumps.

TOPPING

Singer Has Never Sung In Homeland

By MARY PRIME

NEW YORK — A Japanese prima donna is pioneering abroad, but she never has sung in her homeland.

For Miss Imai, a Met contract is like a dream. One of six children, she grew up in Imabari, Japan. When she was a teenager, she began collecting records of great singers.

"I listened and fell in love with them," she said. When she was a junior in high school, she decided to become a singer. But the family had no money for the years of training she needed.

Then a Roman Catholic missionary heard her sing, and sent her to Spain to study. She won scholarships and helped pay her way by singing in concerts.

STUDIED IN ITALY

After four and a half years in Madrid, she went to Italy, where she studied with the present teacher, Ettore Verna, who divides his time between Italy and New York.

Miss Imai, known as "Kuny," spoke only Japanese when she left home. Today, she speaks fluent Spanish and Italian and fast is learning English.

"But I have had no trouble in New York. Everyone at the Met speaks Italian, and I learned to give addresses to cab drivers in English. I even found my way around the subway," she said in Italian, which Verna translated.

A tiny (five-feet two - inches) sweet-natured person, Miss Imai is a "prima donna on stage, but at home, I'm just a good girl." She likes to cook Japanese and Italian dishes, admits a passion for eating, swims, and likes "conservative but elegant" clothes. She usually wears Japanese clothes, but wore a two-piece chemise during the interview after her first Met performance., "Madame Butterfly."

PLANS AUTOMAT VISIT

Although she has seen little except the Met and her teacher's home, she finds the United States "full of nice, hard-working people" and hopes to do the usual sightseeing. First on her list of places to visit was an automat because "there I can find people who speak Spanish and Italian," she said.

When Miss Imai winds up her concert schedule, she hopes to go home and appear in a Japanese opera.

"I want to tell the Japanese how grateful I am to Italy and the United States for the opportunity they've given me. When—and if—I make a lot of money, I will return the money to the people who helped me and to my teachers, so that someone else can get the chance I've had," she said.

"Then," she added, "I will buy a home and raise a family."

Any steady beau?

Miss Imai giggled. "I had several proposals of marriage in Europe, but right now, Im concentrating just on my career. But not always—I am a woman, also," she said.

PARSLEY FLAVOR

Don't be afraid to add plenty of minced parsley when you are making a stulfing for meat or poultry — it takes a fair amount to give real parsley flavor.

GRATED ORANGE

Ever add grated orange rind to package lemon pudding-and-pie filling mix? Nice flavor change!

DRY BREAD

After grinding dry bread through the fine blade of a food chopper, you'll have to sift it if you want to separate the very fine crumbs from those that are coarser.

BAKED APPLES

If you want your baked apples to have a pretty glaze, place them under the broiler and baste with the pan syrup; watch carefully so as not to scorch.

MISS LOUISE HARPER

A Trend Toward Snuggies For Outer Wear

American women have long been accused of wearing the pants in the family. Now, with the influence of the beatnik's leotard craze, apparel designers predict more of the nation's fair sex will be sporting pants next year than ever before.

"Every woman from 2 to 92 will have some version of shorts, slacks or stocking leotards in her wardrobe next year," said the glamorous sportswear designer Stepanie Koret.

"I personally have three dozen pairs of pants in my closet—and wear them all at one time or another. Each girl or her mother can find use for at least three pair of pants in her wardrobe out of the basic six styles.

"Short shorts, smarty pants (that's midcalf length) and bachelors (ankle length) are the most popular," the slim, dark-haired designer said. "But bermudas (mid - calf length), fishermen's pants (just below knee length) and capri pants (mid knee and ankle) will come into their own next year. They will be especially good for the over 40 age group."

The ballet master's leotards—tight-fitting knitted or jersey pants including built-in feet and a drawstring waistline—has found favor, especially among the teen-agers and the arty Bohemians, currently dubbed "beatniks" in their native haunts of North Beach, San Francisco.

The bidding:

South opened with one heart today, and West chose to overcall with one spade. North raised to two hearts, East to two spades, and South naturally contracted for game. West appeared overcautious in failing to bid four spades, but inasmuch as his partner still had a voice in the proceedings, he preferred to let East make the final decision for his side. West held sound defensive values and there was considerable doubt that a four spade contract could be fulfilled. It is with East's decision to pass four hearts that we are inclined to take issue. From his standpoint, it was highly unlikely that four hearts could be defeated and the loss at four spades could hardly be severe. He argued that he was vulnerable, but seemed to overlook the fact that his partner was vulnerable, too, and was well aware of it when he made his overcall.

It will be seen that against anything but perfect defense, the four spade contract will be fulfilled. When South cashes the king of hearts, he must shift to a club and North must permit it to hold, else South will be unable to obtain the ruff.

South almost got away with his four heart contract, but East literally and figuratively rose to the occasion. The king of spades was opened and won with the ace. A trump was led to dummy and then a low club away from the ace. Had East played second hand low, declarer would have forced West to win the trick, and then the clubs would be established before the king of diamonds could be attacked. But East, realizing that if declarer had the king and jack of clubs, the defense was lost, played the queen. When it held the trick, the shift to the queen of diamonds was routine.

A Color Inset For Black Dress

By BETH BLAIR

The little black dress continues its importance for many women and for the holiday season it appears in a variety of fabrics — crepe, crisp moire and soft chiffon. One reason for its continued success is the fact it may be dressed up with accessories. A reader writes—

Dear Miss Blair:

I have a black silk chemise dress from last winter and would like to remodel it. What color would you suggest for an inset section through the midriff? I plan to restyle it and change to a high - waisted sheath.

I would suggest you keep the color inset for the black dress rather subdued choosing a burnished ochre tone or brown. This would keep it still fairly basic in feeling and you would not tire of it quickly. If you kept the inset black you could wear any number of varied colored belts with it, too. White would be a good change too if you are slim enough for the contrast.

MRS. ELSON LEOB FELLMAN

Marriage Vows Unite Miss Teller And E.L. Fellman

On November twenty-third at four o'clock in the afternoon, the Union Church of Newellton was the scene of the marriage, uniting Miss Lillian Teller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Teller of Newellton, and Elson Leob Fellman, son of Mrs. Leon Fellman of Baton Rouge, and the late Mr. Fellman.

The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Stanley R. Brav of Temple Sholom, Cincinnati, assisted by Rabbi Marvin C. Reznikoff of Liberal Synagogue, Baton Rouge.

While the guests were gathering for the ceremony, Miss Janie Bounds played soft organ music, and just befor the entrance of the wedding party, Miss Dianne Thames sang "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

CHURCH DECORATIONS

A beautiful setting for the exchange of vows was formed by woodwardia fern and palms, artistically combined to create a background of greenery. Pink gladioli and Fuji mums in princess floor baskets, and cathedral standards and candelabra in graduated heights, holding tiers of pink tapers interspersed the setting. The family pews were marked by pink satin and tulle bows, centered with pink mums.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Rose Anne Teller, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, the bridesmaids were Miss Karen Wampold of Baton Rouge and Miss Marlenen Norman, of Alexandria, cousin of the groom. They were identically attired in dresses of jewel red satin with rounded neck lines, and fitted bodice, buttoned with tiny self - trimmed buttons. The front of the skirts, joined to the bodice in flowing lines, formed a V-shape at the waist lines; and the back was fashioned in trapeze style. They wore bandeaux of matching satin in their hair, and slippers of jewel red satin. They carried cascade bouquets of light pink Fuji mums and variegated aspidestra. Julie Rose Preis of Baton Rouge, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore jewel red satin fashioned along the same lines as those of the other attendants and carried a similar bouquet.

THE BRIDE

The bride entered the church with her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of white peau de soie was styled along princess lines, with cirlet neckline edged with medallions of rose point lace, encrusted with seed pearls. The sleeves tapered to lily points at the wrist, and the pouf bouffant skirt, accented with rose point medallions, billowed out into a cathedral train. On her head she wore a plateau brim headpiece of alencon lace, from which extended her finger tip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley, centered with a white orchid.

The best man was Mr. Paul Bagalman of Baton Rouge, cousin of the groom. The groomsmen were Mr. Gilvert Hellman of New Orleans, and Mr. R. Lee Goudchaux of Vicksburg, Mississippi. Marks Bagalman of New Orleans, cousin of the groom, was the ring bearer. The ushers were Mr. Richard Marcus of Vicksburg, Mr. Louis, Jr., of Waterproof, cousins of the bride; and Mr. Sol Bagalman, uncle of the groom; and Mr. Gilbert Sufferin of Plaquemine, Louisiana.

The bride's mother chose to wear a pink satin sheath, with reembroidered lace bodice, and matching accessories of pink satin. Her corsage was of white orchids.

Mrs. Fellman, mother of the groom, was attired in a gown of blue satin and chantilly lace, with which she wore matching blue satin accessories, and a corsage of white orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Teller entertained with a reception at the American Legion Hall. Mrs. Teller and Mrs. Fellman, with the bride and groom, and their attendants received the guests before the mantle, which was centered with an arrangement of pink gladioli and mums, complemented by candles and satin-covered wedding rings; and flanked on either side by baskets of the same flowers. Other artistic arrangements of pink flowers were used throughout the reception rooms.

The guests registered in a beautiful bride's book, which was presided over by Mrs. Ben J. Lamensdorf of Cary, Mississippi.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen cut-work and lace cloth, featuring the tiered wedding cake. The refreshment table, covered with an exquisite lace and linen cloth, holding crystal punch services at either end, was centered with a tiered silver candlelabra holding pink tapers and flowers.

Mrs. Michel Kullamn of Scarsdale, New York, and Mrs. Ben J. Kaufman, of St. Louis, Missouri, great aunts of the bride served the wedding cake; and Mrs. Violet Sachse Wolff and Mrs. Lehman Preis of Baton Rouge presided at the punch bowls.

Mrs. Edwin Preis and Mrs. Charles Netterville graciously assisted as floating hostesses, and the tea girls were: Miss Margo McDonald, Miss Helen Burnside, Miss Martha Netterville, Miss Betty Clyde Ratcliff of Newellton; Miss Joan Rutter of Baton Rouge, and Miss Sandy Bagalman of New Orleans.

Later in the evening when the couple left for an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a russet wool suit, trimmed with a black beaver fur collar and matching beaver hat, with black kid accessories; and the white orchid from her bouquet.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at 2205 Wisteria, Baton Rouge.

MR. AND MRS. FRANK COLLINS of Jonesville announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ellen Ruth, to Truman Potts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Potts of Hackberry. The event will take place on December 21, at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the Pleasant Grove Baptist Church in Jonesville. The Rev. Phillips Collins, uncle of the bride-elect, will officiate over the ceremony.

Four Freshmen Set For Jaycees' Show

Should the Four Freshmen sing to a small house here Wednesday night, 14 young men, who are members of the Monroe Jaycees, will have to dig deep into their own pockets to foot the bill.

The Freshmen will appear at Neville High School Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday sponsored by the Jaycees.

But it was a note signed by 14 Jaycee members that enabled the Jaycees to raise enough money to bring the Freshmen to town.

"We took it on ourselves, running the risk of losing our own money, to put up cash to book the Four Freshmen because we sincerely believe a successful turnout will be the stepping stone to bringing more top flight entertainment into Monroe," Bob Aymond, project chairman, said.

The Freshmen, one of the nation's top record selling outfits, will present an approximately 2½ hour concert, consisting of numbers which the group has put on record.

Aymond said, "Ask anybody who saw and heard them last year at Louisiana Tech and they'll tell you they came away amazed." The Freshmen appeared at Tech last spring.

ACCOMPANY

Aymond pointed out that the Freshmen not only sing but accompany themselves with musical instruments. "Each is a top-flight, all-around musician," Aymond said.

He added, "And they're all entertainers, too."

With proceeds going to the Jaycees, tickets can be bought at Hewitt's Music, Dew Music, Hi-Fi Center and Bodan's Drug.

Aymond said he was disappointed so far with the pre-performance ticket sale. "So far we haven't sold but a little over $400 worth of tickets," he explained, adding, "that's a long way from what it cost us to get them for."

Tickets will be sold at the doors of the auditorium prior to the concert. Aymond said he looked for a large turn-out of college students from Northeast State College and Louisiana Tech.

Welcome To Monroe

Thirty-four newcomers to Monroe have registered at the Utilities Commission office during the past several days, according to the Chamber of Commerce.

They are as follows:

Personalized Christmas Stockings

By DOROTHY ROE

The Christmas stocking, hung on the mantelpiece, is usually the first thing to be opened on Christmas morning, before the serious unwrapping begins. Though Christmas is traditionally for children, it's only fair for Mom and Dad to have their own stockings, too, gaily decorated and filled with silly surprises.

Here's a gift to give ahead of time, or to make up for Christmas bazaars. Felt Christmas stockings couldn't be easier to make, and a pattern isn't necessary, say local sewing center experts. Just cut red felt to stocking shapes, using a pair of pinking shears and making Dad's the largest, and others graduated according to size.

The real fun comes in decorating the stockings. Put a Christmas tree on Dad's or decorate it with felt cutouts of pipes, guns or whatever he likes best. Also, you can sew on strips of rick-rack and squares of contrasting felt to simulate an overgrown argyle sock.

Mom's sock should have lots of glitter, easily achieved with sequins and felt cutouts. You might even edge it with metallic lace.

The baby sock should be rimmed with bright red ball fringe and decorated with a red-and-white striped felt candy cane.

Installation Services For Pinehill HDC

The home of Mrs. A. V. Bird of Sicily Island was a place of meeting for the Pinehill Home Demonstration Club recently for the new officers of 1959.

Mrs. Lee Matthews officiated in the installation of the officers for the new year in an impressive candlelight ceremony. Those installed were president, Mrs. O. O. Krause; vice - president, Mrs. Johnny Crawford; and secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Ellis Stringer.

Following the installation service, the parish agent, Mrs. Kathryn Hoyt, gave an interesting demonstration on ornamental cake icings and decorations.

Refreshments of chiffon pie, cookies, coffee and cold drinks were served by the hostess, Mrs. A. V. Bird, and co-hostess, Mrs. Ellis Stringer.

Match Your Accessories To Bath Color

If you are changing the color scheme of your bathroom for the holidays with new towels and wash cloths, don't overlook the paper accessories. Even these small articles can contribute to the overall decorative effect of the bath. Because of the growing need for color in quality bathroom tissues, the makers of tissues now offer pink, aqua and yellow in addition to white.

Girl Scout News

With Thanksgiving, with its week - long holiday for the youngsters, behind us, and everyone starting to do Christmas shopping and planning, many troops are devoting these few weeks to the arts and crafts part of their program. This serves a double purpose, learning a skill and providing a Christmas gift, usually for Mother, as well. Many of these activities are being kept secret now, so we'll wait until later to tell you.

Troop 17 at Highland School, has just completed registration for its fourth year of activity. Mrs. L. H. Wallace and Mrs. James Corley are leaders of the troops with the following girls as members: Carolyn Brooks, Jeanette Bush, Jamie Corley, Mary Alice Einhorn, Vicki Hayden Phyllis Henry, Jan Kelley, Pamela Kull, Sherry McElhaney, Jeannie Nolan, Anita Roberson, Donna Stewart, Jayne Wallace. Also starting on their fourth year, because they were Brownies in the second grade, are girls of Troop 59, at Highland. New leaders are Mrs. Albert Watson and Mrs. Stevie Evans. Serving on the troop committee are Mrs. N. A. Randall, last year's leader, and Mrs. E. L. Womack. Members, who are beginning work on second class rank, are Shela Butler, Brenda Sue Carroll, Pamela Clark, Par Clowers, Linda Nell Compton, Elaine Edwards, Ann Greene, Becky Harper, Bonnie Moore, Carolyn Randall, Donna Watson, Dedria Womack, Charlene Hayton, Pam Hick.

In reporting on troops at Plum Street School last week we left out the names of the girls in Troop 35, under the leadership of Mrs. Rupert Dunn. Here they are: Sandra Adams, Mary Batthelia, Betty Benton, Dianne Brown, Lynn Dunn, Valeria Fike, Frances Gossett, Sandra Henry, Gwen McPhail, Patricia Patterson, Vickie Sanders, Debbie Wilks.

We hope you read about Troop 83's tea. It was a very nice affair, with all 18 girls in uniform acting as perfect hostesses. Because the tea was held during the school holidays, girls on the refreshment committee were able to come early and make the cookies, coffee, and punch themselves. This is what a Scout likes most, doing things "all by myself." It is also one of the hardest things for mothers and leaders to let youngsters do. Troop 83 is fortunate that its leaders, Mrs. George Herrell and Mrs. W. E. McGough, are willing to let the girls experiment.

Many of our readers will remember Nena Roy, who was president of the Ouachita Council when her husband was transferred to Florida. She writes that she is still busy in scouting in Jacksonville, serving as district chairman for six active neighborhoods and that she enjoys every bit of the work. People are often asked, "How did you get into scouting?" The Scouts have an answer for that — "You don't get into scouting; scouting gets into you." That applies to Nena and a lot of other fine volunteers.

Another example is that of Mrs. George Douglas, who was assistant leader of a beginning Brownie troop for a few months last fall, moved to Jonesboro. This fall she started a Brownie troop there, the first troop Jonesboro has registered since it became a part of the Silver Waters Council. Serving with Mrs. Douglas are Mrs. Ira Wyatt and Mrs. J. E. Hearne. Congratulations to the leaders and girls of Troop 80.

BANANAS

Never put green - tipped bananas in the refrigerator; they need to ripen at room temperature. After the bananas are fully ripe, however, they may be refrigerated for a day or two.

LEMON

Add lemon juice and curry powder to mayonnaise and serve with a fresh pear salad.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES HARVEY ROBERT exchanged marriage vows on November 26, at seven o'clock in the evening in the Luna Assembly of God Church. The bride is the former Miss Barbara Ann Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hamilton of West Monroe, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Robert also of West Monroe. The Rev. E. L. Tanner performed the double ring ceremony. The bride's only attendant was Miss Mary Ellen Hamilton.

Fish Hats Newest For Beach Wear

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If you see a girl walking along the beach with a fish on her head next summer, you aren't having hallucinations. She's just wearing one of the newest fashions in beach hats.

California accessories for new beachwear are going to make the feminine population look like girls from Mars. The bathing suit may be simple, but the things that go with it are strictly out of this world.

Consider, for instance, a beach hat topped by a life-size champagne bottle and a bunch of grapes — this for the girl who likes cocktail parties, of course. Or there's "Mr. Goldfish," a gilded straw beach bag with green sequin eyes and a hat to match.

"Mary Had a Little Lamb" is a white terry cloth beach bag with languorous sheep eyes, worn with a white "mop top" hat made out of a cotton mop. The latter also comes in such colors as orange and shocking pink.

"Hickory Dickory" is a bright felt beach bag with a clock face, and a hat to match, with the clock on the top of the crown.

Hit of the current showings is a white reed French poodle which turns out to be a beach bag named "Pierre". And then there's "Percy," a three-foot-tall straw fish worn as a hat, and accompanied by a clamdigger bag.

WARNING TO TAXPAYERS

ST. PAUL, Minn. —(UPI) —If Federal government tax sleuths come to visit you, keep your mouth shut. That's the advice of Paul Lipton told the Minnesota State Lipton toldd the Minnesota State Bar Association that more taxpayers talk themselves into trouble on income tax charges than for any other offense. He said if revenue agents want to talk to your about your taxes, be pleasant but don't say anything. Then get a lawyer.

Lipton said that the agents are expert at giving the impression they are on a routine mission and then come up with damaging statemets from unsuspecting taxpayers.

EGGS

Mold halves of hard-cooked eggs in consomme that jellies when chilled; serve as a first course garnished with lots of minced parsley.

California accessories for new beachwear are going to make the feminine population look like girls from Mars. The bathing suit may be simple, but the things that go with it are strictly out of this world.

Consider, for instance, a beach hat topped by a life-size champagne bottle and a bunch of grapes — this for the girl who likes cocktail parties, of course. Or there's "Mr. Goldfish," a gilded straw beach bag with green sequin eyes and a hat to match.

"Mary Had a Little Lamb" is a white terry cloth beach bag with languorous sheep eyes, worn with a white "mop top" hat made out of a cotton mop. The latter also comes in such colors as orange and shocking pink.

"Hickory Dickory" is a bright felt beach bag with a clock face, and a hat to match, with the clock on the top of the crown.

Hit of the current showings is a white reed French poodle which turns out to be a beach bag named "Pierre". And then there's "Percy," a three-foot-tall straw fish, worn as a hat, and accompanied by a clamdigger bag.

WARNING TO TAXPAYERS

ST. PAUL, Minn. —(UPI) —If Federal government tax sleuths come to visit you, keep your mouth shut. That's the advice of Paul Lipton told the Minnesota State Lipton toldd the Minnesota State Bar Association that more taxpayers talk themselves into trouble on income tax charges than for any other offense. He said if revenue agents want to talk to your about your taxes, be pleasant but don't say anything. Then get a lawyer.

Lipton said that the agents are expert at giving the impression they are on a routine mission and then come up with damaging statemets from unsuspecting taxpayers.

Meeting Of Opera Club Held In B. Martin Home

The Opera Club met on Thursday with Mrs. B. B. Martin. Mrs. J. C. Kramer was the assisting hostess. Upon arrival, the members were invited into the dining room. The table was overlaid with a lace cloth and an attractive arrangement of gold crysanthemums in a silver container formed the central decor. The hostesses served coffee from silver service and passed sandwiches, cookies and salted nuts to the guests.

After the business session, presided over by Mrs. C. W. Oseland, president, Mrs. Shelby Meek presented the program. The quotation "Yea, Music is the prophet's art among the gifts that God has sent, one of the most magnificent" by Longfellow was read.

"LA TRAVITA"

The study of the Opera "La Travita" by Verdi was told in a most interesting way by Mrs. L. V. Turner. Mrs. M. L. Padgett gave a comprehensive talk on the life of Verdi, the composer of the opera. A tribute to the composer as well as to the opera is the fact that Travita is one of the most durable favorites in the field of opera. For that reason, among others, it has been included among the operas for complete recording by the La Scala Opera Company of Milan.

VOCAL

Vocal selections from the opera heard on the program were: "Di Provenza il Mar" sung by Mrs. James T. Harris and "Tutto Fine" by Mrs. J. Norman Coon. Mrs. P. A. Poag accompanied the soloists and played as a piano solo the beautiful Prelude to Act III. Interesting happenings from the world of current opera were told by Mrs. C. R. Tidwell.

Members present to enjoy the occasion in addition to those already mentioned were: Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. Lee Hodges, Mrs. J. C. Jacobs, Mrs. John Sholars, Mrs. Duncan Smith and Mrs. R. O. Ware.

Highland Park Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Highland Park Garden Club held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. W. B. Hollingsworth on Eason Place.

These attending were Mrs. Bill Briggs, Mrs. H. F. Dossett, Mrs. Monroe Dunlap, Mrs. M. L. Lee, Mrs. W. A. Lewis, Mrs. Calvin Murphy, Mrs. Jack O'Neal, Mrs. Billy Kelly, Mrs. Joe Randall, Mrs. Bill Gaines, and Mrs. Dan Carson.

Mrs. L. Noland Is Hostess To The Music Guild

The December meeting of the Music Guild was held Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Leon Noland with Mrs. Marvin Shipp, co-hostess. After a brief social hour the president, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, called the meeting to order by having the collect read in unison. During the business session the roll was called and minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Leon Noland. A discussion of several Christmas activities concluded the business after which the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Miss Betty Pope.

"The World of the Oratorio" was the theme of the program which featured selections from Handel's "Messiah," as follows:

Text: "The Messiah", Mrs. C. L. Dillingham.

Choral recording: "For Unto Us A Child Is Born."

Piano solo: "Pastoral Symphony," Mrs. Tom Spurlock.

Vocal: "He Shall Feed His Flock," Mrs. Max Dillingham; "Come Unto Him," Mrs. J. Norman Coon.

Choral recording: "The Hallelujah Chorus."

Review Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. Henry

The Review Club held a meeting December first, in the home of Mrs. Dewitt Henry on Jasmine. The president, Mrs. Griffith, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Claude Smith, chairman of public affairs, gave a most informative talk on "Safety."

Mrs. Marcus Mapp introduced the program for the afternoon. "Life Among the Britons." Mrs. Mapp explained that "because the British are so like ourselves and yet so different, there is a special fascination in reading novels of English life."

"The White Witch," by Elizabeth Goudge was interestingly reviewed by Mrs. C. B. Braun. Miss Goudge's novel revolves around the era of Puritan versus Cavalier England.

Mrs. Nat Spencer reviewed "The Woman from Sicily," giving club members her interpretation of Frank I. Winnerton's novel which is centered around an English coastal town from 1911 to 1914.

Following the program, a dessert course was served the members.

Rebekah Lodge No. 84, Elects New Officers

Ouachita Rebekah Lodge No. 84 held its regular meeting in the Odd Fellows hall on Kansas Ave. Monday night with Miss Verdew Elliott, Noble Grand presiding.

The election of officers was held for 1959. Mrs. Ray Grayson, Noble Grand; Mrs. Sam Hixon, vice grand; Mrs. Frank Duffey, secretary; Mrs. W. H. Ricks, treasurer; Mrs. Pauline Alexander, financial secretary; Mrs. W. H. Ricks, representative to the Rebekah Assembly and Mrs. Frank Duffey alternate representative; Mrs. W. W. Thompson, lodge deputy.

After the meeting a social hour was held with delicious refreshments.

Shady Grove School Holds Open House

Open House was held at Shady Grove Elementary School Thursday at 7:30 P.M. The entire building was open for inspection. Each teacher was in her room and many parents and friends took advantage of this opportunity to visit the school.

After a period of visiting, the bell rang and the group assembled in the cafetorium for a short business meeting. The meeting was called to order by the Vice-president, Mrs. James Smith. The group was led in prayer by Mr. M. D. Cannon.

Reports from various committee chairmen were given. Of special interest was the report from Mrs. Monte McGough, carnival chairman. She reported the Carnival an outstanding success and expressed appreciation for help rendered by members, friends, and business men of the community. The proceeds of the Carnival will be used to carry out the projects selected as this year's goal for Shady Grove P.T.A.

The sixth grades gave a play under the direction of Miss Jeanette Womack. The title was "Thanks to the Pilgrims" and the central thought was brought out that we today have many things to be thankful for and foremost among these is this nation which the Pilgrims founded.

The audience joined with the performers in singing America.

At this time the meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. Miss Womack's sixth grade won the room count.

Jonesboro-Hodge Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Jonesboro - Hodge Garden Club held its monthly meeting recently at the Jonesboro Methodist Recreation room with 21 members and two guests present.

The door prize, given by the hostesses, Mrs. R. J. Cobb, Mrs. Allen Earle and Miss Sue Stinson, was won by Mrs. E. G. Cooper.

The president, Mrs. Charles Barnum, presided. Mrs. Paul Bourg, secretary, read the minutes, and the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. W. O. Corley.

The flower arrangement chairman announced the the club planned to send three arrangements to one of the local hospitals each month. Miss Barnum exhibited the arrangements which were made by club members in "throw - away" containers.

Mrs. Barnum appointed Mrs. Grover Black, Mrs. W. O. Corley, and Mrs. Wilbur McDonald as Christmas Social Committee and a Christmas tree for club members was planned.

The club decided to add five dollars to the Park Beautification Fund started by Mayor Tait. Members also listed plants they would donate for the landscaping which will begin in the latter part of the month.

The program chairman, Mrs. Wilbur McDonald then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Lewis Waldrip and Mrs. Charles Barnum, who gave a very excellent demonstration lecture; Mrs. Barnum on Methods Used in Curing Plant Material and Mrs. Waldrip discussed the use of the materials and illustrated with many lovely arrangements and plaques made by club members from materials they had collected.

Mrs. K. Kramer Presides At Arrangers Club

Mrs. Katie Kramer presided over an interesting meeting of the Arrangers Club held in the West Monroe Branch of Ouachita Parish Library, when reports of officers and future acitivities were dispensed with prior to the main feature.

The group voted to make arrangements carrying the Yuletide theme to be carried to the G. B. Cooley Sanitorium for the Christmas season, to spread cheer to the patients.

Mrs. John P. Lewis gave a most interesting demonstration on Christmas decorations to be used at various points in the home, and also in public buildings. Her demonstration was considered especially informative and helpful at this particular season.

When the program concluded, refreshments were served to Mesdames Eleanor King, L. A. Branch, Victor Kelly, Oscar Harrell, Rex Furlow, W. H. Kelly, R. B. Archibald, Pete Carroll, W. A. Coats, R. L. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Neal Collins at 516 Lakeshore Drive.

Activities Of Interest Held In Delhi

"Foundation Planting" was the subject studied by the Delhi Garden Club when it met recently in the lovely home of Mrs. L. T. O'Neal with Mrs. Nelson Sapp, co-hostess.

Pink roses and orchid chrysanthemums were used in the living room and entrance hall and colorful dried arrangements in autumn colors were placed in the den.

The guest speaker, Mrs. David Bell, introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Truman Green, gave a most interesting and informative talk on "Foundation Planting and Landscaping Around Homes and Buildings."

During her talk each member was handed a drawing of a house around which she sketched her ideas of foundation planting. Mrs. Bell demonstrated several correct methods and some suggestions were: evergreens and flowering shrubs are good; leave some voids; start at outside corners with highest shrubs and slope toward door; group in set of 2 or 3 rather than straight line.

Mrs. N. E. McElwee, president, presented the guest with a lovely gift in appreciation of her instructive talk.

The minutes were read and roll called by Mrs. B. Skidmore, secretary, and Mrs. Roy W. McIntyre was welcomed into the club as a new member. Mrs. N. E. McElwee gave a report on the Fifth District Garden Club meeting held in Winnsboro in October.

Mrs. L. P. Craighead asked for volunteers to help in making dried arrangements to be sold at the Methodist Bazaar. Each afternoon until December 1st work was done in the garage apartment of Mrs. Lorenz Teer.

The autumn theme was further carried out in the refreshments of pumpkin pie, salted nuts and coffee served by the hostesses.

IRIS CLUB

The Iris Garden Club was entertained in the home of Mrs. Billy Cutler recently with Mrs. Ercy Osbon as co-hostess.

Mrs. Frank O'Neal, vice president, presided over the short business session. It was announced by the ways-and-means chairman Mrs. W. A. Gaharan, that the Flower Arrangement Calendars had been ordered and would be in before Christmas.

An interesting program on "Soil, Mulch and Winter Preparation for the garden," was presented by Mrs. Sam Moffitt.

A salad plate, coffee, and cakes were served by the hostesses to Mesdames David Bill, M. V. Bradley, G. B. Bryan, R. E. Coulter, W. A. Gaharan, Neal Gilley, Wallace Hall, T. L. Hall, Sam Moffitt, J. B. Morris, Frank O'Neal, Felton Sharp, Cecil Sinclair, James Shields, and F. E. Maxwell.

DIGGERS CLUB

The Diggers Garden Club met in the spacious home of Mrs. Lorenz Teer recently. Colorful dried arrangements decorated the living and dining rooms.

Each member brought a Thanksgiving arrangement and the program consisted of a general discussion of these arrangements.

The hostess served cookies and coffee to the following members.

Mrs. L. P. Woodard, Mrs. L. M. Cooksey, Mrs. Faye Hurley, Mrs. W. R. Medaries, Mrs. E. W. Sehon, Mrs. M. W. McKinney, and one guest, Mrs. H. F. Sproles.

JAYCEES, JAYNES

The Delhi Jaycees and Jaynes held a joint meeting recently at the Delhi Community Center.

The group formulated plans for the 1959 Beauty Pageant to be held February 28th to choose Miss Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show. Mr. Clyde McKay was elected to serve as chairman of the pageant.

A covered dish supper was enjoyed by the following: Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McKay, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Day, Mr. and Mrs. Felton Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Sehon, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Martin, Mr. Wayne Young, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Doyle McEacharn, Mr. Warren Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Payne, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Roberts.

Mrs. Burkhalter Presides At Lexington PTA

The Lexington Avenue P. T. A. met for its monthly meeting with Mrs. D. F. Burkhalter, president, presiding. Parents were asked to support the City of Monroe in its effort to rid the newsstands of obscene literature and use of the money made by the school carnival was discussed.

The P. T. A. had the honor of having Mr. Lawrence Higgins as the guest speaker. His long experience in school activities, as commissioner of Public Welfare for the State of Louisiana and as a State Department representative to Germany and Australia in Youth Activities enabled him to present a most interesting talk on "The Code of Youth."

AGE DIFFERENTIAL

ITHACA, N. Y. —(UPI) — A psychologist says poor thinking tends to cause accidents among young people while a lack of coordination and dexterity leads to mishaps among older folk.

John Whitfield, a visiting professor from England, says a study of accident-proneness among a group of miners found a "distinct difference" between younger and older workers.

Y'ves Hold Christmas Workshop

The Y'ves Club of the YWCA held a Christmas Workshop for their Dec. 3rd meeting. Mrs. J. R. Hood conducted the workshop where the members exchanged ideas on holiday decorating and displayed some of their own handiwork.

Coffee and refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. R. Hood and Mrs. D. M. Brant. Mrs. W. M. Johnson presided over the business meeting. The thought for the day was given by Mrs. D. M. Brant.

Members in attendance were: Mesdames Robert Mohr, Fred Dillard, Hardy Whitehead, Albert Gerson, C. R. Solomon, Harry Addison, Charles A. Heine, Jr., Everett G. Heller, Clinton Langley, Klien Crow, W. E. McGough, Frank Eason, Hewitt Johnson and the club advisor, Miss Bess Sharp. Guests present were Mrs. Armand Kitto, Mrs. Billy Muffett, Mrs. R. C. Goodman, and Miss Nellie Ruth Graham.

Mrs. Tisdale Speaker At PTA Meeting

Members of the Georgia Tucker Parent - Teacher Association heard Mrs. A. D. Tisdale speak on The Exceptional Child in the Community" at the regular November meeting. Mrs. Tisdale, who serves as vice-chairman of the Louisiana Youth Commission, explained that this organization of volunteer members functions in an advisory capacity throughout the state. Until recently more has been accomplished for the exceptional child who is physically or mentally handicapped than for the bright or gifted child but a few programs are underway that will enrich the curriculum for children of this category.

During the business session, Mrs. J. C. Massey, president, called on Mrs. R. O. Ware for a report on the Halloween Carnival. Mrs. Lippmin principal of Georgia Tucker thanked the P.-T. A. for library books purchased for the school with the proceeds from the carnival. Room count was won by Mrs. Kilpatrick's first grade and Mrs. Starnes' fourth grade.

Sterlington PTA Holds Regular Monthly Meeting

The Sterlington P.T.A. held its regular monthly meeting in the A. L. Smith School cafeteria. The invocation was given by Mrs. Roy Nale.

First on program was Mrs. Funderburk's third grade, who gave interesting science reports.

Mrs. Mary Jean Patterson read the minutes in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Bobbye Brymer. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Monroe Alford. The membership chairman reported 131 members on roll.

Mrs. Marvin Ramsey reported on the findings of the project committee, and it was decided to buy three 4' x 8' tumbling mats for the school as the year's project.

The room count was won by Mrs. O. K. Bailey.

Mr. C. G. Drennan gave a very interesting and informative talk on the progress being made on Sterlington's future high school.

After the meeting was adjourned there was a brief social hour, with the ladies of Dixie Acres as hostesses.

Pilot Club Holds Regular Monthly Meeting

The Pilot Club met for its regular business meeting on Tuesday evening at the Frances Hotel with Mrs. Zola Smith presiding. Reports were heard and all chairmen reported on activities. December 20th was designated for the Saturday to ring the bells for the Salvation Army kettles and members signed up for the day. All were urged to mail a Christmas card decorated with TB seals to the Ed Sullivan Friendship Tree in New York. The cards will be sent to a local hospital later in the month.

The main business of the evening was to make plans for a Style Show to be given at a local hotel on Valentine's Day, February 14th. The proceeds will be used for dental care for needy children in the schools. Mrs. Anna Mae Breece was appointed general chairman of this project and will start working out the details of the show.

Those present for this meeting were: Misses Hermione Driskell, Katie McGee, Ida Rose Strohm, Helen Benoit, Eleona Brinsmade; Mesdames Lucile Coates, Zola Smith, Lois Mockabee, Hazel Garlington, LaVerne Riddle, Leta Tisdale, Zola Chatham, Zera Edwards, Fleta Latham, Lucille Barrett, Anna Mae Breece, Ellen Thompson, Mary Harker, Ruby Hatten, Lillie Mae Carroll and Julia Moore.

Grayson Teacher Is Elected To LBEA

At the annual meeting of the Louisiana Business Education Association during the state teachers' meeting in Alexandria, Louisiana, Mrs. Ruby Baxter of the Grayson High School, Grayson, was elected as president for 1959.

Mrs. Baxter has always been active in classroom teacher work, and has held several offices at the local, state and national levels. She has served two terms as high school representative, one term each as secretary and treasurer on the board of the Louisiana Business Education Association before her election as president.

Her interest in professional growth and keeping abreast the changes in teaching business subjects is evidenced by her attending several schools for special courses. Among them are: Pittsburg University, Universities of Chicago, Kentucky, Louisiana, and Louisiana Tech. She has also participated in many workshops and conferences over the southern region, as well as FBLA conventions over the nation.

In 1954 Mrs. Baxter was honored by the National Office Management Association when she was chosen as the "Business Teacher" of the year for the United States and Canada.

Study Group Holds Meeting

The Lexington Avenue P. T. A. Study group held its monthly meeting with Mrs. D. V. Loflin in charge.

Topic selected for discussion was presented by Rabbi Jacob Lantz and was titled "Influence of Literature on Children." The open discussion provided many individual ideas for thought on this subject. It was of great value to those attending in fulfilling their duties as parents.

Mangham Unit OES Holds Special Meeting

Mangham Chapter OES met in special meeting to honor the Grand Officers and Friends from other chapters. Mrs. C. W. Jones, Worthy Matron, asked the Conductress and Associate Conductress to escort the Grand Officers for introduction, Brother Tom McKay, Sister Melissa McKay and Sister Ellie Stephens. The Star Points and other officers placed flowers in Eastern Star colors on an arch portraying the "Garden of Memories." Each honored guest told of the memories they would cherish from this year's work.

In regular meeting the chapter in a beautiful and impressive ceremony initiated Mr. E. C. Harper and Mrs. Ellen LeFevre into the order. After the initiation Mrs. Jones asked the Past Matrons and Past Patrons to rise. The Conductress and Associate Conductress presented twelve Past Matrons and five Past Patrons for introduction. Each one in turn told of interesting events that they could remember during their year of office. The chaplain placed Cornerstones for each ten years of progress of the chapter which was organized in 1923.

Past Patrons: Howard Anderson, Tom McKay, Verlon Simmons, Atha Stephens and Dan McKay.

Meeting Of Opera Club Held In B. Martin Home

The Opera Club met on Thursday with Mrs. B. B. Martin. Mrs. J. C. Kramer was the assisting hostess. Upon arrival, the members were invited into the dining room. The table was overlaid with a lace cloth and an attractive arrangement of gold crysanthemums in a silver container formed the central decor. The hostesses served coffee from silver service and passed sandwiches, cookies and salted nuts to the guests.

After the business session, presided over by Mrs. C. W. Oseland, president, Mrs. Shelby Meek presented the program. The quotation "Yea, Music is the prophet's art among the gifts that God has sent, one of the most magnificent" by Longfellow was read.

"LA TRAVITA"

The study of the Opera "La Travita" by Verdi was told in a most interesting way by Mrs. L. V. Turner. Mrs. M. L. Padgett gave a comprehensive talk on the life of Verdi, the composer of the opera. A tribute to the composer as well as to the opera is the fact that Travita is one of the most durable favorites in the field of opera. For that reason, among others, it has been included among the operas for complete recording by the La Scala Opera Company of Milan.

VOCAL

Vocal selections from the opera heard on the program were: "Di Provenza il Mar" sung by Mrs. James T. Harris and "Tutto Fine" by Mrs. J. Norman Coon. Mrs. P. A. Poag accompanied the soloists and played as a piano solo the beautiful Prelude to Act III. Interesting happenings from the world of current opera were told by Mrs. C. R. Tidwell.

Members present to enjoy the occasion in addition to those already mentioned were: Mrs. R. W. Cretney, Mrs. Lee Hodges, Mrs. J. C. Jacobs, Mrs. John Sholars, Mrs. Duncan Smith and Mrs. R. O. Ware.

Highland Park Garden Club Holds Meeting

The Highland Park Garden Club held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. W. B. Hollingsworth on Eason Place.

These attending were Mrs. Bill Briggs, Mrs. H. F. Dossett, Mrs. Monroe Dunlap, Mrs. M. L. Lee, Mrs. W. A. Lewis, Mrs. Calvin Murphy, Mrs. Jack O'Neal, Mrs. Billy Kelly, Mrs. Joe Randall, Mrs. Bill Gaines, and Mrs. Dan Carson.

Mrs. L. Noland Is Hostess To The Music Guild

The December meeting of the Music Guild was held Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Leon Noland with Mrs. Marvin Shipp, co-hostess. After a brief social hour the president, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, called the meeting to order by having the collect read in unison. During the business session the roll was called and minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Leon Noland. A discussion of several Christmas activities concluded the business after which the meeting was turned over to the program chairman, Miss Betty Pope.

"The World of the Oratorio" was the theme of the program which featured selections from Handel's "Messiah," as follows:

Text: "The Messiah", Mrs. C. L. Dillingham.

Choral recording: "For Unto Us A Child Is Born."

Piano solo: "Pastoral Symphony," Mrs. Tom Spurlock.

Choral recording: "The Hallelujah Chorus."

Rebekah Lodge No. 84, Elects New Officers

Ouachita Rebekah Lodge No. 84 held its regular meeting in the Odd Fellows hall on Kansas Ave. Monday night with Miss Verdew Elliott, Noble Grand presiding.

The election of officers was held for 1959. Mrs. Ray Grayson, Noble Grand; Mrs. Sam Hixon, vice grand; Mrs. Frank Duffey, secretary; Mrs. W. H. Ricks, treasurer; Mrs. Pauline Alexander, financial secretary; Mrs. W. H. Ricks, representative to the Rebekah Assembly and Mrs. Frank Duffey alternate representative; Mrs. W. W. Thompson, lodge deputy.

After the meeting a social hour was held with delicious refreshments.

Review Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. Henry

The Review Club held a meeting December first, in the home of Mrs. Dewitt Henry on Jasmine. The president, Mrs. Griffith, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Claude Smith, chairman of public affairs, gave a most informative talk on "Safety."

Mrs. Marcus Mapp introduced the program for the afternoon. "Life Among the Britons." Mrs. Mapp explained that "because the British are so like ourselves and yet so different, there is a special fascination in reading novels of English life."

"The White Witch," by Elizabeth Goudge was interestingly reviewed by Mrs. C. B. Braun. Miss Goudge's novel revolves around the era of Puritan versus Cavalier England.

Mrs. Nat Spencer reviewed "The Woman from Sicily," giving club members her interpretation of Frank I. Winnerton's novel which is centered around an English coastal town from 1911 to 1914.

Following the program, a dessert course was served the members.

Shady Grove School Holds Open House

Open House was held at Shady Grove Elementary School Thursday at 7:30 P.M. The entire building was open for inspection. Each teacher was in her room and many parents and friends took advantage of this opportunity to visit the school.

After a period of visiting, the bell rang and the group assembled in the cafetorium for a short business meeting. The meeting was called to order by the Vice-president, Mrs. James Smith. The group was led in prayer by Mr. M. D. Cannon.

Reports from various committee chairmen were given. Of special interest was the report from Mrs. Monte McGough, carnival chairman. She reported the Carnival an outstanding success and expressed appreciation for help rendered by members, friends, and business men of the community. The proceeds of the Carnival will be used to carry out the projects selected as this year's goal for Shady Grove P.T.A.

The sixth grades gave a play under the direction of Miss Jeanette Womack. The title was "Thanks to the Pilgrims" and the central thought was brought out that we today have many things to be thankful for and foremost among these is this nation which the Pilgrims founded.

The audience joined with the performers in singing America.

At this time the meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. Miss Womack's sixth grade won the room count.

The P. T. A. had the honor of having Mr. Lawrence Higgins as the guest speaker. His long experience in school activities, as commissioner of Public Welfare for the State of Louisiana and as a State Department representative to Germany and Australia in Youth Activities enabled him to present a most interesting talk on "The Code of Youth."

AGE DIFFERENTIAL

ITHACA, N. Y. —(UPI) — A psychologist says poor thinking tends to cause accidents among young people while a lack of coordination and dexterity leads to mishaps among older folk.

John Whitfield, a visiting professor from England, says a study of accident-proneness among a group of miners found a "distinct difference" between younger and older workers.

Mrs. Riley Presided At Evergreen Garden Club

Members of the Evergreen Garden Club learned the most effective ways of spraying, prunning and caring for plants at the monthly meeting. Wylie Roach Jr., told of the most common plant disceases, what methods are used to keep the plants healthy and how proper pruning can make more beautiful plants.

Mrs. Roy Riley opened the business session with a poem "My Garden", followed by prayer by Mrs. Frank Nolden. Several new members were welcomed into the club.

REPORTS

A report was given on the meeting of the Fifth District Federation of garden clubs held in Winnsboro, by Mrs. Neal Collins.

Project Chairman, Mrs. Glenn Gable announced that help was needed in providing a fence for a play yard at the Cerebral Palsy School. She asked that any club without a project that would like to help, please contact her.

The refreshment table held a basket containing arrangements of fruit and dried materials.

MEMBERS

Members present were Mrs. H. W. Borsch, Mrs. J. T. Gaddis, Mrs. Bobbie Johnson, Mrs. W. B. Hutto Jr., Mrs. Dick Young, Mrs. I. M. McLain, Mrs. C. L. Kissel, Mrs. B. B. Seale, Mrs. W. C. Buchanan, Mrs. L. G. McCain, Mrs. Dean Carter, Mrs. Ray McEachern, Mrs. W. H. Ladshaw and Mrs. J. B. Corder.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Neal Collins at 516 Lakeshore Drive.

Activities Of Interest Held In Delhi

"Foundation Planting" was the subject studied by the Delhi Garden Club when it met recently in the lovely home of Mrs. L. T. O'Neal with Mrs. Nelson Sapp, co-hostess.

Pink roses and orchid chrysanthemums were used in the living room and entrance hall and colorful dried arrangements in autumn colors were placed in the den.

The guest speaker, Mrs. David Bell, introduced by the program chairman, Mrs. Truman Green, gave a most interesting and informative talk on "Foundation Planting and Landscaping Around Homes and Buildings."

During her talk each member was handed a drawing of a house around which she sketched her ideas of foundation planting. Mrs. Bell demonstrated several correct methods and some suggestions were: evergreens and flowering shrubs are good; leave some voids; start at outside corners with highest shrubs and slope toward door; group in set of 2 or 3 rather than straight line.

Mrs. N. E. McElwee, president, presented the guest with a lovely gift in appreciation of her instructive talk.

The minutes were read and roll called by Mrs. B. Skidmore, secretary, and Mrs. Roy W. McIntyre was welcomed into the club as a new member. Mrs. N. E. McElwee gave a report on the Fifth District Garden Club meeting held in Winnsboro in October.

Mrs. L. P. Craighead asked for volunteers to help in making dried arrangements to be sold at the Methodist Bazaar. Each afternoon until December 1st work was done in the garage apartment of Mrs. Lorenz Teer.

The autumn theme was further carried out in the refreshments of pumpkin pie, salted nuts and coffee served by the hostesses.

IRIS CLUB

The Iris Garden Club was entertained in the home of Mrs. Billy Cutler recently with Mrs. Ercy Oshon as co-hostess.

Mrs. Frank O'Neal, vice president, presided over the short business session. It was announced by the ways-and-means chairman Mrs. W. A. Gaharan, that the Flower Arrangement Calendars had been ordered and would be in before Christmas.

An interesting program on "Soil, Mulch and Winter Preparation for the garden," was presented by Mrs. Sam Moffitt.

A salad plate, coffee, and cakes were served by the hostesses to Mesdames David Bill, M. V. Bradley, G. B. Bryan, R. E. Coulter, W. A. Gaharan, Neal Gilley, Wallace Hall, T. L. Hall, Sam Moffitt, J. B. Morris, Frank O'Neal, Felton Sharp, Cecil Sinclair, James Shields, and F. E. Maxwell.

DIGGERS CLUB

The Diggers Garden Club met in the spacious home of Mrs. Lorenz Teer recently. Colorful dried arrangements decorated the living and dining rooms.

Each member brought a Thanksgiving arrangement and the program consisted of a general discussion of these arrangements.

The hostess served cookies and coffee to the following members.

Mrs. L. P. Woodard, Mrs. L. M. Cooksey, Mrs. Faye Hurley, Mrs. W. R. Medaries, Mrs. E. W. Sehon, Mrs. M. W. McKinney, and one guest, Mrs. H. F. Sproles.

JAYCEES, JAYNES

The Delhi Jaycees and Jaynes held a joint meeting recently at the Delhi Community Center.

The group formulated plans for the 1959 Beauty Pageant to be held February 28th to choose Miss Northeast Louisiana Livestock Show. Mr. Clyde McKay was elected to serve as chairman of the pageant.

A covered dish supper was enjoyed by the following: Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McKay, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Day, Mr. and Mrs. Felton Sharp, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Sehon, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Martin, Mr. Wayne Young, Mr. and Mrs. Neal Doyle McEacharn, Mr. Warren Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Payne, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Roberts.

Y'ves Hold Christmas Workshop

The Y'ves Club of the YWCA held a Christmas Workshop for their Dec. 3rd meeting. Mrs. J. R. Hood conducted the workshop where the members exchanged ideas on holiday decorating and displayed some of their own handiwork.

Coffee and refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. J. R. Hood and Mrs. D. M. Brant. Mrs. W. M. Johnson presided over the business meeting. The thought for the day was given by Mrs. D. M. Brant.

Members in attendance were: Mesdames Robert Mohr, Fred Dillard, Hardy Whitehead, Albert Gerson, C. R. Solomon, Harry Addison, Charles A. Heine, Jr., Everett G. Heller, Clinton Langley, Klien Crow, W. E. McGough, Frank Eason, Hewitt Johnson and the club advisor, Miss Bess Sharp. Guests present were Mrs. Armand Kitto, Mrs. Billy Muffett, Mrs. R. C. Goodman, and Miss Nellie Ruth Graham.

Mrs. Tisdale Speaker At PTA Meeting

Members of the Georgia Tucker Parent - Teacher Association heard Mrs. A. D. Tisdale speak on The Exceptional Child in the Community" at the regular November meeting. Mrs. Tisdale, who serves as vice-chairman of the Louisiana Youth Commission, explained that this organization of volunteer members functions in an advisory capacity throughout the state. Until recently more has been accomplished for the exceptional child who is physically or mentally handicapped than for the bright or gifted child but a few programs are underway that will enrich the curriculum for children of this category.

During the business session, Mrs. J. C. Massey, president, called on Mrs. R. O. Ware for a report on the Halloween Carnival. Mrs. Lippmin principal of Georgia Tucker thanked the P.-T. A. for library books purchased for the school with the proceeds from the carnival. Room count was won by Mrs. Kilpatrick's first grade and Mrs. Starnes' fourth grade.

Sterlington PTA Holds Regular Monthly Meeting

The Sterlington P.T.A. held its regular monthly meeting in the A. L. Smith School cafeteria. The invocation was given by Mrs. Roy Nale.

First on program was Mrs. Funderburk's third grade, who gave interesting science reports.

Mrs. Mary Jean Patterson read the minutes in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Bobbye Brymer. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Monroe Alford. The membership chairman reported 131 members on roll.

Mrs. Marvin Ramsey reported on the findings of the project committee, and it was decided to buy three 4' x 8' tumbling mats for the school as the year's project.

The room count was won by Mrs. O. K. Bailey.

Mr. C. G. Drennan gave a very interesting and informative talk on the progress being made on Sterlington's future high school.

After the meeting was adjourned there was a brief social hour, with the ladies of Dixie Acres as hostesses.

Pilot Club Holds Regular Monthly Meeting

The Pilot Club met for its regular business meeting on Tuesday evening at the Frances Hotel with Mrs. Zola Smith presiding. Reports were heard and all chairmen reported on activities. December 20th was designated for the Saturday to ring the bells for the Salvation Army kettles and members signed up for the day. All were urged to mail a Christmas card decorated with TB seals to the Ed Sullivan Friendship Tree in New York. The cards will be sent to a local hospital later in the month.

The main business of the evening was to make plans for a Style Show to be given at a local hotel on Valentine's Day, February 14th. The proceeds will be used for dental care for needy children in the schools. Mrs. Anna Mae Breece was appointed general chairman of this project and will start working out the details of the show.

Those present for this meeting were: Misses Hermione Driskell, Katie McGee, Ida Rose Strohm, Helen Benoit, Eleona Brinsmade; Mesdames Lucile Coates, Zola Smith, Lois Mockabee, Hazel Garlington, LaVerne Riddle, Leta Tisdale, Zola Chatham, Zera Edwards, Fleta Latham, Lucille Barrett, Anna Mae Breece, Ellen Thompson, Mary Harker, Ruby Hatten, Lillie Mae Carroll and Julia Moore.

Grayson Teacher Is Elected To LBEA

At the annual meeting of the Louisiana Business Education Association during the state teachers' meeting in Alexandria, Louisiana, Mrs. Ruby Baxter of the Grayson High School, Grayson, was elected as president for 1959.

Mrs. Baxter has always been active in classroom teacher work, and has held several offices at the local, state and national levels. She has served two terms as high school representative, one term each as secretary and treasurer on the board of the Louisiana Business Education Association before her election as president.

Her interest in professional growth and keeping abreast the changes in teaching business subjects is evidenced by her attending several schools for special courses. Among them are: Pittsburg University, Universities of Chicago, Kentucky, Louisiana, and Louisiana Tech. She has also participated in many workshops and conferences over the southern region, as well as FBLA conventions over the nation.

In 1954 Mrs. Baxter was honored by the National Office Management Association when she was chosen as the "Business Teacher" of the year for the United States and Canada.

Study Group Holds Meeting

The Lexington Avenue P. T. A. Study group held its monthly meeting with Mrs. D. V. Loflin in charge.

Topic selected for discussion was presented by Rabbi Jacob Lantz and was titled "Influence of Literature on Children." The open discussion provided many individual ideas for thought on this subject. It was of great value to those attending in fulfilling their duties as parents.

Mangham Unit OES Holds Special Meeting

Mangham Chapter OES met in special meeting to honor the Grand Officers and Friends from other chapters. Mrs. C. W. Jones, Worthy Matron, asked the Conductress and Associate Conductress to escort the Grand Officers for introduction, Brother Tom McKay, Sister Melissa McKay and Sister Ellie Stephens. The Star Points and other officers placed flowers in Eastern Star colors on an arch portraying the "Garden of Memories." Each honored guest told of the memories they would cherish from this year's work.

In regular meeting the chapter in a beautiful and impressive ceremony initiated Mr. E. C. Harper and Mrs. Ellen LeFevre into the order. After the initiation Mrs. Jones asked the Past Matrons and Past Patrons to rise. The Conductress and Associate Conductress presented twelve Past Matrons and five Past Patrons for introduction. Each one in turn told of interesting events that they could remember during their year of office. The chaplain placed Cornerstones for each ten years of progress of the chapter which was organized in 1923.

Past Patrons: Howard Anderson, Tom McKay, Verlon Simmons, Atha Stephens and Dan McKay.

RADISHES

Thinly sliced radishes and gherkins, or shrimp cut in flat lengthwise halves make attractive garnishes for open cheese sandwiches; add one or two tiny sprigs of parsley to each garnish.

THE HOME SHIFT

Irish Belles Popular Again

By MILDRED SWIFT

In suggesting plants for you, I've neglected reminding you to sow seeds of Belles of Ireland. This plant grew in the gardens of our grandparents, and then went out of favor.

In recent years, it has become popular again, especially for use in flower arrangements. It has a degree of distinction because of its rare look. The seed can be planted any time of year. The flowerlike stems dry beautifully, too.

MORE NEW PLANTS

Children love pansies because the blooms look like little faces. But there's a new pansy called Clear Crystals that has no face.

There's also a new sweet pea on the market, Sweetheart. It's about 8 inches tall and has an 8 inch spread. It is literally covered with blooms and will do well as a pot plant. I don't know where you can get the seed.

The new verbena is Calypso, and is candy striped.

KEEPING UP

Few homemakers care for or remember botonical names. However, if you're a full - time interested gardener, it would be a good idea for you to have a plant encyclopedia. When you want to buy plants you can save disappointments by using the botanical name. Common names are often misleading.

Too, if you're an interested gardener you may want to keep up with and use new plants. Landscape architects warn us though, not to have a plant of every variety in our gardens. We get a "hodge - podge" effect.

Many of the new plants are dwarf and we certainly need these. A few different plants, not new; I want to remind you about are white red bud (cercis canadensis uan alba). The blossoms are just like our common red bud, probably a bit smaller. It is a beautiful tree in bloom. A small branch makes a gorgeous arrangement.

Most of you are familiar with the tree rose. It is spectacular, but a bit expensive.

The tree gardenia you've seen in several gardens in Ouachita Parish. This certainly has its place in the landscape picture. It gives heaviness up high, where it's sometime needed.

BARRIER PLANTS

Do you have a place in your garden where people walk or drive and it's not the place where you want them to trod? Then use a barrier planting. One thing and for sure, a planting of pyracanthas will certainly stop traffic whether pedestrian, equestrian or motor driven.

Another good barrier plant is primrose jasmine, however, a plant with thorns is more defying. The younpon is another good one.

TWO COLOR TREE

The dogwood (cornus florida) is a two - color tree. At this season the tree has tones of yellow, red and green leaves. In the spring it is a blanket of white four-petal blooms.

Legend has it that this is the tree on which Christ was crucified and that the petal markings are where the nails were driven.

When you plant this tree in December, January or February, put it in a well drained place, and in acid - type soil such as that used for azaleas and camellias. In the last few years the borer has killed a number of our gorgeous old dogwood trees.

This is the tree that is often called the fire - tree because when burned to the ground it will come back up from the roots.

HUMUS

A plant never outgrows its need for humus. That's why we in Extension say so much about the compost pile. Humus does so many things for the soil.

There are so many "creatures" like the earthworm (and others, not visible) that constantly need to be replenished. Humus has these creatures. Plants use the humus all the time, so there's never a time we can relax on that garden chore.

Compost is a better form of humus, especially for poor soils. However, mulches around plants and in the shrubbery beds will decay and that's what humus is, decayed vegetation. In decaying, nitrogen is used from the soil. So it is important to add an extra amount of this nitrogen sometime during the growing season.

USING HUMUS

Once you've decided to have a garden, turn the soil over where you plan to plant. Loosen the earth well and add your humus. For general and long time well being of your plants, it's a fine idea to go about the job in the right way.

Your soil will hold moisture much better during dry spells, if you use humus. You'll have fewer weeds which will cut down on upkeep.

USING SAND

If your soil is very heavy you'll need some sand, not too much or the water will leach through the soil too fast. Heavy soils are improved by the use of humus too.

YOUR OPEN HOUSE

Programs for next week are: Monday and Tuesday, Jean Cloy and Glenda Willet from Jackson Parish will give us a Christmas style show, pretty clothes, pretty girls. Wednesday, Mary M. Jardine will probably give you some Christmas ideas. Thursday and Friday the representative from a paper company will show us how to wrap Christmas presents. See you next Sunday.

Old Fashioned Christmas In Style Again

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newspapers

Americans may stray from the traditional way of old-fashioned Christmas, but they always come back to it. That's something to keep in mind when planning your Christmas decor, says New York decorator Frances Lee.

"Recent Christmases have turned up turquoise trees, some trimmed with roses, trees with forget - me - nots, fans and shells. These had no real connection with Christmas, but they appealed to people who wanted to be different."

The reaction came from children, and their voices count at Christmas, Miss Lee says. Even children who'd never had the old-fashioned Yuletide iked it when they saw it in the story books.

FAMILIAR IS BEST

"You'll find red and green in the most sophisticated fashion-conscious homes again this year," explains Miss Lee, "because there is no way to beat it's Yule splendor."

She predicts too that older people with married children who have tried to escape from Christmas festivities, and Yuletide travelers will take time out to celebrate the season. One indication of it is a small do-it-yourself Christmas tree which Miss Lee designed for those purposes.

"A tiny tree that may be put on the dining table or even carried in a bag to a resort is the answer for many people. One cruise ship is supplying one of these little trees to every one of its passengers during Yuletide to further the Christmas spirit."

The little trees come with an assortment of ornaments, including traditional ones — red Santas, silver snowmen, white and red bells, candy canes, red and gold glass balls, and a gold star on top of the tree.

DECORATING IDEAS

Glitter cloth, the kind you may purchase from theatrical houses, makes an ideal table cloth for the holidays for buffets or seated dinners. Save it from year to year. It comes usually in 36 in. widths in green, red, gold and silver. Six yards may do the trick, cut into two 3-yard pieces. Use the pieces lengthwise, overlapping one slightly over the other in the center of the table. If you'd like to make place mats, trim them with braid or flat holly and berries. Oblong place mats may be cut to about 14 in. by 20 in., oval mats 21½x23. Trim with braid or holly and berries.

2. A handsome centerpiece could be just a large wreath with a candle on a plate in the center of it.

3. Christmas candles may be decorated with gold paper braid or holly leaves here and there at the candle base.

4. Decorate the front door as a Christmas package with red and green satin ribbon going across and lengthwise like it was a box. In the center, you might put a green wreath, natural pine cones and red berries in bunches on the wreath.

5. Put a large wreath on your front door and fasten an inexpensive red or white boot to it. Fill the boot with a couple of packages and tie a red bow at the top.

6. Buy ordinary glass ball tree ornaments and spread glue on them in spots. Put different color sequins on them and use them on a tree or as centerpiece decorations.

7. Take an ordinary wreath, trim it with natural pine cones or clusters of red berries. Spray pine cones on ends with gold or white paint, and put a red bow on it.

8. Flat Christmas trees may be hung on the wall or front door. Use a green ribbon, tied in bows, and then glue it very closely together on a background made of cardboard.

ATTRACTIVE DECORATION—This "do-it-yourself" Christmas tree comes with a kit of 89 ornaments.

'One Man Show' Arrangements

GUEST WRITER
GLADYS M. KULCKE

Mrs. W. P. Rushing of East Carroll Garden Club put on a one man show this week showing Christmas arrangements in driftwood for the home.

FOR DOOR

For the front door Mrs. Rushing made a beautiful composition using a driftwood wall vase of large magnolia leaves and fruits. The leaves were placed in a circle around the mouth of the container. In the center of the leaves, apples and lemons were grouped with a bunch of luscious green grapes hanging over the side of the container. For the religious theme in the home the Madonna was used with Mrs. Rushing's favorite, and most unusual piece of driftwood. The bowl shaped driftwood standing on one end fastened to a piece of styrafoam, formed the creche for the blue robed Madonna. White sprayed cedar surrounded the Madonna, following the curve of the creche on one side. A spray of blue Christmas balls were placed at the feet of the Madonna, in a bed of cedar. This arrangement could be used in a contemporary living room.

MUMS

Mrs. Rushing used white candles, large white mums and pine branches to make a dramatic composition for the dinner table. The driftwood used for this composition was a long, graceful, polished log, found on the bank of the Mississippi River. A natural indentation in the center of this log was filled with Oasis to support the mums and pine. Large pink Christmas balls were placed at the base of this triangle, free-standing design. Four white candles were placed in the holes made for them in the horizontal part of the log. A beautiful arrangement for the Christmas dinner table.

Red Carnations, red Christmas balls, pine and a large green round candle were used in creating the piece for the coffee table. The candle placed in the center of this small piece of driftwood made the vertical line of this line - mass design. The carnations were placed around the candle with the pine as a filler. This lovely little arrangement would also be suitable for a small luncheon table. A gray framed panel was made to hang over the living room mantel. Two silver-gray weathered pieces of driftwood were fastened on the black background board to form a triangle shaped container. In this was placed large red Christmas bells embedded in the long leaf pine. A most interesting and pretty composition.

DRIFTWOOD

Mrs. Rushing used unusual material in an attractive arangement for the den. It was placed on a flat, oblong, irregular shaped piece of driftwood. A root-tree was fastened in an upright position off center on the flat base. Gilded Bottle Tree Pods, agave pods and pepper grass were used to create a mass design at the foot of the tree. A red reindeer was placed on the other end of the base. Driftwood may be found anywhere anytime. Orchards, road sides, pastures, and woodpiles are all likely places where driftwood may be found. Along the coast, especially after a storm, in the desert at any time, along riverbanks and on the shores of manmade lakes.

Most all wood found needs scrubbing with water and soap. Some pieces may be cleaned by brushing with a stiff brush then polishing with from one to three coats of wax.

Brown Tick Goes Indoors For Winter

This is the time of the year to be especially watchful for that troublesome pest, the brown dog tick, Dr. Ralph E. Heal, executive secretary of the National Pest Control Association, today advised dog owners and householders.

Not only is the brown dog tick population increasing generally throughout the nation and especially in the southern states, but it is unusualiy numerous and bothersome in the fall after a favorable summer breeding season, Dr. Heal pointed out.

Brown dog ticks cannot winter outdoors except in some of the southern states, but those which survive in warm homes, kennels and apartments begin to build up the tick popuation again as soon as warm weather comes and by fall a single tick may have several thousand pesty offspring.

The American dog tick, Dr. Heal pointed out, seldom occurs in the home in numbers great enough to be a nuisance, but the brown dog tick may show up in the thousands and even in the tens of thousands to be a real household pest.

Unlike some other species, the brown dog tick does not bite human beings and does not spread disease — like the Rocky Mountain wood tick and the American dog tick which spread spotted fever — but it can seriously lower the vitality of its dog host and by its presence can be a serious nuisance to the home owner.

The NPCA executive said that the increase in this pest in recent years has been ascribed partly to the great number of communities which require dogs to be kept in their own runs or kennels. This is a perfect arrangement for the brown dog tick which then has its food supply within easy and constant reach.

Brought into the home by the family pet, ticks are scattered about in great numbers. They can be found around baseboards, window and door casings, curtains and furniture. For some unexplained reason, they often prefer the highest places in a room that they can reach. The back of a picture or painting is one of their favorite spots.

The big increase in numbers of ticks in a single summer is due to the large size of Mrs. Tick's family. She lays from 1,000 to 3,000 eggs which in a few weeks hatch into highly active "seed" ticks. This is the first stage of a four-stage metamorphosis which in eight or nine weeks results in a full-fledged adult capable of breeding a new generation of thousands more ticks.

Dr. Heal advised dog owners to watch for the ticks on their pets and in their favorite hiding places about the house. He pointed out that there are effective sprays and powders on the market to keep these pests under control but warned that in severe infestations the safe and most permanent way to control ticks is a visit from a reliable and experienced pest control firm.

Roof Drainage Serious Problem To Home Owner

Faulty roof drainage can be a serious problem to the home owner and may cause paint peeling, condensation in attic or crawl spaces, or wet basements of the house. And in areas where freezing condensation exists during the winter months the formation of ice in gutters can cause certain structural damage to the roof eaves and facia boards.

The home owner can be assured of proper roof drainage by having the proper slope and size gutters and downspouts installed at time of construction or by having existing drainage materials checked by competent sheet metal contractors.

The size of the gutter to be used depends primarily on the area and the pitch of the roof, the style and size of the gutters used and the number of downspouts leading from the gutters.

Metal gutters have proved over many years to be the most satisfactory type for roof drainage and if normal maintenance is programmed semi-annually, metal gutters will last for many years. Keeping gutters clean and free of debris will aid materially in providing long life for these materials.

Be sure your finished installation has proper drainage in order to prevent mud splashing on the side of your home, paint peeling, siding deterioration or possibly undermining of the foundation. It is a minor job to check this most important part of your home maintenance.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Outstanding Books Named

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Two outstanding books appeared last year. They were Caroline Dorman's Flowers Native to the Deep South and Elizabeth Lawrence's The Little Bulbs. These books are unique. Those who failed to buy a copy of Miss Dorman's Louisiana Wild Flowers when it appear 1 some years ago can now complet their knowledge of the flowers in the lower South with the new volume. It is sensitively illustrated — something we cannot say of most color plate books these days — with the exquisite paintings of wild flowers which only Miss Dorman can do.

SMALLER BULBS

Elizabeth Lawrence has made gardening history for us with the first book about the smaller bulbs and the way they do for us here in the South. There is no other source of information on this subject in a book. Here at last is information on the little hardy cyclamens in detail. The winter flowering crocuses are discussed, too, and all the rest of the small species and varieties of bulbs which most gardeners are afraid to plant because they do not know anything about them.

These two books will introduce you to two very fascinating people, for Elizabeth Lawrence and Carolina Dorman literally write themselves into their books. Miss Dorman is a botanist and artist who knows and loves her plants For years, she has waded about in the bayous and swamps of Louisiana and the neghboring states studying and painting wild flowers. She knows where they live. When the big Northern botanists want to find something, they come to her.

Miss Lawrence will share with you all the excitement of trying to grow new plants. She takes you through all her experiences, both good and bad, with a new plant. At the end of her book, she provides a list of seedsmen and nurseries who sell the bulbs.

REVISION

Mr. Hudson has revised his Southern Gardening. This book of general information for Southern gardeners is just what you want for your friends who are new gardeners or new home owners in the South. It has chapters on planting, lawns, bulbs, trees and shrubs and many useful lists of plants which we grow in Dixie.

Here, then, are three really Southern books for Christmas: Hudson's Southern Grdening pub. by Tupper & Love, Atlanta; Flowers Native to the Deep South by Caroline Dorman, available from Claitor's Book Store 241 North Street, Baton Rouge 2, La. $7.50; The Little Bulbs by Elizabeth Lawrence, pub. by Criterion Books, N. Y. $4.00. The Lawrence and Hudson books can be found at most book stores in the South.

Adequate Gutters Prevent Mud Splash

The heavy rains of fall don't have to cascade off your roof in torrents, splattering mud on your home's walls and beating down your prized fall flowers, says the Roof Drainage Manufacturers Institute. Adequate gutters and downspouts are a "must" in today's modern home to guide rain water away from foundations to points where it can do no damage. Modern ideas of home architecture demand proper gutter and downspouts. Styles and sizes of metal roof drainage equipment are available to blend with and enhance the appearance of every home.

'SAFETY' TAGS

NEW YORK — (UPI)—Seven states will issue "safety" license plates in 1959 — tags covered or bordered with a material that reflects headlight and makes the plates visible from 2,000 feet.

The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators said the seven states are North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Delaware, Maine, Wyoming and Louisiana.

Ashtrays Make Practical Gifts For Workshop

Just take one-pound coffee cans. Cut a lip on each side with tin snips, making two two-inch slits and bending down the cut sections. Double the sharp edges under.

Trim the outside of the can with one of the new decorative covering materials from your stores.

Select a material with an adhesive backing for ease of application. One particular brand has an adhesive backing which clings tightly to smooth metal surfaces. Just cut the material to size, remove the paper backing and press the covering into place. It will adhere firmly.

Fill the ashtrays with a layer of sand or salt to give them weight and provide an extinguisher for his cigarettes and cigars.

Parish Youth Wins Honor

By AUDREY DAWSON

Do you remember this Sunday seventeen years ago, yes, it was the attack on Pearl Harbor. Aren't we so glad that's behind us and that today we are looking forward to a much more joyous holiday season. Surely has been a short 17 years for yours truly.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to Winston Brown, 4-H Club member of Calhoun High School. Yes, a Ouachita 4-H'er has done it again, a national winner. This time in home grounds beautification. Winston won first in the state at the short course held on LSU campus. This gave him the chance to compete on a national level. Winston has spent this past week in Chicago, having the time of his life, with all expenses paid. He will come back from the "windy city" the first of the week. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown of Calhoun. 4-H Club work in the parish is under the supervision of Betty Jane Hodgkins and Elliott L. Branch.

OPEN HOUSE

Home Demonstration Club members, if you have not been contacted by your president or fellow club member with an invitation to Open House at my home, 1625 Park Ave., Friday, December 12, please, please let this be your invitation. I will be expecting you.

JUST TALKING

The fury of the holiday season calls for you to budget your time as well as your money. At this time of the year the homemaker must take care of Christmas shopping, baking, sending greetings, and numerous other activities besides doing the everyday job of keeping house. So sit down and make a plan of all the things you will have to do and see if you might find that some member of your family could help too. Don't be too tired on Christmas Day to enjoy it.

HINTS TO HOMEMAKERS

When you wrap fruit cake to mail to your son or daughter away at school or to someone in service, place a few apple cores and peelings in the container (not in contact with the cake) to keep the contents moist. Whole fruit, of course, would serve the same purpose, but its weight and shape make it too impractical for use.

To clean rusty knives, plunge blade into onion and leave for a short time.

If the food has been salted too much, stretch a fairly wet cloth tightly over the cooking dish or pan containing the food. Sprinkle small amount of white flour over the cloth and let it stand for a few minutes.

FIREPROOF MATERIALS

Danger of fire damage and injury can be greatly reduced by using the United States department of agriculture, do-it-yourself formula to make cotton and similar fabrics resistant to both flame and afterglow. The procedure is simple and chemicals are inexpensive and can be bought in almost any drugstore. The process is no more complicated than the starching process of clothes. Its use is desirable on curtains, draperies, children's clothes, flannel robes and pajamas. The one shortcoming is that the flame retardant must be renewed in the fabric after each laundering.

For curtains and draperies that do not require frequent washing, dissolve 1 lb. of crystallized borax and 13 ozs. of boric acid in 2 gallons of warm water. Rinse clean article in this solution. (Solution must cover the material) and let dry. The items should be dried on the clothes line since difficult to remove chemical deposits might be left in automatic dryer.

A THOUGHT

It is a common error on the part of many to judge men by their worldly goods instead of their good in the world.

Two blonde bears, scrounging for food in the garbage near a Rainy Lake, Ontario resort, have a strange appetite. They will eat only potato peelings which have been doused with gasoline preparatory to burning

Best Views Engineered By Arborists

A special group of talented people can give home owners a new outlook. These are landscape architects and arborists adept at creating vistas.

In the parlance of the tree man, a vista can open up attractive and commanding views of distant hills, valleys, lakes or seashore. H. I. Spellacy, field representative of the Davey Tree Expert Co., says plant and tree life must be adroitly cut to give the hilltop homesite the most attractive outlook without exposing undesirable views.

In many cases, scope of the vista will be governed by the size, variety and quality of plants that must be removed to reveal a desired scene and by the quality and extent of the scene to be revealed. Amount of plant life to be eradicated varies from a major clearing operation to removal of a few offending branches or to the cutting of worthless brush.

Winter is the tree man's favorite time for vista cutting. That's because he can spot more easily what must be done when trees and other deciduous plants are bare. The professional shudders at the thought of a week-end gardener attempting the delicate task. Clumsy and ill - considered trimming is apt to mar rather than enhance the view. In addition, it can mean the destruction of irreplaceable trees and plants.

Gardens And Homes

THE HOME SHIFT

Irish Belles Popular Again

By MILDRED SWIFT

In suggesting plants for you, I've neglected reminding you to sow seeds of Belles of Ireland. This plant grew in the gardens of our grandparents, and then went out of favor.

In recent years, it has become popular again, especially for use in flower arrangements. It has a degree of distinction because of its rare look. The seed can be planted any time of year. The flowerlike stems dry beautifully, too.

MORE NEW PLANTS

Children love pansies because the blooms look like little faces. But there's a new pansy called Clear Crystals that has no face.

There's also a new sweet pea on the market, Sweetheart. It's about 8 inches tall and has an 8 inch spread. It is literally covered with blooms and will do well as a pot plant. I don't know where you can get the seed.

The new verbena is Calypso, and is candy striped.

KEEPING UP

Few homemakers care for or remember botonical names. However, if you're a full - time interested gardener, it would be a good idea for you to have a plant encyclopedia. When you want to buy plants you can save disappointments by using the botanical name. Common names are often misleading.

Too, if you're an interested gardener you may want to keep up with and use new plants. Landscape architects warn us though, not to have a plant of every variety in our gardens. We get a "hodge - podge" effect.

Many of the new plants are dwarf and we certainly need these. A few different plants, not new; I want to remind you about are white red bud (cercis canadensis uan alba). The blossoms are just like our common red bud, probably a bit smaller. It is a beautiful tree in bloom. A small branch makes a gorgeous arrangement.

Most of you are familiar with the tree rose. It is spectacular, but a bit expensive.

The tree gardenia you've seen in several gardens in Ouachita Parish. This certainly has its place in the landscape picture. It gives heaviness up high, where it's sometime needed.

BARRIER PLANTS

Do you have a place in your garden where people walk or drive and it's not the place where you want them to trod? Then use a barrier planting. One thing and for sure, a planting of pyracanthas will certainly stop traffic whether pedestrian, equestrian or motor driven.

Another good barrier plant is primrose jasmine, however, a plant with thorns is more defying. The younpon is another good one.

TWO COLOR TREE

The dogwood (cornus florida) is a two - color tree. At this season the tree has tones of yellow, red and green leaves. In the spring it is a blanket of white four-petal blooms.

Legend has it that this is the tree on which Christ was crucified and that the petal markings are where the nails were driven.

When you plant this tree in December, January or February, put it in a well drained place, and in acid - type soil such as that used for azaleas and camellias. In the last few years the borer has killed a number of our gorgeous old dogwood trees.

This is the tree that is often called the fire - tree because when burned to the ground it will come back up from the roots.

HUMUS

A plant never outgrows its need for humus. That's why we in Extension say so much about the compost pile. Humus does so many things for the soil.

There are so many "creatures" like the earthworm (and others, not visible) that constantly need to be replenished. Humus has these creatures. Plants use the humus all the time, so there's never a time we can relax on that garden chore.

Compost is a better form of humus, especially for poor soils. However, mulches around plants and in the shrubbery beds will decay and that's what humus is, decayed vegetation. In decaying, nitrogen is used from the soil. So it is important to add an extra amount of this nitrogen sometime during the growing season.

USING HUMUS

Once you've decided to have a garden, turn the soil over where you plan to plant. Loosen the earth well and add your humus. For general and long time well being of your plants, it's a fine idea to go about the job in the right way.

Your soil will hold moisture much better during dry spells, if you use humus. You'll have fewer weeds which will cut down on upkeep.

USING SAND

If your soil is very heavy you'll need some sand, not too much or the water will leach through the soil too fast. Heavy soils are improved by the use of humus too.

YOUR OPEN HOUSE

Programs for next week are: Monday and Tuesday, Jean Cloy and Glenda Willet from Jackson Parish will give us a Christmas style show, pretty clothes, pretty girls. Wednesday, Mary M. Jardine will probably give you some Christmas ideas. Thursday and Friday the representative from a paper company will show us how to wrap Christmas presents. See you next Sunday.

Old Fashioned Christmas In Style Again

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newspapers

Americans may stray from the traditional way of old-fashioned Christmas, but they always come back to it. That's something to keep in mind when planning your Christmas decor, says New York decorator Frances Lee.

"Recent Christmases have turned up turquoise trees, some trimmed with roses, trees with forget - me - nots, fans and shells. These had no real connection with Christmas, but they appealed to people who wanted to be different."

The reaction came from children, and their voices count at Christmas, Miss Lee says. Even children who'd never had the old-fashioned Yuletide iked it when they saw it in the story books.

FAMILIAR IS BEST

"You'll find red and green in the most sophisticated fashion-conscious homes again this year," explains Miss Lee, "because there is no way to beat it's Yule splendor."

She predicts too that older people with married children who have tried to escape from Christmas festivities, and Yuletide travelers will take time out to celebrate the season. One indication of it is a small do-it-yourself Christmas tree which Miss Lee designed for those purposes.

"A tiny tree that may be put on the dining table or even carried in a bag to a resort is the answer for many people. One cruise ship is supplying one of these little trees to every one of its passengers during Yuletide to further the Christmas spirit."

The little trees come with an assortment of ornaments, including traditional ones — red Santas, silver snowmen, white and red bells, candy canes, red and gold glass balls, and a gold star on top of the tree.

DECORATING IDEAS

Glitter cloth, the kind you may purchase from theatrical houses, makes an ideal table cloth for the holidays for buffets or seated dinners. Save it from year to year. It comes usually in 36 in. widths in green, red, gold and silver. Six yards may do the trick, cut into two 3-yard pieces. Use the pieces lengthwise, overlapping one slightly over the other in the center of the table. If you'd like to make p l a c e mats, trim them with braid or flat holly and berries. Oblong place mats may be cut to about 14 in. by 20 in., oval mats 21½x23. Trim with braid or holly and berries.

2. A handsome centerpiece could be just a large wreath with a candle on a plate in the center of it.

3. Christmas candles may be decorated with gold paper braid or holly leaves here and there at the candle base.

4. Decorate the front door as a Christmas package with red and green satin ribbon going across and lengthwise like it was a box. In the center, you might put a green wreath, natural pine cones and red berries in bunches on the wreath.

5. Put a large wreath on your front door and fasten an inexpensive red or white boot to it. Fill the boot with a couple of packages and tie a red bow at the top.

6. Buy ordinary glass ball tree ornaments and spread glue on them in spots. Put different color sequins on them and use them on a tree or as centerpiece decorations.

7. Take an ordinary wreath, trim it with natural pine cones or clusters of red berries. Spray pine cones on ends with gold or white paint, and put a red bow on it.

8. Flat Christmas trees may be hung on the wall or front door. Use a green ribbon, tied in bows, and then glue it very closely together on a background made of cardboard.

ATTRACTIVE DECORATION—This "do-it-yourself" Christmas tree comes with a kit of 89 ornaments.

'One Man Show' Arrangements

GUEST WRITER
GLADYS M. KULCKE

Mrs. W. P. Rushing of East Carroll Garden Club put on a one man show this week showing Christmas arrangements in driftwood for the home.

FOR DOOR

For the front door Mrs. Rushing made a beautiful composition using a driftwood wall vase of large magnolia leaves and fruits. The leaves were placed in a circle around the mouth of the container. In the center of the leaves, apples and lemons were grouped with a bunch of luscious green grapes hanging over the side of the container. For the religious theme in the home the Madonna was used with Mrs. Rushing's favorite, and most unusual piece of driftwood. The bowl shaped driftwood standing on one end fastened to a piece of styrafoam, formed the creche for the blue robed Madonna. White sprayed cedar surrounded the Madonna, following the curve of the creche on one side. A spray of blue Christmas balls were placed at the feet of the Madonna, in a bed of cedar. This arrangement could be used in a contemporary living room.

MUMS

Mrs. Rushing used white candles, large white mums and pine branches to make a dramatic composition for the dinner table. The driftwood used for this composition was a long, graceful, polished log, found on the bank of the Mississippi River. A natural indentation in the center of this log was filled with Oasis to support the mums and pine. Large pink Christmas balls were placed at the base of this triangle, free-standing design. Four white candles were placed in the holes made for them in the horizontal part of the log. A beautiful arrangement for the Christmas dinner table.

Red Carnations, red Christmas balls, pine and a large green round candle were used in creating the piece for the coffee table. The candle placed in the center of this small piece of driftwood made the vertical line of this line - mass design. The carnations were placed around the candle with the pine as a filler. This lovely little arrangement would also be suitable for a small luncheon table. A gray framed panel was made to hang over the living room mantel. Two silver-gray weathered pieces of driftwood were fastened on the black background board to form a triangle shaped container. In this was placed large red Christmas bells embedded in the long leaf pine. A most interesting and pretty composition.

DRIFTWOOD

Mrs. Rushing used unusual material in an attractive arrangement for the den. It was placed on a flat, oblong, irregular shaped piece of driftwood. A root-tree was fastened in an upright position off center on the flat base. Gilded Bottle Tree Pods, agave pods and pepper grass were used to create a mass design at the foot of the tree. A red reindeer was placed on the other end of the base. Driftwood may be found anywhere anytime. Orchards, road sides, pastures, and woodpiles are all likely places where driftwood may be found. Along the coast, especially after a storm, in the desert at any time, along riverbanks and on the shores of man-made lakes.

Most all wood found needs scrubbing with water and soap. Some pieces may be cleaned by brushing with a stiff brush then polishing with from one to three coats of wax.

Brown Tick Goes Indoors For Winter

This is the time of the year to be especially watchful for that troublesome pest, the brown dog tick, Dr. Ralph E. Heal, executive secretary of the National Pest Control Association, today advised dog owners and householders.

Not only is the brown dog tick population increasing generally throughout the nation and especially in the southern states, but it is unusually numerous and bothersome in the fall after a favorable summer breeding season, Dr. Heal pointed out.

Brown dog ticks cannot winter outdoors except in some of the southern states, but those which survive in warm homes, kennels and apartments begin to build up the tick popuation again as soon as warm weather comes and by fall a single tick may have several thousand pesty offspring.

The American dog tick, Dr. Heal pointed out, seldom occurs in the home in numbers great enough to be a nuisance, but the brown dog tick may show up in the thousands and even in the tens of thousands to be a real household pest.

Unlike some other species, the brown dog tick does not bite human beings and does not spread disease — like the Rocky Mountain wood tick and the American dog tick which spread spotted fever — but it can seriously lower the vitality of its dog host and by its presence can be a serious nuisance to the home owner.

The NPCA executive s a i d that the increase in this pest in recent years has been ascribed partly to the great number of communities which require dogs to be kept in their own runs or kennels. This is a perfect arrangement for the brown dog tick which then has its food supply within easy and constant reach.

Brought into the home by the family pet, ticks are scattered about in great numbers. They can be found around baseboards, window and door casings, curtains and furniture. For some unexplained reason, they often prefer the highest places in a room that they can reach. The back of a picture or painting is one of their favorite spots.

The big increase in numbers of ticks in a single summer is due to the large size of Mrs. Tick's family. She lays from 1,000 to 3,000 eggs which in a few weeks hatch into highly active "seed" ticks. This is the first stage of a four-stage metamorphosis w h i c h in eight or nine weeks results in a full-fledged adult capable of breeding a new generation of thousands more ticks.

Dr. Heal advised dog owners to watch for the ticks on their pets and in their favorite hiding places about the house. He pointed out that there are effective sprays and powders on the market to keep these pests under control but warned that in severe infestations the safe and most permanent way to control ticks is a visit from a reliable and experienced pest control firm.

Roof Drainage Serious Problem To Home Owner

Faulty roof drainage can be a serious problem to the home owner and may cause paint peeling, condensation in attic or crawl spaces, or wet basements of the house. And in areas where freezing condensation exists during the winter months the formation of ice in gutters can cause certain structural damage to the roof eaves and facia boards.

The home owner can be assured of proper roof drainage by having the proper slope and size gutters and downspouts installed at time of construction or by having existing drainage materials checked by competent sheet metal contractors.

The size of the gutter to be used depends primarily on the area and the pitch of the roof, the style and size of the gutters used and the number of downspouts leading from the gutters.

Metal gutters have proved over many years to be the most satisfactory type for roof drainage and if normal maintenance is programmed semi-annually, metal gutters will last for many years. Keeping gutters clean and free of debris will aid materially in providing long life for these materials.

Be sure your finished installation has proper drainage in order to prevent mud splashing on the side of your home, paint peeling, siding deterioration or possibly undermining of the foundation. It is a minor job to check this most important part of your home maintenance.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Outstanding Books Named

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Two outstanding books appeared last year. They were Caroline Dorman's Flowers Native to the Deep South and Elizabeth Lawrence's The Little Bulbs. These books are unique. Those who failed to buy a copy of Miss Dorman's Louisiana Wild Flowers when it appear l some years ago can now complet their knowledge of the flowers in the lower South with the new volume. It is sensitively illustrated — something we cannot say of most color plate books these days — with the exquisite paintings of wild flowers which only Miss Dorman can do.

SMALLER BULBS

Elizabeth Lawrence has made gardening history for us with the first book about the smaller bulbs and the way they do for us here in the South. There is no other source of information on this subject in a book. Here at last is information on the little hardy cyclamens in detail. The winter flowering crocuses are discussed, too, and all the rest of the small species and varieties of bulbs which most gardeners are afraid to plant because they do not know anything about them.

These two books will introduce you to two very fascinating people, for Elizabeth Lawrence and Carolina Dorman literally write themselves into their books. Miss Dorman is a botanist and artist who knows and loves her plants For years, she has waded about in the bayous and swamps of Louisiana and the neghboring states studying and painting wild flowers. She knows where they live. When the big Northern botanists want to find something, they come to her.

Miss Lawrence will share with you all the excitement of trying to grow new plants. She takes you through all her experiences, both good and bad, with a new plant. At the end of her book, she provides a list of seedsmen and nurseries who sell the bulbs.

REVISION

Mr. Hudson has revised his Southern Gardening. This book of general information for Southern gardeners is just what you want for your friends who are new gardeners or new home owners in the South. It has chapters on planting, lawns, bulbs, trees and shrubs and many useful lists of plants which we grow in Dixie.

Here, then, are three really Southern books for Christmas: Hudson's Southern Grdening pub. by Tupper & Love, Atlanta; Flowers Native to the Deep South by Caroline Dorman, available from Claitor's Book Store 241 North Street, Baton Rouge 2, La. $7.50; The Little Bulbs by Elizabeth L a w r e n c e, pub. by Criterion Books, N. Y. $4.00. The Lawrence and Hudson books can be found at most book stores in the South.

Adequate Gutters Prevent Mud Splash

The heavy rains of fall don't have to cascade off your roof in torrents, splattering mud on your home's walls and beating down your prized fall flowers, says the Roof Drainage Manufacturers Institute. Adequate gutters and downspouts are a "must" in today's modern home to guide rain water away from foundations to points where it can do no damage. Modern ideas of home architecture demand proper gutter and downspouts. Styles and sizes of metal roof drainage equipment are available to blend with and enhance the appearance of every home.

'SAFETY' TAGS

NEW YORK — (UPI)—Seven states will issue "safety" license plates in 1959 — tags covered or bordered with a material that reflects headlight and makes the plates visible from 2,000 feet.

The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators said the seven states are North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Delaware, Maine, Wyoming and Louisiana.

Ashtrays Make Practical Gifts For Workshop

A few senior-size ashtrays tor Dad's workshop are Christmas gifts Junior can make.

Just take one-pound coffee cans. Cut a lip on each side with tin snips, making two two-inch slits and bending down the cut sections. Double the sharp edges under.

Trim the outside of the can with one of the new decorative covering materials from your stores.

Select a material with an adhesive backing for ease of application. One particular brand has an adhesive backing which clings tightly to smooth metal surfaces. Just cut the material to size, remove the paper backing and press the covering into place. It will adhere firmly.

Fill the ashtrays with a layer of sand or salt to give them weight and provide an extinguisher for his cigarettes and cigars.

Parish Youth Wins Honor

By AUDREY DAWSON

Do you remember this Sunday seventeen years ago, yes, it was the attack on Pearl Harbor. Aren't we so glad that's behind us and that today we are looking forward to a much more joyous holiday season. Surely has been a short 17 years for yours truly.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to Winston Brown, 4-H Club member of Calhoun High School. Yes, a Ouachita 4-H'er has done it again, a national winner. This time in home grounds beautification. Winston won first in the state at the short course held on LSU campus. This gave him the chance to compete on a national level. Winston has spent this past week in Chicago, having the time of his life, with all expenses paid. He will come back from the "windy city" the first of the week. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Brown of Calhoun. 4-H Club work in the parish is under the supervision of Betty Jane Hodgkins and Elliott L. Branch.

YOUR PROBLEMS

You Can't Raise Kids Under A Glass Bell

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm 16 and violently in love with the boy who lives across the street. We moved into this house three years ago and of course I was a baby to him then because he is two years older. Last summer he began to notice me and I was in seventeenth heaven. I told the other fellows not to bother to call because I was all sewed up.

The trouble is all he wants to do is come over and neck or raid the fridge. He doesn't take me any place and I'm simply dying. He tells me he's broke but I've seen him in his good suit almost every Saturday night and I just know he must be going on a date. How can I get him back? I am really crazy about him.—MITTY

Back from where? He hasn't been any place. The only thing different is that you're finally catching on.

If you permit a fellow to come over every night, wear out the upholstery and feed his face why should he ask you out?

The only way you'll ever get him to treat you like a date is by putting an end to the free-loading routine. Let the other fellows know that you're no longer sewed up. Tell them the stitches slipped. Maybe wher he sees YOU going out Saturday night it may give him an idea, particularly if you refuse to be available during the week.

Dear Ann: I'm the mother of two young children. My neighbor has three. Her kids are permitted to go barefoot from May to October. Of course their noses run constantly. They are never without colds.

My two children caught measles from them last year. At present they are both ill with chicken-pox which they got next door.

I dress my youngsters properly and do everything within my power to keep them well. But it seems hopeless with the kids next door sneezing and coughing on them.

The situation is very touchy because they are great pals. I'd start a war if I suggested they not play together. Please tell me what to do. I keep praying the neighbor kids don't get leprosy or polio because if they did our kids would surely get it, too— DISTRAUGHT DOLLY

Dear D.D.: The world is filled with germs of every imaginable type. The best protection against illness is ample rest, proper food and normal precuations. When you know the neighbor children have severe colds insist that yours stay away from them.

Stop worrying about leprosy. Chances for the neighbor kids getting it are very slim. Leprosy (Hansen's disease) is one of the least contagious of all diseases. As for polio, the Salk vaccine has produced a virtual miracle. It doesn't gauarantee 100 per cent protection but it offers a high degree of immunity.

You can't raise kids under a glass bell. See that they get rest, good food and inoculations—then forget about germs.

Dear Ann: In June, the daughter of a close friend graduated from business school and needed a job. She can't spell, type or answer a phone properly. Her lunch period runs twice as long as anyone else's. I want to fire her and I hinted strongly that I might. Her father made it plain that he would be gravely hurt.

We've been close friends for years. What shall I do? Please answer in the paper. The dumb cluck opens my personal mail.—SORRY BOSS

You've hired the daughter of a friend to do secretarial work, and she can't spell, type or answer the phone properly? She takes double lunch periods and opens your personal mail. You pay her a salary. And SHE'S a dumb cluck?

There's an old department store adage: "Your first mark-down is the cheapest." I suggest you apply it—at once.

Let Santa Solve Your Yule Problem

By VIVIAN BROWN

Santa's mighty sled carries a special section for a question box, especially to carry notes from the campus crowd.

There are, for instance, those perennial puzzlers that Mr. Claus is an expert at solving —questions that involve gift giving.

"My girl friend and I date the same boys" writes a 17-year-old. "One boy is a very good spender when he takes us out, and last year we each gave him a gift. This year my friend is going to give him a very handsome waist coat that her father brought from England. I can't compete with that. What should I do?"

Since the boy is not even a steady beau, give him what you planned to give him or distinguish yourself by not giving him anything. There is no reason why you should. If you are a good knitter, consider making him a pair of socks or a silk tie. You can get directions for these, and it will not take you long to make them.

Any boy would think highly of something you made yourself.

"Last year my girl friend and I exchanged gifts. She gave me a very inexpensive gift — a pair of cotton gloves. My gift to her was a beautiful umbrella. Should I just skip it this year or give her a tiney present," asks a 15-year-old.

I would give her a less expensive present, to save the embarrassment of not reciprocating in kind, if she cannot afford your budget, but I'm afraid that you want to limit your gift because her does not measure up to your expectations of price range.

"A new girl moved into our neighborhood not long ago, and she has decided to have an egg nog party on Christmas day. This has always been a tradition at our house, and I do not know what to do. Should I ask the girl to change her date or just compete with her, "asks a 16-year-old.

If you are in the same circle of freinds, why not call her and ask what time she plans to have her party. Explain to her kindly that you have had the neighborhood egg nog party every year, and you wouldn't want to interfere with hers. If her party is from 12 to 2, maybe you could schedule yours from 2 to 4. Another thought is that presented on that basis she may well decide to postpone her party altogether.

"If boys and girls come to your house on Christmas for a tree party, do you have to give them gifts? Would they feel they have to give me a gift?"

This may be solved by announcing beforehand that there will be a grab bag for boys and one for girls, with boys bringing a bag gift for the girls and girls bringing one for the boys. If anyone wants to bring you a gift, your conscience is clear —at least you know they didn't expect you to have one for them.

"In our house we are having a big argument over trimming the Christmas tree. My mother and dad want an old fashioned tree —strings of popcorn, cranberries and tinsel. My sister wants a small table tree. I would like a great big traditional tree but not with all the gunk —tinsel, etc. How do you solve this one."

Four trees is the only answer to your problem. If you have room for them, by all means try it. Mother and dad could have a living room tree, brother could have his small table tree in the dining room maybe, sister could have a white tree with pink ornaments in the hall, perhaps if you have a big enough house. Why don't you try your hand at decorating the big green tree outside of the house in an unusual way?

FLORENCE'S STEAK AND ONIONS

Ingredients: One T-bone steak (1½ to 2 inches thick), 1 garlic clove, salt, freshly-ground pepper, 2 medium-sized onions (cut in thin half rounds).

Method: Have tail of steak ground and use another time. Have most of fat cut off from around outer edge of steak. Crush garlic and spread on steak; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Heat 9-inch black irn skilet over low heat for 20 to 30 minutes; turn heat high for a minute or so and rub surface of skillet with a small piece of the steak fat inserted in a long-handled fork so pan has good coating of fat. Add steak; brown rapidly on each side. Toward end of browning, pour off fat in pan and add onions in small space at side of skillet, turning them over as they brown. Reduce heat as necessary. Steak will be rare after surface is browned on both sides; let stand several minutes before carving. Serves two generously with leftovers for steak sandwiches or other use.

YOUR PROBLEMS

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I'm 16 and violently in love with the boy who lives across the street. We moved into this house three years ago and of course I was a baby to him then because he is two years older. Last summer he began to notice me and I was in seventeenth heaven. I told the other fellows not to bother to call because I was all sewed up.

The trouble is all he wants to do is come over and neck or raid the fridge. He doesn't take me any place and I'm simply dying. He tells me he's broke but I've seen him in his good suit almost every Saturday night and I just know he must be going on a date. How can I get him back? I am really crazy about him.—MITTY

Back from where? He hasn't been any place. The only thing different is that you're finally catching on.

If you permit a fellow to come over every night, wear out the upholstery and feed his face why should he ask you out?

The only way you'll ever get him to treat you like a date is by putting an end to the free-loading routine. Let the other fellows know that you're no longer sewed up. Tell them the stitches slipped. Maybe when he sees YOU going out Saturday night it may give him an idea, particularly if you refuse to be available during the week.

Dear Ann: I'm the mother of two young children. My neighbor has three. Her kids are permitted to go barefoot from May to October. Of course their noses run constantly. They are never without colds.

My two children caught measles from them last year. At present they are both ill with chicken-pox which they got next door.

I dress my youngsters properly and do everything within my power to keep them well. But it seems hopeless with the kids next door sneezing and coughing on them.

The situation is very touchy because they are great pals. I'd start a war if I suggested they not play together. Please tell me what to do. I keep praying the neighbor kids don't get leprosy or polio because if they did our kids would surely get it, too— DISTRAUGHT DOLLY

Dear D.D.: The world is filled with germs of every imaginable type. The best protection against illness is ample rest, proper food and normal precautions. When you know the neighbor children have severe colds insist that yours stay away from them.

Stop worrying about leprosy. Chances for the neighbor kids getting it are very slim. Leprosy (Hansen's disease) is one of the least contagious of all diseases. As for polio, the Salk vaccine has produced a virtual miracle. It doesn't gauarantee 100 per cent protection but it offers a high degree of immunity.

You can't raise kids under a glass bell. See that they get rest, good food and inoculations—then forget about germs.

Dear Ann: In June, the daughter of a close friend graduated from business school and needed a job. She can't spell, type or answer a phone properly. Her lunch period runs twice as long as anyone else's. I want to fire her and I hinted strongly that I might. Her father made it plain that he would be gravely hurt.

We've been close friends for years. What shall I do? Please answer in the paper. The dumb cluck opens my personal mail.—SORRY BOSS

You've hired the daughter of a friend to do secretarial work, and she can't spell, type or answer the phone properly? She takes double lunch periods and opens your personal mail. You pay her a salary. And SHE'S a dumb cluck?

There's an old department store adage: "Your first mark-down is the cheapest." I suggest you apply it—at once.

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Feed and clothe hungry children . . . provide palsied youngsters with tables, used to steady afflicted limbs . . . construct a fence for energetic Little Leaguers — a big order for an organization with 75 members.

The Junior Charity League has done all the work described above — plus more— during its 28 years in Ouachita Parish.

"No man ever stood so tall as when he stooped to pick up a little child," — the words inscribed over the front entrance at the Cerebral Palsy Center at Selman Field — have also been taken to heart by the Junior Leaguers.

"For several years, the League has assisted with the crippled children's clinic in many capacities: doing routine but necessary jobs such as taking notes for the doctors and buying medicine as prescribed by the pediatrician," explained Mrs. Lorraine Gregg.

The League furnished six therapeutic work tables and two wheel chairs for the center.

Milton Blue, administrator and speech therapist at the center, described the tables as "individual cutout tables," for very young children who require a certain amount of support in sitting.

EXPLAINED

"Imagine sitting at a desk in a half - moon section, unable to fall to the right, left, or forward. That is the advantage of these tables, which can also be used to fasten the youngsters in a standing position, so there is no possibility of them falling," Blue explained.

Two wheelchairs donated by the League also are used in helping the 35 school children who attend the school each day.

Mrs. Jamar Adcock, League president, pointed out that the school, for youngsters who suffered brain injury at birth, "teaches them muscle control and activities, such as crawling, which they have never learned before."

When the Little League Stadium was dedicated as a memorial to Dr. William Bendel Sr. this year, no fence was provided for — so the Junior League donated one.

At the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation center, where adults and children recovering from crippling illnesses are treated, League members furnished venetian blinds for the treatment rooms and physical and occupational therapy department.

Youngsters who make use of the children's reading room at the Ouachita Parish Library can thank Leaguers for it — under League sponsorship, the room was started.

The modern furniture, which will be moved to the new library when it opens, was League - donated.

LAYETTE SETS

Many new - born babies at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital are furnished layette sets, sewn by one of the League committees. Mrs. Ben Oliphint is in charge of the committee, which also makes kimonoes, gowns and slippers for the children's ward.

At St. Francis Hospital, youngsters in the pediatrics ward enjoy "Captain Kangaroo" and other TV programs, courtesy of the Junior League which recently installed a television set there.

The milk fund — first project started by the League when it was organized in 1930 —is still a major activity.

A later project, the clothing bank, is also "going strong."

The League receives requests, a committee checks to make sure of the authenticity of the request, and needy families are provided miik for the children, clothing for all members of the family, according to Mrs. Tom Highland, milk fund chairman, and Mrs. Jack Smith, clothes bank chairman.

Another activity, the Thrift Shop, supplies some of the funds for the milk and clothing.

Members work voluntarily in the shop, located behind a building at 801 DeSiard St., selling used clothing in excellent condition — and at very reasonable prices.

"Every Friday and Saturday morning the Thrift Shop is open for three hours. Each Junior League member must supply $20 worth of merchandise during the year. The articles are very inexpensive — for example shoes sell for 25 cents or 30 cents," explained shop committee chairman Mrs. Joe M. Powell.

CUSTOMERS

"Customers are lined up, waiting at the door for us to open it, and they often place clothing on lay - a - way," a member stated.

Not a "social" organization, the Junior League selects members after careful screening, requires many hours of work each year, and limits membersip to a five-year duration. After that, the young women may become life members by paying their dues, but no further work is required of them.

To help raise funds, the members present the Junior League Follies — a musical review featuring a Broadway company of performers, every other year.

The proceeds from the 1957 Follies were placed in a special gifts fund, and then were administered by a League committee to needy individuals.

Organizations serving the community also receive help from the fund. For instance, the YMCA received a 16 mm projector for use in showing films during training and instructing programs.

And when the new YMCA building is opened, evidence of League generosity will also be found there.

The first aid room and its furnishings have been donated by League members.

RUSSIAN AVIATION

Outside Airlines Find Operation Is Hampered

By WAYNE W. PARRISH
Editor and Publisher
American Aviation Magazine
Written for The Associated Press

The five European airlines which finally won permission to fly to Moscow within the past two years are finding the operation to be a pretty frustrating business.

They don't dare pull out, because the competitive stakes are too high. But there have been many disappointments. Even the personnel has to be changed frequently — the Westerners finally crack up under the strains and stresses of red tape, isolation, petty annoyances, and inability to control their own sales and operations.

No foreign airline can solicit business in the Soviet Union. It can't even sell a ticket if a customer comes to the office — which in each case is nothing but a hotel room. All airline business is handled by Aeroflot, the sole Russian nationalized airline.

Aeroflot does all ticket selling and even allocates the passengers to carriers and flights, although the customer usually can state a preference if he happens to know which airlines are flying where.

The experience of the European airlines will be shared in due course by Pan American World Airways. The American carrier has long been certificated to fly to Moscow, but the two governments have yet to come to terms with a reciprocal agreement. Negotiations are expected in 1959.

Although the Soviet Union promised office and housing facilities, and even display space, few promises have been carried out to date.

For example, in the entire country of 200 million people, there is exactly one window display available to Western airlines. This window is in the Metropole Hotel in Moscow and must be shared with Aeroflot.

Thus the Dutch airline has half the window for two months, then the Belgian, then the Scandinavian, and so forth.

Typical of the frustrations was what happened to Sabena, the Belgian airline, when its turn came to have half the window display for two months.

The airline shipped in a big handsome plastic cutaway model of the Boeing 707 jet which it has on order and will start flying late in 1959. The Russians asked Sabena if it were flying that airplane now. No, said Sabena, but we will be doing so. Then you can't display the model until you have the plane in service, was the reply.

One of the greatest problems is operational. The Russians are supposed to provide the proper kind of gas needed by Western planes, but after many months of promises they have yet to provide the proper octane gas for the DC7 which the Belgians fly. Consequently, the Belgian line has to carry enough fuel for the entire round-trip from Brussels, which means a restricted payload for each trip.

Other airlines are using Russian gas, but they say it is of low quality.

It would appear obvious that the Soviet Union has never produced high octane fuel of the type used in the West and hasn't been successful yet in making the grade.

Western airline men say Aeroflot is actually very fair about sharing business with them, but procedures are tedious.

Two more Western airlines are expected to serve Moscow in due course. One is British European Airways, the other Pan American. Scandinavian Airlines System was first, two years ago, followed by Finnair, Air France, Sabena, KLM. Air India began this year.

Despite an extension of the terminal at Moscow Airport, facilities are cramped. Incoming and outgoing passengers and baggage are all mixed together.

There are rumors that the Russians are building a very large international airport some distance from Moscow, designed as the biggest and most plush airport in the world. Aeroflot officials conceded that a new airport is being built but would say no more.

Airline men complain they are more constricted in their movements in Moscow than even newspapermen. One airline man was refused permission to go to Leningrad on an exploratory sales trip. The Soviet Union has frowned on even the slightest sales effort. There is little use to contact individual Russians, even if it were permitted, because an individual Russian couldn't get a passport to travel outside the U.S.S.R. except on official business or with official sanction.

But the Western lines feel that business has been worthwhile and will grow. Tourist business from Europe was not only good last summer, but can be controlled to a fair extent by the originating airline. Chief benefit is the connecting business by Russians who are traveling on government affairs to faraway areas not served by the Russian airlines.

The one lever which the Western lines possess is the Soviets' desire to have their own airline flying to most European points and to North America and Southeast Asia. This is the only way of getting concessions from the Russians.

They are now flying to India, Scandinavia, Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris, and will be in London in a matter of months. They have many plans to extend this network, and the more they extend, the more thawing out they will have to do within the Soviet Union.

But doing business in, and with, Russia has been a jolting experience.

Personal Account At South Pole

EDITOR'S NOTE: Palle Mogensen, scientific leader of the U.S. IGY science base at the South Pole, spent one year and seven days at "the bottom of the earth," from which he returned just a few days ago. In the following dispatch he describes the experience.

By PALLE MOGENSEN
As Told to Maurice Cutler
United Press International

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (UPI) — I have just returned after spending a year and seven days at the South Pole with nine other International Geophysical Year scientific personnel and eight U.S. Navy men.

It's amazing just how much a human being can stand.

When we left the pole on Thanksgiving Day, the temperature was about 30 degrees below zero. The temperature at the bottom of the earth rarely rises above zero and during the winter night, when the sun doesn't shine for four months, we recorded a low of 101.7 degrees below zero on two occasions. The mercury rose above zero only once, on Jan. 12, when it was 5.5 above, That was a "heat wave" for the Pole.

It was completely dark from May 12 to Sept. 2, with an additional six weeks of twilight, when the sun disappeared and then began to rise again. The winds weren't as high as we expected; their highest velocity was only around 45 m.p.h. But we experienced the highest average wind speed of 14.7 m.p.h.

TEMPERATURE

Despite the extreme temperatures, we lived fairly comfortably throughout the year. We all got along fine and anyone who goes to the Pole for a year with an open mind cannot fail to improve himself.

But you don't have to go outside the entrance of our almost buried base to experience the savagery of south polar weather. Once during the winter night, when I was carrying out some astronomical observations, it began at 28 degrees below zero in my enclosed shelter. However, in 15 minutes, the temperature had dropped to 96 degrees below zero. My fingers and toes received third degree frostbite.

You're not going anywhere if the temperature is 100 below and a 15 — knot wind is blowing. I threw a cup of water into the air when the mercury dropped to 90 below. It hissed through the air and changed into ice crystals before it reached the ground.

COMFORTS

We had washing machines and hot showers in addition to many other "comforts of home," but our main luxury was food. We had banquets on special occasions much as Thanksgiving, Christmas, sundown, midwinter, and the return of the sun.

Movies were shown five times weekly and we managed to avoid seeing ALL of them twice. The extreme cold caused the colors in many movies to blur, making them unusable.

We held weekly "happy nights" which included listening to music and a glass of brandy after a special meal.

We kept busy with our heavy schedule of work in various scientific fields, including weather, glaciology, aurora and ionosphere studies. We won't know the true value of our work for quite some time because our main task was to collect information which will be analyzed and interpreted.

I feel the IGY activity in Antarctica will result in a better understanding of the whole earth.

Our glaciologist dug down to a depth of 165 feet under the snow and estimated that the snow at that depth accumulated there in the middle of the 15th Century.

It took me about three months to learn that what I needed was humidity. The air up there at an altitude of some 9,200 feet is almost devoid of humidity. I made my own humidifying system by placing a pan of water and a damp towel over the stove to distribute some moisture.

At this altitude, the dry atmosphere caused some bad effects. When you exert yourself in that climate, you have coughs, nose bleeds, a humming in the eardrums, and dizziness.

OUTSIDE CONTACT

"Ham" radio was one of the biggest morale boosters we had during our long isolation. Through the ham operators in the States, our men were able to talk to their families regularly.

As far as news from the outside world was concerned, we followed the main events but were unable to get an overall picture because news came in bits and pieces.

The only thing we managed to grow at the Pole was an onion cultivated by our electrician in his workshop. Although it didn't reach full maturity, it grew for quite a while and was duly admired and photogtaphed by all.

We found that men outlast machines at the pole. We haven't yet been able to develop a machine that can withstand the temperatures. The equipment we used won't be much good next year. Whenever you go out on the trail, you need two of everything just in case one breaks down, as is usual.

Professor Says Laughs Are Key To Social Status

ANN ARBOR, Mich (AP) — Have you had a good leg-slapping laugh in the last 24 hours?

The answer may reveal your social status.

Prof. Alex Inkeles, Harvard sociologist, addressed a University of Michigan audience on the subject Friday night:

"Contrary to popular belief, the lower you are in social status the less likely you are to report having laughed during the past day," he said.

The reason, he said, is simply that people in the upper classes are happier.

"As you go down the social status scale, you find people less and less happy in their jobs," he said. "But in the upper classes there is a sense of personal accomplishment and general happiness in life."

BUDGET OFFICER REPORTS

U.S. Pays Fourth Of State Revenue

BATON ROUGE (UPI) — The Federal government chipped in more than one-fourth of the tax dollars collected during fiscal year 1957-58 by state right's conscious Louisiana.

That is part of the report on state finances for the year ended June 30 handed this week to Gov. Earl Long by the division of administration.

It points out the extent of state dependance on strings - attached federal funds that may become obscured through campaign oratory.

"The loss of the federal funds would wreck heck out of certain phases of state operations and would have an adverse effect on the entire economy of the state," says budget officer H. H. Russell.

The amount of federal funds taken in last fiscal year was $164 million or exactly 26.23 per cent of the state's income. The money is granted under specific federal programs and watched by federal auditors.

The sum represents a 44 per cent increase from the prior fiscal year and there is no reason to anticipate a decrease in the amount from the next Congress.

The largest chunk of the government money coming into the state is for the welfare department and makes up half the state welfare program.

Some $85 million was sent down for such welfare projects as aid to needy children and old age pension benefits.

The department of highways received almost $63½ million for its part in the expanding interstate highway system and the education department got some $4 million.

There is no state appropriation for the employment division of the department of labor. Their funds will come from a $3½ million government grant.

Louisiana State University's $3.5 million federal grant last fiscal year was mainly for government needed agricultural extension and experimental work.

One-half million dollars went to both the forestry commission and the department of fisheries and wildlife on the basis of the number of seedlings planted and the number of hunting and fishing licenses granted.

Louisiana sales tax contributed the second largest piece of the state's income last fiscal year. The tax netted 13 per cent. Severance taxes brought in 12 per cent of the revenue.

FOR ONE DAY

Monroe Will Be Enchanted City

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

For one day this week, Monroe will be an enchanted city, visited by glittering Christmas fairies, toys brought to life, Santa Claus, red - nosed Rudolph and the eight fabled reindeer.

They will appear at only one place — Plum Street School — on one day Tuesday.

At 1 p.m. and 7 p.m., the hour - long presentation of the school's special Christmas program will transform the gymnasium into a wonderland, where childhood dreams come true.

The story of Christmas Eve in an "average American home," early Christmas morning made magical with "live" dolls, fairies, and Santa, and Christmas day will be described in song and dance by the school's 108 second grade students.

The audience will be seated in a "horse - shoe" arrangement, providing an excellent view of the youngsters.

"The play begins on the gymnasium stage, with the time Christmas Eve," described Mrs. W. M. Harper, who instructs the youngsters in their physical education rhythm program along with Mrs. Betty Mobley, Mrs. Mary Alice Hoak and Mrs. Ione Hill.

LIGHTS DIM

The house lights dim . . . the stage is lighted to reveal a brightly decorated Christmas tree, a window glowing with Christmas candles, and eight youngsters who are told the story of the candles by their "mother," Leslie Leath, and "grandmother," Charlotte Wiggins, both fifth graders.

"The candles are traditional. Each year, we place them in the window at Christmas time, as a sign that you children have been good, and that Santa and the Christmas Fairies are welcome here," the mother relates, as the children listen, wide - eyed.

Outside the house, voices of carolers are heard, singing to welcome the birth of the Savior.

Noticing the Christmas candles, they hesitate outside the home, then are invited in to share in the cheery warmth.

Time creeps slowly toward the midnight hour, the children are sent to bed, and only the tree is left to await Santa's coming.

Then, unexpectedly, wooden toy soldiers, pretty dolls, in frilly little dresses, a jack-in-the box, gypsy and mammy dolls march stiffly into the living room, sent on ahead by an overburdened Santa.

FAIRIES

With them arrive two Christmas Fairies, portrayed by fifth graders Suzette Lindsey and Cynthia Chambless.

A wave from their glittering wands — and the toys come to life, sing and dance.

Santa arrives, huffing and puffing, accompanied by Rudolph the red - nosed reindeer and the eight flying reindeer from the North Pole — Dancer, Prancer, Dasher and Vixen, Comet, Cupid, Donder and Blitzen.

Entertainment by the gypsy dolls continues until dawn, then is suddenly brought to a halt, as the Fairies hear the children getting up.

"Hurry, hurry, Santa,' they exclaim, and the white-bearded old gentleman, represented by fifth grader Karl Suomi, leads his reindeer quickly into the growing daylight.

With feverish movements, the Fairies arrange the toys around the Christmas tree, wave golden wands which change the toys back forever into dolls, then scurry out the door, just before the children rush into the room . . .

The Christmas program is just one of the results of the children's rhythm program. The second graders interpret music, work out their own steps, try out for the part which they can do best in the school's annual presentation.

A "family program," special rates are available this year for the entire family if a "family ticket" is purchased

TV Wyatt Earp Not Fast Enough To Stop Robbery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Marshal Wyatt Earp entertained about 400 children Saturday with his lightning fast draw.

As the crash of .45-caliber blank cartridges filled the air, someone punched the no sale sign on the inn's cash register and stole $150.

READING ROOM — Furniture in the children's room at the Ouachita Parish Public Library was furnished by the League, which also conceived the idea of such a room. Junior League Here Serves In Many Causes

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Feed and clothe hungry children . . . provide palsied youngsters with tables, used to steady afflicted limbs . . . construct a fence for energetic Little Leaguers — a big order for an organization with 75 members.

The Junior Charity League has done all the work described above — plus more— during its 28 years in Ouachita Parish.

"No man ever stood so tall as when he stooped to pick up a little child." — the words inscribed over the front entrance at the Cerebral Palsy Center at Selman Field — have also been taken to heart by the Junior Leaguers.

"For several years, the League has assisted with the crippled children's clinic in many capacities: doing routine but necessary jobs such as taking notes for the doctors and buying medicine as prescribed by the pediatrician," explained Mrs. Lorraine Gregg.

The League furnished six therapeutic work tables and two wheel chairs for the center.

Milton Blue, administrator and speech therapist at the center, described the tables as "individual cutout tables," for very young children who require a certain amount of support in sitting.

EXPLAINED

"Imagine sitting at a desk in a half - moon section, unable to fall to the right, left, or forward. That is the advantage of these tables, which can also be used to fasten the youngsters in a standing position, so there is no possibility of them falling," Blue explained.

Two wheelchairs donated by the League also are used in helping the 35 school children who attend the school each day.

Mrs. Jamar Adcock, League president, pointed out that the school, for youngsters who suffered brain injury at birth, "teaches them muscle control and activities, such as crawling, which they have never learned before."

When the Little League Stadium was dedicated as a memorial to Dr. William Bendel Sr. this year, no fence was provided for — so the Junior League donated one.

At the Carolyn Rose Strauss Rehabilitation center, where adults and children recovering from crippling illnesses are treated, League members furnished venetian blinds for the treatment rooms and physical and occupational therapy department.

Youngsters who make use of the children's reading room at the Ouachita Parish Library can thank Leaguers for it — under League sponsorship, the room was started.

The modern furniture, which will be moved to the new library when it opens, was League - donated.

LAYETTE SETS

Many new - born babies at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital are furnished layette sets, sewn by one of the League committees. Mrs. Ben Oliphint is in charge of the committee, which also makes kimonoes, gowns and slippers for the children's ward.

At St. Francis Hospital, youngsters in the pediatrics ward enjoy "Captain Kangaroo" and other TV programs, courtesy of the Junior League which recently installed a television set there.

The milk fund — first project started by the League when it was organized in 1930 —is still a major activity.

A later project, the clothing bank, is also "going strong."

The League receives requests, a committee checks to make sure of the authenticity of the request, and needy families are provided milk for the children, clothing for all members of the family, according to Mrs. Tom Highland, milk fund chairman, and Mrs. Jack Smith, clothes bank chairman.

Another activity, the Thrift Shop, supplies some of the funds for the milk and clothing.

Members work voluntarily in the shop, located behind a building at 801 DeSiard St., selling used clothing in excellent condition — and at very reasonable prices.

"Every Friday and Saturday morning the Thrift Shop is open for three hours. Each Junior League member must supply $20 worth of merchandise during the year. The articles are very inexpensive — for example shoes sell for 25 cents or 30 cents," explained shop committee chairman Mrs. Joe M. Powell.

CUSTOMERS

"Customers are lined up, waiting at the door for us to open it, and they often place clothing on lay - a - way," a member stated.

Not a "social" organization, the Junior League selects members after careful screening, requires many hours of work each year, and limits membersip to a five-year duration. After that, the young women may become life members by paying their dues, but no further work is required of them.

To help raise funds, the members present the Junior League Follies — a musical review featuring a Broadway company of performers, every other year.

The proceeds from the 1957 Follies were placed in a special gifts fund, and then were administered by a League committee to needy individuals.

Organizations serving the community also receive help from the fund. For instance, the YMCA received a 16 mm projector for use in showing films during training and instructing programs.

And when the new YMCA building is opened, evidence of League generosity will also be found there.

The first aid room and its furnishings have been donated by League members.

RUSSIAN AVIATION

Outside Airlines Find Operation Is Hampered

By WAYNE W. PARRISH
Editor and Publisher
American Aviation Magazine
Written for The Associated Press

The five European airlines which finally won permission to fly to Moscow within the past two years are finding the operation to be a pretty frustrating business.

They don't dare pull out, because the competitive stakes are too high. But there have been many disappointments. Even the personnel has to be changed frequently — the Westerners finally crack up under the strains and stresses of red tape, isolation, petty annoyances, and inability to control their own sales and operations.

No foreign airline can solicit business in the Soviet Union. It can't even sell a ticket if a customer comes to the office — which in each case is nothing but a hotel room. All airline business is handled by Aeroflot, the sole Russian nationalized airline.

Aeroflot does all ticket selling and even allocates the passengers to carriers and flights, although the customer usually can state a preference if he happens to know which airlines are flying where.

The experience of the European airlines will be shared in due course by Pan American World Airways. The American carrier has long been certificated to fly to Moscow, but the two governments have yet to come to terms with a reciprocal agreement. Negotiations are expected in 1959.

Although the Soviet Union promised office and housing facilities, and even display space, few promises have been carried out to date.

For example, in the entire country of 200 million people, there is exactly one window display available to Western airlines. This window is in the Metropole Hotel in Moscow and must be shared with Aeroflot.

Thus the Dutch airline has half the window for two months, then the Belgian, then the Scandinavian, and so forth.

Typical of the frustrations was what happened to Sabena, the Belgian airline, when its turn came to have half the window display for two months.

The airline shipped in a big handsome plastic cutaway model of the Boeing 707 jet which it has on order and will start flying late in 1959. The Russians asked Sabena if it were flying that airplane now. No, said Sabena, but we will be doing so. Then you can't display the model until you have the plane in service, was the reply.

One of the greatest problems is operational. The Russians are supposed to provide the proper kind of gas needed by Western planes, but after many months of promises they have yet to provide the proper octane gas for the DC7 which the Belgians fly. Consequently, the Belgian line has to carry enough fuel for the entire round-trip from Brussels, which means a restricted payload for each trip.

Other airlines are using Russian gas, but they say it is of low quality.

It would appear obvious that the Soviet Union has never produced high octane fuel of the type used in the West and hasn't been successful yet in making the grade.

Western airline men say Aeroflot is actually very fair about sharing business with them, but procedures are tedious.

Two more Western airlines are expected to serve Moscow in due course. One is British European Airways, the other Pan American. Scandinavian Airlines System was first, two years ago, followed by Finnair, Air France, Sabena, KLM. Air India began this year.

Despite an extension of the terminal at Moscow Airport, facilities are cramped. Incoming and outgoing passengers and baggage are all mixed together.

There are rumors that the Russians are building a very large international airport some distance from Moscow, designed as the biggest and most plush airport in the world. Aeroflot officials conceded that a new airport is being built but would say no more.

Airline men complain they are more constricted in their movements in Moscow than even newspapermen. One airline man was refused permission to go to Leningrad on an exploratory sales trip. The Soviet Union has frowned on even the slightest sales effort. There is little use to contact individual Russians, even if it were permitted, because an individual Russian couldn't get a passport to travel outside the U.S.S.R. except on official business or with official sanction.

But the Western lines feel that business has been worthwhile and will grow. Tourist business from Europe was not only good last summer, but can be controlled to a fair extent by the originating airline. Chief benefit is the connecting business by Russians who are traveling on government affairs to faraway areas not served by the Russian airlines.

The one lever which the Western lines possess is the Soviets' desire to have their own airline flying to most European points and to North America and Southeast Asia. This is the only way of getting concessions from the Russians.

They are now flying to India, Scandinavia, Amsterdam, Brussels and Paris, and will be in London in a matter of months. They have many plans to extend this network, and the more they extend, the more thawing out they will have to do within the Soviet Union.

But doing business in, and with, Russia has been a jolting experience.

Personal Account At South Pole

EDITOR'S NOTE: Palle Mogensen, scientific leader of the U.S. IGY science base at the South Pole, spent one year and seven days at "the bottom of the earth," from which he returned just a few days ago. In the following dispatch he describes the experience.

By PALLE MOGENSEN
As Told to Maurice Cutler
United Press International

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (UPI) — I have just returned after spending a year and seven days at the South Pole with nine other International Geophysical Year scientific personnel and eight U.S. Navy men.

It's amazing just how much a human being can stand.

When we left the pole on Thanksgiving Day, the temperature was about 30 degrees below zero. The temperature at the bottom of the earth rarely rises above zero and during the winter night, when the sun doesn't shine for four months, we recorded a low of 101.7 degrees below zero on two occasions. The mercury rose above zero only once, on Jan. 12, when it was 5.5 above, That was a "heat wave" for the Pole.

It was completely dark from May 12 to Sept. 2, with an additional six weeks of twilight, when the sun disappeared and then began to rise again. The winds weren't as high as we expected; their highest velocity was only around 45 m.p.h. But we experienced the highest average wind speed of 14.7 m.p.h.

TEMPERATURE

Despite the extreme temperatures, we lived fairly comfortably throughout the year. We all got along fine and anyone who goes to the Pole for a year with an open mind cannot fail to improve himself.

But you don't have to go outside the entrance of our almost buried base to experience the savagery of south polar weather. Once during the winter night, when I was carrying out some astronomical observations, it began at 28 degrees below zero in my enclosed shelter. However, in 15 minutes, the temperature had dropped to 96 degrees below zero. My fingers and toes received third degree frostbite.

You're not going anywhere if the temperature is 100 below and a 15 — knot wind is blowing. I threw a cup of water into the air when the mercury dropped to 90 below. It hissed through the air and changed into ice crystals before it reached the ground.

Russians Made Headlines In The 1958 Book Year

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK, (AP)— With the year drawing to a close, the Russians were way out ahead in the American literary competition.

The Russians didn't like it, either.

The book that headed the fiction best-seller lists week after week, the book displayed in store windows and carried under people's arms in the street, the book your friends asked about most often, was Vladimir Nabokov's "Lolita."

And a close second was Boris Pasternak's Nobel prize-winner, "Doctor Zhivago."

RARE QUALITY

Nabokov, though now in this country, is Russian-born. Pasternak, too, is Russian-born and at this writing still hasn't been thrown out for a novel that his compatriots condemned scathingly. Sales of both novels have benefited extraordinarily from two slight misapprehensions: Too many people think "Lolita" is all sex, and "Zhivago" all anti-Red. Neither is true. But you can be positive of finding in each work writing of a very rare quality, human understanding of the most sincere nature, and a first-rate story.

One nonfiction best seller also concerned Russia: John Gunther's "Inside Russia Today." Runner-up in popularity also had a lot to do with Communists, but mostly the home-bred ones: J. Edgar Hoover's "Masters of Deceit." Related world problems, either specifically the rivalry of the two big powers or more general affairs, were discussed in excellent books: "The Big Change in Europe," by Blair Bolles; "The Ugly American," a novel about our foreign representatives, by William J. Lederer and Eugene Burdick; "War and Peace in the Space Age," by Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin.

More immediately centered on the American scene were "Eisenhower: Captive Hero," by Marquis Childs; "The Democratic Vista," by Richard Chase; "The Affluent Society," by John Kenneth Galbraith.

Galbraith traveled to two countries to lecture, and wrote about it in "Journey to Poland and Yugoslavia." Fellow scholar Arnold Toynbee gave an account of his round-the-world tour in "East to West."

They were not the only familiar names on the 1958 book lists. There was nonfiction from Wright Morris, Louis Kronenberger, George Orwell (reprint) and Lawrence Durrell, and fiction from Vance Bourjaily, Howard Fast, John Dos Passos, Shirley Ann Grau, Graham Greene, Jack Kerouac, Alberto Moravia, Willard Motley, Ignazio Silone, Betty Smith, Pierre Boulle and John O'Hara with the almost endless "From the Terrace" —which had a dosage of sex almost as concentrated as in James Jones' "Some Came Running."

FIRST NOVELS

It was a grand year for first novels — from Jean Ariss, "The Quick Years;" Thomas Berger, "Crazy in Berlin;" Richard Dohrman, "The Cross of Baron Samedi;" Hermann Field and Sanislaw Mierzenski, "Angry Harvest;" Alan Gillies, "Side Door to Heaven;" William Humphrey, "Home from the Hill."

So many new books about the Civil War appeared that it's hard to imagine what will be left for the upcoming centennial years. The subjects were Brig. Gen. Milton Littlefield, Gettysburg, the city of Richmond, and general stories like Shelby Foote's over-all account.

ABSORBING READING

Biography and autobiography provided absorbing reading. Among those who sat for their portraits, self-portraits or done by someone else's hand, were Bela Bartok, Bizet, E. E. Cummings, Ninette de Valois, Eisenhower, James Joyce, Field Marshal Montgomery, Ouida, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Mark Van Doren. A book about Robert Frost was almost too unfriendly — Miss Stein's friend Alice B. Toklas got on the lists with another cookbook.

Public schools and colleges were the subject of two novels, by Stringfellow Barr and Carlos B. Baker, and three surveys, by George Williams, William Benton and John F. Latimer. Their total effect was critical of our educational system.

HARD TO CLASS

Among other items that balk at easy classification but that helped make this a good year were "Abandon Ship!" about the American naval disaster in the Pacific, written by Associated Press newsman Richard F. Newcomb; two controversial items that were however universally approved by liberal reviewers: "The Question," by Henri Alleg, about the French treatment of political prisoners in North Africa, and "The Unfinished Story of Alger Hiss," by Fred J. Cook; "The Banquet Years," Roger Shattuck's survey of creative wellsprings in France around the turn of the century; the University of the Modern World," edited by Nevins and Ehrmann; and outstanding fiction by Albert Camus, J. B. Donleavy, Bernard Malamud, Colin MCougall, Mary Renault, Roger Vailland, John Wain and, with a Alastair Reid, plus two samples imported from Hungary of the heart-warming work of Tibor Dery.

Van Wyck Brooks was represented by two books, and his wife Gladys by one. "The Letters of Emily Dickinson" were handsomely published. Daniel J. Boorstin began a three -volume investigation of "The Americans," his opener being "The Colonial Experience."

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Collection Is Interesting

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Again this week an interesting collection of books has been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. We are purchasing as many new books as we can possibly afford in an effort to have books for you when we open our new main library soon after the first of the year.

In the field of fiction there are several interesting titles "Small World" by Keith Wheeler is a big, exciting novel of America's foreign correspondents. It is filled with action, humor, excitement and romance and is a fast-paced, vastly entertaining novel about America's foreign correspondents. Readers who enjoyed "The Iron King" and "The Strangled Queen" by Maurice Druon will welcome another story of the French throne called "The Poisoned Crown." This is the story of Louis Xi and of the brutal and tragic events of his reign.

Probably no historical period is as popular with our readers as the American Civil War. We are happy to announce a new book on this subject by James D. Horan, an expert on the period called "Seek Out and Destroy." This is a story of the Confederate raider "Shenandoah" and of her contribution to the cause of the South. It is a story filled with action and excitement and one that you will not want to miss. "The Brides of Solomon and Other Stories" by Geoffrey Household is not a historical novel, although its title would make one think so. It is a series of short stories with settings in all parts of the world and the period is the present day. It is a book of adventure which will appeal especially to men.

"Justice of the Heart" by E. Arnot Robertson has a most unusual setting on the island of Zanzibar. This is a warmly human story, which in spite of the gravity of its theme is steeped in the delicious comedy for which E. Arnot Robertson is famous. Exotic Zanzibar and its inhabitants come brilliantly to life and this is a book to be read for pleasure and understanding. Addicts of the Nero Wolfe mystery stories will be happy that Rex Stout has produced a new title called "Champagne for One." There is a delightful little Christmas story called "Journey to Christmas" written by B. J. Chute. Hammond Innes, author of the "Wreck of the Mary Deare" has written a new novel which he calls "The Land God Gave to Cain." It has its setting in the bleak wastes of Labrador. It is a story of great courage, determination and initiative and portrays one of the world's last wildernesses and the hard Spartan men who are subduing it.

The term non-fiction covers such a wide variety of material that it is almost a misnomer. On the light side is Emily Kimbrough's latest book called "And A Right Good Crew." It is an account of a canal trip through England. It is as charming as her other books and is certain to be very popular. Thomas B. Costain and John Beecroft have given us two more volumes of "More Stories to Remember" a collection which comprises six complete novels and thirty stories.

A subject in which many readers of the Ouachita Parish Public Library are vitally interested is that of archaeology. This week we have a perfectly beautiful new book called "The March of Archaeology" written by C. W. Ceram, who gave us "Gods Graves and Scholars" several years ago. It is a beautiful book and should be widely read.

In the field of religion and psychology there are three new titles. "Notable Sermons from Protestant Pulpits" is an excellent book edited by Charles L. Wallis. "Meditations For Youth" by Walter Cook is a charming little book containing 393 devotions applying Bible messages to life today. "Irrational Man" by William Barrett is a very fine book on the subject of Existential philosophy.

Three excellent books dealing with contemporary politics are in this week's additions. "Mr. Churchill's Secretary" by Elizabeth Vel is the recollections of this great man, by a woman who worked with him throughout the crucial years from 1941 to 1945. Lin Yutang has written a very profound expose of the communist mind and philosophy which he calls "The Secret Name." It is a book which every thoughtful American should read and heed. "Brave New World Revisited" by Aldous Huxley is an account of impressions of the failure of communism.

Businessmen will be interested in a very fine technical book called "Economic Forecasting" written by V. Lewis Bassie, director of the bureau of Economics and business research at the University of Illinois. One of the finest contributions to an understanding of the American Revolution which we have had in a long time is "The Spirit of Seventy-six" by Henry Steel Commanger. There are many other new books available to you at the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

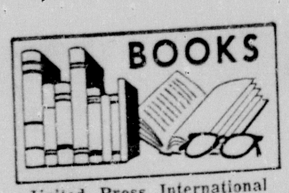
Many U. S. privately owned ships on the high seas today carry a Warrant and Naval Reserve Flag. These are ships whose Master and 50 per cent of her licensed officers are commissioned in the U. S. Naval Reserve. And ship and men could be quickly converted for national defense.



United Press International

Beloved Infidel, by Sheilah Graham and Gerold Frank (Holt): Miss Graham is an English-born journalist who has acnieved some note in the United States, publicly as the author of a syndicated Hollywood column and privately as the constant companion of the late great novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald during his last years. This is her autobiography — a fabulous story of her progression from an East End orphanage to Buckingham Palace. If she had not met Fitzgerald she might have become a titled lady by marriage. But she became devoted to him and nearly half her book deals with their relationship. Miss Graham's picture of Fitzgerald in his later years confirms the presentations of less fondly inclined chroniclers — he comes through as a superannuated Peter Pan with paranoid tendencies. A thoroughly readable and informative book.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The compatibility of music and the spoken word has been evident for a long time.

Radio station WLW in Cincinnati popularized poetry and music in the early 1930's with a program called "Moon River." Later Franklyn MacCormac enjoyed success on records with poems read to Wayne King's music. The current theme is poetry and cool jazz.

"Jazz Canto, Vol. I" (World Pacific-1244) is a good primer for those who might be interested in this subject. Poems of Walt Whitman, Dylan Thomas, Langston Hughes and others are read by John Carradine, Hoagy Carmichael, Ben Wright, Roy Glenn and Bob Dorough with Gerry Mulligan, Chico Hamilton, Jack Montrose and Fred Katz cooling the background.

Peter Ustinov, the poor man's Orson Welles, turns in an unbelievably versatile performance as a man with many voices in a fine offbeat record called "The Grand Prix of Gibraltar" (Riverside RLP 12-833). This is a hilarious spoofing by Ustinov of Riverside's famed series of LP's on sports car racing at Sebring, Fla.

Ustinov plays the part of interviewers, jalopy jockeys of many nationalities, a British commentator and a Russian "observer." It's good entertainment for anyone with a dry sense of humor.

CONCERT
By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — When two complete pressings of "La Gioconda" are issued at the same time, you know the record industry is hard put to decide what opera to do next, now that it has recorded just about everything in the operatic repertoire. "La Gioconda" has too much barrenness in it to be anyone's favorite opera.

But it does provide agile voices with variegated trapezes to fling themselves around on. This makes choosing between the two new recordings a matter for measurements of agility.

RCA Victor's (LM6139) has the advantages in soprano (Zinka Milanov), baritone (Leonard Warren) and Conductor (Fernando Previtali). London's (A4331) has them in tenor (Mario del Monaco), mezzo - soprano (Giulietta Simionato) and bass (Cesare Siepie.)

If you could somehow put the two sets of advantages [illegible]ording, you'd have a "La Gioconda" to excite [illegible], but since you can't, you must settle for one version or the other.

Listening to Maria Meneghini Callas in stereophonic sound amply confirms the opera house impression — as a singer (and only as a singer) she is tremendously over-rated by the non - operatic public. She must have an opera stage to emote on and project her magnetism from, which is why she's foolish to quarrel with opera houses.

The stereophonic Callas comes in a complete "The Barber of Seville" which Angel (S3559) ran up with the London Philharmonia Orchestra and Chors. Tito Gobbi, Luigi Alva and Nicola Zaccaria sing the other principal roles.

The recording is a demonstration of Angel's advanced stereophonic techniques, but there are better recordings of the Barber — recordings with voices better able to handle the heroine's part than Callas.

PROSPERITY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — San Frncisco merchants keep their fingers crossed that the television series "Lineup" won't be discontinued.

The shopkeepers report that after their establishments are shown in the series, business takes an upward spurt.

Russians Made Headlines In The 1958 Book Year

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP) — With the year drawing to a close, the Russians were way out ahead in the American literary competition.

The Russians didn't like it, either.

The book that headed the fiction best-seller lists week after week, the book displayed in store windows and carried under people's arms in the street, the book your friends asked about most often, was Vladimir Nabokov's "Lolita."

And a close second was Boris Pasternak's Nobel prize-winner, "Doctor Zhivago."

RARE QUALITY

Nabokov, living now in this country, is Russian-born. Pasternak, who is Russian-born and at the writing still has been known as [illegible] that is communism's opinion of authors who do not follow party orthodoxy from the party's point of view. Both men are people of extraordinary talent and rare quality, human understanding of the most sincere nature, and a first-rate story.

One nonfiction best seller also concerned Russia. John Gunther's "Inside Russia Today." Runner-up in popularity also had a lot to do with communists, but mostly the home-bred ones. J. Edgar Hoover's "Masters of Deceit." Related world problems, either specifically the rivalry of the two big powers or more general affairs, were discussed in excellent books: "The Big Change in Europe," by Blair Bolles; "The Ugly American," a novel about our foreign representatives, by William J. Lederer and Eugene Burdick; "War and Peace in the Space Age," by Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin.

More immediately centered on the American scene were "Eisenhower, Captive Hero," by Marquis Childs; "The Democratic Vista," by Richard Chase; "The Affluent Society," by John Kenneth Galbraith.

Galbraith traveled to two countries to lecture, and wrote about it in "Journey to Poland and Yugoslavia." Fellow scholar Arnold Toynbee gave an account of his round-the-world tour in "East to West."

They were not the only familiar names on the 1958 book lists. There was nonfiction from Wright Morris, Louis Kronenberger, George Orwell (reprint) and Lawrence Durrell, and fiction from Vance Bourjaily, Howard Fast, John Dos Passos, Shirley Ann Grau, Graham Greene, Jack Kerouac, Alberto Moravia, Willard Motley, Ignazio Silone, Betty Smith, Pierre Boulle and John O'Hara with the almost endless "From the Terrace" — which had a dosage of sex almost as concentrated as in James Jones' "Some Came Running."

FIRST NOVELS

It was a grand year for first novels — from Jean Auss, "The Quick Years;" Thomas Berger, "Crazy in Berlin;" Richard Dehrman, "The Cross of Baron Samedi;" Hermann Field and Stanislaw Mierzonski, "Angry Harvest;" Alan Gilles, "Side Door to Heaven;" William Humphrey, "Home from the Hill."

So many new books about the Civil War appeared that it's hard to imagine what will be left for the upcoming centennial years. The subjects were Brig. Gen. Milton Little, Gettysburg, the city of Richmond and special studies like Sidney Poore's overall account.

ABSORBING READING

Biography and autobiography provided absorbing reading. Among those set for their portraits (self-portraits or done by someone else's hand, were Bela Bartok, Bert B. Cumming, Noel de Valois, Eisenhower, James Jones, Field Marshal Montgomery, Quota, Theodore Roosevelt, Woodrow Wilson, Mark Van Doren. A book about Robert Frost was almost too unfriendly — Miss Stein's friend Alice B. Toklas got on the lists with another cookbook.

Public schools and colleges were the subject of two novels, by Stringfellow Barr and Carlos B. Baker, and three surveys, by George Williams, William Benton and John F. Latimer. Their total effect was critical of our educational system.

HARD TO CLASS

Among other items that balk at easy classification but that helped make this a good year were "Abandon Ship!" about the American naval disaster in the Pacific, written by Associated Press newsman Richard F. Newcomb; two controversial items that were however universally approved by liberal reviewers: "The Question," by Henri Alleg, about the French treatment of political prisoners in North Africa, and "The Unfinished Story of Alger Hiss," by Fred J. Cook; "The Banquet Years," Roger Shattuck's survey of creative wellsprings in France around the turn of the century; the University of Chicago "Great Books of the Modern World," edited by Nevins and Ehrmann; and outstanding fiction by Albert Camus, J. B. Donleavy, Bernard Malamud, Colin MCougall, Mary Renault, Roger Vailland, John Wain and, with a Alastair Reid, plus two samples imported from Hungary of the heart-warming work of Tibor Dery.

Van Wyck Brooks was represented by two books, and his wife Gladys by one. "The Letters of Emily Dickinson" were handsomely published. Daniel J. Boorstin began a three-volume investigation of "The Americans," his opener being "The Colonial Experience."

POPULAR

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The compatibility of music and the spoken word has been evident for a long time.

Radio station WLW in Cincinnati popularized poetry and music in the early 1950's with a program called "Moon River." Later Franklyn MacCormac enjoyed success on records with poems read to Warne King's music. The current theme is poetry and cool jazz.

"Jazz Canto, Vol. I" (World Pacific-1244) is a good primer for those who might be interested in this subject. Poems of Walt Whitman, Dylan Thomas, Langston Hughes and others are read by John Carradine, Hoagy Carmichael, Ben Wright, Roy Glenn and Bob Dorough with Gerry Mulligan, Chico Hamilton, Jack Montrose and Fred Katz cooling the background.

Peter Ustinov, the poor man's Orson Welles, turns in an unbelievably versatile performance as a man with many voices in a fine offbeat record called "The Grand Prix of Gibraltar" (Riverside RLP 12-833). This is a hilarious spoofing by Ustinov of Riverside's famed series of LP's on sports car racing at Sebring, Fla.

Ustinov plays the part of interviewers, jalopy jockeys of many nationalities, a British commentator and a Russian "observer." It's good entertainment for anyone with a dry sense of humor.

CONCERT

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — When two complete pressings of "La Gioconda" are issued at the same time, you know the record industry is hard put to decide what opera to do next, now that it has recorded just about everything in the operatic repertoire. "La Gioconda" has too much barrenness in it to be anyone's favorite opera.

But it does provide agile voices with variegated trapezes to fling themselves around on. This makes choosing between the two new recordings a matter for measurements of agility.

RCA Victor's (LM6139) has the advantages in soprano (Zinka Milanov), baritone (Leonard Warren) and Conductor (Fernando Previtali). London's (A4331) has them in tenor (Mario del Monaco), mezzo-soprano (Giulietta Simionato) and bass (Cesare Siepi).

If you could somehow put the two sets of advantages recording, you'd have a "La Gioconda" to excite [illegible] since you can't, you must settle for one version or the other.

Listening to Maria Meneghini Callas in stereophonic sound amply confirms the opera house impression — as a singer (and only as a singer) she is tremendously over-rated by the non-operatic public. She must have an opera stage to emote on and project her magnetism from, which is why she's foolish to quarrel with opera houses.

The stereophonic Callas comes in a complete "The Barber of Seville" which Angel (S3559) ran up with the London Philharmonia Orchestra and Chors. Tito Gobbi, Luigi Alva and Nicola Zaccaria sing the other principal roles.

The recording is a demonstration of Angel's advanced stereophonic techniques, but there are better recordings of the Barber — recordings with voices better able to handle the heroine's part than Callas.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Collection Is Interesting

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Again this week an interesting collection of books has been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. We are purchasing as many new books as we can possibly afford in an effort to have books for you when we open our new main library soon after the first of the year.

In the field of fiction there are several interesting titles "Small World" by Keith Wheeler is a big, exciting novel of America's foreign correspondents. It is filled with action, humor, excitement and romance and is a fast-paced, vastly entertaining novel about America's foreign correspondents. Readers who enjoyed "The Iron King" and "The Strangled Queen" by Maurice Druon will welcome another story of the French throne called "The Poisoned Crown." This is the story of Louis XI and of the brutal and tragic events of his reign.

Probably no historical period is as popular with our readers as the American Civil War. We are happy to announce a new book on this subject by James D. Horan, an expert on the period called "Seek Out and Destroy." This is a story of the Confederate raider "Shenandoah" and of her contribution to the cause of the South. It is a story filled with action and excitement and one that you will not want to miss. "The Brides of Solomon and Other Stories" by Geoffrey Household is not a historical novel, although its title would make one think so. It is a series of short stories with settings in all parts of the world and the period is the present day. It is a book of adventure which will appeal especially to men.

"Justice of the Heart" by E. Arnot Robertson has a most unusual setting on the island of Zanzibar. This is a warmly human story, which in spite of the gravity of its theme is steeped in the delicious comedy for which E. Arnot Robertson is famous. Exotic Zanzibar and its inhabitants come brilliantly to life and this is a book to be read for pleasure and understanding. Addicts of the Nero Wolfe mystery stories will be happy that Rex Stout has produced a new title called "Champagne for One." There is a delightful little Christmas story called "Journey to Christmas" written by B. J. Chute. Hammond Innes, author of the "Wreck of the Mary Deare" has written a new novel which he calls "The Land God Gave to Cain." It has its setting in the bleak wastes of Labrador. It is a story of great courage, determination and initiative and portrays one of the world's last wildernesses and the hard Spartan men who are subduing it.

The term non-fiction covers such a wide variety of material that it is almost a misnomer. On the light side is Emily Kimbrough's latest book called "And A Right Good Crew." It is an account of a canal trip through England. It is as charming as her other books and is certain to be very popular. Thomas B. Costain and John Beecroft have given us two more volumes of "More Stories to Remember" a collection which comprises six complete novels and thirty stories.

A subject in which many readers of the Ouachita Parish Public Library are vitally interested is that of archaeology. This week we have a perfectly beautiful new book called "The March of Archaeology" written by C. W. Ceram, who gave us "Gods Graves and Scholars" several years ago. It is a beautiful book and should be widely read.

In the field of religion and psychology there are three new titles. "Notable Sermons from Protestant Pulpits" is an excellent book edited by Charles L. Wallis. "Meditations For Youth" by Walter Cook is a charming little book containing 393 devotions applying Bible messages to life today. "Irrational Man" by William Barrett is a very fine book on the subject of Existential philosophy.

Three excellent books dealing with contemporary politics are in this week's additions. "Mr. Churchill's Secretary" by Elizabeth Vel is the recollections of this great man, by a woman who worked with him throughout the crucial years from 1941 to 1945. Lin Yutang has written a very profound expose of the communist mind and philosophy which he calls "The Secret Name." It is a book which every thoughtful American should read and heed. "Brave New World Revisited" by Aldous Huxley is an account of impressions of the failure of communism.

Businessmen will be interested in a very fine technical book called "Economic Forecasting" written by V. Lewis Bassie, director of the bureau of Economics and business research at the University of Illinois. One of the finest contributions to an understanding of the American Revolution which we have had in a long time is "The Spirit of Seventy-six" by Henry Steel Commanger. There are many other new books available to you at the Ouachita Parish Public Library.

Beloved Infidel, by Sheilah Graham and Gerold Frank (Holt): Miss Graham is an English-born journalist who has achieved some note in the United States, publicly as the author of a syndicated Hollywood column and privately as the constant companion of the late great novelist F. Scott Fitzgerald during his last years. This is her autobiography — a fabulous story of her progression from an East End orphanage to Buckingham Palace. If she had not met Fitzgerald she might have become a titled lady by marriage. But she became devoted to him and nearly half her book deals with their relationship. Miss Graham's picture of Fitzgerald in his later years confirms the presentations of less fondly inclined chroniclers — he comes through as a superannuated Peter Pan with paranoid tendencies. A thoroughly readable and informative book.

'PAST 35'

Dorothy McGuire Acting Real Age

By RON BURTON
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Dorothy McGuire is 39 years old and admits it. "I passed the age of 35 nearly four full years ago," she said. "You know, the age which is supposed to be tragic or something.

"Maybe at this point I should have begun asking the makeup men to do things for me which would keep me at 35 or make me appear younger. Maybe I should have gone next to the cameramen and explained that certain angles would help me.

"I didn't. Instead I decided to keep right on playing women who were my age."

Miss McGuire said she thinks she'll be better off in the long run. To her there's nothing more out of place than the older actor —or actress—trying to handle a characterization which is considerably younger than the actor—or actress. Audiences can't get excited about seeing a 50-year-old veteran leading man whispering sweet somethings into the ear of a 21-year-old heroine, she feels.

"The roles I want now are women 35 to 40," she said. "When I was 25, I played women about 25 years old. By the same token, when I was 15, I had roles of girls about 15. I assume that when I'm 65, I'll be portraying 65-year-old women.

"I can't see anything strange about this. My current part in 'This Earth Is Mine' is of a 39-year-old woman. I'm 39. I have two children. I'm not fooling anyone if I play a UCLA junior."

Miss McGuire won millions of hearts as "Claudia" (when she was in Claudia's age bracket in 1943). As a mother in "Friendly Persuasion," she was voted best actress of the year by the National Board of Review.

"When I think back on 'Claudia' and other parts I've had, I can't find anything wrong with growing up," she said. "And I think some actors and actresses should grow up about their ages."

Miss McGuire believes there are just as many fine "over 35" roles available as there are for the younger age groups. She also thinks that her idea has one obvious advantage.

"Look at it this way," she explained. "If you lose popularity with an audience at the age level you're playing, you just wait a year or two. Then you've grown up to the next level, and maybe they'll like you there."

The star has her own name for her philosophy.

"I like to think of it as acting my age," she said.

Teresa Wright and James Whitmore are starred and Helmut Kautner directed. The picture starts Friday at the Jim Theatre.

'Torpedo Run' Is Dynamic Picture

Glenn Ford and Ernest Borgnine co - star in M-G-M's "Torpedo Run," telling the story of a submarine commander and his relentless search for His Imperial Japanese Majesty's Aircraft Carrier, the Shinaru, flagship of the Pearl Harbor attack.

When the battleships of the Pacific Fleet were sent to the bottom, the fight to block Admiral Yamamoto passed to the U. S. Navy submarine service. On December 7, 1941, there were only 51 submarines on active duty in the Pacific against six-million tons of enemy shipping. Every American sub commander wanted to sink the Shinaru, but for long months she was an unsighted ghost.

In the story of "Torepedo Run," Glenn Ford plays Commander Barney Doyle of the U.S.S. Greyfish, with Ernest Borgnine as his executive officer. In a game of hide-and-seek, the Greyfish tracks down the Shinaru, but the carrier is using a transport carrying 1,400 American prisoners of war to run interference. And now Barney is informed that his wife and baby daughter are aboard the transport.

What happens from this point on makes for a drama of unremitting action and suspense, highlighted by such episodes as the sequence in which the Greyfish is trapped in a Japanese mine field, the submarine's narrow escape from Tokyo Bay, the attacks by enemy depth bombs and the final showdown between the Greyfish and the Shinaru.

Playing co-starring roles are Diane Brewster, cast as the sub commander's wife, and Dean Jones, who last appeared with Glenn Ford in "Imitation General."

With 98 per cent of the action of "Torpedo Run" taking place aboard a submarine, portions of the film were photographed off the coast of San Diego and Long Beach, California. Full co-operation of the U. S. Navy was obtained, and two submarines and a destryer were loaned aboard which the company locationed.

China Republic Commemorates U. S. Aid Work

The Republic of China has commemorated the 10th anniversary of United States aid in rural construction work on Formosa by issuing four new stamps. This is the first time a foreign government has issued a stamp honoring a U.S. aid program.

The four stamps are identical in design but range in price from 20 cents to $3 in Chinese currency.

Featured is a Chinese farmer plowing with a water buffalo. The background shows a combined land and sea scape highlighting a railroad and rural electrification line. A fishing boat is offshore.

The Sino-American Joint Commission on Rural Reconstruction works primarily in the field of agricultural development but it also has programs in land reform, rural health, fisheries and education.

A front view of the Hermitage, home of Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States, will be featured on the 4½ cent postage addition to the regular series. The new green colored stamp will be released March 16, 1959, at Hermitage, Tenn.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of this stamp may send their addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Hermitage, Tenn., together with remittance covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 4½ Cent Stamp."

Switzerland is withdrawing from sale on Dec. 31 three of its recent pictorial issues. The sets are the Publicity Issues, the Pro Patria Issue and the 2nd Atomic Conference stamp. Collectors who save Swiss stamps should contact their favorite stamp dealers for supplies of these issues.

Austria's 1958 "Postage Day" stamp is a 40 schilling plus 60 groschen adhesive depicting the new post office of the Tyrolean resort town of Kitzbuehel.

The 21st anniversary of the Constitution of Ireland will be commemorated on a 3 pence and a 5 pence stamp scheduled for issuance on Dec. 29. The design features a young woman seated (symbolizing Eire) with her right hand on a harp and the first works in Gaelic f the Preamble to the Constitution. Also shown is a lectern which incorporates the arms of the four provinces of Ireland.

Hungary commemorates the 40th aniversary of its first air mail stamp by issuing two new airmails. One stamp depicts the Millenium Monument in Budapest as seen from the air, with a view of the Museum of Fine Arts in the background. An airplane is shown above the monument. The other adhesive illustrates a part of the town of Sopron seen from the air as a plane flies above.

Robert College and the American College for Girls, both American educational institutions, are located near Istanbul, Turkey. Most of the student are Turkish, but they also have students of 15 other nationalities.

Two - Way Radio Cosis Taxicab Driver One Fare

BERLIN, N.H. (AP) — Perhaps she never had heard of two-way cab radio.

Albert Roy recounted what happened Friday night in a heavy snowstorm.

He delivered a passenger to an address about a mile from his taxi stand.

As he started to return, he received a radio message to pick up a fare just across the street.

He knocked on the door.

"You send for a cab, lady?"

"Yes, but I'm not going to ride with you on a night like this. I just hung up the phone. You drive too fast."

Little Theatre

Bus Stop has made a fine start with a very large attendance the first two nights. Showing that they are very intelligent people and quick to take good advice, our members sent in a deluge of requests for advance reservations. We devoutly hope that all our people have been or will be snug in their seats by curtain time instead of standing outside the closed door wishing they had arrived before 8:15.

In order not to disturb the audience or break the spell of the play, there is no admittance after the curtain rises — until the next curtain, of course, which in the case of Bus Stop is forty-five minutes later. Start early. Get to the playhouse in time to say hello to the old timers and greet those you do not know so well. Sociability is one of our chief attractions.

Our members do get around. Mary Gill is going to visit her sister in Little Rock. Francesca Biedenharn and her daughter Jerry Oakley are in New Orleans now, to be joined later for a few days by Belle, Clarence, and C D. Naturally they will all be back in time to see Bus Stop. Oakleys and Biedenharns and Gills never miss a Little Theatre play.

Guy Campbell and Raymond McFadden along with the Claude Harrisons had a grand time in New York. Because of the strikes there was some anxiety about getting home by air, but they did arrive on schedule. We heard that some of the college crowd who spent Thanksgiving in New York were late getting back to classes. They had reservations but their planes didn't fly. We imagine that the kids were more pleased than alarmed over their helpless situation.

Sara Hollingsworth hopes that all strikes will be settled by December 19th, for she is flying up to Connecticut to spend the holidays with her son, David and his family. And the Lealis Hales are looking for Lea from Cornell as well as for Captain Robert Jones and Jacque and their adorable little Bobby — unless Bobby gets the mumps which he's just been exposed to. (Dear Santa: Please don't bring me mumps for Christmas!)

Our beautiful and talented Tavie Kenny has won the Voice of Democracy contest for the whole parish. Now a tape recording of her essay will be sent down for the state finals.

See you at 8:15!

Twelfth Night Production Set At Tech

RUSTON (Special) — William Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," a Washington D. C., will be presented in two performances under the auspices of the Louisiana Tech Concert Assn. Thursday, Dec. 11, at 3:05 p.m. for students and Friday, Dec. 12, at 8 p.m. for the public in Howard Auditorium.

Admission will be by LTCA membership card.

This all - new production, adapted and directed by Players President Robert Moore, was presented last season in the Catholic University Theater to critical acclaim.

"If music be the food of love, play on!", which raises the curtain, is one of the most well-known and quoted lines in the plays of Shakespeare.

"Twelfth Night" is noted for having one of Shakespeare's most unusual villains, the supercilious Malvolio, who is a comic and even sympathetic character.

Broad comedy is supplied by Sir Toby Belch and his companions. Other important characters are the hearty maid-servant Maria, the foolish Sir Andrew Aguecheek, and the witty Feste.

Fellowships To Two Tech Profs

RUSTON (Special) — Associate Professors William H. Brumage and Robert Elioff of the physics department at Louisiana Tech have been awarded faculty fellowships by the National Science Foundation and expect to leave next September to do work toward their doctorates.

Brumage will attend the University of Oklahoma at Norman and do research in nuclear magnetic nesonance absorption.

Elioff will go to Louisiana State University, where he will do research in the radiation laboratory.

'PAST 35'

Dorothy McGuire Acting Real Age

By RON BURTON
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Dorothy McGuire is 39 years old and admits it. "I passed the age of 35 nearly four full years ago," she said. "You know, the age which is supposed to be tragic or something.

"Maybe at this point I should have begun asking the makeup men to do things for me which would keep me at 35 or make me appear younger. Maybe I should have gone next to the cameramen and explained that certain angles would help me.

"I didn't. Instead I decided to keep right on playing women who were my age."

Miss McGuire said she thinks she'll be better off in the long run. To her there's nothing more out of place than the older actor —or actress—trying to handle a characterization which is considerably younger than the actor—or actress. Audiences can't get excited about seeing a 50-year-old veteran leading man whispering sweet somethings into the ear of a 21-year-old heroine, she feels.

"The roles I want now are women 35 to 40," she said. "When I was 25, I played women about 25 years old. By the same token, when I was 15, I had roles of girls about 15. I assume that when I'm 65, I'll be portraying 65-year-old women.

"I can't see anything strange about this. My current part in 'This Earth Is Mine' is of a 39-year-old woman. I'm 39. I have two children. I'm not fooling anyone if I play a UCLA junior."

Miss McGuire won millions of hearts as "Claudia" (when she was in Claudia's age bracket in 1943). As a mother in "Friendly Persuasion," she was voted best actress of the year by the National Board of Review.

"When I think back on 'Claudia' and other parts I've had, I can't find anything wrong with growing up," she said. "And I think some actors and actresses should grow up about their ages."

Miss McGuire believes there are just as many fine "over 35" roles available as there are for the younger age groups. She also thinks that her idea has one obvious advantage.

"Look at it this way," she explained. "If you lose popularity with an audience at the age level you're playing, you just wait a year or two. Then you've grown up to the next level, and maybe they'll like you there."

The star has her own name for her philosophy.

"I like to think of it as acting my age," she said.

'Auxiliary Force' Gains In Following

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

A loosely linked but intensely dedicated "auxiliary force" is spreading through the ranks of American Christianity.

Adherents are called Yokefellows. And they've unleashed a strategy that is expanding rapidly among the churches.

"The idea is on the march," says Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, a noted philosopher and professor of religion who sparked the movement.

It cuts across denominational lines, and in the last two years, has drawn thousands of men and women of various religious affiliation into its orbit.

Their guiding rule comes from Jesus' words in Matthew 11:29- "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me."

To participants, this means taking on extra effort in behalf of Christ, beyond the usual Sunday church-going.

"The movement is an expression of a new vitality within the churches of our time," said the Rev. Samuel Emerick, director of the Yokefellow Institute, Richmond, Ind.

"It is not an organization to draw people away frm the church, but a reformation within the church that brings to the nominal member a new commitment and understanding of his participation in the Christian community."

People involved in the venture usually wear a lapel button or pin in the shape of an ox yoke.

No membership roster or statistics are kept, but the little insignia—and the activity it implies—have cropped up in communities across the country among businessmen, workers, farmers, professionals and others.

Each one agrees to keep this minimum discipline of Christian practice:

1. To pray daily, preferably at the beginning of the day.
2. To read a Scrinture passage at a set time each day.
3. To participate regularly in church worship.
4. To give a definite portion of annual income to promote Christianity.
5. To make an unapologetic witness for Christ, particularly in daily work.
6. To develop intellectual integrity by regular study of serious Christian books.

Most of the Yokefellows form small groups that meet regularly for study, conversation and prayer.

Nationally, the movement was sparked by influence of Dr. Trueblood, a Quaker, professor of philosophy and religion at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., and former chief of religious information for the U.S. Information Service.

His books, "Alternative to Futility" and "Your Other Vocation" —emphasizing that man's basic job on earth is a spiritual one—sowed the seeds of the idea.

In 1954, some leading church laymen in various parts of the country seized on the plan, formed a board of directors to encourage it. Two years ago, in 1956, a headquarters and study-meeting center, Yokefellow House, was established in Richmond.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: We have recently moved into a new community where there is no church of our denomination. There is a church here with which we can agree with few reservations. Should we drive a great distance to a church of our own denomination, or could we serve where we are? They have asked me to teach a Sunday school class.

B. B.

ANSWER: I believe in denominational loyalty, but I also believe that Christians should witnes where they live. Unless we show an interest and love for those in our community, people might get the idea that you are religious snobs —which of course you are not.

You say that you agree with the doctrine of the local church with few reservations. I have found that non-essentials separate people more often than essentials. In reading the history of denominations, it is interesting to note that the great divisions have always resulted from somewhat minor differences. More important is to maintain a Christian attitude in spite of the differences between us. Some people call that "compromise" —others see it as Christian charity.

I have made up my mind to fellowship with all those who love Jesus Christ with all their heart, and are seeking to win men to Him. At the moment I am being criticized by a few people for doing this, but I would rather lose a few friends than the blessing and favor of my Lord. If you feel that you can be a blessing to these people who don't see quite eye to eye with you on every point, by all means serve where you will be the greatest blessing.

Tiny Alaskan Village Gets Church Help

BEAVER, Alaska (AP) — This little Arctic Circle villege is more snug and happy than it has been for years because friendly church workers from all parts of the United States answered its appeal for help.

A work camp of the American Friends Service Committee made a summer job of rehabilitating the community, mainly through building log cabins.

Beaver, founded in 1910 by a Japanese trader, was originally a point of supply on the Yukon River for the Chandalar gold mines. Gold mining declined The community turned to trapping. Fur prices dropped. Tuberculosis sapped the people's strength. In recent years the village has been largely on relief.

Moses Cruikshank, a resident, appealed for help. He said poverty and poor health had left the village without manpower, which made it difficult to improve living conditions. Their homes were drafty, overcrowded and in danger of being undermined by the Yukon River.

A group of young church volunteers — men and women — flew north. They worked 48-hour weeks, without pay, sawing lumber, building houses and driving tractors in the work camp.

District III Baptists To Hold Meeting

Baptist pastors of District III of the Louisiana Baptist Convention, comprising Ouachita, Morehouse and Caldwell parishes, will meet at the Fairbanks Baptist Church Monday at 10 a.m.

According to Vester Headrick, pastor of the Lakeshore Baptist Church of Monroe and president of District III, the meeting will be largely concerned with the planning of the church's evangelistic crusade for 1959.

The Rev. Ray Raddin, pastor of the Sterlington First Church will lead in the devotional. The Rev. Ray Rust, pastor of the Bastrop First Church, will give a talk on the subject, "How We Observe the Lord's Supper," and information will be presented on the use of "televangelism" in the 1959 crusade. The Rev. James T. Horton, pastor of the Monroe First Church, will bring the exposition of the Scriptures.

"Televangelism" will be the combined use of all mass communications media in addition to evangelistic church services during the church's efforts next year Rev. Headrick pointed out.

Besides Rev. Headrick, officers recently elected to posts in District IIII are: vice president, Rev. D. W. Nix, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, Monroe, and secretary, Rev. Rawls Pearce, pastor of the Greenacres Baptist Church, Bastrop.

King James Bible Still Leads Sales

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J. —Forecasts that the King James version of the Bible is rapidly going out of style are wishful propagandizing, spokesmen for the International Council of Christian Churches said today.

Referring to a November 10 United Press International story by Claire Cox, ICCC officials said they thought attempts to "doom" the King James Bible are not only early, they are unwarranted in the face of facts not revealed in the UPI story.

The statement also blamed failure of RSV promotional programs to produce increased sales, for the optimistic statements in newspapers cheering the replacement of the earlier translation by the RSV.

Criticized was the National Council of Churches, holder of the RSV copyright, for attempting to mislead the public as to the increasing desirability of the new translation, when, in reality, the King James Bible is still far ahead in total sales and distribution.

ICCC men based their statement on a comparison with RVS Bibles sold from 1952 to 1957. Up to that time, some six and a half million RSV Bibles were distributed. According to distribution figures given the International Council by the Philadelphia branch of a national Bible distributor, eight to 10 million King James Bibles are distributed yearly in the U. S. by this one retail agency There are approximately 10 major Bible distributors in this country.

Accurate figures on the sale of the King James Bible are not available, Dr. Carl McIntire, ICCC president pointed out, because publishers of the Bible do not release them. The only evidence of the Bible's popularity comes from the number sold by book stores throughout the country. On the basis of the Philadelphia source, Dr. McIntire declared, the RSV still has a long way to go to catch up.

The ICCC executive called the effort to replace the King James with the RSV the most controversial issue in English - speaking Protestantism on the grass roots level. Dr. McIntire commented, "Despite the greatest promotional program ever given a new translation of the Bible,t he NCC has not been successful in getting the rank and file to accept it." International Council members do not approve the new translation and say it contradicts the divinity of Christ.

Official church channels related to the National Council, Dr. McIntire continued, have introduced the RSV into Sunday School literature and sought to secure its acceptance from the top, but encountered resistance in the churches. He cited instances in which officers, Sunday School teachers, and superintendents across the country have refused to touch it (the RSV Bible). Where pressure has been induced, Sunday School teachers have resigned and churches split.

Area Church Sets Dedication Of New Addition

MANGHAM (Special) — Dr. James T. Harris, superintendent of the Monroe District of the Methodist Church, will deliver the dedication sermon for the new addition to the Methodist Church here today.

The formal opening for the new annex has been scheduled for 2:30 p.m. A number of former pastors of the Mangham Methodist Church and ministers in the district have been invited to attend the special worship services, it was announced.

During the dedication service, an official name will be given the new building.

The Rev. James O. Evans, pastor at the Mangham church, extended an invitation to all friends of the church to attend the services.

'Auxiliary Force' Gains In Following

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

A loosely linked but intensely dedicated "auxiliary force" is spreading through the ranks of American Christianity.

Adherents are called Yokefellows. And they've unleashed a strategy that is expanding rapidly among the churches.

"The idea is on the march," says Dr. D Elton Trueblood, a noted philosopher and professor of religion who sparked the movement.

It cuts across denominational lines, and in the last two years, has drawn thousands of men and women of various religious affiliation into its orbit.

Their guiding rule comes from Jesus' words in Matthew 11:29: "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me."

To participants, this means taking on extra effort in behalf of Christ, beyond the usual Sunday church-going.

"The movement is an expression of a new vitality within the churches of our time," said the Rev. Samuel Emerick, director of the Yokefellow Institute, Richmond, Ind.

"It is not an organization to draw people away from the church, but a reformation within the church that brings to the nominal member a new commitment and understanding of his participation in the Christian community."

People involved in the venture usually wear a lapel button or pin in the shape of an ox yoke.

No membership roster or statistics are kept, but the little insignia—and the activity it implies—have cropped up in communities across the country among businessmen, workers, farmers, professionals and others.

Each one agrees to keep this minimum discipline of Christian practice:

1. To pray daily, preferably at the beginning of the day.

2. To read a Scripture passage at a set time each day.

3. To participate regularly in church worship.

4. To give a definite portion of annual income to promote Christianity.

5. To make an unapologetic witness for Christ, particularly in daily work.

6. To develop intellectual integrity by regular study of serious Christian books.

Most of the Yokefellows form small groups that meet regularly for study, conversation and prayer.

Nationally, the movement was sparked by influence of Dr. Trueblood, a Quaker, professor of philosophy and religion at Earlham College, Richmond, Ind., and former chief of religious information for the U.S. Information Service.

His books, "Alternative to Futility" and "Your Other Vocation"—emphasizing that man's basic job on earth is a spiritual one—sowed the seeds of the idea.

In 1954, some leading church laymen in various parts of the country seized on the plan, formed a board of directors to encourage it. Two years ago, in 1956, a headquarters and study-meeting center, Yokefellow House, was established in Richmond.

MY ANSWER
by Billy Graham

QUESTION: We have recently moved into a new community where there is no church of our denomination. There is a church here with which we can agree with few reservations. Should we drive a great distance to a church of our own denomination, or could we serve where we are? They have asked me to teach a Sunday school class.

B. B.

ANSWER: I believe in denominational loyalty, but I also believe that Christians should witness where they live. Unless we show an interest and love for those in our community, people might get the idea that you are religious snobs—which of course you are not.

You say that you agree with the doctrine of the local church with few reservations. I have found that non-essentials separate people more often than essentials. In reading the history of denominations, it is interesting to note that the great divisions have always resulted from somewhat minor differences. More important is to maintain a Christian attitude in spite of the differences between us. Some people call that "compromise"—others see it as Christian charity.

I have made up my mind to fellowship with all those who love Jesus Christ with all their heart, and are seeking to win men to Him. At the moment I am being criticized by a few people for doing this, but I would rather lose a few friends than the blessing and favor of my Lord. If you feel that you can be a blessing to these people who don't see quite eye to eye with you on every point, by all means serve where you will be the greatest blessing.

Tiny Alaskan Village Gets Church Help

BEAVER, Alaska (AP) — This little Arctic Circle village is more snug and happy than it has been for years because friendly church workers from all parts of the United States answered its appeal for help.

A work camp of the American Friends Service Committee made a summer job of rehabilitating the community, mainly through building log cabins.

Beaver, founded in 1910 by a Japanese trader, was originally a point of supply on the Yukon River for the Chandalar gold mines. Gold mining declined. The community turned to trapping. Fur prices dropped. Tuberculosis sapped the people's strength. In recent years the village has been largely on relief.

Moses Cruikshank, a resident, appealed for help. He said poverty and poor health had left the village without manpower, which made it difficult to improve living conditions. Their homes were drafty, overcrowded and in danger of being undermined by the Yukon River.

A group of young church volunteers — men and women — flew north. They worked 48-hour weeks, without pay, sawing lumber, building houses and driving tractors in the work camp.

District III Baptists To Hold Meeting

Baptist pastors of District III of the Louisiana Baptist Convention, comprising Ouachita, Morehouse and Caldwell parishes, will meet at the Fairbanks Baptist Church Monday at 10 a.m.

According to Vester Headrick, pastor of the Lakeshore Baptist Church of Monroe and president of District III, the meeting will be largely concerned with the planning of the church's evangelistic crusade for 1959.

The Rev. Ray Raddin, pastor of the Sterlington First Church will lead in the devotional. The Rev. Ray Rust, pastor of the Bastrop First Church, will give a talk on the subject, "How We Observe the Lord's Supper," and information will be presented on the use of "televangelism" in the 1959 crusade. The Rev. James T. Horton, pastor of the Monroe First Church, will bring the exposition of the Scriptures.

"Televangelism" will be the combined use of all mass communications media in addition to evangelistic church services during the church's efforts next year, Rev. Headrick pointed out.

Besides Rev. Headrick, officers recently elected to posts in District IIII are: vice president, Rev. D. W. Nix, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, Monroe, and secretary, Rev. Rawls Pearce, pastor of the Greenacres Baptist Church, Bastrop.

King James Bible Still Leads Sales

COLLINGSWOOD, N. J. —Forecasts that the King James version of the Bible is rapidly going out of style are wishful propagandizing, spokesmen for the International Council of Christian Churches said today.

Referring to a November 10 United Press International story by Claire Cox, ICCC officials said they thought attempts to "doom" the King James Bible are not only early, they are unwarranted in the face of facts not revealed in the UPI story.

The statement also blamed failure of RSV promotional programs to produce increased sales, for the optimistic statements in newspapers cheering the replacement of the earlier translation by the RSV.

Criticized was the National Council of Churches, holder of the RSV copyright, for attempting to mislead the public, as to the increasing desirability of the new translation, when, in reality, the King James Bible is still far ahead in total sales and distribution.

ICCC men based their statement on a comparison with RVS Bibles sold from 1952 to 1957. Up to that time, some six and a half million RSV Bibles were distributed. According to distribution figures given the International Council by the Philadelphia branch of a national Bible distributor, eight to 10 million King James Bibles are distributed yearly in the U. S. by this one retail agency. There are approximately 10 major Bible distributors in this country.

Accurate figures on the sale of the King James Bible are not available, Dr. Carl McIntire, ICCC president pointed out, because publishers of the Bible do not release them. The only evidence of the Bible's popularity comes from the number sold by book stores throughout the country. On the basis of the Philadelphia source, Dr. McIntire declared, the RSV still has a long way to go to catch up.

The ICCC executive called the effort to replace the King James with the RSV the most controversial issue in English - speaking Protestantism on the grass roots level. Dr. McIntire commented, "Despite the greatest promotional program ever given a new translation of the Bible, the NCC has not been successful in getting the rank and file to accept it." International Council members do not approve the new translation and say it contradicts the divinity of Christ.

Official church channels related to the National Council, Dr. McIntire continued, have introduced the RSV into Sunday School literature and sought to secure its acceptance from the top, but encountered resistance in the churches. He cited instances in which officers, Sunday School teachers, and superintendents across the country have refused to touch it (the RSV Bible). Where pressure has been induced, Sunday School teachers have resigned and churches split.

Area Church Sets Dedication Of New Addition

MANGHAM (Special) — Dr. James T. Harris, superintendent of the Monroe District of the Methodist Church, will deliver the dedication sermon for the new addition to the Methodist Church here today.

The formal opening for the new annex has been scheduled for 2:30 p.m. A number of former pastors of the Mangham Methodist Church and ministers in the district have been invited to attend the special worship services, it was announced.

During the dedication service, an official name will be given the new building.

The Rev. James O. Evans, pastor at the Mangham church, extended an invitation to all friends of the church to attend the services.

A TRIBUTE TO MISS IVA WHITTELSEY

She had lived at St. Joseph Home for ten years, and when her hands were folded in death, her flag was still flying!

She was almost ninety-four years old and from life she had taken the best. She did not belong to herself but to others.

Such grace of heart as she had is never given at the beginning of life but has to be achieved.

Her days were full of interest and helpfulness. She loved and served her church faithfully, and it would be impossible to catalog her deeds of kindness to the people she came in contact with every day.

It is said that one of the greatest assets for a happy old age is the ability to enjoy being alone. She could often be found alone in her room reading poetry, sewing, or tending her flowers, but her spirit of hospitality was unlimited.

The day before her death she engaged in a spirited game of cards which she enjoyed. She was never bored nor boring nor did she gossip. She finished her life with grace and dignity.

"They never leave us, the friends who have passed through the shadows of death to the sunshine above; a thousand sweet memories are holding them fast to the places they blessed with their presence and love."

A Friend of St. Joseph's.

Major Stock Prices Show Little Change

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rested this week. After the wild gyrations of recent weeks, the more restful atmosphere in Wall Street was not unwelcome.

Price changes for major stocks were relatively small each day, although an assortment of specialties made spectacular daily gains. Often, however, they fell back the next day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 10 cents for the week, closing at $204.40. That compares with the record high of $207.70 set Thursday, Nov. 20.

Volume for the week totaled 17,565,462 shares, smallest for any five-day week since the week ended Sept. 13, when it totaled 15,730,680.

The brave new worls was never far from the minds of traders. On Monday they had news the United States had fired the Atlas missile, plus an unconfirmed report Russia possessed an airplant partly powered by nuclear energy. On Frida the U.S. Army was preparing to send up a moon rocket.

In between these items, the Defense Department announced a new series of satellite firings starting this year and going into 1959.

Another minor feature of the market was the relative steadiness of utilities. These are generally regarded as "defense" stocks, in the sense that they aren't subjected to wide price breaks as are stocks in many cyclical industries.

Despite a 20 cent drop on Friday, the utility component of the AP 60 stock average advanced $1.00 for the week. It was the only component which did advance, and that accounted for the minor gain in the 60 stock average.

Price levels of the U.S. Government and cosporate bond markets declined this week as money got a little tighter and short term interest rates went up.

Long range U.S. Treasury bonds lost from half to three-quarters of a point on very slight volume.

Corporates closed lower on average on somewhat larger turnover. Investment quality issues settled to a new 1958 low on the AP bond index. Utilities and foreign bonds also drifted downward, negating a slight rise by rails and industrials.

Trading rose to $31,890,000 par value on the big board from $27,709,000 the previous four-day week and $28,532,400 for the corresponding week in 1957.

SAVE AND INVEST WISELY

Banking Tycoons Issue Advice On Investments

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — Two investment tycoons emerged from the ocean during their convention here this week and one said:

"Boy, that water's great;"

"Almost as good as the Wellington Fund," was the cheery reply.

The 47th annual convention of the Investment Bankers Assn. of America produced, of course, many speeches and committee reports. A lot of work was done. Deals were made and unmade.

Golf was played too. And beneath the towering palms and at the gay poolside cabanas there were occasional moments of relaxation.

The IBA showed a new color movie called "The Richest Man in Babylon" whose message was: "A part of all you earn is yours to keep"—or save at least 10 per cent of your income and invest it wisely; that is the secret of achieving wealth.

This was the official advice of the IBA to the average American in these days of r sing prices, a bull market in stocks, a depressed bond market and high taxes.

But what did these well-heeled investment men have to say unofficially—"Don't quote me directly, but. . ."—to the middle-class American with a few thousand bucks to salt away? Here is what some of the 1,200 delegates said when they were buttonholed at the luxurious Americana and Balmoral hotels:

". . . "Save 10 per cent of your income?" exclaimed one grizzled veteran. "Why, just keep up a decent standard of living, no matter what your income bracket, takes about every cent you make.

"The amount of taxes is overwhelming. Something's got to give in this tax situation.

"People aren't going much for the income-type investment — they're looking for a capital gain. It's getting so that every Tom, Dick and Harry is in the stock market. They sell good stocks like American Telephone to buy some stock they hope will double in value.

"Oh, I suppose mutual funds are good for the average widow—or put something in a good, safe common stock."

A partner in a sizable brokerage house on the Eastern Seaboard is talking.

"Frankly, I'm trying to avoid telling my customers to buy anything. I'm not overly bullish.

"I'm not convinced the stock market is going to be the hedge against inflation in the next 10 years that it's been in the past 10 or 15.

"I think the average man would be better off buying a house or a small business than any security."

The aggressive, youngish boss of a Midwest investment firm spoke positively.

"Anybody with just a few thousand bucks should just sit on it in cash—he can't afford to lose any of it.

"If you have $50,000 to share after providing usual protection like insurance for your family—then put two thirds in stock and one third in bonds."

The stolid partner in a conservative bond house is talking.

"I don't see much check to the inflationary trend. And there is no real security against inflation. But the average investor will make out better with stocks than with bonds.

"I'm a bond man myself and I hate to say that. But I'm not buying any bonds myself right now unless they're of short-term maturity."

Another bond man had this to say.

"Inflation is not as imminent as people think. Commodity prices are heading downward. There's more likely to be a slow erosion of purchasing power than outright inflation.

"I think the average person will protect his purchasing power better in the next 10 years with stocks than with bonds. But the institutions are in a different status because bond yields are more attractive than stock yields.

"Banks, insurance companies and other institutions, of course, are more concerned with the dollar value of their securities than with purchasing power.

A West Coast investment man commented.

"As long as we live we're going to have a lot more inflation. That's the way people think and that's the way they like it.

"The average man should put some of his money in mutual funds and some in high quality stocks—in oils, paper and so on—stocks representing natural resources and brains.

"There's no appetite for bonds. There's a greater risk in bonds than in stocks for the next several years.

Another bond dealer talking—

"I think one of the best hedges against inflation is a good business, well-managed. And mutual funds have worked out well for the average fellow.

"But if Uncle Sam wants the average American to buy savings bonds, then Uncle Sam better balance the budget."

"Every person is in different circumstances," said another Wall Streeter. "But I think it would be smart for the average guy to put some of his money in real estate, some in stocks and some in tax-exempt municipal bonds."

One of the most famous names in American finance had this to say —

"The financial world is a world of half truths. Our business now is to put the emphasis on the right half at the right time.

"There is no absolute hedge against inflation.

"If we don't have values in fixed income securities, our whole economy will be in a state of collapse. Then there will be no value in stocks either."

HOPE TO SELL PROGRAM

Wider Oil Well Spacing Sought

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The recession has taught sound lessons in economy to many oil operators.

One of the theories that has received increased emphasis in recent months is that fewer wells will cut costs and produce oil longer and more efficiently.

An Interstate Oil Compact Commission Committee this week completed work on a revised oil and gas conservation statute that recommends wider spacing of oil and gas wells.

A group of about 100 large and small producer, in the southwest recently organized the oil conservation forum to support wide spacing They hope to sell their program to both the oil operator, for individual action, and to state conservation officials for possible regulatory action.

"This isn't a retroactive movement," said Jake L. Hamon, Dallas independent. "We don't intend to bother the old overdrilled fields. We just want to stop making the same mistakes in future fields."

Some states permit one oil well to be drilled to each 40 acres. Other states have wider spacing regulations, others have smaller. Some have no regulation at all.

Hamon, first independent ever to serve as chairman of the board of the American Petroleum Institute, believes the industry is drilling too many unnecessary development wells and not enough wildcat wells.

"Tragically enough, we have failed to realize that more wells don't addd to our market, but instead lower our output per well," he told the recent meeting of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America.

"We drill more wells to get less oil per well," he said. "Let's change it and drill fewer wells with greater output per well. That way we can pay our wells out sooner and have some money to wildcat with."

"Not only would we save a lot of development expense, we would reduce our lifting costs at the same time."

Wider spacing, Hamon said, can be accomplished in many states by amending state regulations and conservation practices so as to give more consideration to acreage and less to the well itself.

1,200 ACRES FOR SITES

Isle Expects Big Industrial Boom

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — A man-made island just off the bustling port of Galveston is about to be turned into one of the largest urban industrial developments in the United States.

The land itself, called Pelican Island, is estimated to be worth more than 75 million dollars. Some 30 million dollars will be poured into the development in the next few years.

Pelican Islandis said to be the largest single tract of undeveloped urban industrial land in a major deep water port in the United States. Its possibilities are virtually unlimited.

It had three and one-half miles of deep-water channel shorelines plus space for the installation of sites for a major shrimp fleet and docks to handle large quantities of barge traffic. All three shipping facilities are planned for early stages in the development.

The island, triangular in shape, is directly behind the main Galveston island which is protected by a 17-foot seawall. The undeveloped area is itself larger than the developed section of the city of Galveston, which has a population of some 80,000.

Pelican Island averages about 12 feet above water level, or five or six feet higher than the main Galveston Island, and engineering analysis of its subsoil has proved it to be substantial enough for heavy industrial construction. It was formed over the past 100 years by the action of tides and currents, and progressively enlarged by dredging operations in the three busy ship channels that pass it.

Ownership of the Pelican Island Development Corp. passed recently into the hands of Warren Atkinson, Indianapolis real estate developer, and Walter Troutman, an Atlanta industrialist.

"The possibilities of this land were so fantastic that I couldn't believe nothing had been done to develop it," Atkinson said after he and Troutman took control of the development firm. "This is one of the most challenging developments I've ever run up against."

Troutman, an investor in Atlanta, Miami, Los Angeles and New York real estate and associated in several other industrial developments, said the proposed developmnt combined with present facilities at Galveston will offer a port city unmatched in the United States.

The island is surrounded by the Galveston deep - water channel, the inter-coastal canal and the Texas City and Houston ship channels.

More than 1,200 acres are ready for immediate industrial sites and Atkinson said the other 3,800 acres would be made ready as the need arises.

A 6-million-dollar causeway financed by a public bond issue is ready for use and city water and sewer facilities have been completed. The area also is served by an unlimited source of electricity and natural gas for industrial purposes.

Fair Exhibitors Get Checks From United Gas

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Twenty - two Ouachita Parish boys and girls soon will receive from United Gas checks equal to fifty per cent of the total premium money won by them in Junior Division exhibits at the 1958 Louisiana State Fair.

United Gas has made these additional awards to the junior class winners of the State Fair for the past several years.

Some 700 boys and girls from 51 parishes will receive the supplemental checks, which total more than $4,400.

In letters addressed to the junior class winners, Ed Parkes, president of United Gas, wrote: "We know that you are proud of your record and it is hoped that this award will serve to further encourage you in your agricultural and home - making efforts."

The awards of the additional State Fair premiums in Louisiana is one phase of a system-wide program of farm youth activities sponsored by United Gas.

Those from this parish who will share in the extra cash premiums for the 1958 Louisiana State Fair are: Judy Aulds, Trudy Aulds, Gay Beard, Kay Beard, Alice Bower, Tommie Coon, Lila M. Fite, Vicki Goss, Sheila Griggs, Jannette Holdeman, Mary Faye Hinton, Mary Luttrell, Thomas Milstead, Beverly Ramsey, Judy Strozier, Philip Sims, Jo Anice Tedeton, Carolyn Taylor, Linda Talbird, Janie Lee Ware, Lorena White and Georgia R. Owens.

FARM

Livestock Loss Is Still Heavy

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Even in this day of miracle drugs and scientific advances, the nation loses more than two billion dollars a year through livestock diseases and parasites.

This staggering loss is equivalent to about 15 per cent of this year's farm income.

It hurt consumers too. It reduces the supply of meat and other livestock products and pushes up prices.

Interested agricultural, educational, veterinary, governmental and information groups have organized to put on a big livestock loss prevention campaign in 1959.

A nationwide program is being drafted under the direction of the American Foundation for Animal Health with headquarters at Des Moines, Iowa. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is lending its full aid and support as are the various state agricultural extension services.

Others joining in the campaign include a number of livestock organizations, organized meat packers, newspapers, farm magazines, radio and television farm directors.

The foundation said there is need to focus renewed attention on disease prevention, to single out the big causes of livestock losses and to give farmers fresh, up-to-date information on how to check the maladies and parasites.

"It is easy for livestock owners to be lulled into a false sense of security," it said. "If a farm or ranch is reasonably free of disease for several years, the producer often develops an 'It can't happen to me' attitude. The owner neglects his normal safeguards. The stage is then set for a possible costly disease outbreak."

The foundation cited what it and the Agriculture Department call complacency in many areas with regard to hog cholera. The percentage of hogs being vaccinated against this disease has declined substantially in recent years.

That means the number of hogs susceptible to the disease is increasing. This could lead to a cholera outbreak of disastrous proportions.

Veterinary officials point out that many of the new drugs developed to deal with human diseases and ailments also are usable in dealing with many livestock diseases.

Mother Of Four Fatally Shoots Lover In Rage

JELLICO, Tenn. (UPI) — A 43-year-old grocer was shot to death Saturday in front of a roadside tavern by his enraged sweetheart.

Campbell County Sheriff Rose Kitts said Hershel Gilreath instantly killed when a bullet from a .32 caliber special pierced his heart.

Kitts arrested Mrs. Betty Bray, 26, mother of four children, shortly after the shooting which occurred early this morning. He said she confessed the killing.

Mrs. Bray was held without bond in county jail at Jacksboro pending preliminary hearing Monday. She was charged with murder.

Kitts said Gilreath and Mrs. Bray, who have been going together for about nine months, both lived on the Kentucky side of Jellico, although the shooting occurred on the Tennessee side of the line.

The sheriff said Gilreath's wife was filing for divorce but was dancing at the tavern with the grocer when Mrs. Bray saw them.

Mrs. Bray left, according to Kitts, went home to get the pistol and then waited until Gilreath appeared. She then shot him once.

Opportunity for Profit and Growth in Next Decade Is Terrific!

The use of light-weight concrete blocks in the building industry is constantly increasing and the use of PRESTRESSED PRODUCTS in buildings to replace steel, because of its superior strength to weight ratio, the speed of erection, faster delivery schedule of the completed components, and lower cost all combine to insure the future expansion and growth of this industry. The use of PRESTRESSED T-BEAMS in bridge construction is an accepted method of construction that is widely used in many parts of the country and indications are that it will be widely used throughout the South as manufacturing facilities become available.

Major Stock Prices Show Little Change

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rested this week. After the wild gyrations of recent weeks, the more restful atmosphere in Wall Street was not unwelcome.

Price changes for major stocks were relatively small each day, although an assortment of specialties made spectacular daily gains. Often, however, they fell back the next day.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 10 cents for the week, closing at $204.40. That compares with the record high of $207.70 set Thursday, Nov. 20.

Volume for the week totaled 17,565,462 shares, smallest for any five-day week since the week ended Sept. 13, when it totaled 15,730,680.

The brave new worls was never far from the minds of traders. On Monday they had news the United States had fired the Atlas missile, plus an unconfirmed report Russia possessed an airplant partly powered by nuclear energy. On Frida the U.S. Army was preparing to send up a moon rocket.

In between these items, the Defense Department announced a new series of satellite firings starting this year and going into 1959.

Another minor feature of the market was the relative steadiness of utilities. These are generally regarded as "defense" stocks, in the sense that they aren't subjected to wide price breaks as are stocks in many cyclical industries.

Despite a 20 cent drop on Friday, the utility component of the AP 60 stock average advanced $1.00 for the week. It was the only component which did advance, and that accounted for the minor gain in the 60 stock average.

Price levels of the U.S. Government and cosporate bond markets declined this week as money got a little tighter and short term interest rates went up.

Long range U.S. Treasury bonds lost from half to three-quarters of a point on very slight volume.

Corporates closed lower on average on somewhat larger turnover. Investment quality issues settled to a new 1958 low on the AP bond index. Utilities and foreign bonds also drifted downward, negating a slight rise by rails and industrials.

Trading rose to $31,890,000 par value on the big board from $27,709,000 the previous four-day week and $28,532,400 for the corresponding week in 1957.

SAVE AND INVEST WISELY

Banking Tycoons Issue Advice On Investments

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — Two investment tycoons emerged from the ocean during their convention here this week and one said:

"Boy, that water's great;"

"Almost as good as the Wellington Fund," was the cheery reply.

The 47th annual convention of the Investment Bankers Assn. of America produced, of course, many speeches and committee reports. A lot of work was done. Deals were made and unmade.

Golf was played too. And beneath the towering palms and at the gay poolside cabanas there were occasional moments of relaxation.

The IBA showed a new color movie called "The Richest Man in Babylon" whose message was: "A part of all you earn is yours to keep"—or save at least 10 per cent of your income and invest it wisely; that is the secret of achieving wealth.

This was the official advice of the IBA to the average American in these days of rising prices, a bull market in stocks, a depressed bond market and high taxes.

But what did these well-heeled investment men have to say unofficially—"Don't quote me directly, but. . ."—to the middle-class American with a few thousand bucks to salt away? Here is what some of the 1,200 delegates said when they were buttonholed at the luxurious Americana and Balmoral hotels:

". . . "Save 10 per cent of your income?" exclaimed one grizzled veteran. "Why, just keep up a decent standard of living, no matter what your income bracket, takes about every cent you make.

"The amount of taxes is overwhelming. Something's got to give in this tax situation.

"People aren't going much for the income-type investment — they're looking for a capital gain. It's getting so that every Tom, Dick and Harry is in the stock market. They sell good stocks like American Telephone to buy some stock they hope will double in value.

"Oh, I suppose mutual funds are good for the average widow—or put something in a good, safe common stock."

A partner in a sizable brokerage house on the Eastern Seaboard is talking:

"Frankly, I'm trying to avoid telling my customers to buy anything. I'm not overly bullish.

"I'm not convinced the stock market is going to be the hedge against inflation in the next 10 years that it's been in the past 10 or 15.

"I think the average man would be better off buying a house or a small business than any security."

The aggressive, youngish boss of a Midwest investment firm spoke positively.

"Anybody with just a few thousand bucks should just sit on it in cash—he can't afford to lose any of it.

"If you have $50,000 to share after providing usual protection like insurance for your family—then put two thirds in stock and one third in bonds."

The stolid partner in a conservative bond house is talking.

"I don't see much check to the inflationary trend. And there is no real security against inflation. But the average investor will make out better with stocks than with bonds.

"I'm a bond man myself and I hate to say that. But I'm not buying any bonds myself right now unless they're of short-term maturity."

Another bond man had this to say.

"Inflation is not as imminent as people think. Commodity prices are heading downward. There's more likely to be a slow erosion of purchasing power than outright inflation.

"I think the average person will protect his purchasing power better in the next 10 years with stocks than with bonds. But the institutions are in a different status because bond yields are more attractive than stock yields.

"Banks, insurance companies and other institutions, of course, are more concerned with the dollar value of their securities than in stocks with purchasing power.

A West Coast investment man commented.

"As long as we live we're going to have a lot more inflation. That's the way people think and that's the way they like it.

"The average man should put some of his money in mutual funds and some in high quality stocks—in oils, paper and so on—stocks representing natural resources and brains.

"There's no appetite for bonds. There's a greater risk in bonds than in stocks for the next several years.

Another bond dealer talking—

"I think one of the best hedges against inflation is a good business, well-managed. And mutual funds have worked out well for the average fellow.

"But if Uncle Sam wants the average American to buy savings bonds, then Uncle Sam better balance the budget."

"Every person is in different circumstances," said another Wall Streeter. "But I think it would be smart for the average guy to put some of his money in real estate, some in stocks and some in tax-exempt municipal bonds."

One of the most famous names in American finance had this to say —

"The financial world is a world of half truths. Our business now is to put the emphasis on the right half at the right time.

"There is no absolute hedge against inflation.

"If we don't have values in fixed income securities, our whole economy will be in a state of collapse. Then there will be no value at value of their securities than in stocks either."

Livestock Loss Is Still Heavy

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Even in this day of miracle drugs and scientific advances, the nation loses more than two billion dollars a year through livestock diseases and parasites.

This staggering loss is equivalent to about 15 per cent of this year's farm income.

It hurt consumers too. It reduces the supply of meat and other livestock products and pushes up prices.

Interested agricultural, educational, veterinary, governmental and information groups have organized to put on a big livestock loss prevention campaign in 1959.

A nationwide program is being drafted under the direction of the American Foundation for Animal Health with headquarters at Des Moines, Iowa. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is lending its full aid and support as are the various state agricultural extension services.

Others joining in the campaign include a number of livestock organizations, organized meat packers, newspapers, farm magazines, radio and television farm directors.

The foundation said there is need to focus renewed attention on disease prevention, to single out the big causes of livestock losses and to give farmers fresh, up-to-date information on how to check the maladies and parasites.

"It is easy for livestock owners to be lulled into a false sense of security," it said. "If a farm or ranch is reasonably free of disease for several years, the producer often develops an 'It can't happen to me' attitude. The owner neglects his normal safeguards. The stage is then set for a possible costly disease outbreak."

The foundation cited what it and the Agriculture Department call complacency in many areas with regard to hog cholera. The percentage of hogs being vaccinated against this disease has declined substantially in recent years.

That means the number of hogs susceptible to the disease is increasing. This could lead to a cholera outbreak of disastrous proportions.

Veterinary officials point out that many of the new drugs developed to deal with human diseases and ailments also are usable in dealing with many livestock diseases.

HOPE TO SELL PROGRAM

Wider Oil Well Spacing Sought

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The recession has taught sound lessons in economy to many oil operators.

One of the theories that has received increased emphasis in recent months is that fewer wells will cut costs and produce oil longer and more efficiently.

An Interstate Oil Compact Commission Committee this week completed work on a revised oil and gas conservation statute that recommends wider spacing of oil and gas wells.

A group of about 100 large and small producer, in the southwest recently organized the oil conservation forum to support wide spacing They hope to sell their program to boih the oil operator, for individual action, and to state conservation officials tor possible regulatory action.

"This isn't a retroactive movement," said Jake L. Hamon, Dallas independent. "We don't intend to bother the old overdrilled fields. We just want to stop making the same mistakes in future fields."

Some states permit one oil well to be drilled to each 40 acres. Other states have wider spacing regulations, others have smaller. Some have no regulation at all.

Hamon, first independent ever to serve as chairman of the board of the American Petroleum Institute, believes the industry is drilling too many unnecessary development wells and not enough wildcat wells.

"Tragically enough, we have failed to realize that more wells don't addd to our market, but instead lower our output per well," he told the recent meeting of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America.

"We drill more wells to get less oil per well," he said. "Let's change it and drill fewer wells with greater output per well. That way we can pay our wells out sooner and have some money to wildcat with."

"Not only would we save a lot of development expense, we would reduce our lifting costs at the same time."

Wider spacing, Hamon said, can be accomplished in many states by amending state regulations and conservation practices so as to give more consideration to acreage and less to the well itself.

Isle Expects Big Industrial Boom

GALVESTON, Tex. (UPI) — A man-made island just off the bustling port of Galveston is about to be turned into one of the largest urban industrial developments in the United States.

The land itself, called Pelican Island, is estimated to be worth more than 75 million dollars. Some 30 million dollars will be poured into the development in the next few years.

Pelican Islandis said to be the largest single tract of undeveloped urban industrial land in a major deep water port in the United States. Its possibilities are virtually unlimited.

It had three and one-half miles of deep-water channel shorelines plus space for the installation of sites for a major shrimp fleet and docks to handle large quantities of barge traffic. All three shipping facilities are planned for early stages in the development.

The island, triangular in shape, is directly behind the main Galveston island which is protected by a 17-foot seawall. The undeveloped area is itself larger than the developed section of the city of Galveston, which has a population of some 80,000.

Pelican Island averages about 12 feet above water level, or five or six feet higher than the main Galveston Island, and engineering analysis of its subsoil has proved it to be substantial enough for heavy industrial construction. It was formed over the past 100 years by the action of tides and currents, and progressively enlarged by dredging operations in the three busy ship channels that pass it.

Ownership of the Pelican Island Development Corp. passed recently into the hands of Warren Atkinson, Indianapolis real estate developer, and Walter Troutman, an Atlanta industrialist.

"The possibilities of this land were so fantastic that I couldn't believe nothing had been done to develop it," Atkinson said after he and Troutman took control of the development firm. "This is one of the most challenging developments I've ever run up against."

Troutman, an investor in Atlanta, Miami, Los Angeles and New York real estate and associated in several other industrial developments, said the proposed developmnt combined with present facilities at Galveston will offer a port city unmatched in the United States.

The island is surrounded by the Galveston deep - water channel, the inter-coastal canal and the Texas City and Houston ship channels.

More than 1,200 acres are ready for immediate industrial sites and Atkinson said the other 3,800 acres would be made ready as the need arises.

A 6-million-dollar causeway financed by a public bond issue is ready for use and city water and sewer facilities have been completed. The area also is served by an unlimited source of electricity and natural gas for industrial purposes.

Fair Exhibitors Get Checks From United Gas

SHREVEPORT (Special) — Twenty - two Ouachita Parish boys and girls soon will receive from United Gas checks equal to fifty per cent of the total premium money won by them in Junior Division exhibits at the 1958 Louisiana State Fair.

United Gas has made these additional awards to the junior class winners of the State Fair for the past several years.

Some 700 boys and girls from 51 parishes will receive the supplemental checks, which total more than $4.400.

In letters addressed to the junior class winners, Ed Parkes, president of United Gas, wrote: "We know that you are proud of your record and it is hoped that this award will serve to further encourage you in your agricultural and home - making efforts."

The awards of the additional State Fair premiums in Louisiana is one phase of a system-wide program of farm youth activities sponsored by United Gas.

Those from this parish who will share in the extra cash premiums for the 1958 Louisiana State Fair are: Judy Aulds, Trudy Aulds, Gay Beard, Kay Beard, Alice Bower, Tommie Coon, Lila M. Fite, Vicki Goss, Sheila Griggs, Jannette Holdeman, Mary Faye Hinton, Mary Luttrell, Thomas Milstead, Beverly Ramsey, Judy Strozier, Philip Sims, Jo Anice Tedeton, Carolyn Taylor, Linda Talbird, Janie Lee Ware, Lorena White and Georgia R. Owens.

Mother Of Four Fatally Shoots Lover In Rage

JELLICO, Tenn. (UPI) — A 43-year-old grocer was shot to death Saturday in front of a roadside tavern by his enraged sweetheart.

Campbell County Sheriff Rose Kitts said Hershel Gilreath instantly killed when a bullet from a .32 caliber special pierced his heart.

Kitts arrested Mrs. Betty Bray, 26, mother of four children, shortly after the shooting which occurred early this morning. He said she confessed the killing.

Mrs. Bray was held without bond in county jail at Jacksboro pending preliminary hearing Monday. She was charged with murder.

Kitts said Gilreath and Mrs. Bray, who have been going together for about nine months, both lived on the Kentucky side of Jellico, although the shooting occurred on the Tennessee side of the line.

The sheriff said Gilreath's wife was filing for divorce but was dancing at the tavern with the grocer when Mrs. Bray saw them.

Mrs. Bray left, according to Kitts, went home to get the pistol and then waited until Gilreath appeared. She then shot him once.

Opportunity for Profit and Growth in Next Decade Is Terrific!

The use of light-weight concrete blocks in the building industry is constantly increasing and the use of PRESTRESSED PRODUCTS in buildings to replace steel, because of its superior strength to weight ratio, the speed of erection, faster delivery schedule of the completed components, and lower cost all combine to insure the future expansion and growth of this industry. The use of PRESTRESSED T-BEAMS in bridge construction is an accepted method of construction that is widely used in many parts of the country and indications are that it will be widely used throughout the South as manufacturing facilities become available.

Several Fires Plague Areas Around City

Several fires in and around Monroe yesterday kept most of the fire department's engines on the go.

The first alarm of the day ran in at 12:16 a.m. and was turned in by the Penn Hotel when a mattress in one of the rooms caught fire. Engines 101, 110 and Ladder Unit 1 responded. No one was injured and damage was slight.

Four minutes later Engine 106 rushed to Sara and Spencer streets where a late model convertible cracked-up after failing to make the turn. Firemen were on guard against the possible flare-up of leaking gasoline and prevented ignition.

A grass fire in the back yard of a Negro residence at 313 Georgia summoned Engine 102 at 9:49 p.m. The blaze was minor and no serious damage reported.

FLAMES

Around noon flames broke out in a '52 model car owned by William Cole, 69B Marble Drive. The front seat of the vehicle was ruined and the windshield blown out by the heat. Firemen of Engine 102 said the fire was probably caused by vandals.

Engine 107 answered a call near Lamkin on the old Sterlington road at 12:48 p.m. when a small field caught fire. Little harm was done.

On DeSiard, just east of the Louisville intersection, a power line fell and was spewing sparks when Engine 105 arrived at 3:37 p.m. to take care of the situation.

About 4:30 Engine 107 again went out of town to extinguish some cotton bailing waste aflame at a Sterlington gin. They returned to Monroe at 7:40 p.m.

A small fire at 3700 Lee Ave. which spread from a pile of burning leaves was put out by Engine 104 late yeasterday afternoon

Shotgun Wound Claims Life Of Truxno Farmer

FARMERVILLE (Special) — A 68-year-old Truxno farmer was found dead of a shotgun wound in the heart about noon yesterday.

The body of Perry Bennett was discovered by his son, John Oliver Bennett of Farmerville, who had come on a routine visit.

Union Parish Coroner Dr. John Norris ruled "death due to a self-inflicted wound." Norris said Mr. Bennett probably died sometime Friday morning.

Mr. Bennett lived alone.

Final rites will be conducted sometime today at the Conway Church of Christ near Truxno, with burial in Cook Cemetery by Kilpatrick Funeral Home of Farmerville.

In addition to his son, Mr. Bennett is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Olivine Journell, Houston, Tex.

Segregation Leader Loses In Van Buren

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP) — A segregationist leader was overwhelmingly defeated Saturday in a race for election to the school board in this city which was gripped by integration discord last September.

Myers won the seat vacated by J. J. Izard, board president. Izard had served 44 years.

Myers said in advertisements during the campaign that he was against integration but favored keeping the public schools open.

Integration was started at the high school in September 1957, as the result of a compromise between the school board and Negro plaintiffs in an integration suit. The city has no high school for Negroes and formerly Negro high school students had to commute to nearby Fort Smith.

There was no reported trouble in 1957. But on opening day of the 1958-59 school year, jeers and taunts greeted the Negroes. Later a group of about 50 white students at the 650-pupil school staged a short-lived boycott to protest the Negroes' presence.

The Negroes dropped out of school for a couple of weeks. After their return no major trouble was reported.

Student, Adult Center Okayed By LSU Board

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State University Board Saturday approved $1,700,000 for a combined student recreation and adult education center.

Board members directed use of funds remaining from proceeds of a 7½ million dollar bond sale in April.

In connection with the same project, student activity fees will be raised beginning in the fall of 1959 to $10 per semester and $5 per summer term.

The board, in other action:

1. Approved 529 candidates for mid-term degrees.

2. Instructed president Troy Middleton to proceed with more construction of revenue-financed dormitories for married students.

3. Authorized planning for prospective locations for a new residence for the president.

Hjalmar Schacht, former Minister of Economics under Hitler, today receives a monthly pension of about $700.

Several Fires Plague Areas Around City

Several fires in and around Monroe yesterday kept most of the fire department's engines on the go.

The first alarm of the day ran in at 12:16 a.m. and was turned in by the Penn Hotel when a mattress in one of the rooms caught fire. Engines 101, 110 and Ladder Unit 1 responded. No one was injured and damage was slight.

Four minutes later Engine 106 rushed to Sara and Spencer streets where a late model convertible cracked-up after failing to make the turn. Firemen were on guard against the possible flare-up of leaking gasoline and prevented ignition.

A grass fire in the back yard of a Negro residence at 313 Georgia summoned Engine 102 at 9:49 p.m. The blaze was minor and no serious damage reported.

FLAMES

Around noon flames broke out in a '52 model car owned by William Cole, 69B Marble Drive. The front seat of the vehicle was ruined and the windshield blown out by the heat. Firemen of Engine 102 said the fire was probably caused by vandals.

Engine 107 answered a call near Lamkin on the old Sterlington road at 12:48 p.m. when a small field caught fire. Little harm was done.

On DeSiard, just east of the Louisville intersection, a power line fell and was spewing sparks when Engine 105 arrived at 3:37 p.m. to take care of the situation.

About 4:30 Engine 107 again went out of town to extinguish some cotton bailing waste aflame at a Sterlington gin. They returned to Monroe at 7:40 p.m.

Suspect Arrested On Theft Charge

A Shreveport teenager, Thomas Miles Dillard, 17, was arrested here yesterday by Monroe police on an auto theft charge. He was transferred to the parish jail for proper disposition.

Shotgun Wound Claims Life Of Truxno Farmer

FARMERVILLE (Special) — A 68-year-old Truxno farmer was found dead of a shotgun wound in the heart about noon yesterday.

The body of Perry Bennett was discovered by his son, John Oliver Bennett of Farmerville, who had come on a routine visit.

Union Parish Coroner Dr. John Norris ruled "death due to a self-inflicted wound." Norris said Mr. Bennett probably died sometime Friday morning.

Mr. Bennett lived alone.

Final rites will be conducted sometime today at the Conway Church of Christ near Truxno, with burial in Cook Cemetery by Kilpatrick Funeral Home of Farmerville.

In addition to his son, Mr. Bennett is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Olivine Journell, Houston, Tex.

Segregation Leader Loses In Van Buren

VAN BUREN, Ark. (AP) — A segregationist leader was overwhelmingly defeated Saturday in a race for election to the school board in this city which was gripped by integration discord last September.

Myers won the seat vacated by J. J. Izard, board president. Izard had served 44 years.

Myers said in advertisements during the campaign that he was against integration but favored keeping the public schools open.

Integration was started at the high school in September 1957, as the result of a compromise between the school board and Negro plaintiffs in an integration suit. The city has no high school for Negroes and formerly Negro high school students had to commute to nearby Fort Smith.

There was no reported trouble in 1957. But on opening day of the 1958-59 school year, jeers and taunts greeted the Negroes. Later a group of about 50 white students at the 650-pupil school staged a short-lived boycott to protest the Negroes' presence.

The Negroes dropped out of school for a couple of weeks. After their return no major trouble was reported.

Student, Adult Center Okayed By LSU Board

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State University Board Saturday approved $1,700,000 for a combined student recreation and adult education center.

Board members directed use of funds remaining from proceeds of a 7½ million dollar bond sale in April.

In connection with the same project, student activity fees will be raised beginning in the fall of 1959 to $10 per semester and $5 per summer term.

The board, in other action:

1. Approved 529 candidates for mid-term degrees.

2. Instructed president Troy Middleton to proceed with more construction of revenue-financed dormitories for married students.

3. Authorized planning for prospective locations for a new residence for the president.

Hjalmar Schacht, former Minister of Economics under Hitler, today receives a monthly pension of about $700.

ELIZABETH, W.M.

LIKE HITTING THE JACKPOT! For this year-old brick home was built by a contractor for his own home—and couldn't possibly be duplicated for the asking price! Its 1442 sq. ft. boasts the following: 30 ft. living room - dining area (drapes included); paneled kitchen has an excellent array of select birch cabinets (Formica tops), built-in stainless steel Tappan oven and range, ventahood and large pantry. All 3 bedrooms have double sliding door closets (master bedroom also has built-in chest — one bedroom is paneled in Oriental ash and can be used as den). The full ceramic tile bath has built-in dressing table and shower over tub—the ½ bath is also ceramic tile with built-in lavatory. And you get more: sliding doors throughout double carport, 7x15 storage, and a large (100x335) lot with fenced back yard. We could go on, but best we stop and let you see for yourself!

SOUTH 5TH

DON'T BE SORRY you waited—call today and let's go see this value-packed home just ½ block of school! It's spacious (1300 sq. ft.) and has living room with fireplace and gas logs; dining room, kitchen with ventahood, built-in ironing board; utility porch with wall of storage, washer and dryer connections; 2 bedrooms (one's 14x29 with 2 closets!), bath with shower over tub. And just look at this: all drapes, curtains, heaters, and blinds are included, 48 in. attic fan, oak floors, garage, 5x12 storage, and St. Augustine lawn with partially fenced back yard, trees (fruit and shade), and flowers. Don't wait on this one—$600 and closing makes the move!

WALL WILLIAMS ROAD

ONE LOOK IS WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS and you'll really like what you see here! This 1½-year-old brick home is well set in its wooded 1¼ acre setting. Inside there's 3 bedrooms with double sliding door closets; 2 ceramic tile baths (one has glassed in shower, other has built-in dressing table); pine paneled kitchen with knotty pine cabinets (Formica tops), built-in Frigidaire electric oven and range, ventahood, and sliding glass doors to back yard. There's also central heating, 42 in. attic fan, drapes, washer and dryer connections, utility room, double carport, and storage. $1300 and closing will handle. We'll show with pleasure, just tell us when!

MALLARD

YOU SAY FEATURES . . . we gottem! Yep, this buff brick home on its large (100x150) St. Augustine lawn has many a good feature throughout its 1325 sq. ft. of expertly planned floor space. The living room is gracious with its Roman brick fireplace, built-in desk, and sliding glass doors to back yard . . . and the pine paneled kitchen has built-in oven and range, pine paneled cabinets (and there's a lot of 'em), Formica counter tops, huge pantry. The 3 bedrooms have large closets (master bedroom has 2 double sliding door closets), and the ceramic tile bath has built-in dressing table and shower over tub. And that's not all: included are the drapes throughout and 1½ ton air conditioner, central heating, double carport, large storage with lavatory, washer connections, and tool chest. $1300 and closing makes the move — so let's look now!

REAGAN

PERFECTLY ARRANGED for "managing" a family! Yep, you'll like the floor plan of this home! Its 1361 sq. ft. have the following: 2 bedrooms (one's 11x22!), kitchen with natural finish cabinets; dining room, 11x28 screened back porch . . . plus shower over tub, blinds, washer plumbing, termite contract, double garage, and a St. Augustine (50x300) lawn with large pecan and pine trees. Just 1 block of school . . . and just $300 and closing makes the move. Will show anytime!

SWISS

DESPERATE HUSBAND ABOUT TO BE SHOT if he doesn't sell this home and get his family settled in their new home! To help matters along, he's reduced the price to $19,700 — and, boy, this is a terrific value! Its 1756 sq. ft. boasts: wall - to - wall carpeting in the living room (with wood burning fireplace), separate dining room, and hall; 3 bedrooms; step - down den; kitchen with Tappan range, Frigidaire dishwasher; utility room with 17 ft. Frigidaire deep freeze. And just look at a few of the "extras": closet and storage space to dream about including walk - in closet in master bedroom, 2 entry closets, gun closet, 17x19 storage in the double carport, ½ ¾ ton air conditioners, attic fan, window fan, drapes, blinds, floor furnace, oak floors, shower over tub, soundproof ceilings, and a huge (150x280) lot with large trees all around and a little girl's playhouse in the back. This one's hard to beat and we're ready to show anytime!

WILLIS

COMPARE THE PRICE ($14,000) with the spaciousness (1660 sq. ft.) along with its other features, and we think you'll agree . . . here's solid value! The outside is a pleasant sight — a green cement block home on a large (110x200) lot literally surrounded by trees. And inside . . . there's a spacious living room (18x19)-dining area (10x13); kitchen with Formica topped cabinets, pantry; bath with built-in dressing table and linen closet with built-in chest of drawers; 3 bedrooms (one has built in chest of drawers, another has 2 closets and can be used as den). There's also attic fan, central heating, blinds, and utility room. This is a home to be put on your "must - see" list for today!

SELECT LOCATION

FROM THE FIRST GLANCE to the last lingering look, you'll know that this home's for you! Stately trees surround this year old buff brick home —and inside, well, you'll just have to see the wife-planned kitchen done in Ripplewood paneling with natural finish cabinets (so many it'd be hard to fill 'em all), Formica counter tops, large dining area, and sliding glass doors to patio. There's 4 bedrooms each with double sliding door closet (there's 2 in the master bedroom — plus a private ceramic tile bath with glass enclosed shower). The other ceramic tile bath has built-in dressing table and shower over tub. And to "top it off," it's centrally air conditioned and heated, has custom made drapes, and sliding doors throughout, telephone outlets in bedroom and kitchen, double carport, 2 storage rooms, and a St. Augustine 75x150 lot with azaleas. If you're looking for quality—$1900 and closing will move you in. We'd be most happy to show today!

HEIGHT

OPEN YOUR EYES and see what you've been missing! Yep! Look over the 1284 sq. ft. of well-arranged living area that boasts: fireplace and mirror in living room, 14x22 pine paneled den (drapes included), 2 bedrooms (both with walk-in closets), 2 baths (one with shower and built-in dressing table) . . . plus polished-to-perfection oak floors, ventahood, floor furnace, attic fan, blinds, carport, storage, and a St. Augustine lawn with trees and fenced back yard. 400 "bucks" and closing will start you on your way to fine living, so call now!

OTIS

NO DECORATIN'! NO NUTHIN' needed! Nope, not in this red brick home —it's only 4 years old and has been kept in apple-pie order. The living room-dining area includes drapes and fireplace; kitchen has natural finish cabinets with Formica tops, ventahood; 3 bedrooms . . . plus shower over tub, attic fan, wall furnace, blinds, natural woodwork, carport, storage, plus a 34x141½ storage in back. The large lot has trees and cyclone fenced back yard. Nope, nuthin' is needed here except for you to have a look-see!

ELIZABETH, W.M.

LIKE HITTING THE JACKPOT! For this year-old brick home was built by a contractor for his own home—and couldn't possibly be duplicated for the asking price! Its 1442 sq. ft. boasts the following: 30 ft. living room - dining area (drapes included); paneled kitchen has an excellent array of select birch cabinets (formica tops), built-in stainless steel Tappan oven and range, ventahood and large pantry. All 3 bedrooms have double sliding door closets (master bedroom also has built-in chest — one bedroom is paneled in Oriental ash and can be used as den). The full ceramic tile bath has built-in dressing table and shower over tub—the ½ bath is also ceramic tile with built-in lavatory. And you get more: sliding doors throughout, double carport, 7x15 storage, and a large (100x355) lot with fenced back yard. We could go on, but best we stop and let you see for yourself!

SOUTH 5TH

DON'T BE SORRY you waited—call today and let's go see this value-packed home just ½ block of school! It's spacious (1300 sq. ft.) and has living room with fireplace and gas logs, dining room, kitchen with ventahood, built-in ironing board, utility porch with wall of storage, washer and dryer connections; 2 bedrooms (one's 14x 29 with 2 closets!) bath with shower over tub. And just look at this: all drapes, curtains, heaters, and blinds are included, 48 in. attic fan, oak floors, garage, 5x12 storage, and St. Augustine lawn with partially fenced back yard, trees (fruit and shade), and flowers. Don't wait on this one—$600 and closing makes the move!

WALL WILLIAMS ROAD

ONE LOOK IS WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS and you'll really like what you see here. This 11½-year-old brick home is well set in its wooded 1¼ acre setting. Inside there's 3 bedrooms with double sliding door closets; 2 ceramic tile baths (one has glassed in shower, other has built-in dressing table); pine paneled kitchen with knotty pine cabinets (Formica tops), built-in Frigidaire electric oven and range, ventahood, and sliding glass doors to back yard. There's also central heating, 12 in. attic fan, drapes, washer and dryer connections, utility room, double carport, and storage. $1300 and closing will handle. We'll show with pleasure, just tell us when!

MALLARD

YOU' SAY FEATURES . . . we gottem! Yep, this buff brick home on its large (100x150) St. Augustine lawn has many a good feature throughout its 1325 sq. ft. of expertly planned floor space. The living room is gracious with its Roman brick fireplace, built-in desk, and sliding glass doors to back yard . . . and the pine paneled kitchen has built-in oven and range, pine paneled cabinets (and there's a lot of 'em), Formica counter tops, huge pantry. The 3 bedrooms have large closets (master bedroom has 2 double sliding door closets), and the ceramic tile bath has built-in dressing table and shower over tub. And that's not all: included are the drapes throughout and 1½ ton air conditioner, central heating, double carport, large storage with lavatory, washer connections, and tool chest. $1300 and closing makes the move — so let's look now!

Just 1 block of school . . . and just $300 and closing makes the move. Will show anytime!

SWISS

DESPERATE HUSBAND ABOUT TO BE SHOT if he doesn't sell this home and get his family settled in their new home! To help matters along, he's reduced the price to $19,700 — and, boy, this is a terrific value! Its 1756 sq. ft. boasts: wall - to - wall carpeting in the living room (with wood burning fireplace), separate dining room, and hall; 3 bedrooms; step - down den; kitchen with Tappan range, Frigidaire dishwasher; utility room with 17 ft. Frigidaire deep freeze. And just look at a few of the "extras": closet and storage space to dream about including walk - in closet in master bedroom, 2 entry closets, gun closet, 17x19 storage in the double carport, (3) 3½ ton air conditioners, attic fan, window fan, drapes, blinds, floor furnace, oak floors, shower over tub, soundproof ceilings, and a huge (150x280) lot with large trees all around and a little girl's playhouse in the back. This one's hard to beat and we're ready to show anytime!

WILLIS

COMPARE THE PRICE ($14,000) with the spaciousness (1660 sq. ft.) along with its other features, and we think you'll agree . . . here's solid value! The outside is a pleasant sight — a green cement block home on a large (110x x200) lot literally surrounded by trees. And inside . . . there's a spacious living room (18x19)-dining area (10x13); kitchen with Formica topped cabinets, pantry; bath with built-in dressing table and linen closet with built-in chest of drawers; 3 bedrooms (one has built in chest of drawers, another has 2 closets and can be used as den). There's also attic fan, central heating, blinds, and utility room. This is a home to be put on your "must - see" list for today!

SELECT LOCATION

FROM THE FIRST GLANCE to the last lingering look, you'll know that this home's for you! Stately trees surround this year old buff brick home —and inside, well, you'll just have to see the wife-planned kitchen done in Ripple-wood paneling with natural finish cabinets (so many it'd be hard to fill 'em all), Formica counter tops, large dining area, and sliding glass doors to patio. There's 4 bedrooms each with double sliding door closet (there's 2 in the master bedroom — plus a private ceramic tile bath with glass enclosed shower). The other ceramic tile bath has built-in dressing table and shower over tub. And to "top it off," it's centrally air conditioned and heated, has custom made drapes, and sliding doors throughout, telephone outlets in bedroom and kitchen, double carport, 2 storage rooms, and a St. Augustine 75x150 lot with azaleas. If you're looking for quality—$1900 and closing will move you in. We'd be most happy to show today!

HEIGHT

OPEN YOUR EYES and see what you've been missing! Yep! Look over the 1284 sq. ft. of well-arranged living area that boasts: fireplace and mirror in living room, 14x22 pine paneled den (drapes included), 2 bedrooms (both with walk-in closets), 2 baths (one with shower and built-in dressing table) . . . plus polished-to-perfection oak floors, ventahood, floor furnace, attic fan, blinds, carport, storage, and a St. Augustine lawn with trees and fenced back yard. 400 "bucks" and closing will start you on your way to fine living, so call now!

OTIS

NO DECORATIN'! NO NUTHIN' needed! Nope, not in this red brick home —it's only 4 years old and has been kept in apple-pie order. The living room-dining area includes drapes and fireplace; kitchen has natural finish cabinets with Formica tops, ventahood; 3 bedrooms . . . plus shower over tub, attic fan, wall furnace, blinds, natural woodwork, carport, storage, plus a 34x 14½ storage in back. The large lot has trees and cyclone fenced back yard. Nope, nuthin' is needed here except for you to have a look-see!

MOON MULLINS by Ferd Johnson

PSS-T, MOON, IS MAMIE ABOUT?

YEH, SHE'S ABOUT TO CLOBBER YA FOR STAYIN' OUT ALL NIGHT.

OH, I DOUBT IF SHE WILL. I JUST WANTED TO SHOW YOU BOYS HOW MUCH I'M GOING TO SPEND ON A PRESENT FOR HER.

$WOW!

OH, BOY!

WILLYAM! COME HERE!

OH-OH! HEAD HER OFF, MOON. IT WON'T BE A SURPRISE FOR HER IF I STAY HERE. AND GO THROUGH ONE OF MAMIE'S THIRD DEGREES.

NOW, DON'T PUSH YER PANIC BUTTON, MAMIE... UNCLE WILLIE SAID HE WAS UP ALL NIGHT TRYIN' TO WIN ENOUGH BREAD TO BUY YOU A SWELL PRESENT.

HOW MUCH DID HE LOSE?

HE WON! AND HE MADE ME PROMISE NOT TO TELL YOU WHAT HE'S GOING TO BUY YOU-- BUT I GUESS A HINT WON'T HURT YOU. IT'S A TWO-PASSENGER JOB AND IT'S SPORTY.

GEE!

YOO-HOO, MRS. McGOOSE! I SEE YOU'RE STILL DRIVIN' LAST YEAR'S SPORT CAR! WAIT TILL YOU SEE TH' ONE MY WILLIE'S BUYING ME! HA-HA-- MAYBE WE CAN HAVE A DRAG RACE!

THAT MUST BE UNCLE WILLIE, MAMIE-- HE SAID HE'D HONK WHEN HE GOT HERE.

WHAT COLOR IS IT, KAYO?

BEEP! BOOP!

BEEP! BOOP!

OH, NO!

TAKE THAT TANDEM BACK AND GET ME A SPORTS CAR LIKE MOON HINTED YOU WERE GOING TO DO!

SO THAT'S A TANDEM... I ALWAYS THOUGHT THEY CALLED THEM THINGS TANTRUMS.

NO, KAYO, A TANTRUM IS WHAT MAMIE HAS WHEN SHE GETS A BIT UNHAPPY WITH ME.

I TELL YOU OUR BABY'S A GENIUS!

AT SIX WEEKS?! LOOK, LADY, NO SIX-WEEKS KID CAN TALK!

HE CAN TALK!

BUT HE OVERHEARD SOME MEN SAY THEY WERE GOING TO ROB THE BALMY BEACH NIGHT CLUB.

TELL THE NICE POLICE-MAN WHAT YOU HEARD, MORTIMER.

BALONEY! COME ON, TIM.

WAH!

THE IDEA! THEY MUST BE COO-COO!

OH, WELL! IT WON'T HURT TO DRIVE BY THE BALMY BEACH AND LOOK IT OVER.

POLICE

WELL, I'LL BE! MAYBE THAT KID IS A GENIUS!

CAUGHT 'EM RED-HANDED, SARGE. THEY WERE RANSACKING THE SAFE.

I TELL YOU THERE WAS NOTHING IN THE SAFE! IT WAS EMPTY!

LOCK 'EM UP!

PLEASE, MAY I HAVE A WORD WITH YOU, SERGEANT? I'M NO ROBBER. THESE GUYS FORCED ME TO OPEN THE SAFE. I'M NONE OTHER THAN THE RENOWNED IZZARD THE WIZARD, A MAGICIAN.

NONSENSE! RIDICULOUS!

NOW, LOOK, OFFICER! I PREVENTED A ROBBERY. I DISTRACTED THEIR ATTENTION WITH A NEAT BIT OF VENTRILOQUISM, TOOK THE MONEY FROM THE SAFE AND HID IT IN THE WASTEBASKET SO THEY WOULDN'T GET IT.

LOCK HIM UP, I SAY!

OH, WELL! I'M NOT WORRIED. WHEN THEY FIND THE MONEY IN THE WASTEBASKET, THEY'LL KNOW I'M TELLING THE TRUTH.

MORNING.

SEEMS THERE AIN'T NOTHIN' TO THIS JOB BUT EMPTYING WASTEBASKETS AND BURNING TRASH ... EVERLASTING TRASH! WHERE DOES IT ALL COME FROM ?

WELL, IT'S AN ELDERLY AUNT. SHE REFUSES TO LIVE HERE. THERE'S SO LITTLE SHE'LL LET ME DO FOR HER. AND SHE IS SO VERY MUCH ALONE, AND LONELY.

GEE, THAT'S A SHAME.

I KNOW JUST SEEING AND TALKING WITH YOU WOULD BRIGHTEN HER WHOLE DAY. I WONDER IF YOU WOULD GO WITH ME TO CALL ON HER.
